

Chapter 71 - Wild Love With My Triplet Mates

Sabrina's POV

It has been a full week since Alex woke up. Now Alex and his wolf are fully recovered. While we were waiting for Alex's wolf, Spike, to recover... I had Alex study and memorize a map of the territory around Raven Moon. I was finishing up the preparations for my spell in the garden when I felt two strong arms wrap around me from behind. "Are you ready for this babe? You seem kind of tired." Brandon voiced his concern.

I lean my head back into his chest and smile. "I will be fine. I will be even better once we find Jess and Shainna and we have them both home safe and sound with their mates." Brandon grunted at that. The triplets and Rico all have been really on edge without their mates the last two weeks. Though as the alphas and the beta of the they have done their best to keep themselves together, with minor issues that have set them off.

"I am ready to find them and bring them home. I can't imagine how they are fairing with those monsters." I said. Just thinking about how Shianna and Jess are being treated by them makes me feel sick to my stomach. Soon Alex, Roy, and the triplets came into the garden. "So is everything ready, Sabrina?" Leo asked. I nodded and turned to Alex. "Alex, did you memorize the map I gave you?" I asked.

For some reason Alex stiffens at my question and hides behind Roy. Moving as far away from Leo, who was smirking, as possible. "Y-y-yeah I got it all memorized. I promise!" he stammered out. I tilt my head to the side. "Did something happen?" I asked. Zero rolled his eyes and lightly shook his head. "The only thing that happened was that Alex got a private lesson from the teacher from hell." He said.

"Teacher from hell is putting it lightly bro... I think what Leo did to Alex was over the top. Hahaha" Hero laughed. Leo just looked proud. "Alex what did he do to you?" Roy asked. "He made me draw that map over and over and everytime the smallest thing was off he would smack me for it and lecture me. I drew that damn map over 100 times this past week." Alex said quickly in one breath and then tucked back behind his best friend.

Brandon and I laughed. Yeah I could see why he is so scared of Leo now, but Leo is only like this because he wants his mate. "Ok we then let us put that to good use now and find Jess." I said. Everyone turned serious. Roy moved away from my pentagram I drew in the garden. I direct the others where they need to be. "Leo, I need you to stand here and Zero there." I put them on the right side and then I point to the left side. "Hero over there and Brandon, I need you here."

The triplets and Brandon went to the spots I told them to go. "Ok. Now don't move until the spell is done." I instructed. They all nod. "Alex, you need to sit here." Alex sat down in the center and I sat across from him. I placed the map between us. "Alright Alex. We are going to take this step by step. So for now focus on your wolf. Relax yourself and allow your mind to fall into your subconscious state." He nodded and closed his eyes. I took a deep breath and closed my eyes and recited the dream spell.

My mind was taken to the dream realm. Witches don't often come here because this is the realm where demons such as incubus and succubus come to feed on the nightmares or sexual desires of others. I walk up to a navy blue door that has 'Alex' written on it with his wolf's name underneath his. I knocked on the door three times. "Spike, I need you to open the door." I call out calmly. I hear three soft scratches come from the other side. The door turns to a light grey color and the names flipped. Spike's name was now above Alex's. The door opened and allowed me to walk into Spike's world in the back of Alex's mind.

Alex's POV

I closed my eyes just as Sabrina instructed me to. I heard her say her spell and felt myself fall into a comfortable state. Like I was sleeping on air, but I felt my mind falling deeper and deeper into the back of my mind. I opened my eyes and saw the most beautiful night sky I had ever seen. I was laying on my back, I sat up and looked around. I was in the middle of a forest, by a lake, under a stunning full moon.

"Welcome to my world, Alex." I heard a deep voice behind me. I spun around and saw Spike. "Your world?" I asked him. He nods his huge wolf head. "Yes. All wolves create their own sanctuary within our human's mind. It is usually made up of memories from our human's life. This is where I stay when you are in control of our body." he explains. Before I could ask anymore questions, I heard Sabrina calling out to Spike. "Spike, I need you to open the door." She said. Her voice echoed through the trees as if she was everywhere at once.

Spike walked over to the biggest pine tree in the center of the treeline. He scratched the bark gently three times, and out of nowhere a light grey door formed in the tree and opened. I was blinded by the light for a few seconds, then Sabrina's figure came into view. As soon as she was inside, the door closed and merged back into the tree trunk. "I have so many questions right now." I mumble out. Sabrina smiled and Spike grunted, like he was trying to laugh at me.

"I would be more surprised if you didn't. Not many humans come to their wolf's world and leave." Sabrina said. I felt my heart still. "Will I be able to get back out?" I asked. Spike nodded. "Humans usually come here if they have been gravely injured and are in a very deep coma, the kind that few ever wake up from. Those that do wake up never remember this place." "This place is in the deepest part of your mind. Since I used magic to get you here, with your wolf's permission, then I can pull you back out with my magic." Sabrina said.

I breathe a sigh of relief. I would gladly give my life to save my sister, especially after all the crap I put her through, but it was only natural to fear never seeing my family again. "Alright now down to business. It would not be wise to stay here longer than necessary." Sabrina said. "Why?"

I couldn't stop myself from asking. "If we remain here for too long, even with Spike's permission, your human side will be absorbed into your wolf side and be lost. In the end it would turn you and Spike into nothing more than a feral beast." I swallowed hard. I was happy she didn't sugar code it even if it was something she knew I wasn't going to like.

"Ok, let's get this started." I said. Sabrina nodded and then she turned to Spike. "Spike I am going to cast a spell on you to widen your bond with Midnight. Even though she was teleported away, you will still smell her scent through your bond." "Ok and how would this spell help... would it widen my sense of smell or something like that?" He asked. "It will practically make scents visible to your eyes. So even if you can't smell her, you can see her scent trail. All we need to do is follow her trail and as we walk the way will be marked on the map I had Alex memorize."

"How would that map actually help here? This place looks nothing like that map." I asked. Sabrina turned to look at me and said. "Even if we are in Spike's world he made himself. This is still your mind, Alex. You can change this place to take the form of the map's landscape. Just close your eyes and focus on the map's layout." I nod and close my eyes. I could hear things shift around for a while as I thought of every detail on that map. When I didn't hear anything more I opened my eyes and saw that everything did change.

We were now standing in front of the Raven Moon pack house and it was no longer night time. I looked towards Sabrina and Spike and Sabrina smiled at me. "Good work Alex. Now it is your turn Spike." She said as she placed her hands on Spike's massive head and casted another spell. When he re-opened his eyes they were glowing a bright yellow.

Tracking my Twin

Chapter 72 - Wild Love With My Triplet Mates

Spike's POV

It feels weird having Sabrina and Alex in my space, but not as much as I thought it would be. As Sabrina casted her spell on me, I thought of Midnight in my head. I tried to picture her as best I could, hoping it would help us track her better. I pictured her raven black fur with her white moon around her eye. Her different colored eyes that were always filled with kindness, forgiveness, determination, and a little bit of mischief. I could feel a pull deep in my chest. It was coming from my bond with Midnight as my twin. I opened my eyes again and just like Sabrina said, I could see the scents of those around me.

Alex and I had a soft yellow hue swirling around him, and Sabrina had a soft purple hue around her. I looked around the area and saw a faint turquoise hue swirling into the tree line. The pull in my chest made me follow that scent trail. Even if I could smell her, I knew it was Midnight and Jess. It was like I was in a trance. I followed the trail without even looking to see if Alex and Sabrina were following me. Though the footsteps I could hear behind me, told me that they were following.

It felt like forever that we were just walking in silence, though the forest around us. As we started getting closer and closer to some mountain that looked completely black, I started to catch a faint familiar scent in the air. 'Midnight!' I thought to myself. It was her scent, but something was different about it. I couldn't make out what it was. As I sniffed the air some more, I continued to follow the trail towards the mountain.

The trail led us to the base of the mountain. Her scent was getting stronger. "Brother." I felt her call me. I dashed around the base of the mountain. I came across small holes that were dug into the bottom of the mountains. Midnight's scent was coming from one of them. I dashed over and saw it was some kind of cell. I saw Jessabelle laying down sleeping. I don't know if it was Sabrina's spell or our bond, but I could see Midnight in some kind of spirit form. She was curled up in a ball around Jess's stomach.

I could feel her fear, but not for herself. Midnight was fearing for something else entirely. I sniffed the air again and my eyes widened in shock. I howled for Sabrina and Alex. "Sabrina! Over here!" I called out as they ran towards me. Sabrina nodded and cast another spell. A bright light fills my vision and then when I can see clearly again... I am back at my lake in the world I created for myself. Alex and Sabrina are nowhere to be seen. 'Alex?' I called to him through our mindlink. 'Hey dude. The spell was a huge success. Now we can make plans on how to get Jess and Shianna back.' He answered excitedly back.

'Alex, we need to hurry and bring our sister home.' I told him. 'Spike what is wrong?' his voice coming back through laced with worry and fear. 'In a different situation, it would be wonderful, but right now we need to get her as soon as possible.' 'Spike quit stalling and tell me right now!!' he demanded. I growled. It honestly isn't my news to share, but I guess Midnight can just kick my butt later. It was no longer her life that we needed to save. 'Alex, Jess is with child.'

What Next

Chapter 73 - Wild Love With My Triplet Mates

Third Person POV

After Sabrina and Alex closed their eyes to track Jess. Brandon and the triplets stayed still and watched the map. Roy waited outside the pentagram for them to finish. After a few minutes the map between Sabrina and Alex started to glow. A black dot appeared on the spot where the Raven Moon pack house was. "Looks like they started." Brandon said.

The five of them watched the map as a trail began to form. "Ummm, am I the only one seeing where this trail is taking us?" Zero asked. "No, we see it too." Leo said, him frowning as the trail led closer and closer to a place none of them thought to look. Roy tilted his head in confusion. "Is there something wrong with that place?" he asked out to any of the four men standing there.

Leo turned to look at Roy, but still remained in his spot. "That is known as the forbidden black mountain. When our father was a boy, he said some scouts went there and never came back. When our grandfather checked it out... There was a whole mist surrounding the area. The mist was a mixture of wolfsbane and silver dust." he said. His brothers and Brandon nodded. "Yeah so grandfather made it forbidden to go there." Hero said.

The map shined brighter as an 'X' marked itself at the base of the mountain. Then Alex and Sabrina opened their eyes. "Great news we found her." Sabrina said with a tired smile. Alex seemed pleased too, but then his eyes glazed over. Spike was speaking to him. The triplets and Brandon were free to move. Roy came back in to speak normally. "So now we know where she is. What is the plan now, alphas?" Brandon asked.

"The mist around the mountain will be the biggest problem." Zero said. Sabrina tilted her head. "What mist?" she asked. Leo told her about the mist that he had told Roy about, but Sabrina shook her head. "When we were tracking Jess, there was no mist around the mountain. It was all clear, so the mist isn't natural to the land." She said looking at each of the triplets. "If it is not natural, then how did it get there?" Hero asked.

Sabrina crossed her arms. "It would not surprise me if Tasha cast the mist as to form some sort of barrier to keep people away from the mountain. I can dispel it, but once I do she will know we are there so we need a plan of attack." She said. Before anyone could say anything else in the matter, Alex dropped to his knees. Looking as if someone had just hit him in the gut.

"Alex, What happened?" Roy came to his best friend's side quickly. "Spike. He just told me something." He muttered out. Alex was talking so low that if they were not close or werewolves, then no one would have heard him. "What did he say?" Brandon asked, as Roy patted his back. Alex looked up at the triplets and spoke. "Spike said that Jess is with child." Everyone became so quiet that you could hear a pin drop.

Hero sank to his own knees. Zero's eyes were flashing between black and his normal eyes. Growling to himself. His wolf wanted out. Leo clenched his hands into tight fists. So tight that his nails punctured into his palms a bit. He took a deep breath. "Hero! Go get Sophie and the twins. Have them meet us in the conference room in 10 minutes." He ordered in his alpha tone. Compelling his youngest brother to follow his command. Snapping out of his daze with Leo's alpha command, Hero stood up and dashed off to find their betas and their gamma.

Leo then turned to Zero, who was still fighting with his wolf for control. "Zero, you are going to need to calm down." he said, but his younger brother's wolf just growled at him. In a flash, Leo grabbed his younger brother by the throat and slammed him into a nearby wall. "I said to CALM DOWN!!" He roared in his brother's face. This allowed Zero to rain in his wolf. Taking a few deep breaths to calm down he met his brother's gaze.

“I understand how Lucifer feels, but if we want to make sure we get our mate and our child home safe and sound, then we need to think of our plan carefully.” Leo said in a stern voice, but not his alpha voice. Zero nodded and Leo released his hold. Even without a mindlink the triplet’s were thinking the same thing. After they made sure their mate was safe. They would tear William to shreds.

They made their way to the conference room where Hero, Sophie, and the twins were already waiting. Raphael and Ryan seemed to have tagged along too. They were sitting in the far corner of the room. After hours of strategizing and thinking things over. They came up with a plan to attack tomorrow at noon. This gave Raphael some time to send for some of his warriors to come to Raven Moon from Thunder Mountain.

They knew for sure William and Tasha were there, but otherwise in the dark about how many rouges they had on their side. The rest of the day was spent getting weapons ready and some light last minute training.

Meanwhile...

Two wolves were meeting up in secret under the cover of the night. “How is the plan looking so far?” One asked. “So far so good. No one thinks any differently.” The second one answered. Both kept their voices barely above a whisper. The walls have ears as they say. “Good, so now we just wait.” The first one said as they leaned back onto the wall behind them. The second one nodded and faded into the darkness.

Twins Betas

Chapter 74 - Wild Love With My Triplet Mates

Rico’s POV

I rise up before the sun. I groan. I haven’t had a decent sleep in the last few weeks since Shianna and Jess were taken from us. I get up, shower and dress. I head to the dining room. I feel hungry, but not craving anything special. I first grab one of the many coffee pots in the kitchen and pour me a hot cup. I usually put in some sugar, but since I haven’t been sleeping well I have been taking it black.

“Morning bro.” I hear someone call me as I take my first hot sip of caffeine. I turned and saw a disheveled Sasha trunking into the kitchen. “Wow the world must be ending if you got up early.” I teased her. Sasha is the kind of person that would stay up for about three days straight rather than get up early to get something done. She glared at me. “Shut the hell up. It was Nathan’s fault. The slippery bastard.” She mumbled the last part.

I chuckled and handed her another mug with some black coffee. Sasha is a bit of a coffee addict sometimes. Even though the coffee is hot, she downs the first cup in a few gulps and makes another one with only 2 sugars. “We need to find some stronger coffee. Even without my sugars it is still too mild for me.” She said. I roll my eyes. “Why not just make your own special pot where you can double the amount everyone else uses.” I suggest. Only Sasha and Zero like extra strong coffee. I can’t see anyone else drinking it if they make it.

As we talk about coffee... The triplets, Alpha Roy, and Alpha Raphael walk into the kitchen as well. Each makes themselves a cup of coffee to their own taste. It was slightly calm for us, but I guess this was the calming before the storm that was coming our way in a few hours. I took a deep breath as I finished my coffee. I then excused myself from the alpha’s presence and made my way back to my room.

I changed out of my normal clothes and into my fighting wear. They looked like regular pants and shirts, but the material was especially strong and it works like armor. It is strong and lit, but like other clothes it will shred if I shift with it on. This was better for fighting in human form, but I want to be prepared for anything. I feel like it was my fault my luna was taken. I was supposed to protect her. Both as the beta of the pack and as her protector the Moon Goddess herself created for her.

I hear a knock on my door. I don’t answer. The scent already tells me who it is. The door then burst open with great force. “Was that really necessary?” I asked, turning my head and raising an eyebrow at my now broken door. “Hey I did knock first. You wanted to be the jerk and not answer me.” Sasha said with a bright smile. I scowl at her and look away.

Sasha came up from behind me and jumped on my back. I stumbled a bit, as she caught me off guard. “What are you, a kid?” I asked. She clinged around me tighter. “I will always be your kid sister, even if you are only a few minutes older than me. But right now I am your twin and co-beta. I feel what you feel and know what you are thinking.” I clench my fist and scowl, even though I know she can’t see my face. “

We will get them both back. But know that it was not only your fault our luna was captured... It was mine as well. We both were her protectors and we both are her betas.” her arms wrapped tighter around my shoulders. “Remember what mom and dad always told us?” She asked, I nod. “They said that we were born together and we would live life together. The weight of our title and duties are not for just one of us to bare alone.” I said, answering her question.

“That’s right, so we bare our success and our failures together. You forget that again and next time I will call mom and dad.” she said in a smart ass tone. I laugh and then fling her off my back and she lands on the bed. “Was that really necessary?” she asked, glaring at me. “I gave you plenty of chances to get off my back, but like a little leetch you stayed put.” I smiled at her. Then we both burst out laughing. Then we both get a mindlink.

Alpha Leo - Time to go. Move out!

His orders rang clear through the link. I looked at Sasha and she nodded at me. We dashed out of my room at wolf speed and to the front. We would be taking the off road vehicles to cut some travel time, but once we get to a mile before the mist we would continue on foot. Brandon and Sabrina were on one of the ATVs and I grabbed a dirtbike and we all rode off to the forbidden black mountain.

May the Best Wolf Win

Chapter 75 - Wild Love With My Triplet Mates

Tasha's POV

“Ah, perfect. It is finally finished.” I smirk to myself as I inspect my handiwork. I crafted a nice short sword out of pure silver, but used my magic to infuse the blade with belladonna poison. The belladonna gave the sword a purple tint to the silver, but makes this sword not only deadly to those mongrels, but to my dear big sister. Although my spells will also be weakened if I was to carry it, and I need my magic. Though I have the perfect person to get close enough to big sister.

“Puppy, here girl.” I say as I clap my hands. In moments the mutt is before me on her knees. Her eyes are still dead of emotions and a bright red. “Yes mistress?” her melitone voice asked. I patted her head as if she was a real dog. “I have a special job for you. I want you to carry this short sword on your person at all times.” I order as I place the short sword into a special sheath so the silver doesn't damage my puppet.

“You are to run this blade through anyone that opposes your master. Understood?” I command. “Yes ma'am.” she answered without hesitation, as she took the sword and tied it to her belt. “Now go finish doing whatever you were doing before.” I ordered her. She bowed again and left just as fast as she came. Things have been much easier now that she was nothing more than a loyal puppet. Doing anything I tell her.

I walk into my store room where I keep my special elixirs of all kinds. I looked at my shelves and scoffed. Some of my elixirs have been moved around. I must have been tired as I spent the last week working on the sword. I wave my hand and organize the room properly. I grab one of my energy boost elixirs and gulp it down in one go. I feel my powers return as if I had a few days rest.

I smile to myself. Wishing to see the look on my sister's face should she ever come in contact with the mutt. Too see her shock and in pain knowing that the one she was trying to save is sending her to her death. My smile vanishes as I feel my mist barrier being breached. ‘So bif sister has decided to come to me then huh?’ I think to myself. I snap my fingers and teleport in front of my mate. “My love. It seems that those mongrels have decided to come to us. They just breached through my mist barrier.” I told him. He turns and his face is a sadistic smile. “Well now, this should be fun. It has been a while since we had company.”

He turned to the entrance, and I covered my ears. “ALL YOU WORTHLESS MUTTS GET READY FOR BATTLE!!” he roared so loudly that the whole room shook. “Change that bitch outside. I wouldn't want her to miss the show of her pack thinking they could take me on." he ordered me. "My pleasure, my love" I replied. I walked down to the cells and saw the mutts finishing up feeding the little luna her meal.

She glares and growls at me. I smirked at her appearance. She was still all dirty and her arm still in a cast. "Oh little luna, how does it feel to be nothing more than a weak puppy?" I asked. She growls. "You should never underestimate the will power I have or that my mates have." she says, still trying to be a tough little luna. "Still trying to be so tough. Even the strongest alpha in the world would be nothing more than a little puppy in these conditions." I told her, then turned to the mutt that had been waiting on her knees for me to give her an order.

"Chain this little luna outside... We don't want her to miss the show." I ordered her. "Yes ma'am." she replied and, with some thick leather gloves, placed a silver collar around the little lunas neck and led her outside. I teleported to my store room and grabbed a few bottles of healing elixirs, wolfsbane and silver dust bombs, and a few belladonna gas bombs. While my big sister is good at close combat, I prefer the safe distance of long range fighting with my magic. So let the best pack win, sister dear.

Into the Magic Garden

Chapter 76 - Wild Love With My Triplet Mates

Rico's POV

After Sabrina cleared the mist away, we marched forward and stepped into what looked to be an orchard. "Something feels weird about this place." Sash said, as she looked around the orchard. There were apples, pears, peaches, and other kinds. There were even all kinds of berry bushes growing all over the place. "Yeah, there is fruit here blooming even though it is out of season." Sophie said.

Sabrina walked up to a nearby tree and placed her hand on it. She closed her eyes as if to concentrate on what she was looking for. "Tasha used her magic to make these trees and bushes bare fruit. I can feel her magic energy running through the tree." Sabrina said. "I guess the fruits and whatever they hunt in the woods was their main source of food." I said looking around. Sabrina nods "Yes and the weird feeling you are getting from the area is coming from Tasha's energy flowing through the ground. It just shows that she has claimed this area as hers." She says, starting to walk again.

'Her area?' I thought to myself. "Is that dangerous for us?" I asked her. Sabrina thought for a moment, then balanced her hands as if she was a scale. "Yes and no. Since we are so far away from Tasha herself, then no it is not really dangerous. She can just slightly sense us entering." "So is that why you had us spread out a bit?" Sasha interrupted and Sabrina nodded. "Yes, she can sense people entering her area of magic, but with us spread out she can't see where the triplets are."

‘That is very true. If Tasha was to target anyone it would be the triplets in order to get to Jess in any way.’ Sebastian said in my head. I nodded to him in my mind. “Though the closer we get to Tasha herself, the stronger her magical energy will run inside the earth. Tasha is a strong long distance fighter and most of her spells deal with the earth.” Sabrina said, pulling me from my thoughts. “So the closer we get to Tasha the more dangerous her magic will be inside the earth itself... right?” Raphael asked.

“Yes, but I can still cancel her magic out if it runs in my magical radius.” Sabrina answered. “What’s a magical radius?” Sophie asked. Sabrina thought for a moment. She looked as if she was trying to figure out how to explain it. “Sorry, I thought it was common knowledge around the world.” Sabrina said, while rubbing the back of her neck. “A magical radius is how far any witch or warlock can instantly claim an area around them and fill it with their magic energy. Their magic will become dominant in that area. Even though Tasha doesn’t see me as her elder sister, her magic does. So casting my magical radius around her will cancel out any of her magic around me.”

“So that is how you were able to get rid of those vines that she wrapped around all of us at the Luna Ceremony?” Zero asked. It startled Sabrina a bit, because the triplets had been so focused on trying to sense their mate they haven’t said anything since we entered the orchard. “Yes. Because we are blood and I am her elder sibling, her power will submit to mine inside my magical radius.” Sabrina stopped and turned to all of us.

“Though outside my magical radius will be her playing field. She also has the advantage of being here since she destroyed the Nightmare Pack, so the earth around the mountain has had years to absorb her magic.” “So if any of us go outside your magical radius, then we are on our own with Tasha’s magic?” I asked. Sabrina nods. Sasha all of a sudden stopped and grabbed her head. Sophie and I rush to her side. “You alright, sis?” Sophie asked.

Sasha’s eyes were closed. She lightly shook her head and opened her eyes. “What is wrong, Sasha?” I asked. “Oh it was nothing, I think the magic around here was throwing off my senses. I noticed that Sasha had her usual carefree smile on her face, but a determined fire in her eyes. Someone was coming their way. Before I could ask again, a sudden whirlwind picked up around us. Flowers swirled up around us, making it hard to see anything. Then I heard Sabrina gasp in pain, as the flower twister died down. I spun around and felt my heart drop.

Shianna held Sabrina with her arms tightly pinned behind her back. Shianna was also holding a light purple short sword to Sabrina’s neck. Shianna’s eyes were void of emotions and were a bright red. Not the silver and yellow I loved. “Shianna?” I called out. She looked at all of us with a deadpan stare. “Welcome, my mistress is waiting for you.” Was all she said, in a voice also void of any emotion or life. Sebastian whimpered. ‘I can’t feel Silver.’ he said.

“Since you were taking so long, my mistress decided I should bring you the rest of the way. She wants to enjoy the show.” Shianna said. The lifeless way she talks and looks at us is tearing my heart to pieces. “Shianna... What in Moon Goddess’s name did they do to you?” I asked, feeling my voice crack a bit as I held back the tears. She looked back at me and plastered an emotionless smile on her face. It looked as if someone had just painted it on her.

“I am only serving my mistress, as I am supposed to do.” she said and stomped her foot to the ground three times. The twister of flowers surrounded us once again, feeling a bit stronger this time. I closed my eyes. After a few seconds the wind died down again. I lowered my arms and opened my eyes. We were right in front of the black mountain. It had caves carved into the side of it. ‘I guess that is what they sleep in instead of rooms.’ I thought.

I looked around me and noticed that only Sasha, Alex, Alpha Roy, Alpha Raphael, Sabrina, Shianna, the triplets, and myself were the only ones here. “They separated us from the others.” Alex growled. All of a sudden vines sprang up from the ground and wrapped around all of us, except for Sabrina who was still in Shianna’s grasp.

Then someone started to clap. We all looked up and saw Tasha standing on a very high balcony with a tall man. He looked like the dirty scared version of the William we saw in the mind share with Sabrina. They looked down at us smugly. “Hello sister dear. So nice of you to drop by, but don’t you know it is a bit rude to show up unannounced?” Then all of a sudden howls and growls can be heard echoing throughout the orchard. “Sounds like those mutts are entertaining your friends.” Tasha said in her sickening attempt to sound sweet.

How Does It Feel?

Chapter 77 - Wild Love With My Triplet Mates

Third Person POV

“Why did you bring us here?!” Sasha growled. Her eyes darted around as she noticed some rogues that were here, were surrounding them. Tasha smiled wickedly. “It is simple, I wish to enjoy the show.” She snapped her fingers and the sound of chains rattled through the mountain’s caverns. Everyone then saw on a balcony below William and Tasha, Jess was pulled to the railing by the silver chain around her neck. The triplets growled and tried to wiggle free from the vines holding them down.

Tasha cackled as she watched and turned her attention back to Sabrina, who looked confused for some reason. Tasha smirked at her and snapped her fingers again to teleport in front of her big sister. “Oh dear sister, are you trying to cast your magical radius? I took the precaution of that. That light purple short sword that is being held to your throat is a silver blade magically infused with belladonna. Weakening your magic just by being held to your skin.”

Sabrina looked at her crazy sister in disbelief. “A sword like that would weaken you as well.” Tasha shrugged. “Why do you think I made the puppy hold it? The belladonna is only effective if it is in contact with you.” She said. Sabrina glared at Tasha. “What on earth did you do to her. Your own daughter?!” Tasha rolled her eyes as if she cared. “I simply made her the obedient little puppy she was supposed to be from the start.” Sabrina’s glare hardened and Rico growled at Tasha. Shianna’s eyes were casted down, so no one could see them.

Tasha let out a loud laugh. “Oh this is so entertaining. Tell me... how does it feel, big sister?” Sabrina didn’t understand what she meant. “What?” Tasha got in her sister’s face. “Tell me how does it feel to be killed by the one you were trying to save?” She asked. Sabrina felt like she was shattered. Tasha laughed again as she stepped back.

Tasha’s smile didn’t last long though, as before she could think... She found herself bound tightly with chains. “What the hell?” She shrieked. Everyone widened their eyes at the sight before them. Standing behind Tasha and pulling hard on the chains, binding her from using her hands for magic, was Jess with a smirk of her own. “I think I told you not to underestimate us.” She whispered in Tasha’s ears.

Tasha had looked down. Jess had used the same silver chains that were used to chain her to the railing, to bind Tasha in front of her. Ignoring the burn of the silver on her hands, Jess pulled the chains as tight as she could. Not giving Tasha the smallest room to use any of her magic. Silver may not weaken witches like it does for werewolves, but Tasha can’t cast any spells while her hands are immobilized. “What?! But how did you get free, you little bitch!?” Tasha shrieked. Jess only smiled at Tasha, taunting her a bit. “Strength doesn’t only come from someone’s physical strength you know.” Jess said.

Leaning in closer to Tasha’s ear. “How does it feel to be outsmarted by this little luna?” Jess taunted. The rage in Tasha pushed back her once claimed demeanor she put on for everyone. “Pup kill that bitch now!” She screamed at Shianna. Shianna raised the sword and slashed it down lighting fast. Time froze for everyone as blood filled the air.

Everyone froze and was stunned at what they were seeing. Shianna raised the belladonna short sword and slashed it down. Slashing into, not Sabrina, but Tasha. Coughing up blood, Tasha looked at Shianna dumbfounded. “W-w-what?” Shianna lifted her head and looked into Tasha’s eyes. Tasha looked as if she was staring at a ghost or something. Shianna’s eyes were back to their normal silver and yellow. “H-h-how?! I bound you to me for life!!! You are to follow your mistress until death!” Tasha shrieked.

Shianna smirked at her. “I am. I am following my true mistress's orders. Jessabelle Simons, the Luna of Raven Moon pack.” Tasha fell to the ground. Blood spilling from her lips and her magic draining from the belladonna in the blade. William started climbing down. Rushing towards his mate’s side. Jess held up her hand and slammed him into the wall with her power.

“B-b-but I saw you b-b-break. You followed my every command for the last couple weeks p-p-perfectly.” Tasha talked, even though she was finding it hard to breathe. She needed to know how this happened. She accounted for everything. “Well your first mistake was not knowing what gifts I had.” Jess said, looking over her shoulder.

“You only knew I could not lie or be lied to. My other gifts were a mystery to you.” Shianna released her hold on her aunt and knelt down beside Tasha. The others would not be released from the vines until Tasha died, since Shianna had to weaken Sabrina with the sword. “Jess has the powers of telekinesis and illusions.” Shianna said. Tasha’s eyes grew. “But her powers should have been dormant along with her wolf. Her food was laced with wolfsbane-”

Tasha stopped mid sentence. “Only the food you brought her was laced with wolfbane, the food I gave her this past week was not. I even gave her some of your energy and healing elixirs.” Tasha then realized that Jess’s once broken arm was all healed. “I never ate the food you brought me. I tossed it out my little cell window. I ate the berries from the bushes you have growing literally everywhere.” Jess said.

Tasha coughed up more blood. “So when I thought I broke the pup, you used your illusion power on me. Is that right? But what about your wolves? I could never sense them.” She asked, in a horse voice. Tasha could feel her time was running out. She was of no more use to her mate, but she wanted answers. Shianna and Jess closed their eyes for a few moments, then opened them. Midnight’s and Silver’s eyes were glowing vibrant, showing their presence. “We remained deep in the back of their minds. Allowing Shianna and Jess to work out their own plan.” Midnight said.

“The time for talk is over now, mother. It is time to end this little game.” Silver said, raising the short sword up. Silver looked at William before meeting Tasha’s eyes again. “Don’t worry. Father will soon follow.” she said with a kind smile. “May you rest in peace and be reborn as a better person.” Midnight said. Tasha’s eyes widened. Not at the fact she was going to die, but the fact that Jess and her wolf were forgiving enough to pray for her next life. Tasha closed her eyes, giving up the fight and Silver brought the sword down on her neck. Chopping her head off her body. William roared as his mate died. One of the rogues had snuck up behind Jess and tackled her. Breaking her concentration on William, he broke free and dashed towards Jess, who had just snapped the rogue’s neck.

Before William could get to her, Zero slammed himself into William. Both are still human for now. Hero had already shifted into his wolf, Loki, and Leo wrapped his arms around Jess protectively. Especially around her stomach. The other rogues took this as the sign to attack. Alex and Roy took one side, while Sasha and Raphael took the other. Sabrina was still recovering from the belladonna blade being pressed up against her skin, but she had her bolo whip. Shianna stayed close to Sabrina, cutting down any rogue that came near with the short sword. It became a blood bath.

Finally Over

Chapter 78 - Wild Love With My Triplet Mates

Jess’s POV

Leo had a tight grip around me. I guess this kidnapping had them more scared than I thought. I know my alphas were worried, but they seem to be more protective than usual. I look towards William and Zero. They are squaring off towards each other, Loki is snarling and ready to pounce and sink his teeth into William, and Leo is pulling me as close as he can to him. “Leo, I can fight too, you know. I am not some weak damsel in distress.”

Leo pulled me closer, if that was even possible, and nuzzled his head into my neck. Breathing in my scent. From how tight he is holding me he seems to be making sure that I was real and truly safe and in one piece. “We know you are strong, princess. You already proved that by you not only planning your own escape, but helping Shianna as well.” He said, then he pulled his head back to face me. “But now it is our job, not only as your mates, but as fathers to protect you and our child from any threat.” I nod to what he said. ‘Wait a minute? Child? Fathers?’

I looked at Leo in confusion. “What child?” I asked. Leo looked back at me as if I had grown a second head. “We did a tracking spell on Alex and Spike. Spike found the way here and told us that you are with child. Did Midnight not say anything?” Midnight nervously chuckled in my head. ‘Surprise Jess, we are going to be a mother.’ She fidgets around in my head. Like a child that got caught stealing cookies out of the cookie jar.

‘Oh don’t even missy... How am I the last one to find out that I am going to have a child? Even when the child is growing inside of me.’ I roll my eyes at her. That now explains why I have been a lot hungrier than normal, and my mates behavior. I heard a groan and saw William fling Zero into the mountain side as if he weighed nothing. Loki launched himself at William. Aiming for his neck, but William dodged it completely. Getting behind Loki, William grabbed his tail and flung him through a peach tree.

“Zero! Hero!” I called out. William turned towards Leo and I. “The last gifted wolf I took was able to enhance the abilities that us werewolves already have. So I am faster and stronger than a normal alpha.” William snickered as he began to walk towards me and Leo. Leo pushed me behind him. Before William could get too close to us, Zero had shifted into Lucifer and went after him. Just barely missing his claws, William was forced to jump back.

Only to be met with Loki’s claws waiting for him. Watching how Zero and Hero were working together it kept William on the defensive. ‘Leo I think I figured out how to kill him.’ I mind linked him. Leo looked at me, waiting for me to tell him. ‘If you and your brothers could keep him on the defensive, I can nail him with one of Tasha’s poisons. Even if he can enhance the abilities of a normal wolf, he would still have the weaknesses of a wolf.’

Like Tasha always said, no matter how strong the wolf is... they become no more than a weak puppy under the conditions of being injected with wolfsbane or silver. Leo smiled at me. ‘How did we get such a clever mate. Alright we will buy some time, just give us the signal to clear a shot for you through our link.’ Leo mindlinked me as he let go of me. He shifted and joined his brothers, while I dashed towards Tasha’s corpse.

Tasha always tried to account for every outcome. So I know she would have had something on her to fight werewolves at a distance. I searched her pockets. I found bombs with wolfsbane and silver, but that would hurt my alphas too. I looked under her right sleeve and found a weird looking bracelet. I pulled it off and inspected it. I pushed a button on the bottom and the bracelet sprang into a mini crossbow. I searched Tasha’s other pockets and found a pouch on her left leg filled with small silver arrows.

I'm good with a regular bow and arrow for archery, but I never really messed with a crossbow. 'Why don't you just use the arrows? Move them with our mind and pretend you are shooting a bow.' Midnight said in my mind. 'That is perfect, Midnight. Thanks for the idea.' I thanked her and grabbed the arrows. I found myself a little perch in a tree. My triplets were still working together and William was still on the defensive side. William was still in human form, he either couldn't shift or thought he was strong enough to fight only in his human form.

I breathed in and out, then I used my power to lift four of the arrows into the air. I pretended that I was drawing back a bow and aimed right where I wanted the arrows to go. 'Alright you guys. Make him jump towards the mountain about 4 feet and I will have a shot.' I mindlinked my alphas. Hero snarled and snapped his jaws at William, making him more the way I wanted. 'NOW MOVE!' I screamed in our mindlink.

All three jumped away from William and he was confused for a few seconds. Those few seconds was all it took for me to send the arrows flying. An arrow sunk into each shoulder and one into each leg. He roared in pain. The triplets took this chance to end it once and for all. Leo/Fang sunk their teeth into William's throat, Zero/Lucifer bit into his torso, and Hero/Loki had William's legs in their mouth. The triplets all pulled their own way and ripped William into pieces. The triplets howled in victory as William laid there in pieces at their paws.

I got down from the tree and was tackled to the ground by my three huge alpha mate's wolves. I laughed as they licked my face and nuzzled me. "Hahaha ok, ok, that's enough." I managed to say while laughing. They backed up and I picked myself up and dusted myself off. Lucifer and Loki started sniffing around my belly. I patted their heads. "I think they are fine. If they are anything like us, then our pup is strong." I say to comfort them, as well as myself.

I looked around and all the rogues that were around us were dead too. Shianna and the others were running towards us. All the boys had nothing but basketball shorts on and Sasha had a plain, oversize black t-shirt on. Alex beats them and engulfed me in a tight hug. Picking me up and twirling me around in his arms. "Oh my Moon Goddess, you gave me one hell of a fright. This was worse than when you just upped and ran away from home." Alex said, hugged me tighter. So tight I felt some of my bones crack a bit.

"Alex. Can't. Breathe." I say while trying to gasp for air a bit. "Oh, sorry. My bad." He said as he gently set me down on the ground and let me go. Strong arms wrapped around me from behind. I looked back and saw it was Zero this time. Him and his brothers were now wearing basketball shorts as well. I missed seeing their rippling muscles. "Don't get distracted honey. Nothing is going to happen until you get a check up." Hero whispered in my ear. I felt my face heat up as I got caught staring at them. "Though we still have one more thing to do before we leave." I say. Looking at Shianna, she smiled and nodded. Then she dashed off.

"What is it?" Leo asked, looking back and forth between Shianna and me. "Well evil or not. Tasha and William were not only Sabrina's siblings, but Shianna's parents. I want them to be set to rest properly." I say as I use my powers to lift William's body parts and set them in a neat pile. Sabrina cried softly as she turned and saw Shianna bringing Tasha's body with the head laying on the stomach. Shianna laid her mother next to her father's remains.

Before anyone else could move, someone called out for Sabrina. “Sabrina!” a deep voice called. We all turned and saw it was Brandon. He ran to her and engulfed her in a tight hug of his own. “Is it all over now?” he asked. “Almost.” Sabrina said softly as Shianna had smashed two rocks together over a couple of sticks. In a few minutes she made two small torches and handed one to Sabrina.

Sabrina went over to Tasha’s body and Shianna went over to William’s. “May you both find peace and be united again in the next life.” Sabrina said as she set her sister’s body a blaze. Shianna did the same for her father. The fires merged into one big flame. I watched the flames dance and eat away at the bodys. Then Shianna grabbed my hand. I turned to look at her and saw the tears in her eyes.

I squeezed her hand and looked back into the fire. I got a shock of my own as I saw two figures in the flames. I looked closer and it was Tasha and William, but they were smiling kindly at us. The same kind of smile they had when we first saw them in the memory mind share. Back when they were so happy. They bowed their heads to us and raised into the sky with the smoke from the fire. It was truly over. I look at my friends, family, and loved ones. “Let’s go home guys.” I said with a smile on my face.

Pups

Chapter 79 - Wild Love With My Triplet Mates

True to their word. As soon as we got back home, the triplets rushed me to the pack hospital. We waited in a private room for the doctor. Leo is holding my right hand and rubbing his thumb over my knuckles, Zero is curled up next to me on the bed, and Hero is pacing back and forth. A light knock came and a small blonde woman came into the room. “Hello Luna, my name is Laura. I am the head doctor in the hospital. I will be the one taking care of you.” She said with a bright smile.

I returned her smile. Zero got off the bed so Dr. Laura could have more room to examine me. Laura kindly asked my mates to wait outside while she took a look at me. They were hesitant, but went outside. She brought in the ultrasound machine and put on her gloves. I lifted my hospital gown as she grabbed a tube. “Now the gel is gonna be a bit cold.” she warned before she squirted it on my stomach. I shiver a bit. ‘Shit she wasn’t kidding. That was ice cold.’ Midnight said. I laughed a bit as Laura placed the wand on my stomach and started to move around. I looked at the screen and listened to the heart beat on the machine.

‘Wait a minute... 1... 2...’ “Is that three heart beats I am hearing?” I asked Amy. She moved the wand around a bit more and smiled as she turned the screen to me. “Yes, see you have three pups growing inside you, Luna. I would say you are about 3 and half weeks pregnant. Another two weeks and we can tell what the genders are.” She pressed a button on the machine, put the wand away and wiped the gel off me. “Everything looks good. Your wolf kept the pups safe from anything that happened to you while you were captive. Though as you know Luna, werewolves give birth in just four months, but with alpha pups there is a chance they will come earlier.” Laura said in a serious tone.

“You can not shift until the pups are born. If you were to shift you would have a miscarriage.” I tensed at the thought of losing my pups. I rubbed my stomach. It is still flat now, but very soon it will swell big since I have three pups on the way. “I will be careful. Nothing will happen to them as long as they are inside me.” I said. She smiled and let my mates back in. “I will see you in two weeks, Luna for another check up.” She said as she handed me the ultrasound picture. “Alphas.” she bowed before she left.

“So what did the doc have to say sweetheart?” Zero asked as he cuddled back up to me on the bed. I nuzzled him and smiled. “We are having triplets of our own. We can find out the genders in two weeks and I am not allowed to shift until the pups are born.” I say it all in one breath. My triplet alpha’s all looked at me wide-eyed and jaws dropped. I laugh at their cute stunned faces. Leo and Hero jumped in joy and Zero nuzzled me closer to him. They were excited and so was I. Now we just have to tell everyone else.

After the check up I was finally able to shower all the crap off my body and hair. I dried off my body and put on a silk nightgown. I wake into the bedroom drying my hair. My triplets were already in bed. They looked so tired. I bet they slept as well as I did in those cells. Which was hardly any at all. I would have been a walking zombie if it wasn’t for the energy elixirs that Shianna snagged for me while I was in the cells.

I snuggled up on Hero’s chest, since he was in the middle. Leo was on one side and Zero was on the other. “Tomorrow we will tell everyone the good news about the pups.” Leo said as he played with my hair. Hero rubbed my back and Zero held my hand. I fell into a nice peaceful sleep. Morning came too soon. I groaned and pulled the covers over my head as the sunlight came in through the windows. I heard a few chuckles and felt the rumble come from the chest I was laying on.

“Good morning sweetheart.” Zero called out to me. “Time to rise and shine princess.” Leo’s voice cooed. I groaned again and tried to snuggle deeper into Hero’s chest. He chuckled and kissed the top of my head. “Come on honey. It is time to get up. We want to share the news with everyone.” Hero said. All three of them sounded as excited as kids in a candy store. I poked my head out from under the blankets. “You three are so lucky I love you.” I said as I playfully glared at them.

They smiled and the four of us got up and out of bed. We got dressed and Zero carried me down to the dining room. My parents, Layla, Felix, Sasha, Sophie, Roy, Alex, Rico, Shianna, Raphael, and Odette were all sitting around the table eating waffles, eggs and sausage. As we sat down, Alex looked at me. “So how did the check up go?” he asked. He is the only one, besides the triplets, that knew about the pup, but he is still in for a surprise when he finds out it is three pups and not one.

I smiled. “It went great. There will be three new members in about three months.” I said proudly. The men at the table, besides Alex and the triplets, looked absolutely confused. Layla and my mother dropped their silverware. Sasha and Sophie smiled and looked over at Rico. “Pay up big brother. We were right.” Sasha boasted. It finally seemed to click to Rico about what I meant. He laughed and paid each sister ten dollars.

“Do you three turn everything into a bet of somekind?” I scolded them. They just laughed and nodded. Odette jumped up and ran over to me. “Oh my Moon Goddess. I am so happy for you guys.” She squeezed me into a tight hug. “Can someone please explain what is going on?” Roy asked. I laughed as Sophie smacked him upside the head. “For you men that can not understand what she said, I will dumb it out for you.” Sasha said, rolling her eyes. “Jess will be having three little bundles of joy within the next few months.”

That is when it finally clicked in everyone else's head. “Oh we are going to be grandparents.” Layla said as she cried tears of joy. Hugging me as well. My parents looked happy, but conflicted if they should say anything right now. I went over to them and hugged them both. “I forgive you guys too and I want to give you another chance.” My parents gripped me tightly to them. My mother crying into my shoulder and my father whispering ‘Thank you.’ to me over and over.

My parents from then on would spend every other week in Raven Moon with me so we could reconnect and spend some time together. Odette and Layla put themselves in charge of planning the baby shower, and my mother would help when she was there. They planned to have the baby shower the day after my check up, so that Odette can know the genders for the cakes. They want to make it a gender reveal party. With all the luna duties and planning, two weeks passed by so quickly.

Odette came with me to my appointment because she knew her cousins would be too impatient to wait another day and would use their alpha command on the poor doctor. Doctor Laura came inside. “Hello Luna, wonderful to see you again. How have you been feeling?” I smile painfully. “I am so restless. Doing my luna duties, planning a baby shower, and just eating. I am so not used to this.” I whined.

Odette laughs. “Yeah she is usually the kind of girl that jumps off roofs, climbs up tall structures, and trains her ass off until she drops.” She said in a smart ass tone. Odette thinks these pups are a blessing since I can be my reckless self, but once they are out of my body... I am going back to training. “Well I can see how you are restless, but you must be careful until the pups are born and for just a couple weeks after. Childbirth with multiples will leave you tired and sore.” Laura said.

I groan, but nod in understanding. As Laura moves the wand over my stomach she writes down genders on a slip of paper and hands it to Odette. I get cleaned up and Odette takes me to my room. “Now, how about we get you into a nice relaxing bubble bath?” she asked, leading me to the master bathroom. “That sounds like a wonderful idea.”

Odette runs the bath water for me and I toss in a coconut scented bath cube in the water. Filling the tub up with bubbles. My stomach had grown really fast with three pups inside. Odette helps me in the tub, and I just relax in the hot water. “Ok I am going to finish up the last few things for the shower tomorrow. Your parents are with Aunt Layla and Uncle Felix working on the nursery and the triplets are just in their offices. Mind link someone when you're ready to get out of the tub."

I smirked and gave her a smart ass salute. "Yes ma'am... Orders received." I said. She just rolled her eyes and left. I closed my eyes and let the hot water soak into my aching legs and feet. I am restless because I can't do stuff I normally do, but carrying three pups at once really does a number on your legs, feet, and back. I felt someone start rubbing my shoulder. I look up and see Zero smiling down at me. I moan a bit as he rubs the back of my neck. "Are you sore anywhere else, sweetheart?" He asked.

"Just my back, legs, and feet... but you three always rub them every night. That is more than enough." He knelt down to my level, cupped my cheek in his palm, and kissed me deeply. "Nothing will ever be enough for us to thank you for bringing our pups into this world." he said, while looking into my eyes and brushing his nose against mine. "So what are you hoping they will be?" I ask him. He smiled. "Honestly I hope we have boys, because if we have a sweet, precious, little girl... the forest would be filled with graves of all the men that come within 20 feet of our little princess."

I knew he was half joking, but he was also half serious. If we do have any girls, they would have one hell of a time with three overprotective fathers. The water started to turn cold and Zero scooped me up in his arms as if I weighed nothing. "How is it no matter my size, you guys can lift me up so easily? I never once seen you three train at all." I asked while wrapping my arms around his neck. He chuckles at me. "Sweetheart, no matter your beautiful shape. We were made to always carry you and catch you." he nuzzled into my neck.

I giggle. Zero sets me down on the bench in the shower and rinses off the bubbles. After drying me off, he picks me up again and starts carrying me to the bedroom. Kissing my shoulder and nipping at my neck. I moan and tilt my neck to give him more access. Zero playfully growls and sucks on my mating mark. "Mmmm. Zero." I called out to him. He gently sets me on the bed and kisses all the way down my body. From my neck, down my shoulder, to my breast. He played and teased my hard nipples with his tongue and teeth. Making me wet.

His hand dipped down to my pussy, gently rubbing my folds as he continued his assault on my nipples. 'Your scent drives me crazy sweetheart.' his voice echoed through our link and in my head as his lips stayed locked on my skin. I let out a gasp as I felt him slip a finger inside me. I haven't been able to get enough of my mates since I came home. Zero slips in a second finger, then a third. After a while, Zero then removed his fingers and kissed up my inner thigh. I moaned out his name as he parted my folds and began to eat me out. I gripped his hair pulling him closer to me, as he brought me closer and closer to my release.

Zero enters two fingers inside me as he sucks on my clit. Flicking it with his tongue, I arch my back and release my juices all over his handsome face. Zero rises to his knees. Licking his lips and whipping his chin with the back of his hand. "Still as sweet as the first time baby." he said while smirking. He then stripped out of his clothes as I turned on my side. Zero laid behind me and lifted my leg over him. He entered me in one movement. “Mmmm, baby you are still so tight.” he whispers in my ear and gently bites my ear.

I am a wet, moaning mess as he fucks me. He reaches one hand to gently grip around my neck and his other one rubs circles around my clit. “Ah, Zero... More.” I begged. Zero’s cock started fucking me faster, his hand squeezed my neck a bit tighter. “Cum for me baby.” Zero said, as he fucks me faster and then pinches my clit between his fingers. “ZERO!!” I come undone and cum all over his cock. After a few more hard thrusts, Zero fills me with more of his seed.

Both of us were out of breath. I lean my head back as Zero grabs a nearby sheet and wipes us both down. Then he cuddles next to me as we both fall asleep. In a few hours it will be Leo or Hero waking me up next. Until the pups are born, I can only take two at the most. So they take their turns, but I will never complain. My hormones have been all over the place due to the pregnancy, so I am always craving my mate's touch. Whether it is one or two.

The day of the baby shower was finally here. The triplets have been the most curious about what we are having. Odette has had Raphael and Roy guard the cakes, because Zero and Hero tried to sneak a peek. Leo was just standing by. He claims that he was innocent since he wasn’t the one doing the deed, but he was still there to see what the results would have been. It was a very simple themed baby shower. All the decorations were white with hints of green and gold.

There were three different cakes the triplets and I would cut into. A green one, a gold one, and a white one. Most people gave us diapers and a few stuffed animals. No one wanted to choose any specifics until they knew what we were having. I looked at Odette. “Can we please cut the cakes, before your cousins lose their minds?” I asked her. She pretended to think about it for a little bit, then dramatically sighed. “I guess we can get to the main event now.” She teased. The triplets all perked up. “Alright Leo... You get to pick which cake you cut first.” Odette said.

“There is no order?” he asked. Odette shook her head. “No, because the pups could come out either way. The order of the cakes won’t determine what order you will have your pups when Jess goes into labor, just the gender of what is growing inside of her right now.” Leo nodded then walked up to the green cake. “I pick the green one.” Odette nodded and handed Leo the knife. “Alright everyone, Leo is cutting into the first cake. Baby number one will be...” Odette announced as Leo cut into the cake. He lifted the piece and it was blue. “A BOY!” Odette shouted. Everyone clapped and cheered.

“Alright Zero, time for cake number two.” Odette said. Zero walked up to the white cake, and cut into it. He held up the piece and it was another blue one. “ANOTHER BOY!!” Odette shouts and everyone cheers and claps. ‘Oh dear me are we going to have triplet alphas that will be just like their daddies?’ I asked Midnight. She huffs. ‘I want at least one girl.’ she answered back. Hero walked up to the last cake, the gold one, and cut into it. He lifted up the piece and everyone cheered again. The piece Hero was holding was pink. “WE HAVE A GIRL!!” Odette shouted. Midnight yipped in happiness in my head and I smiled ear to ear while I rubbed my big tummy. ‘Now I need to think of some names for my three little pups.’ I thought to myself as my mates smiled along with me and held me close.

Chapter 80 - Wild Love With My Triplet Mates

A month and ½ later...

The triplets and I have been busy. Me getting kidnapped and finding out about the pups made the triplets forget about a very important festival that Raven Moon has held every year for generations... The Harvest Moon Festival. Sasha and Layla have been filling me in all about it. It is held on the first full moon of fall, and is about giving thanks to the Moon Goddess for all the blessings the pack has had in the past year.

Apparently the first festival after gaining a new luna is the most special of all. Layla and Sasha do the running around for me. The pups are growing so big and so fast... I feel like I will pop soon. So I mostly do paperwork at my desk. I am just scribbling names on a paper when Sasha comes in. "Hey Jess. I have some of the final preparation I need you to look over and sign." She said, handing me a thick stack of papers. I smiled. "Thanks Sasha. I can't believe the festival is tomorrow already. Things have been so busy."

Which was true. Between getting ready for the festival and the pups, the only time I see my mates is in our bedroom. "Yeah, once the festival kicks off tomorrow, you and the triplets should have maybe a week to yourselves before work picks up again. Oh! I also heard that the full moon tomorrow is actually going to be a blue moon." I took the papers she had. "Wow really? A blue moon only happens once every 100 years. Has there ever been one during the harvest festival?" "Nope. I feel like something good is going to happen tomorrow." I smiled again. It seems that Sasha, Sabrina, Shianna, and I all have the same feeling tomorrow. Something Special is coming our way and it was something big.

Sasha looked over at the paper I was scribbling on. "Still struggling with what names to give the pups?" I sigh and nod. "I want them to have names that suit them, but so far none of the ones I have come up with have seemed good enough, and the triplets are no help." I groaned as I remember the last time I asked them for names they liked. "Let me guess... they all said that they would be happy with whatever name you picked out because no matter the name they were their pups." Sasha said with a smirk. I nodded.

"Layla said that coming up with names was fun for her. She pulled the triplets name from characters in manga she used to read as a kid." Sasha tilted her head. "What's manga?" I laughed. "Manga are based off of comic books we read in the US, but they read like more in depth novels. They are made in Japan." "Oh so it is like those anime shows Sophie watches, just on paper with thought bubbles and talking bubbles. Right?" I nod and look over the papers she gave me. "Well then what kind of things interest you besides training?" I thought for a few minutes before I answered her.

“Well when I was younger I always liked reading about the gods and goddesses from different cultures and countries. Like there are so many different gods and goddesses for different things, like in Egypt and Greece. Egypt prayed to Ra, the god of the sun, but the greeks would pray to Apollo, who was their god of the sun.” Sasha chuckled a bit at me. “You sound like a text book nerd... Hahahaha” she laughed as she finished her sentence. I rolled my eyes and threw a cherry from my fruit bowl at her. “Oh shut it.” We finished our work and Sasha helped me get from my office to my bathroom.

Since I almost tripped and fell on my ass a couple weeks ago, the triplets used their alpha command on the pack to assist me whenever I needed. I had a chaperone whenever I wanted to move from room to room or take the stairs. Hell, I can't even use the elevator alone. My alphas have become so paranoid about every little thing. I wonder how they will act when our children are old enough to find their mates. Especially our daughter. Three fathers, two brothers, and all the uncles within Red Moon, Thunder Mountain, and Raven Moon. I pity the poor man/men that get matched with my little girl.

Sasha pulls me from my thoughts. “Jess are you alright?” She asked, waving her hand in my face. I blinked and smiled. “Yeah, just imagining how it will be when my babies grow up and find their own mates. If their daddies are this worried before they are even born, then how will they be when they are leaving the nest?” Sasha shuddered. “Well I don't think you have to worry about your sons, but we will need to make sure that little girl is just as tough as us. So no man can push her around.” She winks at me and I giggle.

Sasha helps me into the tub and then waits in my bedroom. I can still wash myself. I just need help getting in and out of the tub. After my bath and Sasha's help. I get my night dress on and lay in bed. Drifting off to a peaceful sleep.

The next morning I wake up feeling feather light kisses on my neck, sides, and thighs. The sparks rushing through my body tell me it is my mates. My eyes flutter open and I am met with three very sexy smiling faces. “Good morning, princess.” “Morning honey.” “Hello sweetheart.” They each said, followed by a sweet good morning kiss. I giggled as the light kisses began to tickle a bit. “Good morning to you three too, and as much as I want to stay in bed we have a festival to finish up today.” They groan and continue kissing my body. “You are the only woman in the world that would be thinking about work when you are laying here in bed with your mates.” Hero said, then he gently nipped my shoulder. Sending a shiver to run through my body.

Then someone cleared their throat. The four of us freeze and look towards the doorway of our bedroom. There is Layla with her arms crossed, while tapping her foot on the floor. “Unless you want to upset your loving mother, boys, you will give me my daughter so I can get her ready for the festival tonight.” she said, giving her sons a hard glare. Quick as a flash my mates kissed my cheek once more before jumping off the bed, giving their mother a peck on the cheek, and dashing out of the room in only shorts.

As soon as they were gone I burst out laughing. Layla smiles and winks at me. “No matter how old children get, a mother has to keep them in line. Remember that when my grandson's try to cause trouble.” “Only your grandsons. I think your granddaughter might be a little trouble maker too.” I said. Layla just shakes her head. “No, I feel like my little granddaughter will be just as sweet, honest, and kind as her mother. She will only fight when it is for what she believes is right. But moon goddess forbid that those boys are anything like their fathers.”

I laughed at the last part, as Layla helped me waddle to the bathroom. “I will leave the door open, so call if you need help.” I nod. I finish my business in the bathroom and walk out to see Layla and Sasha in my closet. “Good morning Sasha. When did you get here?” “Just a few minutes ago. I brought your breakfast up.” She said, as she pointed to the tray on the table. There were pancakes, eggs, bacon, two doughnuts, and a glass of orange juice and milk. My mouth watered at the spread in front of me and the pups seemed to feel the same way with how they kicked. “Oh, I am not going to miss those kicks once you three are out.” I mutter under my breath, but of course werewolf hearing allowed Sasha and Layla to hear me. They chuckle and Sasha dashes over to my side and gently helps me to the sofa so I can eat and feed my pups.

After I ate, we talked and they helped me get ready. The dress that Layla prepared for me was a light blue, long sleeve sundress. She had it altered so it would feel more comfortable over my big swollen belly. “So the only real duty I have is to announce the start of the festival?” I asked Layla. “Yup, normally the luna is the announcer and judge for the different events and games at the festival, but since your movement is limited we took a pack vote and this year you would just begin the festival and enjoy it.”

I smile, feeling loved and cared for. Then the doors flew open and Odette, Sophie, Stella, Rose, Sabrina, Selena and Shianna all came in. “Hey girls. How has everything been?” I asked, as Sasha helps me sit down in a chair so Layla can do my hair. “Hey, we have been all good.” Odette cheerfully said. Sophie shrugged a little. “Same here though I'm still getting used to giving orders instead of following them, but Red Moon really has changed for the better. You should come for a visit after the pups are born.” She gave me her normal friendly smile.

“I might. It has been a long time since I saw the place.” I said think of all the good memories I had there when I was younger. “So have you thought of names for the pups?” Selena asked. I smiled and nodded. “Yes, but no one is hearing what they are until the pups are born.” The girls all got ready in my room and we chatted and caught up until it was late in the evening. The festival will be starting soon. Layla and Sasha were the last to leave, so they helped me head to the valley behind the pack house.

Sasha and Layla help me to the ground floor and out the doors. “Oh wow, it looks amazing.” There were different kinds of stands set up all in neat rows. The whole valley was full of different food stalls and games. “It reminds me of a small festival I saw the last time I went to Japan for Thunder Mountain pack work.” “Come on, let's get you to the table.” Layla said. They walked me to a huge long table set up in front of the stage. “You begin the festival up on the stage with the triplets as the blue moon rises, then you can enjoy the rest of the evening at the table here.” Layla said. “Also we have Dr. Laura on call just to be safe. She and her mate will be at the table with you tonight.” Sasha added.

“Good evening Luna.” I heard someone call out to me. I turn and see Dr. Laura walked towards us with her arm wrapped around a woman. “Hello doctor, who is this lovely woman?” I asked.

The woman blushed and the doc just smiled. “This is my mate, Camila. She is a nurse at the clinic as well.” “Oh well nice to meet you Camila.” She smiled. Some people may not approved of people of the same sex being together, but I see no shame in it. Love is love, no matter what. “We will take good care of you and your pups, Luna.” Camila said, with a bow.

“Well after the beginning of the festival I will be sitting here with you two and my three mates. I think tonight will be as safe as can be.” They all smile. “There you are.” “We were wondering where you were, honey.” I turned my neck a bit and saw my mates themselves walking up to us. “Speak of the devils and they shall appear.” Sasha snickered. Laura and Camila tried to contain their laughter, as the triplets glared at Sasha.

Leo wrapped his arms around my big swollen belly. “The pack is gathering, princess. Time to begin the Harvest Moon Festival.” he said, as he nuzzled my neck. I nod and the triplets lead me away from everyone and help me up the stage. Hero handed me a microphone and I looked as the crowd got big fast. Everyone was all excited for the festival to begin. I looked behind me and saw the full moon rise. It gave off a beautiful light blue glow. I felt a peaceful presence come from the moon's rays and turned back to address the crowd.

“Good evening everyone. I am happy to share this moment not only with my new family here in Raven Moon, but my friends and family from both Red Moon and Thunder Mountain.” I pause and look through the crowd. I saw all of my friends and family smiling ear to ear. “Now I know it is not very traditional, but because of the precious cargo I am carrying... I will only be announcing the beginning of the Harvest Moon Festival tonight. Layla will be the acting judge for the contests this year.” I pause again and the crowd claps.

“So without further delay- Ah!” I drop the mic and grab my stomach. A sharp pain cuts me off mid-sentence. I felt liquid running down my legs. “Sweetheart?” Zero asked as he supported me. “The pups are coming.” I said, then gasped as another sharp pain raced through me. Dr. Laura and Camila were by my side quickly. “Please lay her down, Alpha. I need to assess if it is safe to move her to the clinic or not.” Doc said. Zero gently lowered me to the stage and Leo grabbed the mic and addressed the crowd of worried pack members.

“Please stay calm everyone.” I heard his voice as I felt hands gently pressing around my stomach. “Alpha I need someone to hold up a blanket or something. We can not move the Luna, so she will have to give birth right here.” Doc said. I tried to follow what was happening but the pain from my contractions. ‘Our pups are coming.’ Midnight said in my mind.
