Married At First Sight Chapter 3527-Evan: "Is it possible that my brothers aren't good at it, so I have to trouble my sisters-in-law?"

"My eldest sister-in-law, Serenity, went to FC Manor, and my third sister-in-law, Hayden, isn't officially married yet, so I'm not familiar with her. My second sister-in-law, Camryn, is technically my eldest sister-in-law. Can't I ask her for help?"

Serenity was his eldest sister-in-law, but Camryn was technically the first among his sisters-in-law.

Callum snorted, "Your second sister-in-law doesn't know the woman you like and has never even met her. She can't help you at all. It's better not to bother her. If you need something, tell me, and I'll talk to her and see if she can help."

"It's not about Fox; it's about Bianca. My second sister-in-law knows Bianca and probably has private contacts with her. That girl is very familiar with me and gets along well with my two sisters-in-law. She seems very good at ingratiating herself with people."

Callum had to search his memory for a while before he remembered who Bianca was.

He couldn't be blamed for his poor memory. He had learned from Zachary to forget women who weren't his own. Only after meeting them several times did he remember them.

Bianca was one of Ezequiel's apprentices. She had visited Wildridge Manor with Ezequiel and got along well with the women of the York family. The elders liked her, and his sisters-in-law regarded her as a friend.

Callum said, "Miss Bianca is one of Mr. Ezequiel's apprentices. Who does she need to impress? On the contrary, we should be trying to impress her. Her connections are far more powerful than yours. Do you know the status of her senior brothers and sisters? Any one of them could easily outmatch you, the fourth young master York."

Evan was speechless. He had thought Bianca was clinging to someone, but she was actually well-connected with his eldest and second sisters-in-law, his mother, and his aunts. The women in the York family liked her very much.

Grandma treated Bianca like a granddaughter.

Evan knew that Grandma longed for a granddaughter but was disappointed. Now she hoped for a great-granddaughter but might not get her wish. Even so, treating every girl like a granddaughter and loving her seemed excessive.

“What’s wrong with Miss Bianca? Did you offend her? Do you want your second sister-in-law to help you smooth things over?” Callum asked, treating Evan like a troublemaker.

Callum added, “Grandma just arranged for you to send her back to the hotel twice and show her around Wiltspoon when you have time. She wanted you to introduce her to our local food. That’s because Grandma thinks highly of you and is giving you a chance to impress the old senior, Silver Fox. Don’t be ungrateful.”

Evan said, “Brother, can you listen to me? You keep talking over me.”

Callum replied, “Speak. I didn’t stop you. Your mouth is yours; you can say whatever you want. I didn’t tape it shut.”

“Brother, you’re talking non-stop, and I don’t even have a chance to interrupt,” Evan complained. To others, Callum seemed gentle and elegant, as gentle as jade. Only he and River, his younger brothers, knew how formidable their eldest brother truly was.
