

My Accidental Husband is a Billionaire !

566 Chapter 565

Scott nodded immediately upon hearing this. "Okay."

He reached into his pocket, intending to take out the photo, but before he could do that, a voice rang out. "What are you doing?"

Scott and Keira turned around and saw Vera walking toward them.

She looked guarded, staring at Keira and Scott.

Scott then said, "Miss Olsen and I need to discuss something."

Vera sneered. "What do you want to say? Why can't your fiancée hear it?"

Scott frowned.

Keira also pursed her lips tight.

She felt rather awkward. Vera and Scott were engaged, yet what she was about to do would break their engagement.

It made her feel as though she had become the big villain.

But then she thought about the tasks that the South family had assigned her and the things Vera had done... Any guilt Keira had immediately vanished.

Mercy to an enemy was cruelty to oneself.

She always remembered this saying.

She addressed the matter. "Miss South, this is our private matter."

"Private matter?" Vera walked directly over to Scott's side and took his arm. "He's my fiancé now. There are no private matters between you two. Miss Olsen, you are engaged too, please have some self-respect!"

Keira frowned. "But hasn't your engagement ceremony not yet taken place?"

Vera sneered. "But today, I'm the hostess. I had security ask you to leave just now. It seems you're not willing to obey, are you? If you have no shame, then don't blame me for being ruthless in my actions!"

Keira's expression darkened. "What are you going to do?"

Vera said, "Of course, to make you leave! I know Miss Olsen can defend yourself, but if you start a conflict with the Martin family's security, I will take advantage. I'm sure you wouldn't want that, right?"

Her attitude was aggressive, and the words she said made Scott's face turn dark. "Vera, that's enough. Our guests are to be treated with hospitality. How can you behave like this?"

Vera wasn't angry; she just looked calmly at him. "How can I behave like this? She and I are rivals since I chose to form an alliance with you through our engagement, and she didn't have a choice today as I've won the battle!"

She stepped forward. "Scott, after today, you'll be my fiancé, and no matter what standpoint you are from, you should stand with me. I hope you won't disappoint me!"

Having heard this, Scott frowned. "Vera, that's enough! No matter what Grandpa promised the South family, today is our engagement party. Miss Olsen is my guest, and you can't just send her away!"

Vera scoffed. "Are you sure I can't?"

Scott stood his ground. "I'm sure!"

Vera immediately raised her voice. "Scott, what do you mean? You're engaged to me, yet you still want to fool around with her?"

The other guests immediately looked over.

Scott was taken aback. "Why are you yelling?" Checkk new novel chapters at novelbin\(.\)comcom)

Vera then started speaking in a grievance-filled tone. "Keera, you already have a fiancé, and you know Scott has feelings for you. Can't you keep your distance from him?"

She said this with extreme grievance, making those unaware of the situation suspect Keira interfered in their relationship.

Indeed, people around started whispering and pointing fingers at Keira.

A few brothers from the Olsen family walked over. Among them was Peter with Susan.

Upon hearing these words, Susan immediately stepped forward. "Keera, today is a great day for Mr. Martin and Miss South, so please don't cause trouble here. Let me walk you out!"

Keira turned her gaze to Susan, her eyes piercing.

Susan was the lackey of Fox. Was she openly taking Vera's side now?

Keira let out a cold laugh, "I don't need you to worry about my affairs. Peter, you better control her, lest she, like last time, says something inappropriate!"

Peter showed a moment of embarrassment, and he immediately looked at Susan. "Susan, come here. There must be a reason for our Keera acting like this."

Susan then lowered her head in aggrivement. "Peter, I just feel that Keera has indeed gone too far. I also don't want the Olsen family's reputation to be tarnished... After all, Mr. Martin and Miss South will be engaged soon. If Keera doesn't want Mr. Martin to get engaged, it's too late to say anything now, right?"

Peter immediately frowned. "Shut your mouth!"

However, Susan bit her lip. "Peter, there are some things I've wanted to say for a long time. The Olsen family spoils Keera too much; everything at home is given to her. Now that she's behaving improperly outside, not knowing how to keep a distance from someone else's fiancé, she's certainly at fault.

"Mary is her best friend, and Uncle Olsen hasn't married. There's no hostess to teach her manners... As her sister-in-law, I have to be more concerned and educate her more, so that Keera doesn't take the wrong path. Moreover, Mr. Horton and Vera are both here. What's Keera doing?"

She looked toward Lewis. "Mr. Horton, your fiancée is flirting with another man right in front of you. Aren't you going to do something about it?"

Lewis's face turned livid, and he let out a cold laugh. "Miss Simpson, let me tell you something. You only see what you want to see. We're in a public setting, and I've only seen Keera and Mr. Martin exchange a few words."

Susan was taken aback.

Lewis was implying she was making things up, which was why she suggested that "Keera" was seducing Scott!

She retorted with a cold laugh. "Mr. Horton, you're so magnanimous, but Miss Vera doesn't share your generosity. Since Miss Vera minds it so much, Keera might as well leave. Don't make a scene here. Everyone is watching, and if this gets out, the Olsen family needs to look after its reputation."

Keira scoffed. "You keep mentioning the Olsen family. Who are you to the Olsen family?"

Susan snapped. "I am your sister-in-law!"

"Really? When did Peter get married? Why don't I know about it?"

Keira asked indifferently.

Susan choked up. "We are engaged and will be getting married in half a month!"

"Oh, so it's just an engagement, and you're so eager to meddle in my business already. Miss Simpson, the Simpson family teaches their children so well. Have they not taught you to keep your opinions to yourself?"

Susan said bluntly, "Keira, I'm saying all this for your own good. Since you're this ungrateful, then I won't say more! However, Miss South definitely won't let you off easily!"

After leaving these words behind, she stepped back and turned to look at Vera.

The crowd also turned their gaze to Vera, only to see her eyes filled with tears as she addressed the security by the door. "What are you all standing around for? Get this woman out of here!"

With these words, the faces of the Olsen family members all went pale!

567 Chapter 566

Ellis took a step forward and shielded Keira while staring at Vera. "Is this how the Martin family treats its guests? You sent us the invitation, and now that we've arrived, you're driving us away? Are you disregarding the Olsen family openly?"

As soon as Ellis said this, the other brothers immediately took a step forward, defending Keira.

James crossed his arms and said bluntly, "If you want to kick my little sister out, you'll have to get past me first!"

Vera's face turned cold. "Today is my engagement party with Scott, but the Olsen family is causing trouble. Have you decided you want to make things difficult with the Martin family?"

Scott interjected urgently, "Vera, that's enough! Why make such a big fuss over a small matter? They're all our guests, and I haven't said anything to Miss Olsen. That's enough!"

Vera sneered, staring at him. "Scott, it seems your grandfather still hasn't made things clear to you. Maybe you don't yet understand what responsibilities you'll have once you marry me?"

She snickered, then turned to someone by her side. "Go get Grandpa!"

Immediately, a servant hurried off.

Scott frowned. "It's a trivial matter; there's no need to involve the elders, is there?"

Vera sneered. "If you won't stand up for your fiancée, then I'll just have to ask Grandpa to make decisions for me!"

After saying this, she turned to Keira. "You all should just leave peacefully. Otherwise, once Grandpa comes out and we all fall out with each other, it won't look good!"

Ellis frowned.

Although the Olsen family was powerful in Clance, the Martin family was a formidable clan abroad, and it was indeed not good to offend them so blatantly.

During the commotion with the Gill family, the Olsen family had the upper hand. Even so, there were rumors in Clance lately about the Olsens being overly domineering.

This time, they were without a just cause...

As he pondered, Susan said. "Ellis, things have already gotten to this point. Why stay and get humiliated? Let's just leave!"

Ellis frowned as he looked at Keira.

Keira clenched her jaw and held her fists tight.

If Vera and Scott got engaged just like that, she feared she would indeed be unable to complete the third task, and then she wouldn't be able to save her mother...

Taking a deep breath, Keira said, "I just want to speak a few words with Scott. Won't Miss South allow that even when we're in front of everyone? Isn't that a bit too overbearing? Are you saying that Scott isn't allowed to speak to women in the future?"

Vera's eyes narrowed.

Rebecca then said, "Exactly, we're all watching. What could possibly happen between Miss Olsen and Mr. Martin? Miss South, do you have so little confidence in yourself?"

Erin also chimed in. "Yeah, can Keera steal my brother away with just a few words? Vera, don't be too overbearing in your actions! Besides, my brother is a person, not your accessory. Are you planning to keep my brother at home after getting married, not allowing him to see anyone? You can't control my brother's life!"

Vera scoffed. "The two of you are colluding with Keira. Don't think I'll fall for your provocation. Scott, I order you to keep your distance from Keira. Did you hear me?"

Scott said, "Vera, enough is enough! I'm entering this marriage with you as an equal partner; I'm not your subordinate! You don't have the right to order me around!"

Vera scoffed. "Then why don't you ask Grandpa, after we're married, who will call the shots at home?!"

Scott's face turned rigid.

Vera looked at the Olsens again. "All members of the Olsen family must get out! The Olsen family isn't welcome during my engagement party. Moreover, from now on, the Martin family will no longer welcome the Olsen family!"

Her voice was strong and authoritative, causing everyone around to frown at her domineering attitude.

Scott's face turned livid with her overbearing manner.

Erin immediately moved closer to Keira, holding her arm, and said, "Miss Olsen, what do you have to say to my brother? I'll pass the message for you! So, nobody needs to worry, thinking every conversation might lead to something scandalous. Where has the basic trust between people gone?"

Erin stuck her tongue out at Keira.

Seeing this, Keira turned her gaze to Scott once more. "Let me see the photo to see if there's anything I can do."

She was still holding out hope to find the last possible solution.

Erin craned her neck and said, "Brother, what photo? Hand it over to me, and I'll show it to Keera."

Scott nodded, opened his wallet, pulled out the photo inside, and handed it to Erin.

Vera took a step forward, but Erin stuck out her tongue again. "Vera, I won't say anything if you want to control my brother, but I am an independent individual, and one day I'll be married off. You can't control me!"

568 Chapter 567

Keira immediately reached out her hand.

That photograph didn't look very large. It must be a very old item, and it was a black-and-white one.

But before her hand could touch the photo, a hand suddenly reached over and snatched the photo away.

Keira turned her head sharply and saw Vera holding the photo in her hand. She glanced at it and sneered. "She's not allowed to see it!"

Scott's face darkened even more. "Vera, don't go too far!!"

Erin also got angry and rested her hands on her hips. "Vera, this is the photo my brother gave me. I'm going to show it to Keera. What does it have to do with you? Give the photo back to me!!"

Vera glanced at the photo and then looked at Keira. "I said no, and that means no!"

"You...!"

Just as Scott was about to rush over to snatch it from Vera's hands, old Mr. Martin strode over. "What's going on?!"

His appearance immediately quieted everyone.

Vera immediately said, "Sir, your precious grandson here wants to break our engagement and is getting all cozy with Keira here. Are you just going to let it happen?"

Old Mr. Martin frowned upon hearing this, turning to look at Scott and Keira.

Scott immediately explained, "Grandpa, there's nothing going on between Miss Olsen and me. We were just talking, and Vera didn't even allow it. She's being way too domineering!"

He expected his grandfather would support him, but he was taken aback when old Mr. Martin merely frowned and grumbled, "You're about to be engaged. How can you still be involved with her? That's not proper at all!"

Scott's face stiffened.

Vera laughed. "Sir, since Scott and I are getting engaged, shouldn't you also take a stance regarding the Olsen family?"

Old Mr. Martin's brows knitted together.

Ellis immediately stepped forward. "Sir, that's not necessary, is it? Our two families have no feud. Why raise the issue of the younger generation to the level of a family conflict?"

Old Mr. Martin sighed softly after hearing this.

Vera sneered. "Grandpa, are you unable to make a choice? Or do you want to have a foot in each camp? If that's the case, then I might have to report this back to my family..."

At her words, old Mr. Martin's face slightly changed.

After a long moment, he sighed heavily and addressed the members of the Olsen family. "The Martin family won't welcome you from now on. The engagement ceremony hasn't started yet, so you should leave!"

All those present were stunned.

Erin was particularly puzzled as she exclaimed, "Grandfather, have you gone mad? For the sake of one woman, you want to make an enemy of the entire Olsen family? I'm going to marry Charles!"

Old Mr. Martin simply gave her a look. "The Martin and Olsen families will never be united in marriage, so get that out of your head!"

Erin panicked. "Grandfather! That's too much! You might control my brother, but you can't control me! I'm telling you, I'm going to marry Charles. I won't marry anyone else but him!"

Old Mr. Martin's eyes widened as he rebuked, "Then leave the Martin family and never be a part of it again!"

Erin apparently didn't expect her grandfather to utter these words, and she looked at him with heartbroken despair. "Grandfather?"

Old Mr. Martin sighed. "You have no part to play in the event today. Go upstairs and stop making a scene here. Keep your distance from that Olsen boy from now on!"

Erin's eyes turned red. "I won't!"

Pointing at Vera, she shouted angrily, "What drug did this woman give you to make you so partial to her? Grandfather, I think you've gone senile!"

"Slap!"

Suddenly, a hand flashed before her, and Vera smacked Erin's face, then shouted sternly, "How dare you speak like that? I'm teaching you a lesson on behalf of Grandpa!"

Erin was stunned by the slap, and when she regained her senses, she lunged forward. "You dare hit me?"

It looked as if she was about to hit back, but in the next moment, old Mr. Martin grabbed her wrist. "Enough! I said the Martin family would choose between Keira and Vera. It was Keira who gave up your brother! How long will you keep creating trouble here?!"

Erin looked at old Mr. Martin in disbelief, covering her face. "She hit me! Grandpa, she hit me, and you're not going to do anything about it? You have never laid a hand on me in all my life!"

Old Mr. Martin sighed. "Can't you tell whose fault it is? After Vera and your brother get engaged, she'll be your sister-in-law, and the Martin family will be handed over to her to manage!"

Erin clenched her fists.

Charles rushed to her side. "Erin!"

Old Mr. Martin bellowed. "Break up with that brat immediately!"

Erin's eyes were red, and tears streamed down her face as she whimpered, "I won't!"

"If you don't break up, then never come back to the Martin family!"

Old Mr. Martin roared.

Instantly, Erin shouted. "I won't come back then! Do you think I want to come back to such a home?"

After she said that, she threw herself into Charles's arms, crying pitifully.

Old Mr. Martin looked at her, let out a deep sigh, and no longer paid her any attention but turned to Keira. "Miss Olsen, I've made myself clear. I ask you to take your brothers and leave immediately. From now on, you won't come through the doors of the Martin family again."

After old Mr. Martin said this, he waved his hand, and the security guards outside immediately rushed in, surrounding the Olsen family members.

Vera sneered. "Keera, you better hurry up and take these people away! I know the Olsen family can fight, but even if you win, what's the point? Today's engagement party will go on no matter what!"

She was arrogant and haughty.

Keira looked at her and knew that she was going to lose.

She lowered her gaze, slowly saying, "Fine, we'll leave."

As soon as she said that, everyone lowered their guard.

The Olsen family members immediately turned to leave.

Keira walked up to Erin, patting her shoulder as if to comfort her.

Vera sneered. "Keera, what do you have to compete with me?"

She turned and took Scott's arm as if declaring her territory.

But the next moment, everything blurred.

Keira appeared before her, reaching out and grabbing the photo in Vera's hand!

Keira knew that what she was doing was a bit too much.

But her intuition told her that this photo was extremely important.

She felt like as long as she had this photo, she might find a clue to solve the puzzle!
She could get out of the current predicament!

Her movements were lightning-fast, and she soon had the photo in her grasp.
