

Married At First Sight Chapter 4140

Chapter 4140

“They’re discussing business, and the dinner will take a while. By the time she leaves the Fortress Hotel, it’ll be evening. She probably won’t go anywhere else after that.”

“Wait for her on the road she has to take home. Her license plate number is XXXX. Make sure you remember it.”

Marco repeated Kathryn’s license plate number, making sure Shiloh’s brother committed it to memory.

He even sent a message as a backup. Anyone with a decent memory could remember it after reading it once.

Shiloh’s brother replied, “Got it. We’ll make preparations. Try to get her to drink some wine—she’ll be easier to handle if she’s drunk.”

After all, there was no guarantee that the staged car accident would work.

If that plan failed, they’d have to move on to Plan B: kidnapping her.

“Kathryn never trained in martial arts, but she grew up fighting kids in the village. She’s tough. You won’t be able to take her unless she’s drunk.”

They might not care about Kathryn, but she was still family. They knew her strengths and weaknesses all too well.

Marco chuckled. “My two younger brothers will be there to help. They’ve learned a few moves. And come on, there are four of you—can’t you handle one woman?”

“No matter how well she fights, she’s no match for all of you combined.”

“Drinking is part of business meetings. I don’t know if she’ll get drunk, but she’ll definitely have a few drinks. When the time comes, knock her out, throw her in the car, tie her hands and feet, and tape her mouth shut. Grab her phone immediately—don't give her any chance to call for help."

Shiloh's brother responded, "Yeah, I know. That's a given. Alright, it's set then. Just keep us updated on her location. And make sure Liberty doesn't find out—her bodyguards are too dangerous."

Marco scoffed. "Do you think I'm stupid? Of course, I won't let Liberty find out."

Liberty had some serious backup. The strongest among her bodyguards was a man named Jim—formerly Zachary's personal guard. Zachary trusted him completely, and Jim had been with him for years.

When Liberty decided to move to Jensburg, her sister had been worried about her safety. Zachary, who doted on his wife, assigned Liberty his two most elite bodyguards.

On top of that, she had protection from both the Lewis and Stone families. The men they sent were no joke either.

Marco wasn't dumb—he chose to target his own sister because he didn't dare to go after Liberty. He knew her people were on a whole different level.

Sure, Kathryn had bodyguards too, but Marco had been in the Farrell family long enough to know their capabilities.

"That's settled then. Make sure your brothers are ready to help."

Shiloh's brother thought to himself, If this goes south, at least Marco's brothers will go down with us.

If they were going to risk their necks, they weren't doing it alone.

"Alright," he agreed.

"Delete this call record after we hang up," Marco reminded him.

"Got it."

After ending the call, Marco immediately erased the call history.

Then, he messaged his younger brothers, telling them to wrap up their work early so they wouldn't have to stay late. He instructed them to meet up with Shiloh's brothers as soon as possible.
