Chapter 4238

Elisa added, “I know you’re good to Remy because of me. You hope my future in-laws will treat me just as well. Mom, even if I move to Annenburg with Remy, don’t worry—I won’t be bullied. He’ll protect me, and I can protect myself. Have you forgotten who I am? I’m a little firecracker! No one bullies me—I do the bullying.”

Audrey playfully pinched her daughter’s cheek. “I’m not worried about that at all. Your future in-laws are good people. Their family is upright and harmonious. You’re lucky to have found a man like Remy.”

Elisa grinned. “That’s because I have great taste. Any man I choose—and the family behind him—is bound to be excellent.”

Audrey chuckled, pinching her daughter’s cheek again. “Yes, yes. You have the best taste.”

She was genuinely pleased with Elisa’s choice in Remy.

Elisa then got up to play with her little nephew.

The baby beamed at her, making Elisa’s heart melt. She immediately reached out to hold him.

Grandpa Jimenez loved babies but rarely held them. He worried that his old hands, which sometimes trembled, might drop the baby.

Watching Elisa dote on the child, Grandpa Jimenez smiled. “Elisa, you and Remy should have your wedding soon and start a family. By then, Leland will probably get married, too. Imagine three or four little ones running around—it’ll be lively. I just hope I can live long enough to see that.”

He wanted to witness this new generation getting married and having children before he passed.

“Uncle Jimenez, don’t say things like that. You need to enjoy life. You’ve been through so much, and all the hardships are behind us. Now, we just need to live well and be happy. We’re all here for you, and we want you to live to 120!”

Elisa added, “Grandpa Jimenez, I don’t like hearing you talk like that. Remy and I are getting married this fall—that’s just six months away. It’ll be here before you know it.”

Audrey sighed. “It’s not just Grandpa Jimenez who’s worried—I am, too. But I’m more worried about Leland. We keep setting up blind dates for him, but he avoids them. When we tell him to find someone on his own, he just says he hasn’t met the right person. He’s getting older... Is he planning to stay single forever?”

Leland wasn’t a kid anymore.

“Not long ago, Alice wanted to introduce him to a friend, but he refused. He said if he didn’t like her, it would make things awkward between Alice and her friend. Elisa, keep an eye out. If you meet a nice girl, introduce her to Leland. My standards aren’t high. As long as she comes from a good family, has open-minded parents, and is kind and generous, I’ll be happy.”

She didn’t care if the girl came from a wealthy background or not.

All she wanted was someone with a good heart.
