

Chapter 3 Chapter 3 Apologize and Divorce

*****ERIKA'S POV*****

Never in a million years did I ever think that I would hear such words from Alex.

My eyes were fixed solely on his face, neglecting the intense pain coming from my chin.

His death grip was extremely painful, but the pain didn't match up to the one I felt in my heart.

I had loved Alex for three years. I did everything for him, sacrificed everything just to be by his side and be a good

But it seems like not everyone deserved sacrifices.

How could he trust a woman whom he hadn't seen for the past seven years over me who had been with him for three years?

Serenity just came back two days ago and he already trusted her?

Was it because of her looks?

Sure, Serenity was beautiful and dainty, But I wasn't bad looking either.

"You're much prettier than that bitch" Cindy added and I almost nodded in approval.

But Alex kept choosing her. Choosing her over his own mate.

"Alex..." I tried to call out to him in the most sweetest voice I believed I had.

But he pushed my face away and groaned in anger.

He turned again to look at me and said, "Erika, be good and apologize to Seren"

But I still wouldn't budge and just shook my head.

Why should I apologize to that dog?

"I won't apologize" I said again, my head lowered.

Murmurs filled the surrounding as everyone began talking about me.

I couldn't care less about them. They didn't want to believe me, so why should I be bothered about how they saw me?

"Alex, believe me this once, I didn't push her....." I was still saying when suddenly as fast as the wind, Alex turned and grabbed my neck harshly.

My eyes widened as I felt him choke me.

"Erika you will kneel and apologize to Seren right here, right now!" He said in his Alpha voice and I froze.

Did Alex hate me that much?

Just what does that Serenity mean to him?

I felt my breath leaving me slowly and I began to struggle for air, holding tightly to his arms as my tears poured down heavily.

"Al_Al_Alex..." I clutched to his arm tightly, hoping he would let me go and let me take a breather.

Gage seemed to have noticed that I was really choking, he rushed over and held Alex, trying to get his hands off my neck.

"Alex stop, you're choking her!" He yelled and pulled Alex back immediately.

From the corner of my eyes, I saw Serenity smirk with a wink.

"That bitch!" Cindy growled in anger as I fell to the floor, clutching to my neck.

Alex looked down at me and ran a hand through his hair.

"Erika, apologize quickly!" Gage was the one who spoke, but I ignored him, still lying breathless on the floor.

"You think your stubbornness would get you anywhere?!" Alex snarled.

I still ignored him, trying to catch my breath.

Alex wasn't pleased with my actions and he walked up to me again. He pulled me up harshly and I winced, but he didn't seem to care.

He pulled me to stand before Serenity who had tears in her eyes.

That sly witch.

"Kneel" Alex commanded and I snapped my head to him.

First it was apologize, now kneel?

Over my dead body would I ever kneel before this dog.

"I will apologize, but I would never kneel before her" I said through gritted teeth and Alex chuckled.

"You will do both, and you have no choice" he said and the next second, he directly kicked the back of my kneel, making me kneel before Serenity.

I broke out in tears at this treatment.

How could my mate do this?!

"Now apologize!" He yelled.

I gritted my teeth as pain coarsed through my entire body.

"Serenity, I'm sorry" I said in more like a whisper.

"Louder!" Alex nudged me and I almost fell.

"Serenity I'm sorry for pushing you down the stairs!" I yelled out as more tears fell from my eyes.

This treatments and humiliations I faced today would forever be etched in my heart.

I would never forgive any of them and I'll make sure to get my revenge on them.

"That's more like it" Alex said so ly and turned to Serenity.

She looked at me pitifully and stood up, "Please get up, Erika. You're the Luna of this pack, I'm not worthy for you to kneel before me" she immediately helped me up.

"That cunning dog!" Cindy yelled in anger, "when you were asked to kneel, why didn't she say this?!"

I was pissed too. When I was asked to kneel, why didn't she say all these?

"It's all my fault for pissing you off that day, I never meant to say those hurtful words. I deserve that push" Serenity said and looked down pitifully.

The bitch was still putting the blame on me!

I didn't even push her!

Alex came forward and took Serenity into his arms.

"It's not your fault, Seren"

He said and glared at me.

"Now that I apologized, can I get the divorce?" I asked, my gaze fixed on the floor.

Alex chuckled and said, "Yes, of course"

I felt my heart being stabbed by multiple knives.

I had asked that question to see if he would at least let me stay a er apologizing.

But it seems he truly made up his mind to let me go this time.

"Ok then" I said and looked up at him, staring directly into his black eyes.

Those eyes.

One that captured my heart on the first day we met.

One that I'd always get lost in each time I look into it.

Right now, those eyes were glaring daggers at me and I couldn't care less anymore.

"I, Erika Blackwood, stand before you, Alexander Robertson, with a heavy heart. I hereby reject you as my mate. The bond we once shared has grown fragile, and my soul yearns for a different path. May you find solace in the love of another, and may we both find the happiness we seek."