

Chapter 570

Ouch!

His head hurt!

Chuck opened his eyes from the pain and found that he was in a room. He got up and touched his head. It throbbed dully.

The agony made his scalp feel numb.

What happened?

He staggered to the door and found that the door was locked from the outside. He went to the window and found himself smack in the middle of a desert.

It was almost uninhabited. Where was this place?

Most importantly, why was he here?

He thought long and hard and finally figured out what had happened. In the middle of a fierce fight with Elise, he felt an intense headache. He turned around and saw Elise with a blood-stained metal pipe in her hand.

Then, he could not remember anything else.

Now that he thought of it, was he kidnapped?

Chuck was furious. He kicked at the door hard and shouted, "Come out, come out!"

No one paid any attention to him.

Chuck seemed to be talking to himself.

"Let me out, let me out!"

Chuck roared. His phone was gone. He couldn't get in touch with his mom anymore. How was she?

Where was Yvette?

And Black Rose?

How were they? Was he going to be locked up here for the rest of his life?

Chuck was in pain, but he soon calmed down. He told himself not to panic and instead focus on a way of escaping.

He couldn't give up!

His mother had to be looking for him, so he couldn't just lay down and give up!

Chuck calmly observed the situation. His head was still aching, but he was still strong. He had not been beaten silly, and there was still a chance to live.

"Hmph, why did he stop yelling? Is he pretending to be calm?" Elise asked scornfully.

She asked, "How's his situation? Is he all right?"

"Miss, he lost some blood, but there is no problem. However, there could be some aftereffects," The doctor said cautiously.

When he saw Chuck, he was also frightened from the amount of blood he lost. Elise had almost killed him with that blow!

Chuck was able to survive and wake up so quickly purely by luck.

"Aftereffects? What sort of aftereffects?" Elise asked. She had been monitoring Chuck who was inside the room closely.

At that moment, he was walking around as if trying to escape.

It didn't seem like he was suffering from anything else.

"He hurt his brain, which will probably affect his memory. Maybe he has lost some of his memories after being hit. Maybe..." The doctor stated.

"Memories? What sort of danger does that possess? It's none of my business that he lost his memory. I just want him to be fine!" Elise said coldly.

"He's fine. His physical condition is very good. I've not seen anyone who's as strong as him in my whole career as a doctor!"

"The best? He is just a weak little foreign man. You are a doctor, you're supposed to be used to treating strong and tall people! Is his physical quality better than that of other people from our country?" Elise shook her head in doubt.

"Yes, he is not as tall and strong as the people from our country, but physically, he is much more fitter than them. Otherwise, how could he wake up so quickly? This is probably genetically inherited. I think his parents' physical prowess may be better. If not, he would not be able to be this strong," The doctor analyzed.

"Genes, you say? Well, let's go and see him now!" Elise was not interested in these. The only thing she wanted to do now was to have Chuck teach her and then defeat him. That would make her very happy indeed!

Elise went out, followed by a few people.

In Chuck's room, one of the walls suddenly became transparent. From there, he saw her!

In an instant, his eyes were filled with murderous intent!

"It's really you!"

"Yes, it's me. Who told you to resist? I gave you money, but you didn't want it, so you left me no choice. How do you feel about that offer now?" Elise was delighted.

She felt good seeing Chuck's angry face.

"Let me out. Otherwise, you will regret it!" Chuck shot invisible eye daggers at her.

"Regret? I won't regret anything. No one can stop me from doing anything, including you! You are now my toy. Don't you know that?"

Elise was ecstatic. She thought of how Chuck had slapped her so many times. Now, she was finally able to get back at him!

"Let me out!"

"Let you out? Well, I'll let you out and even give you a sum of money. However, you have to be obedient and teach me martial arts. Then, I'll defeat you and finally wash my shame away!"

Chuck glared at her!

A compromise? In her dreams!

"You will regret it if you find out who I am!"

Elise sneered, "Hahaha, you don't know who I am either. If I tell you, you will be scared to death. You are now nothing but my play toy!"

She was angry. How could Chuck be so disobedient?

Chuck didn't respond. He continued to observe the room. He was determined to escape!

"Who do you expect to come for you? Do you think it's possible? No one can find this place unless I let you out."

Chuck still didn't answer!

"Hmph, think carefully! Give him something to eat."

Elise stormed away.

The doctor immediately arranged for food to be sent to his room.

Chuck was sitting in a closed room. He did not give up and he was still looking for something he could use to escape.

He wanted to see his mother, Yvette, Willa, Quinn, and Zelda...

There were too many people that he wanted to see.

He still had ambitions and wanted to build his own business empire, someday becoming the richest person in the world. There were too many things he had yet done...

He couldn't be a sitting duck here!

Where was the opportunity to escape? He was surrounded by forests, so how was he supposed to escape? This was a major problem!

Elise scorned, "You're still being stubborn? Let's see how long you can hold on!"

A day later, Chuck sat down calmly in the middle of the room. After surveying his surroundings, he deduced that there was no way for him to escape for now. The only thing he could do was to agree to Elise's requests first.

He would grab his chance to seize her once he met her.

Then, he could escape on his own!

This was not something he couldn't overcome!

"Come and see me!" Chuck roared in rage!

"I was wondering how long you would resist? You gave in in less than a day. I'm really disappointed. Forget it, I have other places to go. You are not worth spending so much time on!" Elise went over.

However, Chuck was slightly disappointed that there was a glass partition between them.

He took a look at the glass. It was bulletproof glass!

Without a weapon in his hand, there was no way he could break the glass easily and get to her.

"Now you're compromising?" Elise laughed at him, taunting, "I said that I will definitely be able to do what I want to. See, there's nothing that I can't get!"

"Fine, I will teach you, but how?" Chuck's face was expressionless.

"Do you think I'm stupid? I know all your thoughts, but it's impossible. Before I reach your strength, I won't meet you alone," Elise laughed.

Of course, she knew what Chuck was thinking.

"No problem. Give me some fitness equipment then. Is that okay?" In fact, Chuck still had two special metal rings on his hands. However, they were too small to be of much use to him.

"No problem, I won't bully you. I will fight you at your prime, but the fitness equipment can't help you escape. You better be a good boy... Prepare the equipment for him!" Elise ordered her men.

Her subordinates immediately went to prepare them for Chuck.

"Now, teach me." Elise was excited.

She admitted that she had taken a fancy to Chuck's fighting style. If she had learned it, she would have performed better than Chuck because she was definitely better than him!

Chuck nodded and told her a bit about fighting. If he was her actual master, he would have spilled the beans about everything. However, he wasn't, and he made sure to avoid saying the important things. After all, they were from the accumulation of years of experience from Karen and Willa. Chuck would never let someone like Elise know everything!

Even so, Elise was particularly excited when she heard this as it was really useful. She was finally enlightened!

"Strength is very important. You don't have enough strength," Chuck pointed out bluntly.

The last time he fought with her, Chuck could tell that although fighting skills were important, strength was also indispensable. In a way, it was extremely important for one to become skilled at fighting!

In the next few days, Chuck wanted to recover as soon as possible and start laying out his plan for his escape.

"Okay, I'll listen to you. I'll train day and night," With that, Elise went out excitedly. Today's class was over. Chuck looked out of the window and vowed to himself, secretly muttering, "Yvette, I'll escape for sure!"

Chapter 571

Elise returned to her room. On the way, she heard her men talking.

"My friend called me and said that the Lee family was defeated."

"Which Lee family?"

"That Lee family of the Four Greatest Households!"

"What?! Who defeated them?"

"Karen Lee."

Elise overheard their discussion and walked over curiously. Of course, she knew about the Lee family. After all, her own family was one of the Four Greatest Households.

She also knew Karen Lee, but Karen herself was from the Lee family, wasn't she?

Why would she attack her own family?

Maybe she betrayed her own family? Karen was really an *sshole. How could she do that?

She had never seen someone as shameless as her. Who would attack their own family?

"Young miss," The two men lowered their heads respectfully.

"Why did Karen Lee attack the Lee family?" Elise asked.

Could it be that she wanted to conquer the Lee family?

Seems that they made a mistake chasing her out of the family.

"I heard that she wanted to annihilate the Lee family."

"No, I heard that Karen's son is missing. That's why she went to the Lee family to get him back!"

The two subordinates both had their own opinions.

"Is her son missing? Was he captured by the Lee family?" Elise scoffed.

What kind of garbage family was this?

Did they actually capture one of their own?

Elise was baffled by what she was hearing!

"I think so. I heard that Karen's son is a fool."

"That's not right. I heard that Karen's son wanted to take over the Lee family and got caught trying to do so."

Elise mocked, "In other words, both mother and son want to conquer the Lee family?"

Were there really people like that?

"Most likely."

"Then how are the Lees doing?"

"They were successfully ambushed by Karen at night. Rumour has it that Karen went in by herself and badly injured several people of the Lee family. Even Elijah Lee, the head of the Lee family knelt down for mercy!" One of the men said.

"Karen is so unfilial to force her father to her knees. The son must be a good-for-nothing too. Serves him right to be kidnapped!" Elise snorted.

Obviously, this mother and her son were rubbish!

"That's right. I heard that her son is an absolute good-for-nothing. He hooks up with all sorts of women all day long. That kind of trash deserves to be caught! However, I did hear that Karen's trashy son wasn't caught by the Lee family, but by someone else," One of the men said in confusion.

"Then who did it?" Another man asked curiously.

"It doesn't matter who kidnapped him. What matters is that you two must keep an eye on that person. Don't let him run away!" Elise was not interested in listening to this any further.

If it wasn't someone from the Lee family, then it had to be someone else!

This was definitely a dispute between families. Elise had no interest in getting involved. Her only interest now was to learn Chuck's fighting tactics, defeat him, and trample him under her feet!

All to redeem her wounded honor!

"Yes, miss!" The two subordinates didn't dare to say anything else.

Elise returned to her room and began to do what Chuck had told her to do. She was aware that whatever Chuck said today was absolutely right. She was confident that she could defeat Chuck soon!

She quickly began to exercise and train her body in excitement.

"Betty, has the surveillance not been restored yet?" Karen was anxious. She thought that she could fix the cameras in three days, but there were still no results up until today.

She knew that it was very difficult to repair these electronics, but there was no other way. She was worried sick about her son!

"No, our men have been repairing it as quickly as possible, but it's more challenging than we thought," Betty was not confident. The camera in the car was spoilt way too badly, so it was extremely difficult to restore anything, let alone repair it.

The people from the technology company had been working on it all night.

"Ask them to hurry up," Karen sighed.

She had not slept for three days because Chuck had suddenly disappeared. She was overly anxious. Although she had released news that the kidnappers were not to harm Chuck's life, it didn't seem to work as well as she had initially thought.

"Okay, got it," Betty left the room, eager to try her best regarding anything that was remotely related to Chuck.

Right then, she suddenly thought of something and came back, reporting, "President Lee, I heard that the experts in this field are back in our home country."

"Then get them here, no matter how much it costs!" Karen's eyes gleamed with determination.

"In fact, it's not necessary. You can just call President Logan. She has companies over there and has hired all the experts from other companies..." When Betty thought of this, she suddenly realized that Willa's business reach was also pretty wide.

She even invested in science and technology companies. Although they were not as successful as Karen, they were good at smaller research and developmental fields. They specialized in exclusive research and development, bringing quite fruitful research results to the field.

"Willa Logan?"

Karen rubbed her temples. How did she forget about her?

She had been too upset and anxious about Chuck that she completely forgot Willa.

Karen immediately took out her mobile phone and called Willa.

It was daytime, but because of the time zone differences, it was already 12 midnight in her home country. Judging by Willa's habit of going to bed early and getting up early, she was probably already asleep.

Thankfully, Willa heard her phone ringing and woke up in a daze. She grabbed her phone from the cabinet next to her and looked at the caller ID. She immediately smiled and muttered, "She hasn't called me for a long time."

She answered the call and asked, "Auntie Karen, what's up..."

"Willa, long story short, please bring all the experts in your company that are skilled in repairing and restoring technological devices here," Karen cut straight to the chase.

"What happened?"

Willa sat up from the bed and was very surprised by Karen's urgent tone. She sounded anxious and tense, something that Willa never heard happening to her before.

Karen was usually as calm as a cucumber. What happened for her to act like this?

"Something happened to Chucky. Someone abducted him. I installed surveillance camera on his car, but the memory chip is badly burnt. I..." Karen only managed to finish half of her sentence before Willa took action.

She immediately jumped out of bed and replied, "Okay, I'm going over right now!"

"Alright."

After hanging up the phone, Willa put on her clothes and made a phone call, "Hello, tell Bruno to come with me to the airport now! ... Does he not work at night? It's alright, I'll give him ten million dollars just to follow me! Go and arrange it!"

After hanging up the phone, she immediately called another number.

"I'll be at the airport in 15 minutes. Make the preparations. I'm going to the US!"

With that, Willa packed up and went out.

To the airport she went!

Just when she drove out of the villa, a car drove towards them. The driver was Cheryl of the Champ family.

Recently, she had been quite busy with the Champ family's affairs. However, she couldn't sleep tonight and decided to go out for a drive. She didn't know why she came here. Maybe it was because Chuck lived here once.

She saw Willa driving out in the darkness despite the late hours and was surprised. Why was she out so late? Was she going to pick someone up?

Could she be going to pick Chuck up? After all, he seemed to have left Central City for quite a long time. She had not seen Chuck recently.

Willa frowned as someone blocked her car.

Cheryl came down and asked, "Hi, um, President Logan, where are you going..."

"The US, I'm going to the US!" Willa turned the steering wheel and slammed on the accelerator, leaving Cheryl alone in the dust.

Cheryl was stunned. Willa was particularly anxious tonight. What was going on?

Did something happen in the United States?

Willa had already left, her car was no longer seen even from a distance. Cheryl stared at the direction of Willa's car for a long time and sighed, "What's wrong with me recently?"

Her daughter always wanted to see Chuck, and Cheryl seemed to have her hands tied. It seemed that her daughter really wanted Chuck to be her father, but was this even possible?

Cheryl sat in the car, feeling dejected. She couldn't describe what she was feeling now, but she was definitely feeling lost and confused. Could she have really fallen for Chuck?

Otherwise, why would she drive here in the middle of the night?

"Sigh, it's a pity that I'm old and already have a daughter. He's so young. There's no way that he will fall in love with me!" Cheryl sighed and felt uneasy.

Meanwhile, Willa arrived at the airport. A private flight for the United States was already arranged for her.

She got on the plane and it took off!

She began to call Chuck over and over again, but the call did not go through. Willa was extremely anxious and muttered, "Chucky, please be safe! What would I do if you're hurt? Wait for me, I'll find you for sure!"

Chapter 572

Willa took Bruno, the IT expert of her own company along with her to the US. At the airport, Betty picked them up and headed straight for Karen's technology company.

Bruno immediately devoted himself to the repair work.

"How many days has Chucky gone missing?" Willa did not sleep on the plane because she could not fall asleep either.

She was too worried about Chuck. The gunshot wounds on her body were almost healed. However, ever since Chuck had come to the United States, he had not even given her a call. She was somewhat disappointed, but it was ok.

Chuck's safety and happiness were the most important thing. As for her... It wasn't that important.

It was better to suppress these feelings in her heart.

"It's the fourth day now." Karen was haggard.

Ordinary people wouldn't be able to stand not sleeping for four days in a row. It was only thanks for Karen's superior physique that she was still standing.

If it were anyone else, they would have already been admitted to the hospital.

"It's been so long. Are there any other clues?" Willa's voice was trembling.

Four days missing... She didn't dare to think about it anymore.

The longer a person went missing, the more danger they would be in.

Since it had already been four days, this could mean...

Willa's heart almost stopped beating!

How could this be?

"No, the scene has been cleaned up professionally. Now, we can only rely on this for clues," For the first time, Karen felt helpless.

She really failed to protect Chuck. She should have never let him out of her sight at all.

"Got it. Auntie Karen, you should go sleep for a while." Willa was worried. Karen shouldn't exhaust herself even before she found Chuck.

"There's no need for that. I..."

"Go ahead, I'll watch over them. Betty, you should go and rest for a while too."

Willa also told Betty to get some rest since her complexion wasn't very good either!

Karen looked at Betty and found that she looked pretty weary. It was only then that she remembered that she had forgotten completely about Betty's wellbeing. Since Willa was here, Karen and Betty were relieved and went to rest.

"Bruno, please speed up. This person is important to me," Willa could not suppress the anxiety in her heart. Indeed, Chuck was the most important person to her now.

"Don't worry," Bruno reassured her.

He was hired by Willa, but he had never seen her like this!

The process continued. A day later, the results were finally out!

Willa's anxiety grew every passing moment, but she could do nothing about it other than wait patiently.

She could only pray to God for Chuck to survive this ordeal.

When they finally managed to restore the cameras, Willa almost cried with joy. Karen, who had finally rested well, came over with Betty.

"Guys, the damage to the cameras are too serious. Currently, we can only repair one-third of it. That's the most we can do for now," After a whole day of fighting, Bruno was also extremely exhausted. Fortunately, there was good news.

He rerolled the surveillance videos for everyone to see.

Karen, Willa, and Betty were all paying close attention. Silence filled the room.

Bzz, whirr!

The surveillance video began to play, but the screen was just blurry and it was impossible to see clearly what was happening. Karen was so nervous. All she wanted now was to see something happen.

After a long time, there was finally an image, but it was still blurry. On the monitor, Chuck could be seen fighting a group of people bravely. He didn't seem to be losing and instead managed to tackle their attacks swiftly and calmly.

"Impossible. It should be no problem for Chucky to deal with these people. How did he get caught?" Karen's eyes narrowed in doubt.

"Yes, Chucky's fighting did improve. These people look down on him, but his skills are comparable to that of professional mercenaries. Chucky can beat them, there's no way he would... Oh no! Duck!"

Just as Willa was commenting on the video, the group suddenly saw a blurred image of a woman holding a steel pipe in her hand. She sneaked up behind Chuck and whacked him right on the head.

Immediately, Chuck fell limply onto the ground, blood flowing out of his head.

Karen was filled with rage!

"So that's what happened!" Karen stated coldly. Her heart ached when she saw her son being ambushed just like that!

The next scene was of a few people carrying Chuck into the car and cleaning up the scene.

Willa was heartbroken. Chuck had been abducted in such a vulnerable state. That woman managed to injure him badly with just one hit.

"Bruno, please restore the video as much as possible. I want to see what the person who kidnapped Chucky looks like!" Willa said coldly.

Bruno nodded and began to try his best.

However, this process was long and complicated. The memory card was seriously damaged and it was difficult to repair. Finally, Bruno joined forces with several people from Karen's technology company to repair some of the images.

However, no one could see clearly what was happening in the car, especially that woman. No matter how much they tried enhancing it, it was useless. There was simply no way to see who did it!

"We've tried our best," Bruno said wearily.

"Betty, show me the surveillance from other regions at once. Track down the cars and find them!" Karen's voice was cold.

Betty immediately went to deal with it.

It was another long wait. A day later, Betty came back with some findings, exhausted from the amount of work done. Karen and Willa were nervous and questioned at the same time, "How did it go?"

"They've gone abroad," Betty answered wearily.

In the past few days, Karen had sent people to search for him all over the country but couldn't find him. No wonder, he had already gone abroad.

"Where did he go?" Willa asked.

"We're still investigating. One day, just give me one more day. It's absolutely possible," Betty knew that Chuck had been missing for a week. It was too long, which meant that the chance of his survival was slim.

She was also worried.

"Okay, go ahead," Karen agreed.

Betty continued her investigation. Right then, Karen's cell phone suddenly rang. She took it out and saw that it was Black Rose. Her eyes widened in anticipation.

Black Rose and Yvette hadn't called her for a week ever since they left chasing after the suspects based on pure intuition.

Now, were they finally going to have a lead?

"Hi, Black Rose!"

"Yvette and I have tracked them to the Amazon. We've been driving non-stop for a week. I think Chuck is somewhere here," Black Rose sighed.

She had seen a few cars and chased them all the way here. Both of them relied on their gut, constantly imagining where they would bring him if they were the perpetrators.

Their efforts had finally paid off. It led Black Rose and Yvette to track down someone who saw a plane flying to the Amazon!

Based on the time, they should be here.

"The Amazon?" Karen was stunned. Why the Amazon?

What were they thinking of doing by bringing him here?

"Yes, you can ask someone to come over. Yvette and I are ready to investigate further."

"Okay, I'll be right there," Karen hung up the phone.

"Auntie Karen, how is it?" Willa was too nervous that her heart felt like it was about to stop.

"He's in the Amazon," Karen's eyes finally gleamed with a hint of hope.

"The Amazon? How did he end up there?" Willa and Betty were surprised.

"Betty, what do you think?" Karen asked.

"The timeline checks out, but I haven't figured out the rest."

"That's enough then. Willa and I are going to the Amazon now. Betty, you can bring some people there later!" Karen ordered.

Apart from its large area, the Amazon was also a huge lush forest. Finding Chuck there was like finding a needle in a haystack, so she would need as much help as she could.

"Understood!" Betty nodded. It was definitely not enough for only the four of them to conduct their search. She would have to order some men to come along with her later.

Willa thought for a while and said, "Also, scout the place out first. There are hidden buildings in the Amazon, so maybe Chuck is in one of them."

"Alright, I'll be sure to do so."

Karen and Willa were keen to leave immediately, but Betty asked, "As for the Oatker family..."

"I don't care. My son is the most important." Karen didn't think about them at all. If the Oatker family attacked her, she would slaughter them the moment she found Chuck!!

Karen drove her car and arrived at the airport with Willa.

She called her people who had been situated in the Amazon. She also had a base there, and they provided her with the logistics for the trip. It was far too dangerous to venture without a plan.

In less than a day, Karen caught a plane to the Amazon. All the equipment that she requested for was prepared, including super strong off-road vehicles, guns, daggers, and all kinds of gear for jungle warfare.

Willa and Karen had already donned on their gear. They were all extremely anxious!!

Willa set her sight at the ominous forest in the distance and silently vowed, "Chucky, don't be afraid. We are coming to save you!" ²
