

Chapter 126 Finally

Hunter's P.O.V.

Alice stares at me and Jason as another contraction hits her, I grab her hand to give her something to hold on to and Jason tells her to keep breathing. I grab my phone to call Ella, because I want answers and not just for Gabe but also for Alice.

I don't even get the chance to tell them that Alice is here or that she can hear them, Marc just starts talking about what happened and something tells me this is very difficult for him to talk about. I hear the door open and I know that Drew is there.

"Paula, why don't you go see Gabe?" Marc asks, but I have a feeling she is not going anywhere. Marc sighs as I hear footsteps in the background. "Your Grandfather linked your Grandmother to prepare a room on their floor and linked the Doctor to meet him up there.

He took her into the Palace through the hidden passage ways and by the time the Doctor had finished examining her she had lost their Pup, a little girl. There was something only two people in the Palace knew about her and that was that she was the Daughter of a Gamma, she had fled her Pack when her future Alpha had tried to forcefully mark her.

Your Grandfather had decided to let her stay in the Palace and she chose to live with the Omegas, to work alongside them. It was the loss of her Pup that nearly killed her and when your Grandfather confronted his Gamma he had told your Grandfather that he didn't need a weak female as his second chance.

He showed no remorse when he heard their Pup had died and if rumors are true he even told your Grandfather that he was glad the Pup had not survived, your Grandfather was not sure what to do with his Gamma. He thought about it for a few days, but couldn't come up with an answer.

My parents and I came to visit the Palace as the Gamma was my Father's Nephew and I had been bored with all the females that tried to get my attention, so I started to wander the hallways of the Palace. I suddenly smelt the most delicious smell in the world and that is how I found Paula, my fated Mate." Alice's screams as another contraction hits her and Marc is quiet for a few moments.

"I linked my Mother as I could see she was scared and I didn't know what to do. Mom asked me to wait outside her room and after they talked for a while Mom walked out and told me to take it easy and slow with Paula. It took her a few hours to tell me what had happened and I can tell you I was ready to rip him a second asshole.

Mom linked me that dinner was ready and Paula decided to come with me as I promised her I would protect her if he tried anything. Dad had been filled in by Mom and he wasn't happy with his Nephew to say the least, but shit hit the fan when Paula and I walked into the dining room.

He tried to attack Paula, but Dad was fast to knock him down and warned him to stay away from his Daughter in law. It didn't faze him at all and during our stay at the Palace he tried on multiple occasions to attack Paula, but he never got a chance to get close to her.

It was that behavior that made your Grandfather take his title away from him and he offered me the position as his Gamma. We all know how that turned out, but none of us ever heard anything from him again." Marc concludes and I hear growls from everywhere.

We thank Marc for telling us the truth and after disconnecting the call I look at Alice who is in tears. I keep holding her hand and when the time comes for her Pup to be born I ask Jason to leave the room, which he reluctantly does. Alice gives birth to a little girl and I see that she has her Father's eyes, but other than that she looks just like her Mom.

Jason and I are about to leave the infirmary when a male rushes in and we both recognize him from the picture, making us take a step back to see and hear what will happen. Alice confronts him with what she found out and Jason is able to stop him from striking his Mate.

I already asked Alice if she wanted to stay with him and she had told us she wanted to wait for him to come home, to explain it to her. But right now I see a determination on her face as she realizes that he wouldn't mind hurting her and she rejects him, after which I order him to accept it.

Marc had sent Jason a text that if Alice needed a place to stay, she was more than welcome to stay with him and Paula and that is exactly where she will be going right now. It will also prevent him from coming after her as he is not allowed on Palace grounds.

Alice is sleeping in the backseat when we pull up to the Palace and Adam is waiting for us to help with whatever it is we need. The moment Jason opens the door Adam's head snaps towards the SUV and a smile crawls onto my face as I see Alice looking at Adam with big, wide eyes.

Adam opens the door for Alice and holds out his hand to her, waiting patiently for her to grab it. Her eyes turn to mine in the rearview mirror and as I nod my head she places her hand in his, Jason has already gotten little Mariah out of the SUV.

Marc introduces himself and Paula to Alice and welcomes her to the family, while Gabe grabs Mariah from Jason's arm. They will make her feel right at home and I know that given time she and Adam will become a great fated couple.

Gabe and Jason pull Adam aside to tell him what happened to Alice and his Lycan roars in anger, but instead of getting scared she walks up to him to place her hand on his arm. He pulls her close to bury his face in her neck and he quickly calms down.

Paula is holding Mariah while Brent is standing next to her with Ace in his arms, Paula carefully places Mariah in Adam's arms as she looks him in the eye, "You take good care of these two, Son. They are family and so are you." She says as she hugs Alice.

Jayce and Justin are patiently waiting until I have time for them and after I have kissed all my Mates I turn to Alice to see a smile on her face. Jayce lifts me up and I quickly wrap my legs and arms around his body, "Where is Jax?" I ask and Jayce tells me he is in Dad's office.

I wiggle out of his arms to get to Dad's office and Justin follows behind me, before I reach the door he grabs my arm and pulls me close to kiss me again, "Safe that for later tonight, dinner is about to be served." Mom says from behind us and Jason releases a soft growl.

I knock on the door as I immediately open it and I start giggling as Justin repeats Mom's words, making him growl again. I keep kissing Jax as I reach my hand towards Justin, he doesn't need any more encouragement and his hands snake around the front of my body as he starts kissing my neck.

Jax's cock hardens as I grind my hips and Justin is playing with my nipples, the scent of my arousal quickly fills the room. "Damn, Princess. We are going to take our time with you tonight." Justin whispers into my ear and Jax pushes his rock-hard cock against my clit harder, it only takes a few more pushes for me to come undone.

I am still sandwiched between Jax and Justin when the door flies open, I don't have to look around to know that Mom is standing there and through the mind-link I say to my Mates, "Too late." Making the three of us burst into laughter. "I thought I had told you to safe that for later tonight. Dinner is being served as we speak." Mom growls.

Her eyes shift between Jax and Justin as I step away from them and I am in stitches as I realize they are both still rock-hard, Mom shakes her head as she walks out of the door. Both my Mates are showing a few shades of red as they realize what Mom was looking at.

I am still giggling as we enter the dining room and Jayce and Jason have a huge grin on their faces, I guess they know what Mom almost found in Dad's office. Dad is smiling as we all sit down at the table and once all the dishes are served we start eating.

I feel content with my Mates and Family around me and I know life is going to be great from here on out, Jason grabs my empty plate to fill it for the second time tonight. Once the plate is empty I realize that tonight will be the night that they might realize that I am pregnant.

"Lets see how smart our family is." I say to my Mates through the mind-link and I hear them all chuckle as I get up to get a refill. As I put food on my plate the entire room goes quiet and a smile appears on my face as I hear everyone cheer.

We spend the rest of the evening in the main living room and slowly everyone in the Palace finds out that the next heir to the Throne is on his or her way. My Mates have explained to the family that the Pup is Jayce's Pup, but that they will love him or her as if they were their own.

I snuggle deeper into Jax's embrace and as I listen to my family and friends my eyes slowly close on their own accord.

Author's Note:

Hey, lovelies!

First, THANK YOU for falling in love with Hunter's chaotic, heartwarming journey (and her four ridiculously overprotective, secretly head-over-paws stepbrothers). If you adored the drama, the laughs, and the burning question of "How the heck do you survive four jealous Alpha mates?!"—guess what? I've got another wild ride for you.

Meet Alayah—a heroine who's tougher than a full-moon hunt and sweeter than stolen honey. She's spent her life craving the unconditional love her family never gave her... until her four new stepbrothers walk into her world.

And these guys aren't just here to play nice. They're her Mates, and they're as fiercely devoted as they are dangerously irresistible.

But Alayah's got bigger problems than sorting out her messy heart.

And if she thinks that dealing with narrow-minded people would be their biggest problem, she is in for a huge surprise.

How do you cope with becoming the Alpha of a Pack that is known to be ruthless?

How do you deal with people that want what is yours?
