

Unbreakable 1481

Chapter 1481

The car was brought to a stop in less than three minutes.

Raegan was still rattled after the car stopped. Her car was equipped with run-flat tires, which were not supposed to burst unexpectedly.

Raegan took a deep breath and stepped out to check the car.

The street she had just driven on had a manhole cover sticking out, with sharp nails all around it. It seemed like a trap had been set on purpose. Who would do something like that?

Fortunately, Raegan was relatively calm. A less experienced driver might have ended up rolling the car.

Just then, a lady in her sixties approached Raegan, exclaiming, "Oh dear, what happened? Did your tire burst?"

Raegan just nodded.

The lady quickly suggested, "You're quite lucky! My son has been a mechanic for years. How about I get him to change your tire?"

Raegan found the lady's offer too enthusiastic and politely refused, "No, thanks."

Raegan planned to call for a tow truck and possibly get a replacement vehicle. But time was tight.

The lady lingered close by, chattering away about swapping the tire for Raegan.

Raegan firmly declined and moved away to phone for help.

When she finished the call and looked back, her car was already lifted on a jack. A dirty man in his thirties was replacing the tire.

Raegan came over with a serious expression, asking, "What are you doing?"

The lady responded with a smile, "No need to worry. We're just helping you with the tire change."

Raegan's expression turned to a scowl. "I didn't give you permission to do that."

The lady laughed lightly. "You say you didn't ask, but we couldn't have proceeded without your approval, right?"

Raegan was at a loss for words. She had explicitly declined their help.

Nevertheless, the man finished the job swiftly.

The lady quickly said, "There you go. It's all set. Your car is lovely, and we've fitted a top-notch tire, typically priced over ten thousand. But for you, just nine thousand eight hundred."

Raegan glanced at the tire, clearly cheap and probably not even worth a hundred. And they were asking for nine thousand eight hundred! This was obviously a scam! She said, "I don't need it. Please take it off."

The lady's attitude shifted immediately, and she said arrogantly, "We've already put it on. If we remove it now, it'll be considered used. Then who would buy it?"

Raegan stood her ground. "I never requested this service. You went ahead without my consent."

The lady was relentless, replying, "Wow, you look great behind the wheel of this fancy car. Is it really worth bargaining over this small amount? Fine! Let me make it easier for you. Eight thousand eight hundred. How does that sound?"

The lady had her scheme all figured out. She acquired the cheap tires for merely eighty dollars. It was shoddy and wouldn't last. She and her son roamed from place to place, avoiding any complains once the tire wore out.

Persisting, the lady said, "Come on, be sensible. The job's done.

Even if the police get involved, you'll end up paying. Why add to the hassle? Look at my son! He did all this work for you."

While talking, the lady nudged her son closer to Raegan. Her son, tall and muscular, stood over Raegan like a tower.

The lady subtly showed a QR code, whispering, "My son's a simple fellow. Please don't upset him. You seem a busy person. Just pay and move on."

It seemed like helpful words, but it was all about threats and intimidation.

Raegan asked coolly, "What if I choose not to pay?"

"Not to pay?" The lady's friendly facade disappeared, her voice becoming stern, "Well, if you don't pay, I can't be responsible for what my simple son might do..."

The tall man moved closer as instructed, his presence overwhelmingly clear. Saliva escaping his mouth, he muttered, "Pretty woman..." He extended his hand, trying to grope Raegan.

Raegan quickly dodged, evading his reach. In the commotion, her phone fell and the man picked it up immediately.

The lady acted swiftly, jumping into Raegan's car and grabbing the keys. She said boldly, "If you don't pay, you're not going anywhere today."

The man repeated his mumbling, "Pretty woman..."

Raegan approached the lady, attempting to get her car keys back.

But the lady reacted instantly, positioning herself in front of Raegan's vehicle, crying out and rolling on the ground. "She's hitting me! She's hitting me! She's going to kill me..."

Raegan was dumbfounded. Their performance was flawless, executed with ease. It dawned on Raegan that these two were professional scammers.

The surroundings were remote, without any shops or houses around, let alone security cameras. It made sense why they chose this location.

Raegan calmly suggested, "I don't have cash with me, and my card isn't working. Could I call someone to bring the money over to you?"

The lady looked doubtful. "You're not playing a trick on me, right?"

"No, of course not. I don't own this fancy car. It was rented. I like to seem richer than I am, and I wouldn't want anyone to find out I burst its tire. You arrived just in time," Raegan assured the lady, with a show of earnestness.

The lady then said, "Ah, my leg is injured from that fall. Merely paying for the tire isn't enough!"

"How much are you asking for?" Raegan asked.

The lady's expression changed slightly. "I'd need something Like twenty to thirty thousand for my recovery!"

And that was on top of the eight thousand eight hundred for that cheap tire. What a bold request! Raegan's mind racked, knowing scammers were naturally distrustful.

Chapter 1483

"I really can't afford that much," Raegan responded with sincerity.

"Asking for so much just isn't reasonable. Let's settle on a realistic amount."

Watching Raegan negotiate, the lady figured Raegan might be gullible and said, "Okay, eighteen thousand, no less."

"What about fifteen thousand?" Raegan countered.

The lady, believing Raegan was genuinely engaging in the negotiation, relaxed her suspicion and agreed, "Okay, that works."

The lady then passed her own phone to Raegan to make a call.

Raegan dialed and said, "Amber, can you bring me some cash?"

Once the address was delivered by Raegan, the lady felt her schemes had made it, grinning Raegan said to the lady, "Don't worry. Amber is close by. She'll arrive in no more than twenty minutes."

The lady couldn't hide her happiness.

Meanwhile, the man kept leering at Raegan, his drooling gaze unnerving.

When the timing seemed right, Raegan pretended to remember something and exclaimed, "Oh! I just remembered. I have three thousand in cash in the car. Let me grab that for you."

The lady, thrilled at the mention of money, encouraged, "Okay, dear, go grab it."

The lady then returned the car keys to Raegan.

With calmness, Raegan unlocked the car door and got inside.

The lady watched eagerly as Raegan appeared to search the glove box, only to see Raegan quickly shut the door and lock it from the inside.

The lady's face contorted with anger and tried to pull the door open, but it wouldn't move.

Muffled by the car's windows, she cursed at the maximum of her Lungs.

The car had great soundproofing. Raegan could only catch the angry words through lip-reading.

In a burst of anger, the man picked up a rock and threw it at Raegan's car!

Before the man could throw the rock, a muscular guy stepped in, grabbing the man's waist and throwing him onto the pavement with a loud crash.

Raegan's eyes widened as she saw Stefan standing before her. How he appeared on this deserted road was beyond her understanding.

Seeing her son being roughly handled, the lady attacked Stefan without a second thought.

Stefan was good at dealing with men, but he struggled with women. He awkwardly avoided the lady, moving like a shy schoolboy trying to dodge her grabs.

As the chaos escalated, Raegan quickly rolled down her car window and called out, “Stefan, leave her alone!”

Seeing Raegan’s intervention, the lady, filled with fury at being outsmarted, charged at Raegan with fierce anger.

Chapter 1484

Stefan kept his cool as long as he could, but eventually, he lost his patience at the sight of the lady charging at Raegan. With lightning speed, he grabbed the lady and tossed her roughly onto the asphalt.

The lady fell to the sidewalk, flailing and screaming, “Murder! They’re murdering me!”

Stefan’s brow furrowed. This level of hysteria was new to him.

Suddenly, the air was split by the loud blare of sirens.

() ‘s ()

The lady on the ground let out a sharp scream, jumped to her feet, and shot Raegan a furious look. “You called the polic she accused.

Raegan nodded, unfazed. “Yep, using your phone.”

The lady flew into a rage, realizing Raegan had been covertly signaling the police all this while!

The lady’s cheeks reddened as her blood pressure spiked. This scam she’d been running with her son, targeting luxury cars because of their distracted owners, had never gone wrong until now.

She’d even made a point of learning about various Luxury car brands to pick her targets wisely. The owners of these fancy cars were typically too preoccupied to bother with anything under a few grand.

“Fine! I’ll just tell the police you and your friend assaulted me and my son. I’ll make sure you regret this!” the lady snapped.

Her son, still on the ground and holding his head, groaned. “Hit me... He hit me...”

Raegan leaned forward, a smirk playing on her lips. “Do you really think you can fool everyone when there’s a dash cam recording everything?”

The lady’s face turned pale. “A dashcam?” How could she have forgotten about that? Nobody had ever challenged her on it before.

They’d always just paid up without a fuss, so the thought had never even occurred to her. Now it all clicked into place. That explained Raegan’s calm demeanor. Raegan had been banking on this from the star t.

The police had leaped out of their cars and were handcuffing the lady’s son faster than she could react.

The man, completely unaware of the situation, had a huge grin on his face as they escorted him away.

The lady cried out, “Oh, my son! They’re taking you away!”

Hearing this, the man began to struggle wildly. Foam formed at his mouth as if he were having a seizure.

The cops were caught flat-footed and radioed for an ambulance. When everything calmed down, the lady had disappeared without a trace. Raegan couldn't believe her eye. The lady had just abandoned her son and fled the scene. After the police put the man into the ambulance, they asked Raegan for a brief statement. "We're Looking into it, ma'am," one of them said. "We've gotten a few leads on these guys before. The problem is, people hesitate to report them to the police, and by the time they do, they are nowhere to be found. But you did great."

Chapter 1485

Raegan felt proud of her contribution. She hoped her actions could prevent others from being ripped off.

"Also, that lady had run away, but I caught her on my dashcam. The video's pretty clear. It might help you guys out," Raegan added.

"Thanks," the officer replied.

Once the police had left, Stefan gave Raegan a thumbs-up. "You really handled that well," he said. Raegan smiled. "What brings you here?" she inquired.

() 's ()

"I just finished a seminar. I'm heading back to downtown Stefan glanced at the flat tire of Raegan's car, barely attached. "Where are you off to? I can give you a Lift."

Raegan waved off the suggestion. "No, thanks. I've already called for a ride."

Stefan nodded. "Alright. I'll stay with you until your ride arrives."

Raegan thought that was a good idea. After the recent struggle, she didn't Like the idea of waiting alone.

However, as time passed, her ride was still nowhere in sight. Raegan realized her phone screen was cracked beyond repair, and when she tried turning it on, all she got was a blank screen.

She used Stefan's phone to call her driver. The driver clarified that a misunderstanding caused by a miscommunication over the phone led him to a different location. He had attempted to contact Raegan, but since her phone wasn't working, he began to worry.

Raegan asked where the driver was now, and found out he was quite far away.

Seeing Raegan's growing concern, Stefan gestured to her. "I'll take you."

Realizing she couldn't wait any longer, Raegan nodded. Then, she dialed the driver and provided the new pick-up location, instructing to bring her flat-tire car back.

Raegan took the black duffel bag from her car and turned to Stefan.

"Sorry to bug you."

Stefan laughed softly, saying, "I'm done for the day."

On the road, Raegan gave Stefan an address. Driving down a deserted road, she asked him to stop. "It won't take long," she assured Stefan.

The advice from Nicole, to keep things secret, lingered in Raegan's mind. Thus, she didn't tell Stefan exactly what she was going to do, despite their closeness.

Stefan didn't question her. He simply offered her his backup phone.

"Let me know if you need help."

Raegan responded with a grateful nod.

Raegan took a turn down a side street, led by Nicole's directions to a brick-red building hidden at the alley's end. Its hidden location surprised her as she got closer.

As Raegan reached the entrance, the sound of a child's cries broke out from inside.

Chapter 1486

Raegan hurried in to find a well-built man dragging a child across the floor, a cigarette dangling from his mouth and a malicious smile on his face. "Pay up, or this child is getting sold!" he threatened.

A woman in a yellow dress was holding onto the child, her sobs cutting through the noise. "Please, you can't take him! He's ill!" she begged.

The man was unfazed. "Your child ruined my watermelons. Ten thousand dollars won't even cover the damage. Those were imported, mind you!"

"He didn't mean to! Your watermelons were in the way on the sidewalk.

He barely touched them. Plus, he's just a child and couldn't have crushed them," the woman protested.

"So, what are you implying? You think I'm trying to trick you?"

Despite suspecting the man's scam, the woman hesitated to argue back.

Being a single mother made her feel vulnerable, aware of the danger she and her child faced.

Falling to her knees with a desperate look, she pressed her hands together. "Not at all. It's just I don't have that kind of money with me right now. Please, just give me some time."

"So, you think playing the helpless victim will work? Waiting for a hero to save the day? You think I'm easy to trick?"

Suddenly, filled with anger, the man kicked the woman hard, causing blood to spray from her mouth. Despite the pain, she held on to her child with all her might.

The man had barged into the woman's home, wrecking everything in his search for money, but found nothing. "You've got it hidden somewhere!" he yelled, kicking the woman twice more fiercely. "You think you can play games with me?"

Raegan's eyes widened when she saw the child's face. This little boy seemed oddly familiar, as though she had met him before. But the woman's and child's screams snapped her back to the harsh reality.

Grabbing a shovel from the front porch, Raegan charged at the man and hit him hard on the head.

()

The man crumpled to the ground, nursing his bleeding skull. "Who in the world did that?" he shouted.

Raegan quickly took the woman and her child by the hand, whispering, "Nicole sent me. Let's go." Worried the crazed man would rise to his feet soon and cause trouble, Raegan pulled the woman and ran.

What Raegan didn't expect was to run into someone as she rushed through the door.

Raegan's eyes widened in shock. What a twist! It was the very lady who had wanted to rip her off and then skedaddled!

And to make matters even stranger, the man Raegan had just knocked out with the shovel was calling the lady, “Mom!”

A chilling revelation struck Raegan. These scammers were all in it together!

The lady’s eyes sparkled with wickedness as she saw Raegan. She lunged at Raegan, holding on to her tight. “Kolton, lock the gate! I’m going to kill this bitch!”

Raegan used all her might to stomp down with her foot, aiming for the lady to release her under the influence of pain!

The lady let out a scream of pain, yet she stubbornly held on to Raegan.

Chapter 1487

Seeing things get worse, Raegan quickly said to the woman who was holding the boy’s hand, “There’s a car coming up the road!”

Raegan then shoved the woman and the boy out of the way.

The woman, reacting fast, grabbed the boy and took off.

Kolton, eager to capture the woman and the boy, ran after them.

“Kolton, come on and help me! We can’t let this bitch get away.

She’s the reason your elder brother is locked up!” the lady yelled as Kolton ran off.

Hearing this, Kolton stopped in his tracks. He rushed back to lock the main gate.

Raegan, unable to get the lady to release her grip, kicked even harder.

The lady wailed in pain and made a face, but still didn’t release her hold. “Kolton, quick! She’s such a beauty. Help me keep her in check! Once your brother is released, I will make her his wife!”

Raegan was shocked all over again! What kind of mother would incite her son to do such evil!

Kolton, who hadn’t really looked at Raegan before, now noticed her beauty, leering at her.

Seeing Kolton approaching her with a lustful look, Raegan instantly became alert, prepared for any situation.

Unexpectedly, Kolton positioned himself behind his mother. He wrapped his arms around Raegan’s waist from behind, securing her in place.

Then, Kolton said to his mom, “Why don’t you go find that woman and the boy? I want to enjoy myself a bit here!”

Kolton and his mom, along with his elder brother, roamed about, living wherever they could find shelter.

In his prime, Kolton had yet to find partners. At times, he would visit places of ill repute for temporary solace, yet none could hold a candle to Raegan.

The idea of having a gorgeous lady like Raegan beneath him, a woman he was unworthy of, was t antalizing for Kolton!

The lady paused for a moment. She had intended for Raegan to marry her eldest son, hoping he would start a family with Raegan.

The lady had two sons, with Kolton being her second son. Kolton could be a bit offbeat, but he wasn’t dumb. Convincing someone to marry wasn’t beyond him. Yet, her eldest son was too naive to secure a partner. She had even thought about deceiving a timid girl back and forced the girl to marry her eldest son.

With her cleverness and stunning appearance, Raegan seemed perfect.

The lady mused perhaps Raegan could enhance the family's Lineage, giving her a grandchild who was both attractive and intelligent! Why bother about defiance? If needed, harsh measures could be taken!

As the lady weighed her thoughts, Kolton had already started pulling Raegan toward the room.

The lady found herself hesitating. "Kolton, this was meant for your elder brother..."

Kolton said impatiently, "So what? Isn't my brother not here? I just want to look after my future sister-in-law for him. What's the issue?"

Chapter 1488

Raegan couldn't believe how shameless this family was. They talked about such disgraceful acts as if they were perfectly normal. Their shamelessness knew no limits.

Kolton, enticed by Raegan's sweet scent, felt his desires stirring.

Seeing his mom still hesitated, he quickly added, "What are you waiting for? If that woman decides to call the police, we'll be in trouble!"

Upon hearing this, the lady quickly left to search the woman and the boy.

With both the woman and the boy gone, Raegan felt a bit less worried.

With her hands tied, she resorted to kicking Kolton's shins with all her might.

Kolton, furious, gripped Raegan's throat tighter and hissed, "Try kicking me again, you Little bitch, and I'll choke you to death!"

Raegan's face turned purple as she struggled for breath. But this was her moment. She gnashed her teeth into Kolton's arm, biting through skin and flesh.

Blood spurted out intensely!

"Ah... You fucking bitch!" Kolton cried out in pain, his hold loosening.

Raegan didn't waste a second. She headbutted Kolton's chin forcefully, and as he staggered, she delivered a kick to his private part.

"Ouch!" Kolton screamed at the top of his lungs, collapsing onto the ground with a heavy fall.

()

Kolton felt dizzy, and the sharp pain in his private part was excruciating. He couldn't believe he was taken down by a delicate woman.

Raegan had just dialed for help using Stefan's backup phone. She was convinced Kolton was too injured to stand up again. Her plan was to leave him for the police to handle.

Yet, Kolton wouldn't stop hurling insults. "You bitch! Tramp! I'm going to get you! You slut!"

Kolton was no stranger to society's underbelly. The insults he spat out were crude and shocking, the likes of which Raegan had never encountered.

His verbal attacks grew even nastier. "Damn it! How did your mother manage to birth such a vile creature like you! She must be rotten!

I'll deal with her next. Show some spine! Don't you dare run!"

Raegan had just reached the door when she heard that. She couldn't help but let out a cold laugh, grabbed a broom lying nearby, and swung it with all her might at Kolton.

“smack!” The broom hit Kolton right in the face, making his nose bleed like crazy and covering his face in blood.

Fuming with anger but too weak to stand, Kolton dragged himself toward Raegan, hurling insults as he went, “You think you can hit me, bitch? Today, I’m going to make you regret this! I’ll make you cry for your daddy and mommy...”

But before Kolton could finish his threat, he suddenly screamed so loudly it turned into a high-pitched shriek.

Raegan was stepping hard on his hand, crushing his fingers.

“Ah!” Kolton howled with his mouth agape.

Chapter 1489

Raegan looked at him with icy eyes and said, “Looks like your mother forgot to teach you manners. Well, I guess it’s up to me to clean that dirty mouth of yours.’

Then, she grabbed a mop from a bucket next to her, one that hadn’t been squeezed out, and shoved it into Kolton’s mouth.

The mop was dripping with dark, dirty water from cleaning the yard, filled with mud, dirt, and who knew what else.

Kolton fought back with all his might, his complexion changing shades.

He was no stranger to hardship, having faced the harshness of life, but never had he imagined swallowing sewer water.

The more Kolton tried to free himself, the more forcefully Raegan held him down.

The mop head, a bundle of cotton strips knotted together, seemed too large to fit in someone’s mouth.

Yet, Raegan managed to shove a small part into Kolton’s mouth, sending the filthy, unwrung water down his throat. And he swallowed it.

Once the mop was removed, Kolton gasped for air, his face a mix of black and blue, coughing uncontrollably.

()

After Kolton finally caught his breath, he shook with rage and pointed at Raegan, stuttering, “You! How dare you shove a mop in my mouth!”

Raegan just smirked and retorted, “Your mouth spews filthier stuff than this mop could ever clean.” Feeling deeply offended and slipping into his usual habits, Kolton started to retort, “You little slut...”

But he stopped mid-sentence as Raegan threatened with the mop once more.

Terrified, Kolton fell to his knees, pleading, “Fine! I’ll stop! No more, please! I can’t take it.”

Raegan replied icily, “You’d do well to hold your tongue. Remember, there are plenty of people out there who won’t hesitate to teach you a lesson if you don’t know about manners.”

Kolton never imagined he’d be completely under a delicate woman’s control one day! Even R aegan’s words made him unconsciously tremble.

It was downright embarrassing! This had to stop!

Kolton tried to soothe the sharp pain racking his body, eyeing Raegan as she got ready to leave with a cunning look. Then, suddenly, he sprang at her! “Damn it, I’m not going down without a fight...” Raegan, nimble and quick, sidestepped him with ease.

“Bang!” A loud thud echoed.

There Kolton was, sprawled on the floor, too dazed to make a sound.

He had knocked himself out cold!

For a moment, everything went blank, and then a crushing pain hit Kolton, like he’d been run over by a truck!

Raegan was convinced that as long as such men were breathing, they’d never stop scheming.

“Looks Like you haven’t learned your lesson, so maybe it’s time for another round of this filthy water.”

Chapter 1490

Raegan turned Kolton over, grabbed the mop bucket, and opened his mouth forcibly. Then, she poured the mop water into his mouth.

At this time, someone slammed the door, creating a loud bang.

“”Raegan!” Stefan rushed in with a darkened expression, grabbed Raegan’s shoulders, and looked at her face. He asked anxiously, “Are you okay? Are you hurt somewhere?”

Stefan had just heard from the woman that Raegan was in danger. So, he immediately asked the woman and the little boy to stay in his car and lock the doors. He had told them not to open the door, no matter what, until he came back. Then, he rushed over for Raegan.

When Raegan saw the anxiety on Stefan’s face, she said awkwardly, “Stefan, don’t worry. I’m fine.”

It was only then that Stefan noticed that Raegan was holding a mop bucket in her hand.

() ‘s ()

Stefan was stunned for a moment. Then, he said, “Well... I’m glad to hear that.”

At this moment, Kolton gasped and groaned awkwardly. “You... You are stepping on my hand...”

Stefan looked down and glanced Kolton. There was no trace of sympathy in him at all. His eyes were filled with fury. He reached out, held Raegan’s hand, and said, “Let’s go. Let the police deal with them.”

“Okay,” Raegan replied with a nod.

Raegan was about to put down the mop bucket when a woman’s voice sounded from the door. “Oh, my poor boy!”

The lady who had just run out to look for the woman and the Little boy came back to ask for her son’s help because she couldn’t open the car door. And she was shocked to see Kolton in such an awkward situation.

The lady wrongly blamed Raegan and Stefan for her sons’ relatively consequences. She was so livid that she picked up the shovel she saw next to her and charged at them. “This is all your fault! How dare you hurt my sons in broad daylight! I will kill both of you!”

Stefan reacted quickly at this critical moment. He positioned himself protectively in front of Raegan.

But to his surprise, Raegan pushed him away. Then, she stepped forward and poured the buck t of dirty water on the lady.

The lady's eyes were instantly blurred by the mop water.

Before she could rush to Raegan and Stefan, she tripped and fell to the floor with a heavy thud.

Her grip on the shovel loosened. It fell and accidentally hit Kolton.

"Ah!" Kolton screamed in pain and passed out.

The lady fell on the floor so hard that she couldn't get up for a while.

Raegan looked down at them and commented, "You only deserve all this" The police cars arrived outside, sirens blaring.

Raegan had already made a record and submitted the dashcam footage to the police as the evidence.

Coupled with the woman's statement, the lady and Kolton were immediately taken by the police.

Raegan looked around and said to the woman, "This place is no Longer safe for you to live. You should come with me."

The woman hesitated for a moment. Then, she said, "But Miss Lawrence doesn't allow us to go out."