

Married At First Sight Chapter 4121

Chapter 4121

“I’m so used to having him by my side, and now that he’s hiding, I feel completely out of sorts.” Kathryn smacked her lips and added with a sigh, “If I want to kiss him, I have to do it in my dreams.”

Liberty was stunned.

Seeing Liberty’s speechless expression, Kathryn smiled. “What? Did I just change the way you see me?”

Liberty nodded. “Yeah, I didn’t expect you to be this kind of Kathryn.”

Kathryn chuckled.

“Pedro is way too serious and way too respectful toward me. If I hadn’t taken the initiative, even after marrying him, we’d probably end up sleeping separately, and he wouldn’t even dare to turn over in bed.”

Liberty thought about Pedro’s usual stern demeanor. He only seemed like a normal person when he was around Kathryn, but even then, he was still overly respectful and never crossed any boundaries.

“Well, you’re still technically his lady,” Liberty pointed out. “Of course, he treats you that way. Once you’re really married, things will change. But one thing’s for sure—his love and loyalty to you are unquestionable.”

Kathryn gave Liberty a knowing look and lowered her voice to ask a few private questions—ones only a wife would know.

Liberty, having been married twice, immediately blushed. “If you really don’t know, just watch a movie.”

“I can’t watch a movie now. Even searching online doesn’t help—everything’s been wiped clean.”

Liberty was speechless.

“Okay,” she sighed. “Look, the whole husband-and-wife thing happens naturally. You don’t need experience. When the time comes, it’ll all fall into place. And trust me, Pedro might seem like a stiff, but men are one way outside the bedroom and completely different inside it. You’ll see.”

Kathryn murmured, “It’s not that I don’t understand—it’s just that I don’t have firsthand experience. I was hoping you could teach me a few tricks to keep a husband under control.”

Liberty laughed. “You? Needing tricks? Kathryn, with Pedro’s level of devotion, if you tell him to go east, he won’t dare to go west. If you tell him to walk through fire, he won’t even hesitate.”

She softened her tone. “You don’t need to control him. Just be sincere, put your heart into your marriage, and trust him. Give him space, respect him. That’s all it takes. If you do that, you’ll love each other for a lifetime.”

Liberty had no doubt that Pedro’s loyalty meant Kathryn would always have the upper hand in their marriage. As long as she respected him, their love would last.

Kathryn nodded thoughtfully. “I get it. I learned my lesson just by watching my parents’ marriage. I won’t suffocate Pedro. If a man wants to cheat, no matter how tightly you control him, he’ll still find a way. And if he’s truly loyal, then even if you don’t monitor his every move, he won’t stray.”

After a moment, she asked, “Liberty, when you marry Mr. Lewis, will you be managing all his finances? Will he get an allowance from you, or will you both handle your own money? My mom never let my dad carry more than $500 in his wallet.”

“According to Farrell family rules, the husband of the family head gets a monthly allowance of tens of thousands of dollars during the marriage, but my mother never gave that to my dad. He could only get money from his son or Shiloh.”

Liberty smiled. “Duncan said he’d hand over everything to me. He told me that what’s his is mine, and what’s mine is still mine. But honestly, I don’t have the time to manage it all, so we’ll probably just handle our own finances separately.”

She added, “He randomly sends me money, red envelopes, transfers—he even wanted to give me his entire monthly income. But my net worth isn’t even close to Duncan’s.”

If Liberty hadn't taken over the Farrell Group and become its new leader, there would've been a huge financial gap between her and Duncan.

Even though she had her own business in Wiltspoon and lived in a villa, that villa had been half-bought, half-gifted to her by Zachary. If she hadn't insisted on paying for it, Zachary would've just given it to her and Sonny outright.