

Chapter 66

To help him?

"How dare this young man who doesn't even know much about medicine asks me to help him out? I'm one of the most famous doctors in Qena City after all!" Vinson was flared up with anger. He was already stomping his way towards William.

But at this time, William's eyes turned cold. His trembling hands stopped shaking right away.

William swung his hand, leaving only a flash of blinding light in the air. Vinson was dazzled by the light and stopped instinctively. Then he saw there was a silver needle that pierced through his clothes. He exploded right away, "How dare you lay your finger on me? Do you want to die! I could send you to jail right now!"

However, William stared at him indifferently without saying a word.

At this time, Vinson glanced at the silver needle on his body again.

This was strange. Why didn't he feel any pain?

With this doubt in his mind, he looked at the silver needle again carefully.

All of a sudden, goosebumps sprang over his entire body.

The silver needle was indeed on his clothes. However, the point where the silver needle was inserted...

It turned out that there was a tiny hole on a button of his clothes! It should be remembered that the button was very small, to begin with. Its hole was even smaller! On top of that, he was five meters away from William a while ago!

No ordinary people would be able to see such a tiny hole with their bare eyes.

Most importantly, he was walking a while ago.

Was it possible for a person to insert a silver needle into such a small hole of a button at such a long distance accurately? Even while the target was moving? It was definitely impossible!

However, Vinson had met one person who could do it at this moment. The reality had told him the answer.

Vinson's jaw dropped open.

Was it a coincidence?

It must be a coincidence! How could there be such a godly person who existed on this very planet? If William could really maneuver the silver needle so meticulously, he could be regarded as the most exceptional divine doctor in this world.

Vinson calmed himself down. But suddenly, another thought flashed across his mind again and it made his hands and feet turn cold.

Pain?

Where was the pain?

He flipped open his clothes immediately.

He was wearing two pieces of clothes. What he discovered when he flipped his clothes totally stunned his mind! The silver needle went through the button and pierced its way through his second clothing.

There was a tiny hole in it.

However, the silver needle had halted at that very place. It did not go in any further.

The needle was right on top of his skin! Although he could convince himself that William only got it lucky when he managed to put the needle through the hole on his button accurately a while ago, such precision in strength that he witnessed at this moment would not make sense. It could not be explained by human logic as it would never occur as a coincidence.

This young man actually had remarkable control over the silver needles! Both his precision and strength were unbelievably incredible!

Vinson was still in a trance before William repeated, "Can you come over and help me now?"

Vinson's expression changed right away. "This kid was doing that to prove his ability to me just now!

But, can I pull my weight if I were to help him?" Perhaps, he would never be able to achieve such precision before he passed away.

This kid was not an ignorant and arrogant person after all...

Thinking of this, Vinson walked over beside William. "What do you want me to do?"

On one hand, he was shocked by William's skills. On the other hand, he knew that Yasmine was on the verge of death.

William answered softly, "I have injuries and do not much strength. I'll tell you the location of the acupoints. You'll help me to insert the needles. Be quick and accurate! Is there any problem?"

Vinson swallowed his saliva. He had a strange feeling suddenly.

He felt that he was just a dumb donkey in front of this kid. It was as if he was trying to teach his grandmother how to suck eggs.

However, he immediately added, "I'll try my best."

William nodded and handed the silver needle to Vinson, saying, "The temple. Five centimeters deep."

Five centimeters?

Vinson was dumbstruck.

William was expecting him to be accurate even in terms of the depth of the needle being inserted?

At the unit of centimeters? Wasn't this too much to ask for?

However, Vinson's confidence and arrogance as a medical practitioner seemed to be boosted while looking at William's indifferent eyes.

He took a deep breath and inserted the needle into Yasmine's temple.

William sighed softly. "You're one centimeter short, but it doesn't matter. Go on. The Bear point. Three centimeters deep."

Vinson's face turned red. However, at this moment, his admiration for William had turned into adoration.

He concentrated all his attention and applied the needles, one after another, according to William's instruction.

He didn't have time to reflect on what he did nor to figure out the purpose of the insertion of these needles.

After a while, Vinson's forehead was beaded with sweat.

After all, he was an old man with limited energy and strength.

William's voice came to a halt.

Unexpectedly, Vinson was the one who queried, "Why did you stop? I can still do it."

However, William stared at the man outside and continued, "Next, I need to insert two acupoints at once. Normally, it shouldn't be a problem for me to do it myself. But I'm afraid that you can't do this alone. I have to call for another person's help."

These two acupoints had to be poked at the exact same time.

Hearing this, Vinson looked at William with a completely different expression.

"Where on earth does this kid come from? Doctors would usually use their dominant hands when they're performing acupuncture. This kid can use both his hands. He's a freak!" Vinson thought. He then replied after he regained his composure, "Then I'll go and bring another doctor to assist you."

William shook his head. "It'll take too much of time. Get Steven here. He's quite clear about the acupoints of the head. We can let him give it a try."

Vinson didn't even think about it. He went straight out of the room to look for Steven.

When he was on his way to get Steven in, only then he realized that he was following William's orders obediently a while ago.

That boy, at such a young age, had such dominating aura that made people follow his orders.

He felt ashamed of himself.

But he was relieved instantly on second thought. There was no end in learning medicine. There was always room for improvement. There would be always someone whom he could learn from.

William was more skilled than him. Besides, they were dealing with human life at this moment. It was not a shame to take orders from him.

Steven was called in by Vinson. Every single one present was dumbfounded.

When Steven heard that William wanted to bring him in, his face changed immediately.

He was going to make William to take the blame, but William was dragging him into this matter again.

Steven couldn't help wondering, "Could it be that William has discovered my tricks? Does he have no idea what to do too? Is he planning to pull me into this together?"

With this thought in his mind, he went into the room and gazed at William with hatred in his eyes.

William gave Steven a faint snigger. "It would do you more good if this old bag survives. You won't be able to get anything out of her if she dies. So, I hope you'd forget all the shabby schemes and tricks you have in your mind now and listen to my orders."

Steven's heart skipped a beat as he stared at William.

"This guy has really seen through me."

But, he had made sure to carry out all his plans flawlessly. How could William...

"Take the needle." Here came William's voice again that interrupted Steven's thoughts.

He immediately picked the needle up.

William was right. The old bag would bring him more benefits if she lived.

Only then did Steven listen to William's instruction. He followed William's every order throughout the treatment process, just like Vinson.

Ten minutes later, William stopped and mumbled, "We're left with one last needle to insert. I'll do it myself."

Steven disagreed with William and made a fuss right away.

"Darn it! I'm not here just to do some miscellaneous tasks you give! I'm not your free labor either! Why can't I insert the last needle? You're trying to take the credit for it, aren't you?"

William shot him a cold gaze and gave him a playful smirk. "Are you sure you want to do it yourself? Very well. The Heaven Gate point, three centimeters deep with a unit of force. If it's slightly away from the acupoint, she will be paralyzed for life. If it's not deep enough, her entire system would be damaged. And lastly, if it's too deep, she will draw her last breath right in front of us now. Go ahead and insert it."

Chapter 67

A cold sweat broke out on Steven's forehead.

The Heaven Gate point.

It was an acupoint located on the head that decided one's life and death.

It was often concealed. Well, let's not think about if Steven could identify it correctly.

According to William's explanation, the insertion of the needle must be precisely accurate. It could not be inserted too deeply or too superficially.

How could he do that? If he failed, he would be held accountable for Grandma's death.

Thinking of this, Steven waved his hand and immediately gave in. "You'll do it then."

William gave him a frosty look and took a silver needle. He didn't have to observe it carefully before he poked Yasmine with the last needle. As soon as the needle was inserted, something happened forthwith.

Yasmine, who was unconscious earlier, opened her eyes instantaneously as if a devil had awakened! As soon as she did that, she saw William holding a silver needle in his hand. Her resentment for William exploded instinctively and made her sit up right away.

With a bite, she champed her teeth on William's arm!

William's eyes turned as cold as ice. The fingers of his hand that Yasmine bit postured into the shape of a claw and pounced on Yasmine's face. His other hand was holding the silver needle on her Heaven Gate point. Yasmine could die on the spot if he was to insert it a little further. William was truly mad at this moment!

Yasmine was such an ungrateful b*tch!

He saved her life yet she didn't show any appreciation at all. The first thing she did after she regained her consciousness was to hurt him!

William's heart was filled with an urge to end her life there and then!

But at this moment, Vinson immediately grasped William's hand.

He was trembling violently. He knew that if William pressed the needle down further, they would lose a person's life. He begged earnestly, "Junior Divine Doctor, saving a life is of utmost importance. Do not let your anger get the better of you! The people outside are still waiting for you to save her."

Yasmine had no idea she was playing with fire at all. She was unaware that she was just a 'needle' away from death at this moment.

She looked fixedly at William fiercely and barked,

"How dare you lay a finger on me? You want to kill me, don't you? Fortunately, I woke up in time, otherwise, I would have been murdered by you! You b*stard, get out of here!"

Without warning, William went nearer to her and looked into her eyes.

Yasmine was enraged initially. However, she shuddered immediately at his stare.

What sort of eyes were these? Violence and cruelty could be discerned there. It was as if he was looking down on someone's life.

Like a god who could decide the life of every human being, William stated coldly, "Your life is mine. Keep it well or I'll take it away!" He enunciated each word slowly.

He strode out of the operating room as soon as he finished his words.

After he left, Yasmine immediately gasped for air.

She had a feeling of near suffocation a while ago! It was as if she was being stared at by a gigantic dragon.

It would only take him one bite to devour her completely, leaving absolutely nothing behind.

This was strange. Why would she have such a strange illusion? Her gaze turned even more sinister as she watched William leaving the room.

At this time, Vinson immediately explained the situation to Yasmine, highlighting the fact that it was William who saved her.

Hearing this, Yasmine's expression changed instantly.

Her life was indeed saved by that dog! How could it be possible?

How could that useless piece of sh*t have such miraculous medical skills? How could a dog from the Bai family become so impressive all of a sudden? Fume of jealousy and resentment smoldered in her heart.

She looked at Steven, who was still in a daze, and questioned, "Why is Steven here?"

Vinson told her what happened right away.

At this time, Yasmine put on a broad grin on her face. "It turns out that my life is saved by my grandson."

Vinson was about to explain further but Yasmine darted him a glare. "Dean Zhang, thank you. After I am discharged from the hospital, I will personally visit you to pay the medical fees. I promise you that you will be satisfied with the amount I'm going to reward you."

Vinson gawked at Yasmine. He knew what she hinted immediately thus he chose not to reply anything else.

He waited Steven to leave the room before he examined Yasmine thoroughly.

After his examination, he was overwhelmed by a wave of emotions once again.

Yasmine had almost regained her health.

When he treated her with the best of his ability previously, Yasmine would take at least a couple of months before she could recover to her current state.

However, on this day, Yasmine was on the verge of death. The kid only spent such a short amount of time to pull her back from the jaws of death.

Vinson began to recollect all the acupoints that William had mentioned a while ago.

The more he recalled, the more shocked he was.

It seemed that William poked every single acupoint for a unique purpose! For a moment, Vinson was completely lost in his thoughts as he awed at his new discovery and understanding in medicine. It took him a long while before he regained his composure.

Yasmine had a very good and speedy recovery. Half an hour later, she instructed all the Bais to come to her ward.

Everyone was delighted. Yasmine's face looked like she had returned to her old self.

They could not rest assured while they were waiting outside although William claimed that Yasmine was fine.

Now that they could see Yasmine themselves, they were finally relieved.

Yasmine greeted all of them before she turned to Steven and exclaimed, "Steven, you're my lifesaver. I will definitely treat you well from now onwards."

Felicity was dumbfounded. She retorted instantaneously, "Isn't William the one who saves you? Why do you say that Steven is your lifesaver?"

Yasmine glanced at Felicity coldly and replied, "Do you actually believe that? How could that brat save me? If you don't trust me, go and check it yourself with Dean Zhang. It is Steven and Dean Zhang who work together to save me. Steven contributes the most to this matter. As for that brat, I have yet to make him take responsibility for what he did. He almost killed me just now! How could you believe whatever others say blindly? Think about it! Have you ever seen that useless good-for-nothing practicing medicine?"

Everyone was stupefied and gazed at William in disbelief.

William seemed to have expected that Yasmine would act like this. She was practically a dog that bit the hand that fed it. His expression remained indifferent; he didn't care about it at all.

Felicity looked at William and whispered, "William, is what Grandma said true?"

"Nonsense. But I don't care," William replied.

Being such a sly, cunning woman, Yasmine, of course, had her own plan. William did not mind about it at all as he did not want to expose his identity and skills at the moment too.

"But, don't you feel wronged?" Felicity trusted him completely.

William shook his head and said nothing.

When Yasmine saw that William did not refute, she breathed a sigh of relief secretly.

She had enough reasons and confidence to make this claim.

First of all, William knew absolutely nothing about medicine. Nobody would believe it even if someone insisted that William saved her life.

Secondly, this brat had no power nor status. She would never allow him to go against her wish. He must follow her every instruction.

Thirdly, the Bai family required some form of unique approaches to make their comeback. As the Bai family had been involved in the medical field, if they had a popular doctor with the surname of Bai who could lead the company, their credibility among the public would soar up again!

Thinking of this, Yasmine declared, "Regardless of what price you have to pay, go and make an announcement now so that it will be the hottest topic in the city. An unprecedented divine doctor has been born in our family. And, he's Steven Bai!"

Chapter 68

Everyone was taken aback. They didn't understand what Yasmine meant at all.

Steven was the only one whose face lit up in excitement instantly.

He had grown up with Yasmine since he was a child. Obviously, he knew that Yasmine was showing her support towards him in front of everybody at this moment!

At first he thought that all the credits for saving Yasmine would go to that brat.

Well, in the worst case scenario, he could very possibly be punished for giving inappropriate treatments to Yasmine.

However, at this moment, no one blamed him for what he did. Yasmine even ascribed her recovery to Steven! He couldn't help but glimpse at William at the thought of this.

This brat had worked so hard a while ago. Despite all his tricks, he didn't get any credit at all.

What a joke!

He couldn't help but peek at William provocatively, as if he was teasing, "In the Bai family, I am the one who can never be underestimated! No one can look down on me!"

Looking at this bunch of people, William found them ridiculous.

He turned around and headed out of the ward. It was meaningless for him to stay here.

Steven stopped Felicity when she was about to chase after William.

He whispered to Yasmine about the proposition Felicity had proposed earlier.

After hearing this, Yasmine stared at Felicity. Surprisingly, she stated, "Sure, I approve of this."

She had given it some thoughts before she agreed to Felicity's request.

Felicity had a mysterious man who was supporting her secretly and this made her a person who could never be offended in the Bai family. Thus, Yasmine decided to return the company to her so she would not make a fuss.

Moreover, what happened on this day was indeed unfair to William. Well, Yasmine was not afraid of William.

She, however, was scared that Felicity would blow the things up. The consequences would be unimaginable.

Therefore, it was the best time to go along with Felicity to make sure that she would not cause any trouble to them.

In the next few days, a piece of news began to spread throughout the city.

There was a divine doctor in the Bai family.

Yasmine, who couldn't even be rescued by gods, was saved by this divine doctor.

Different photos and interviews about this incident could be seen on various media. Some people even got an answer from Vinson's ambiguous reply.

In the past few days, Steven had to entertain so many interviews that he was about to lose his voice.

He was so ecstatic that he felt he was floating in the air.

Just a few days ago, Felicity had made the headlines of every newspaper in Qena City. At this moment, Steven's name bombarded the front page of every single media outlet in Qena City! The Bai family had managed to grab the headlines twice in a row. It successfully attracted the attention of all the people in Qena City instantly.

Felicity's influence in Qena City had yet to die down. Now that another shocking news had come from the Bai family, the Bais had successfully become a sensation and the talk of the evening in Qena City.

Many people came to visit them in person. Some came to ask for medical help while some wanted to have business collaborations with them.

For a moment, the house of the Bai family was crowded with people. It was as if they were a family of famous doctors.

Yasmine felt that it was not enough, thus she continued to invest tons of money in publicity and marketing.

After all, it had brought them so much profit in just a few days' time.

In the beginning, the promotion was still fairly close to the actual facts, but later, it became much more exaggerated and sounded almost like a fairy tale.

Steven was being regarded as a divine doctor that could bring the dead back to life.

As for Steven, who had become famous overnight, was completely blinded by his fame. He had lost himself while being celebrated and adored by others.

He never attempted to come clean about those exaggerated rumors online.

Since he was extremely familiar with the acupoints that he had used while treating Yasmine, his convincing statements during the interviews caused another uproar in the city for quite some days.

Even he himself had started to believe that he was a divine doctor who had both fame and success.

Well, the higher one climbed, the more pain he would feel when he fell. A few days later, something unforeseen happened.

On that day, Felicity received a phone call from his uncle, Barnes Bai. He hissed exasperatedly on the phone, "Hurry up and bring that useless b*stard over here! The Bai family is going to be destroyed by him!"

Felicity was dumbstruck for a moment. But seeing how furious Barnes was, she brought William over to Yasmine's house right away.

As soon as they entered the house, all the people present glared at William. Their gaze was like that of the wolves and tigers that stalked on their prey.

Barnes dashed to William and wanted to give William a punch, but he was stopped by Felicity. She asked, "What happened? William has been with me these last few days!"

At this time, Xena explained what happened to Felicity and William in a low voice.

After hearing this, William's mouth curved into a smile. He could already guess what had happened.

It turned out that in the past few days, Steven was deeply immersed in his newly-gained title. He couldn't extricate himself from this popularity at all. He had already regarded himself as a divine doctor.

Coincidentally, William had just beaten Fernando up a few days ago and made his little weenie unable to function again. As soon as Fernando's father, Harry learned that Steven had become a highly- skilled doctor, he immediately requested Steven's medical input. He wanted to see if Steven could revive Fernando's virility.

Although many people had come to Steven to request him to treat them, Steven had rejected all of them as he had yet to lose all his common sense to make a sound judgment.

However, when the Lin family had come to them to ask for help, the Bai family was tempted.

The Lin family had been treating the Bai family well. Moreover, Fernando was Steven's good friend.

More importantly, Harry promised that if Steven could save Fernando, he would reward him ten million yuan. Even if he failed, Harry would still pay him one million yuan for his efforts and good thoughts.

Steven was tempted.

His basic medical skills certainly could not cure Fernando. He was thinking of applying a few basic needles so he could earn that one million yuan for his so-called effort.

However, he only knew the acupoints of the human head. It was very likely that he inserted the needles randomly and inappropriately on Fernando's head. Fernando, consequently, lost his consciousness and went into a deep coma. Even the doctors could do nothing about it.

Harry was enraged. As a result, he detained Steven in the Lin family. He wanted Steven to revive Fernando on this very day, or else he would not hesitate to cripple Steven.

Felicity finally understood what was going on. Infuriated, she roared instantaneously. "What does this have to do with William?"

Barnes said coldly, "What do you mean? Of course, it is related to William! First of all, word has it that William, the good-for-nothing, is the one who hurts Fernando! Well, let's not talk about the compensation we have to pay on his behalf for beating Fernando up. However, don't forget that the source of the problem is because of this good-for-nothing!"

He bared his teeth and added, "Besides, my son, Steven's acupuncture techniques are taught by this good-for-nothing. Now that something has gone wrong, of course, I have to blame him!"

Felicity was so angered that she burst into laughter. "Nonsense! Why don't you guys find out the reason William hits Fernando? Just a few days ago, you all chose to ignore William's contribution to saving Grandma's life and decided to give the credits to Steven. Now that something bad has happened, you want William to take the blame! Where's your conscience? Besides, who would poke the acupoints on the head to treat an issue at the lower limbs? Obviously, this thing happens because of your own greed!"

Upon hearing that, the Bai family was at a loss for words.

However, Barnes' gaze became much more menacing. "I don't care! I'd not let that brat off the hook as he has been involved in this matter since the beginning! My son, Fernando is being kept captive there now. If he doesn't come back home today, he will be murdered. I will definitely hold you responsible if anything goes wrong!"

Felicity still wanted to rebut him, but William stopped her.

They did not have to lower themselves to knock some sense into this bunch of animals.

William shot Barnes a glare and replied, "Oh really? Mind you enlighten me on what I should be responsible for then?"

It seemed Barnes already had an answer to this question for quite some time. He growled, "I don't care! Go to the Lin family right now and apologize to them to get my son back. Otherwise, I will announce to everyone that you are a negligent doctor! I will not hesitate to sully your reputation!"

Chapter 69

Felicity's expression changed after hearing it. "Just how shameless are you? You want William to go to the Lins' place when you clearly know that William has been on bad terms with them. Can he even come back alive if he really goes there? You should solve it yourself since you guys are the culprits who cause all these problems! William, let's go!"

Felicity and William tramped out of the house and left the Bai family. Yasmine was so angry that she put her hand on her chest and cursed.

Xena followed Felicity and grabbed her arm, saying: "Felicity, you did the right thing! I don't like this bunch of people too. They are so shameless! Don't be angry. I'll go shopping with you. Let's spend some money to vent our anger."

At this moment, fury was flooding Felicity's vein. In order to make Felicity feel better, Xena put in so much effort to persuade Felicity to go on a shopping spree.

William went back home alone.

A few minutes after they left the Bai family, Yasmine made a phone call.

"Director Lin, I'm really sorry for this unfortunate incident. We never expect that brat would dare to defy us and refuse to go to your place," Yasmine spoke to the person on the other side of the phone.

A cold voice came from the other end. "What a bunch of useless trash! Humph, don't blame me for being cruel then."

"Director Lin, are you going to..." Yasmine's heart skipped a beat.

"That's none of your business," Harry interjected.

"Well, Director Lin, I've already banked in twenty million yuan to your account for the business collaboration we talked about yesterday..." Yasmine continued, her voice quivering with fear.

"Humph, I know it. I can still tell right from wrong. Since you're loyal to me, I won't let you down." After finishing his words, he hung up the phone straight away.

After an hour, when William was at home, he suddenly saw Xena running into the house frantically. She plunged into his arms and sobbed, "William, I have bad news. It's all my fault. It's all my fault!"

William frowned at Xena's unusual expression. "Where's Felicity?"

"Just now on our way back home, Felicity was taken away by a group of men. The kidnappers drove a van and snatched her away from me directly. I couldn't even stop it. I'm so sorry. I shouldn't have taken Felicity to go shopping...."

Xena bawled, her eyes swollen.

William's gaze changed right away!

Felicity was kidnapped?

At this point in time?

All of a sudden, William's cell phone rang.

He fished out his phone and saw a photo sent by the kidnappers.

William's head was buzzing when he saw the photo.

In the photo, both Felicity's eyes were close.

But, that was not the most important thing.

She had at least seven wounds on her face! Her entire face was covered with blood!

William could feel his ire fuming inside him through the phone screen.

His entire being was fueled by an intense, growing hatred!

The Lin Family!

Harry Lin!

Very well!

How dared they lay their fingers on his woman?

How dared they hurt Felicity this way?

They were digging their own graves!

After Xena saw the picture, her face turned pale!

She even felt dizzy.

The face of the most beautiful woman in Qena City had been disfigured!

A dissoluble regret filled every corner of her heart and seeped into her every cell.

"William, I'm truly sorry! This is all my fault!" Xena knelt down as she muttered these words.

William held Xena up with one hand.

When his fingers touched Xena, she shivered instinctively.

She couldn't help looking at William's eyes.

As soon as she looked up, she felt goosebumps rising on her skin!

Was this her brother-in-law whom she knew?

Right in front of her, she saw a pair of eyes that were glowing with bloodlust.

At this moment, it seemed that he was ready to kill all the people who dared to go against him!

It was as if he was going to devour all his enemies ravenously!

There were bloodlust and brutality in his eyes!

Flames of rage were licking through William at this moment. He was really angry.

Xena had never seen such a terrifying William before. She was scared out of her wits.

"Harry Lin!" William spat out these two words all of a sudden.

His voice sent a chill down Xena's spine!

It was as if from his tone, she could have already seen a field of massacre sprinkled with blood and corpses!

Harry had gotten on William's nerves!

Suddenly, William took out his cell phone and made a call.

"Old Master Li, it's me, William Lu."

"William, great to hear from you. What's wrong? Why do you call me today?"

"I need a few of your men to slaughter my enemies!"

Xena shuddered when she heard William.

He needed men to slaughter his enemies.

William wanted to take vengeance for Felicity!

On the other end of the phone, Hugo was also puzzled when he heard this.

He took a deep breath and asked, "What happened?"

"You don't have to worry about that. Please send a hundred men of yours. I have to go and uproot a family!" William replied with a frosty tone, its chilliness could freeze the cores of the bones.

At the other end of the phone, Hugo seemed to be able to feel William's coldness. He reminded William instantly, "William, calm down! Do you know what era we are living in right now?"

"Era? This era belongs to the winner! Whoever wins the battle will be worshipped as a king! I will not cease and give in until I'm dead!"

William's every word seemed to have magical power. It awakened the bloodlust that had been buried deep inside Hugo's heart for decades.

Hugo took a deep breath and suppressed his fuming desire in him. He calmed himself down and repeated, "William, you must think twice. You're still young. I don't want you to..."

"Should I then live a meaningless life until your age? Humph, don't you know that I am an arrogant young man? Hugo, what would it make me look like if I never shed a drop of tear or blood? I am in the best years of my life!" William replied ruthlessly and was about to hang up the phone.

But at this time, Hugo roared at the other end of the phone, "Hold on!"

"What would it make me look like if I never shed a drop of tear or blood? I am in the best years of my life!"

When Hugo heard this, he felt as if his heart was being sliced by a sharp knife.

Her eyes turned moist in an instant.

But, his eyes were glistening with myriads of lights!

His desire to kill and maim soared out of his eyes instantly!

He had been fighting on the battlefields for ten years, but he had been living a purposeless life for the last five decades!

Where was the meaning in life?

He was born to fight!

He had been looked down by a young man!

After William hung up the phone, he strode out of the house.

At this time, Xena had come to her senses. She followed him immediately. "William, this happened because of me. I want to go with you!"

William darted Xena an icy-cold gaze. "Are you afraid of death?"

Xena's body trembled, but she shook her head and replied firmly, "If anything bad happens to Felicity because of me, I will live in guilt for the rest of my life. I would rather die than to live a life that way!"

There was a hint of gentleness in William's domineering gaze. "You deserve to be addressed as my sister-in-law! Follow me!"

Xena knew where the Lin family was. She guided William the direction to the Lin family which was about to turn into a battleground.

At this moment, William received a phone call.

It was from Henry.

Henry greeted humbly on the phone, "Junior Divine Doctor Lu, it's me, Henry. May I ask your help to do me a favor?"

"I don't have any time." William was about to hang up.

"Wait, let me finish what I'm going to say. I received a call from Harry Lin of Qena City. He requested me to look for you. I agreed to it as I owed him a big favor. Two days ago, he asked me to treat his son's injury but I couldn't do anything about it. Hence, I recommended you to him. He was willing to pay a huge reward. Please go to the Lin family today. I don't know if you..."

"Okay, I'll go right away."

After William hung up the phone, he shut his eyes. The huge reward that Harry had to pay on this very day was his own life. William swore to smash his bones to ashes!

Chapter 70

When Henry heard that William agreed to go to Harry's house, his face turned red with excitement instantly.

He had owed Harry a favour in his early years. He could finally pay it back.

He called Harry immediately and said, "Director Lin, the divine doctor I mentioned agreed to head over to your house to treat your son now. He will be there in a while. I will go there as soon as I finish my work."

Hearing this, Harry thanked Henry.

He glanced at his son, Fernando who was lying unconsciously in bed. He just could not calm the raging fury inside him.

His son was beaten up so badly by a good-for-nothing of Qena City because of some stupid jealousy?

Harry swore to himself that he must get his revenge!

He had invited Steven to treat Fernando, but he didn't expect that Steven's medical skills were merely pure quackery.

In order to save his own life, Steven had no choice but to mention William's name.

This incident, together with his existing resentment towards William, made Harry fly off the handle right away.

He contacted the Bai family in no time. Since the Bais had been feeling indebted to the Lins, Harry made good use of this fact and demanded them to hand over William to him. He wanted William to pay for his price.

But, the Bai family was clearly incompetent. They couldn't even deal with a good-for-nothing.

Therefore, Harry could only step into this matter by kidnapping Felicity.

Now that Felicity was in his hands, he was convinced that William would definitely come over to him as per his wish.

At this time, Harry received a call from Yasmine again. "Director Lin, my man has given me an update. It seems that that brat, William is on his way to your place now."

Yasmine put on a very humble attitude while speaking to Harry on the phone.

She did not like William either. If she could get rid of him with the help of the Lins, it would be perfect. Besides, she could even get the medical supply orders from the Lins.

Harry's eyes sparkled with a hint of bloodlust. Was William on his way?

It was just right about time!

Harry could not wait to drain William's blood as a way to avenge Fernando.

"Listen up! Go down the mountain and kill him!" Harry shouted.

Upon his order, dozens of people rushed down the mountain at once.

The Lins lived in a villa halfway up a mountain. From the foot of the mountain to their villa, there was a kilometer's distance.

After a while, Xena was completely dumbfounded when she was at the foot of the mountain.

She stood behind William and didn't even dare to take a deep breath!

A group of muscular men was standing in front of William with machetes in their hands!

There were 101 people in total!

They raised the machetes high in the air. The knife blades were reflecting with dazzling sunlight!

These bloodthirsty men's eyes were gleaming with fierceness, their brows squeezed into one line.

The one leading the group had a scar on his face, which seemed to have split his whole face into two parts!

He was Tigger Liu!

He was Hugo's most loyal man who was willing to sacrifice his life for Hugo.

Hugo had been fighting on the battlefields in his early years. After he had retired, he applied what he learned and found himself a group of men for his own use in times of need.

Among them, Tigger was the fiercest and most ruthless!

He was the vilest!

In Qena City, no one dared to look down on Tigger.

Tigger studied the young man in front of him whose eyes were flickering with a tinge of brutality.

Hugo was the only person in Qena City who could give commands to Tigger.

However, this guy dared to instruct him through Hugo indirectly!

Who was he?

William looked at Tigger coldly. "Follow me up the mountain."

Tigger didn't move an inch.

Neither did the one hundred men behind him.

No emotions could be seen in the machetes they wielded in their hands.

Their bloodshot eyes were cold.

As Hugo was not here, Tigger would not simply follow other's orders.

"If you want me, Tigger Liu, to listen to your orders, you must prove yourself!"

William must prove that he had the courage to face death!

William did not look back, and they were staring into each other's cold eyes.

A man behind Tigger yelled, "Who do you think you are? How dare you give commands to Brother Tigger?"

All of a sudden, William made a move!

He walked to the front of the man and snatched away the machete from his hand instantaneously while the crowds were still in an uproar.

He swung the machete!

Blood spilt all over the place right away!

The man had been murdered!

William held the blood-stained machete in his hand and glared at Tigger coldly. "I will be the first and last man who stays on this battleground!"

Both his hands were balled into fists. "I'm not here to make a discussion to persuade you. I'm here..."

"To give you an order!" William glowered at Tigger and clenched his teeth.

"Those who come with me will get the fame whereas those who go against me shall perish in h*ll!"

Their eyes met!

There was a flash of light!

Not a tiny hint of mercy could be found in their eyes!

Tigger narrowed his eyes all of a sudden.

The young man in front of him just killed a person without any hesitation!

There seemed to be another battlefield in his eyes!

He seemed to be forging a weapon inside him!

Who on earth was he?

William dragged the blood-stained machete along the floor and made a screeching sound.

"Follow me up the mountain!"

William pressed his lips firmly together and screamed, "Let's make a way up the mountain!"

"When we see an enemy!" He glanced at the men in front of him.

"We kill!"

The one hundred men were stunned!

William, who was right in front of him, was so domineering and ruthless! No one in this world seemed to be able to exude such an aura.

What kind of man did the Lin family offend?

Tigger moved his eyes.

His heart skipped a beat.

His body moved.

He took a step forward and embarked on this journey that was seemingly ordinary but in actual fact, was bound to be a bloody one.

100 people!

They marched together!

The sound of the machetes scratching along the floor proclaimed the arrival of death.

Everyone was spirited as they trod towards the Lins. They would only retreat glorily after they had secured the victory.

Xena came to her senses and ran up to William.

She was scared out of her wits when she saw William killed a man in public.

Looking at William who had just taken someone's life away, Xena had a strange feeling and emotion about William.

It was as if this was how William was supposed to be!

It was as if William had finally awakened!

This was the true William!

There were tens of millions of men in the world, and there was only one William Lu!

Who would dare or deserve to act like this if not William?

At this moment, Harry was listening to music leisurely. He was imagining William kneeling in front of him when William came later. William would be choking with sobs while begging him.

At this time, his phone rang.

He picked it up and answered casually, "Did you catch him?"

He had set up more than twenty people at the foot of the mountain just to catch William alone.

It was a foolproof plan.

But all of a sudden, a cold voice rang out from the other side of the phone, "Harry Lin, wash your neck. Ten minutes later, I'll come and kill you!"

With a stomp, Harry stood up from his chair and stared at the phone in disbelief. It was indeed from his subordinate's phone!

That voice... how could it be so cold...

Who was this person?

"Wh- wh- who are you? What happened to my men?" Harry roared.

William spat out two words from the other end. "First kill."

Then he hung up the phone.

First kill? What did that mean?

Harry's heart was about to jump out of his throat.

What happened at the foot of the mountain?

17:12

He made a phone call to his other subordinate instantly.

The phone was not connected initially, but after a while, someone called him back.

"Second kill."

The phone was then hung up!

Harry's skin was covered with goosebumps right away!

First kill, second kill!

The person who was on the phone was reporting to Harry a series of numbers!

It was the number of murders he had made!

What a fearless and arrogant man!

"Who on earth dares to come against me?" Harry wondered.

Didn't that man know that he could shake the whole Qena City with just an order?

Harry refused to believe what he had heard. Just as he was about to make another call, his phone rang again.

It was an unregistered phone number.

"Third kill!"

This man was butchering people without any mercy!

He did not even take human lives seriously!

Harry was so enraged that even his moustache quivered.

Was that man a devil that was summoned from h*ll?

Who would report the number of murders to others?

It was as if he was slaughtering others as per his wish!

There were around twenty people who had been guarding the villa. Harry immediately sent a dozen of them to the foot of the mountain to check what had happened.

During this period of time, his phone had been ringing non-stop.

At first, he thought that it was his men who were going to make a report to him.

However, the more calls he picked up, the colder his feet became. Beads of cold sweats broke out along his forehead.

"Third kill, fourth kill, fifth kill!"

Like the voice of a grim reaper, each of these calls resounded in his eardrums.

In the end, he did not dare to answer the phone again.

Watching his phone ring without a pause, he felt as if he had fallen into an ice cellar.

17:12

He waited until he received a call from one of the men whom he had just been sent out.

He picked it up. With a plop, his legs went weak and he keeled over!

"I am William Lu. Here comes the thirtieth kill!"
