

Chapter 1939 Idol In A Boy Band

Brandon tidied Janet's hair and smiled, saying, "No need to be envious of your mom. Our baby and I will both listen to you. If he tries to disobey you, I'll discipline him right away."

Then, he leaned over, speaking seriously to Janet's belly. "Do you understand? You have to listen to your mother in the future, or I'll have to teach you a lesson."

Janet chuckled and playfully pushed Brandon's shoulder, saying, "Stop being silly. Our baby can't hear you yet, you know."

Reluctantly, Brandon straightened up. He checked the timing for prenatal education carefully and said, "Well, I'll tell him when he can hear. That's our family's number one rule."

Janet found Brandon's serious expression amusing for quite some time. Feeling cheerful, she slept well that night.

The next morning, Janet went to the studio as usual.

As she was about to greet Tasha, the latter beat her to it, saying, "Good morning, Janet. You look great today. And you seem really happy. Got some good news?"

Looking at herself in the mirror, Janet asked, "Is it that obvious?"

Recalling Brandon's playful behavior from the day before, Janet couldn't help but laugh.

Tasha smiled and replied, "Isn't it?"

Just as Janet was about to mention Brandon's eagerness to start prenatal education for their two-month-old, she hesitated, remembering Tasha's past with her ex-husband.

Instead, Janet said, "Even though I can't work these days, I've been designing a set of children's clothes. I really like them. By the way, I've sent you the pictures. What do you think?"

Tasha, who also enjoyed designing clothes for her child, quickly changed the subject.

At that moment, Lexi knocked on the door, entering the office and looking visibly upset.

Seeing the furrowed brows on Lexi's round face, Janet nearly burst into laughter. "Lexi, what's the matter? Why do you look so upset?"

Irritably, Lexi replied, "There's this person in our studio who keeps insisting that you design clothes for him. We've told him you're too busy for new orders, but he won't leave."

Concerned that the persistent customer might pose a threat to Janet, Tasha stepped forward, saying, "Janet, why don't you take a break in your office? I'll try to persuade him to leave."

"It's no use. I've already tried to get him to leave," Lexi replied.

Janet smiled and asked, "You seem really upset, Lexi. Do you know this customer?"

With a frown, Lexi responded, "I don't know him, but I've heard about him. He used to be a member of a boy band under Apachicorp Entertainment. But now that the company's bankrupt, none of them are stars anymore. He came into the studio after you, insisting you design clothes for him. I've told him three times that you're not taking orders, but he won't leave. I don't know what he's up to."

Lexi's vigilance was evident as she continued, "People like him, once they get fixated, can be unpredictable. Please don't go out. What if he suddenly loses control and attacks you?"

Trying to comfort her, Janet said, "Lexi, don't worry so much every day. It's making me anxious too. Relax. Nothing happened last time, and nothing will happen this time. Don't worry. Brandon won't deduct your bonus."

Lexi insisted, "Janet, please take good care of yourself now."
