

Chapter 2135 Janet Learnt About Sonia's Past

Brandon and Janet held hands. "Don't worry, I have prepared for everything in advance," he said.

"Why not just forget it?" Janet suggested.

She was now in the final stages of pregnancy and wanted to ensure not only the baby's safety but also Brandon's.

Alexandra's means were ruthless. What if something went wrong in the confrontation between him and Brandon?

Janet was already drenched in cold sweat at the mere thought, feeling terrified.

Yet, Brandon remained firm about it.

"Alexandra is like a ticking time bomb—far too dangerous. Both you and Sonia were abducted when young. If we don't eliminate him entirely, I fear our child will face the same danger after birth."

"But I'm scared you might get hurt." Janet cuddled up in his arms, gripping him tightly with both hands.

Brandon wrapped his arm around Janet's waist, rested his chin on her shoulder, and reassured her, "I'll be safe. Alexandra will be defeated."

After a while, Janet finally gave a hesitant nod in agreement with Brandon's plan, though she still felt a little scared.

Looking up at Brandon, she said, "I never imagined that the disappearance of me and Mona's child was caused by someone."

"At first, I hadn't considered it either, until..." A mix of emotions flickered in Brandon's eyes. "When I looked into Sonia's childhood abduction, I discovered the bodyguard who took her was substituted by someone from the Barton family. That's when I knew something wasn't right."

"Why did the Barton family abduct her?" Janet asked, curious about the Barton family's motives.

"The Barton family were desperate to train assassins. Once they took Sonia, they took her to brutal training, forcing her to work for the Barton family."

Brandon told Janet Sonia's past.

Hearing this, Janet was taken aback.

It was no surprise that Sonia, despite being a bodyguard, had always seemed to possess greater strength and resilience than her peers.

Initially, Janet had attributed this to Sonia's natural talent, but she now realized it was due to the harsh training and suffering Sonia endured from childhood.

This revelation made Janet think of her own unborn child.

The thought of her child potentially being abducted and controlled by the Barton family filled her with a fierce maternal instinct and concern. She placed her hands protectively over her belly, determined more than ever to protect her baby.

In any case, she would never allow the Barton family to take her baby.

At that moment, it seemed as if the baby could sense Janet's emotions and became restless. It kicked inside her several times.

The kicks were strong enough to cause Janet discomfort, prompting her to frown and cry out.

"What's wrong?" Brandon asked with concern.

"It's nothing." Janet wiped the sweat from her brow. "The baby might be feeling scared too, thus the kicking."

Brandon then comforted Janet and placed his hands on her belly, trying to calm their child.

"Baby, don't worry. I will protect you and your mother," Brandon whispered affectionately to the baby. "Don't cause trouble or upset your mom. If you make her uncomfortable, I'll spank you when you're born!"

Janet chuckled at Brandon's serious expression. She gently tapped his hand and said, "The baby isn't even born yet. How can they understand what you're saying?"

Brandon responded earnestly, "Our baby will understand. See? They're already settling down and not causing any more trouble."
