

Chapter 37 Laura's Guess

Laura didn't believe her son's words. She firmly believed Marco had given the smart city project to Loraine.

Marco knew explaining it to her was pointless. "Mom, this is business, not a game. The project is now Loraine's. How can I get it back from her?"

"Why not?" Laura asked coldly. "The bitch has got a lot of benefits from you in the past three years of your marriage. There's nothing wrong with asking her to return the project to you. Besides, who knows if she has taken any valuables from our family after you divorced?"

She paused, her eyes widening in horror. "No, I have to check it now!"

Marco's face darkened.

He never thought his mother despised Loraine so much. She called her a bitch right in front of him. It was obvious she must have been mean and rude toward Loraine when he wasn't around.

A pang of guilt settled in his heart as he imagined what all Loraine must have gone through.

He couldn't bear to hear his mother slander

She paused, her eyes widening in horror. "No, I have to check it now!"

Marco's face darkened.

He never thought his mother despised Loraine so much. She called her a bitch right in front of him. It was obvious she must have been mean and rude toward Loraine when he wasn't around.

A pang of guilt settled in his heart as he imagined what all Loraine must have gone through.

He couldn't bear to hear his mother slander Loraine, so he hung up the phone.

However, moments later, Laura called him again.

"Marco, bad news! Your study is unlocked. Several documents are missing. Loraine must have taken them. She must have used the documents to get a job in Universe Group and acquire the project. No wonder she wanted to divorce you. She cheated you!"

Marco was stunned to know the documents were missing. But he didn't think Loraine had stolen them.

Marco believed he must have taken the documents to the company or kept them in another place.

Marco rubbed his forehead and said, "Mom, calm down. I'll send someone to investigate it."

down. I'll send someone to investigate it."

He could tell Loraine possessed true talent. She wouldn't have got the project by reading some documents.

However, Laura was still stubborn. "Now that you have evidence, who else do you think would have done it other than Loraine? Marco, that woman is a thief! I'm going to call the police!"

"No, Mom!" Marco took a deep breath and lowered his voice. "Mom, listen carefully. Don't get involved in this issue. I can handle it myself."

Sensing the anger in his tone, Laura didn't dare to argue with Marco.

Although she compromised for Marco's sake, she didn't intend to let go of Loraine.

At night, Loraine and Cayson were having dinner in Flower Restaurant to celebrate their victory.

"Congratulations, Lorrie. You've done a great job!"

Cayson raised his glass and looked at Loraine in admiration.

"Thank you for your support, Cayson."

Loraine clinked her glass with his and smiled.

She knew Cayson must have endured a lot of pressure and problems for letting a newcomer take charge of such a crucial project.

She was grateful to Cayson for going out of the way to help him.

The two looked at each other and smiled. The atmosphere was harmonious.

Just then, a waiter brought a large bouquet of roses, interrupting their conversation.

Lorraine's eyes widened in surprise. "I'm sorry. I guess you've come to the wrong table."

"No, he didn't." Cayson took the bouquet and handed it to her. "Lorrie, this is for you."

Lorraine's brows furrowed as she stared at the red roses before her.

She couldn't understand what was going on. It seemed too romantic.

People usually sent red roses to the ones they were in love with.

Lorraine suddenly remembered her father telling her he wanted to make a match between her and Cayson. She immediately shook her head.

"Cayson, I know you share a good relationship with my grandfather. I'm grateful to you for accompanying him during the past three years, but you don't have to pursue me because he wishes us to be together."

Cayson's heart sank with disappointment when he saw the sincerity in Lorraine's eyes.

Chapter 37 Laura's Guess

After all, the person he liked since he was a child was oblivious to his feelings.

Finally, Loraine divorced Marco and was single again. He didn't want to give up.

Just as Cayson summoned the courage to express his feelings, his phone rang.

He had no choice but to answer the phone first.

"What?" Cayson's face turned pale when he heard the news. "Lorrie, bad news! Marco's mother has sent you a lawyer's letter!"

Recommended for you

A Chance Meeting

"Mollie Hackett sits in the taxi with mixed feelings. Today is not only her twentieth ...

CEO

Love at first sight

Read