

Chapter 12

Leslie shook her head and pouted angrily. "If you refuse again, I'll be mad! After all, I have worn the most expensive clothes ever since I was born, but you... I'm embarrassed now. If you don't accept it, you'll let me down!"

Leslie said so, but Sarah did not know how to refuse. Ashley forced herself to calm down. "Sarah, since Leslie has said so, take this!"

If Sarah refused again and Leslie told Riley so, no....they couldn't afford this!

"All right!" Sarah was shocked. She had not expected that Leslie would treat her in this way.

It seemed that something was wrong.

But what was wrong? She couldn't tell!

Leslie was secretly delighted. On the surface, they had accepted her "gifts", but Sarah would not wear that evening dress tomorrow night!

As Leslie expected, at seven o'clock tomorrow night, Sarah wore a simple white evening dress, not flamboyant and not high-profile, which set off her perfect figure.

In general, Sarah's figure was more voluptuous than Leslie, while Leslie was thinner. However, Sarah's aura was charming, and when she put on such a dress, her charm faded a lot.

"Why didn't you wear the evening dress last night? Don't you like it?"

Leslie looked at Sarah with dissatisfaction, pouting disappointedly.

Ashley quickly smiled and said, "Leslie, she's still young. If she goes out in such an expensive evening dress, people will laugh at her."

"No way. Miss Byrd can't afford this kind of dress? Besides, you only wear such a simple evening dress. People thought I deliberately abused my sister!"

Leslie chuckled and took Sarah's hand, "You must wear that evening gown. It's so perfect. Won't it be a pity if you don't wear it? With the financial power of the Byrd family, can't we afford to wear any expensive dress?"

"Besides, I've heard that many young men will be here for this auction!"

Jian blinked playfully with a smile, and there was a hint of pity in her eyes.

In fact, Sarah also liked the evening dress very much, but Ashley didn't allow her to wear it, so she could only put on the white evening dress with grievance.

"Mummy, Leslie is right. It shouldn't be a problem for me to wear it!"

"Well... I'm afraid that's not a good idea!" Ashley was in a bit of a dilemma.

Although the Byrd family was rich, Riley was thrifty. If he knew that his daughter would spend more than 100,000 dollars in an evening gown, wouldn't he be heartbroken?

"No, Mommy, just let her wear it! I don't want others to misunderstand that she is really jealous of me, because I can get the best stuff every time!" Leslie shouted with a little anger.

Ashley laughed scornfully in her heart. Naive!

"Yes, Mommy, I heard from the driver that Daddy will not come back tonight. Didn't you get a call from him?"

Sarah suddenly remembered that Riley was on a business trip again. He had been particularly busy during this period of time!

Ashley thought for a moment. Anyway, even the media took her photo but no body would know how much it cost, so why bother?

In this way, Ashley agreed.

Half an hour later, Sarah got out of the car in her gorgeous evening dress.

Sarah's mood was exceptionally good. She believed that tonight, she would undoubtedly be the most eye-catching one in the room, the one that all the wealthy young men would notice!

Because she possessed both beauty and a well-proportioned figure. Coupled with the attention-grabbing evening gown and her flawless, youthful skin...

Thinking of this, Sarah's heart was about to jump out of her chest, as if she had seen the mysterious men at the charity party shoot an arrow of love at her!

It didn't take long for the three of them to arrive at the auction.

At the venue, men and women were dressed in luxury, displaying elegant manners. The auction was about to begin in ten minutes.

Leslie followed Ashley and found a seat. She suddenly found that Mrs. Pearce was also there, and she was still sitting beside Leslie.

Mrs. Pearce was very happy, but when she saw Ashley and Sarah, her heart sank.

"You're here too? Are you eyeing something to bid on for Sarah? Tsk tsk, Miss Byrd's evening gown looks stunning. It seems like a hefty sum was spent. On the other hand, my Leslie looks so plain!"

Since the last encounter, Mrs. Pearce had developed some grievances against Ashley.

Ashley smiled awkwardly and said, "No, I just asked the company's staff to design it."

How would she dare to say that the evening gown was worth more than 100,000 dollars in front of these madams?

Sarah smiled gracefully. "Mrs. Pearce, indeed, this evening gown is exquisite and quite expensive. It suits me well, Leslie graciously let me have it."

"Could she have refused? What if she wore such a beautiful evening gown and you secretly envied her again? That wouldn't be good, would it?" Mrs. Pearce sneered, and the other ladies joined in the mockery.

Ashley and Sarah's faces turned extremely unpleasant. Leslie quickly intervened, "Let's not talk about this. The auction is about to begin!"

What an idiot! Ashley glanced at Leslie and sneered in her heart.

The auction began, and the first item up for bidding was a vase crafted by a French artist. It had intricate and abstract patterns.

Leslie wasn't particularly interested in these items, but she heard a familiar voice. Following the sound, she couldn't believe her eyes – she saw Carlos Lester!

He was also here! The man even raised an eyebrow and curved his lips, a mocking expression that made Leslie abruptly avert her gaze.

It's really fateful. Never expected to see him anywhere. Could this be what people call destiny?

"Mommy, look at that man. Who is he?" Sarah also noticed Carlos and excitedly pointed at him. Ashley followed her daughter's finger and saw an exceptionally handsome man – young in age but exuding an air of nobility and arrogance.

The chilling aura emanating from him compelled those around to treat him with the utmost respect.

"This man... looks somewhat familiar. He resembles Philip Lester. Could he be his grandson, Carlos Lester?"

Ashley whispered, "Carlos Lester returned not long ago, but the foreign companies have already felt the impact of his capabilities and are making adjustments."

Upon hearing this, Sarah instantly became excited, her eyes shining brightly!

In other words, not only was Carlos handsome, but he was also very capable. He could be considered a genius in business, right?

Who wouldn't want to have a husband like this?

"Mommy, I want him!"

Send Gift

Comments

 Watch Ads to Get 8 Vouchers