

Married at First Sight Chapter 4416

Fortunately, his grandmother had arranged for him to pursue her—and luckily, she liked him too.

The two chatted along the way and soon arrived at the cinema nearest to the hotel.

To be honest, it had been a long time since Zhan Yiyang had gone to a movie theater. When he wanted to watch a film, he usually did it at home.

But since going to the cinema is a common dating activity, he decided to follow tradition. He not only wanted to accompany Du Yumeng but also wanted to experience the feeling of a proper date—watching a movie together.

Knowing that Du Yumeng liked martial arts and horror films, Zhan Yiyang bought two tickets for a horror movie. Since the movie hadn't started yet, they strolled around the cinema.

He also bought a bunch of snacks for Du Yumeng, saying she could enjoy them during the movie.

Du Yumeng told him he bought too much. "I'm not a kid," she said. "Why would I eat so many snacks?"

There were so many that, she joked, she might be too busy eating to follow the plot of the movie.

Still, despite her words, Du Yumeng felt a warm happiness inside.

Zhan Yiyang also wanted to buy her bags, jewelry, and other luxury items, but she stopped him.

"You already gave me a set of jewelry. Don't buy more."

She hadn't even brought the first set home yet, and here he was ready to buy more. "It's not like I run a jewelry store," she added.

She already owned quite a bit of jewelry—some of it inherited from her grandmother. Those pieces were not only valuable but also more exquisite than most items sold in stores today.

Perhaps it was because she had trained under a master from a young age. Learning a craft was tough. Even if the masters were wealthy, they would deliberately make apprentices endure hardship. Life during that time was far from easy.

Although Du Yumeng was born into the privileged Du family, her pride had been tempered through her training. After returning home to resume her role as the second daughter of the Du family, she still loved to admire and collect gold and silver jewelry—but rarely wore them in daily life.

She only wore a favorite necklace and a single bracelet.

Sometimes, she added a pair of earrings.

She saved elaborate dressing up for high-society banquets.

“I don’t lack those things,” she said.

Zhan Yiyang replied, “I know you don’t need them, but I still want to give them to you. I like buying you gifts. In the future, I want to spend my money on you. Once I spend it, I feel even more motivated to earn more.”

“My eldest brother said that once the Haicheng branch is established, all the profits from the first three years will go to me. Of course, if there are losses, I’ll bear those too. Starting in the fourth year, I’ll need to report my results to him.”

A portion of the earnings will then be turned over to headquarters.

Du Yumeng smiled. “Then you better work hard and get your branch up and running quickly. If you reach annual profits of hundreds of millions or even tens of billions, your net worth will skyrocket.”

Zhan Yiyang said, “My personal wealth is already pretty substantial.”

If he married her, he would make sure she had the best material life.

From that moment on, he would carry all the burdens for them both.

All she needed to do was be happy and carefree.

The young lady of the Zhan family deserved nothing less.

That was the life of a princess—or a queen.

“Still, it’s several hundred million more than I have,” Du Yumeng said knowingly.

She was well aware of Zhan Yiyang’s personal fortune.

“From now on, what’s mine is yours—and what’s yours is still yours.”

Du Yumeng smiled. “Then I’ve surpassed my eldest sister and become the richest woman in Haicheng.”
