

Chapter 2088 Alexandra's Conspiracy

Brandon maintained a neutral expression as he listened to Sonia's speech, yet beneath his placid exterior, he was intently observing her. He sought the truth in her subtle facial cues, assuring himself repeatedly that she was being honest. This acknowledgment allowed him to feel a touch of relief.

"Do you know Alexandra's plan for dealing with Janet?" Brandon asked, his tone cautious as he prepared to depart.

Upon hearing his question, Sonia shifted her gaze from Mona to Brandon.

She shook her head, a gesture of uncertainty, and shared, "I'm not entirely sure of the specifics, but Alexandra tasked me with befriending Janet."

"And after that? Does he expect you to harm her?" Though Brandon posed the question, he doubted the severity of Alexandra's intentions.

Had Alexandra truly wanted Sonia to harm Janet, there would have been ample opportunities thus far.

Contemplating this, Brandon listened as Sonia explained, "Alexandra wants me to win her trust first, and then... cause Janet to miscarry."

The weight of her assignment was evident in Sonia's eyes, which brimmed with guilt as she looked at Brandon.

His face drained of color, and a fierce anger took root in his chest, his fists tightening with a crackling noise.

Brandon's thoughts seethed with outrage over Alexandra's manipulations. It dawned on him that the stern lesson he had delivered in the past hadn't been enough. Alexandra's audacity to target Janet with such vicious intent filled him with a fierce resolve.

As revenge simmered in Brandon's mind, Sonia, perceiving his thoughts, called out to him, "Is there something else you'd like to discuss?"

His voice cold with fury, Brandon responded, "I'd caution you to remain vigilant around Alexandra."

Despite his stern tone, Sonia responded with a warning, tinged with kindness, "Alexandra has always been merciless and distrustful. If he intends to harm Janet, he'll undoubtedly devise a plan. And..."

She hesitated, the remainder of her warning lingering unsaid.

"And what?" Brandon frowned and couldn't help but wonder what other tricks Alexandra was planning.

Sonia lowered her gaze to Mona before looking back up and continuing, "I suspect I'm not the only one Alexandra has positioned close to Janet."

Brandon's frown deepened at her words, and the veins on his clenched fists stood out starkly.

In his mind, if Alexandra were in front of him right then, Brandon would ensure the man regretted his actions, unable to even find his way back home.

Caught up in these thoughts, Brandon suddenly caught Sonia's eye, her look fraught with complexity.

"What else do you know? Tell me everything. What if something happens to Janet?" His voice was icy, driven by the fear of overlooking any detail that could endanger Janet.

Sonia hesitated, unsure if she should share her suspicions.

After a moment, she shook her head and replied, "I won't let anything happen to Janet. I just think Lexi is too desperate to prove herself and might endanger Janet to advance her own agenda. Keep a close eye on her."

"I understand," Brandon acknowledged, his voice easing slightly.

Their conversation continued, and they brainstormed protective strategies for Janet, like limiting her outings, restricting access to unfamiliar individuals, and considering hiring a team of trusted gynecological specialists to serve as her private doctors under Brandon's direction.

As the evening shadows lengthened, Brandon glanced at the setting sun and realized the hour was late. He said his goodbyes to Sonia and turned to leave, his mind still racing with plans to safeguard Janet.
