Jiang Ning's words made Zhang Heng feel less nervous. Being complimented was always something that made others feel happy, and Jiang Ning seemed to be someone incredibly amazing.

Otherwise, there was no way he would have dared to come directly to Lee Group to poach him!

"Mr Jiang, you're too kind," said Zhang Heng humbly.

"I'm not, I'm just being honest," replied Jiang Ning. "I'll go straight to the point. Lin Group needs you and so does the country, and that's why I've come to look for you. You can tell me if you have any concerns."

"I'll try my best to meet your requirements when it comes to your remuneration package, working environment etc."

"I..."

Zhang Heng took a deep breath.

He had been thinking about this for the past few days.

He had been in this line for some time now, and he knew very clearly that all the elites of this industry was found outside of China. He was not valued in China, and he wasn't given the right working environment nor facilities.

He had little space to develop and wasn't able to feel any sense of achievement. Moreover, the remuneration package was never as attractive as anything other countries offered him.

“I just want to ask one question, Mr Jiang. Why does Lin Group want to go into this industry?”

“I hope that our country can have its very own integrated circuit,” replied Jiang Ning simply.

But these simple words made Zhang Heng tremble all over and his eyes reddened immediately.

Their very own integrated circuit!

The very core of high tech advancement had always been in the control of other people. Those outside of the industry had no idea what Jiang Ning’s words meant, but someone who was an elite of the industry like Zhang Heng knew better than anyone else.

Without their own integrated circuit, it was the same as having your throat constantly being gripped by others, and your life would always be decided by others!

“We need to develop our own IC, so we need talents who will be able to do just that. And you are someone that we need,” said Jiang Ning seriously. “Of course, I won’t force you to join us, even though I am fully capable of that. You can take the next few days to think about it before giving me an answer.”

“No need.” Zhang Heng took a deep breath and trembled. “I’ll go with you!”

NH

“But Lee Group...”

“You don’t have to worry about this side of things. Lee Group is Lin Group’s partner and we share all the resources. You’ll get way more by going to Lin Group than staying in Lee Group.”

“But of course,” Jiang Ning smiled. “I know that money is meaningless to you compared to the dream that you have.”

Zhang Heng nodded.

He started getting rather excited and almost couldn’t believe how he had made such a big decision just because of a few words from Jiang Ning.

His family and children were here, but his parents, friends and emotions were all in China. His roots were also back in China!

Their very own integrated circuit...

He had chosen to go into this industry more than a decade ago precisely because of this thought. And now, he finally had a chance to fulfil this dream.

“Lin Group will give you the chance to fulfil your dream,” said Jiang Ning.

He knew that poaching others didn’t depend only on promising the other party money and status.

For people like Zhang Heng, there were things that were even more important than material things. Others couldn't give these intangible things to him, but Jiang Ning could. Lin Group could.

Jiang Ning sat in his chair calmly and he made others feel that he was a reliable man. His words convinced others easily, and made others strangely trust him from the bottom of their hearts.

There was no way of understanding or explaining how any of this happened.

"Mr Jiang." Zhang Heng saw Jiang Ning to the door of Lee Group and he calmed down slightly. "If Lin Group really wants to make headway into this industry, then there are a few people that you must get back into China!"

Jiang Ning returned to the academy and looked at the name list that Zhang Heng gave him.

A few of them were already in the list that Xiaozhao gathered earlier.

These people were the crème de la crème of this industry back in China and rose up as geniuses in this area.

But there were no relevant industries within China for them to advance further and they couldn't develop their talents. Some of them even had to suffer several setbacks.

Some of them gave up, while some of them were attracted by the option of going overseas, so they chose to go out there. Some of them fought their own way up despite being from poor backgrounds in order to gain fame and recognition.

Jiang Ning couldn't help but sigh when he saw the resumes and backgrounds of these people.

These were real talents in the industry, but they were not valued by their homeland. This was a big problem.

Someone once said that technology was the primary production force of a country, and these were definitely wise words.

Now that Lin Group wanted to go all out to develop this industry, they needed talents to begin with.

Jiang Ning had plenty of money and facilities and could provide absolutely anything else but people.

These industry elites weren't like martial artists. Even if martial artists weren't gifted from birth, they could still become successful as long as they worked hard.

Technology development really needed a gifting as well as nonstop hard work and studying.

"Make preparations. I'm going to Silicon Valley," said Jiang Ning.

He didn't want to waste any more time. If he could settle this issue earlier, he could return to Donghai earlier.

Jiang Ning only brought Brother Gou along. The rest remained in Seoul with Fei to help Xiaozhao finish up the work here.

This time, they weren't only going to take over Korea's market, but to also take their first step into entering the high tech industry.

On the plane, Brother Gou was writing something very seriously in his little notebook. Jiang Ning took a peek and frowned.

"The Legend of Shengcheng taught you this?"

"That's right. But I still don't quite get it. Why does this quadratic formula have two solutions?"

Brother Gou looked up at Jiang Ning. "Big Boss, do you know why?"

Jiang Ning turned away and ignored him.

NH

He was shaking his head in his heart. He had no idea why Su Yun would want to teach Brother Gou such things.

Did she think that Brother Gou had to solve a quadratic equation and draw a parabola before fighting?

He felt that Su Yun had gone off course in her training of Brother Gou, but that was between the two of them, so Jiang Ning wasn't going to interfere. They might have different interests from him.

"Su Yun said that knowledge is power. She's a university student, so she must be right." Brother Gou scratched his head and looked so earnest that he seemed completely different from his usual tough exterior. "I have to study hard."

Jiang Ning really couldn't be bothered with him.

It seemed like the people around him all had the potential to go off course. Brother Gou was like this, Fei was well controlled by Xiaozhao, and then there was Fang Qiu...

"I can't be bothered with all of you. Just make sure Yuzhen doesn't learn anything from you guys."

Jiang Ning shut his eyes to rest.

At Silicon Valley.

As the pinnacle of high technology, they held great influence globally.

NH

The best scientists in the world were gathered here, as well as the best technology and the most elite geniuses. They contributed greatly to the advancement of the world in terms of technology.

The few major tech companies were like an empire as they stood right in the middle of all of Silicon Valley.

This wasn't just a sign of their wealth, but also their position in this place.

Tescon was one of the leading companies among the tech companies. Their businesses included air travel, space travel, weapons of war and other high tech equipment.

And the main component of all these equipment were integrated circuits!
