

Mr Smith 351

Chapter 351: Because I and Amber Are Good Friends

0 4 minutes read

I heard that my sister was in the hospital, so I came over.

Before he could let this sentence out, Sean sneered and interrupted him, "Even if the White Group's cooperation plan is qualified, Amber will not choose your company!"

"You'd better give up!"

Marcus didn't believe it. His eyebrows were knitted and the look on his handsome face was stubborn and firm, "Why? Our White Group will also be my sister's in the future. If you accept my plan and choose the White Group, you won't suffer any loss!"

Sean laughed.

As expected, Amber's brother was silly and simple-minded.

He bypassed Marcus and did not answer anymore.

Marcus was a little anxious, and followed Sean step by step. He still held a portfolio in his hand, "Sean, this is my new cooperation plan. Please read it."

"If you are not satisfied with it, I can revise it again! I hope your company can give our White Group a chance."

Sean didn't even look back.

The White Group?

How could a second-rate family's company compare with the Smith Group that was standing at the top of the pyramid?

The White Group couldn't satisfy Amber.

Besides, Sherman was the one who ruined Amber's reputation in Tong City back then. Amber may not be so kind as to help the White Group!

"You should hand it to our marketing department."

"Mr. White, our Smith Group has many businesses. If I go through every document, I will be exhausted!"

Marcus pressed his lips.

When Sean reached the ward, Marcus walked in with him unconsciously.

When he saw Lin Man, his pupils contracted.

Lin Man seemed surprised that Sean would show up with Marcus. She greeted Marcus decently.

"Mr. White, we meet again."

Marcus, "Why are you here?"

"Because I and Amber are friends, and so are... Sean and I."

Marcus looked at Sean who was still holding the unlit cigarette in his mouth.

Sean's eyebrow was slightly raised, and there was a slight smile in his deep pupils. He... did not deny it.

"Dad, mom? How come you came back alone?"

When Marcus was stunned, Cindy got close to Sean. Sean was sitting on the edge of the hospital bed. Cindy put her arms around his neck from behind.

"She is behind."

Cindy blinked and her long, thick eyelashes fluttered. She looked a lot like Sean. Marcus's eyes lit up.

He had met Cindy before, but at that time, he was only talking about cooperation with Amber, and didn't have time to talk to her.

Suddenly meeting her again, Marcus felt soft in his heart, thinking that Cindy was good-looking.

"Cindy? Are you Cindy?"

Cindy looked at him and nodded. Her eyes were filled with some resistance and alertness.

Marcus noticed that, and his feelings hurt a little, "I'm your uncle!"

"No, mom said she had no relatives!"

Cindy retorted without hesitation, "Mom said I only had mom and dad, and no uncle!"

"You are a liar."

With that, Cindy stood up and then sat down beside Sean.

Marcus said anxiously, "Cindy, I am indeed your uncle!"

"I can give you small gifts, but others would not do that, right?"

Cindy hesitated.

She tilted her head and looked at Sean, "Dad, is he really my uncle?"

Sean glanced at Marcus calmly.

Amber obviously didn't want to recognize this family member. Sean chuckled and nodded without hesitation, "Yes, he is."

"He is related to you by blood."

The smile on Marcus's face widened, and he looked at Cindy without blinking.

"If you want anything, uncle can buy it for you."

Cindy didn't believe Sean's words totally, but her eyes brightened when she heard Marcus's words.

She stared at Marcus eagerly. Sean's expression was gloating.

Didn't Amber spoil her daughter very much?

Didn't she always grant whatever Amber wanted?

Why would Cindy be so surprised when she heard that Marcus would give her a gift?

Was she just pretending to be nice to Cindy in front of him?

Sean reached out, picked up the lighter on the table, lit the cigarette, and took a deep drag. The thick white smoke floated out from his mouth, blurring the expression on his face in an instant.

"Cindy?"

"I...I want a puppy."

Cindy licked her lips and the desire in her eyes could hardly be restrained.

"On Saturdays and Sundays, my mother is busy. I'm home alone and want to have a dog to keep me company."

Amber was busy on Saturdays and Sundays?

Saturdays and Sundays were not workdays. What could Amber be busy with?

Was she busy with seducing men?

It was indeed inconvenient to take Cindy with her!

Sean sneered. Being Amber's daughter was pitiful.

Lin Man, who was sitting aside, tilted her head and glanced at Cindy.

Marcus was overjoyed when he heard this, "Then I'll bring you a puppy over tomorrow!"

Cindy remembered what Amber had said. She actually wanted to refuse, but after a long pause, she whispered, "Thank you."

Marcus smiled contentedly. At this time, Amber held a document and walked in.

Her expression was indifferent, but she was a person that couldn't be ignored. Marcus saw her and subconsciously stood up straight, "Sister."

"What are you doing here?"

Marcus licked the corner of his lips and handed over the cooperation plan in his hand, "I have revised this cooperation plan..."

"The Smith Group will not cooperate with the White Group!"

Her voice was cold and she spaced the words for emphasis. She looked at Marcus, as if she was looking at a stranger.

Marcus saw the cold look in her eyes. All the words he wanted to say stuck in his throat.

Lin Man stood up and whispered, "Amber, don't be so sure. If the White Group's cooperation plan is really suitable for the Smith Group, you won't consider it, either?"

Amber turned her eyes and looked at Lin Man, "Miss Lin, how about I give up the position of marketing director to you?"

"Then you can work with the White Group at will."

Lin Man's eyes moved, "Amber, I'm just, you know, saying."

Amber handed the file in his hand to Lin Man, "Miss Lin, just mind your business."

"Before I left the hospital, I told you that during the recuperation, Sean's diet should be mild, and he should quit smoking and drinking!"

Chapter 352: Amber, You Misunderstood Me

0 4 minutes read

"If you really persuaded Sean, he would definitely listen to you. However, his breakfast was Fried Egg in Sauce. He still smoked every day. What are you going to give him for dinner?"

"Meat Dumplings in Spicy Sauce? Chopped Pepper Fish Head?"

Lin Man was speechless. Amber smiled, "Why? Sean stays in the hospital. You two can be together, so you want him to stay in the hospital forever?"

Lin Man panicked, "Amber, I didn't know..."

"You misunderstood me."

Sean was sitting across from Lin Man and saw her begging expression in her pupils. He clenched his fist.

How impressive Amber was! She dared to shout at Lin Man like this in front of him. Then how did she drive Lin Man away three years ago?

Lin Man was forced to go abroad and did not dare to contact him for three years. What did Amber do?

The corner of Sean's lips curved into a cold arc. He leaned forward, taking away what was in Amber's hand.

It was not a file, but Sean's medical record.

There were so many technical terms that Sean couldn't understand at all.

He scanned it at random, and then tore it in half without hesitation.

"I'm the one who wanted Fried Egg in Sauce and wanted to smoke. I like the atmosphere of the hospital. I love Lin Man to take care of me!"

"Didn't you say you are not coming to the hospital? Didn't you say that you have taken care of Lin Man's husband for three years?"

“How much are you going to charge for that? Since Lin Man is back, shouldn’t you give up your position to her?”

Amber raised her eyes slightly, and met Sean’s gaze. His eyelashes were long and thin. He was sitting with gauze wrapped in his hands, so his smoking action looked a little stiff.

There was a small burn on his neck. He stayed in the hospital for a few days, but he wasn’t disheveled. Sitting there, he was like the sunlight coming through the window,

Amber’s heart contracted slightly.

“You deliberately ate those things?”

The atmosphere was tense and heavy. Marcus shrank back involuntarily.

His sister and brother-in-law were so aggressive that he didn’t dare to cut in.

“Yes, so what?”

“Why should I recover quickly, leave hospital and face your nasty face?”

“Amber, it’s been three years. You still have no self-knowledge?”

Amber’s lips were pressed tightly.

She suddenly laughed.

Sean frowned and glanced at her.

Was Amber insane?

Why did she laugh?

Lin Man stepped forward and tugged at Sean’s sleeves, “Sean, why are you talking to Amber like that?”

“Amber, don’t listen to him. He thinks about you. He called your name in his dream last night and even thought of me as you...”

Lin Man stopped suddenly, and covered her mouth. Panic flashed across her eyes.

Sean was a little confused.

He called Amber’s name in his dream?

Why?

He looked at Lin Man subconsciously. He had the habit of talking in sleep in the middle of the night?

Why didn’t he know that?

However, Marcus had a confused and shocked expression.

Last night?

How did Lin Man know that Sean called his sister’s name?

Did they sleep together last night?

Weren't they good friends?

Marcus looked at Amber and wanted to see her expression. After Amber finished laughing, she didn't speak again.

Cindy, who was standing beside her, pounced into Sean's arms.

Sean was sitting on the hospital bed. Cindy did not hesitate and pinched his waist.

The place she pinched was the burn on his waist. Sean's face turned pale in an instant.

The fine and dense cold sweat instantly oozed from his forehead, and the sharp pain came from his waist, occupying all his senses.

Sean grunted and threw Cindy out.

Fortunately, Marcus moved quickly and caught Cindy in his arms.

Sean's pupils contracted.

It hurt too much. His actions were all conditioned reflexes. After he threw Cindy out, his eyelids jumped.

Seeing that Cindy was okay, he slowly breathed a sigh of relief, and then looked at her with a sullen face, "Brat, why did you do that?"

Amber was startled, and then took Cindy over.

There was a fierceness in Cindy's eyes. She tilted her head, "Sean, bastard!"

Sean nearly laughed in exasperation.

Bastard?

Was Amber's daughter possessed?

A few days ago, she still called him father sweetly and pleased him in every way. At the moment, she directly called his name and called him bastard!

Maybe Amber found out that the gentle approach was not working, so she changed her strategy.

Sean couldn't help but cursed.

But he couldn't get angry with a three-year-old child.

"Amber, what a good daughter you have! Did you tell her to do that!?"

Amber held Cindy in her arms. Before she could speak, Cindy said, "Dad, does it hurt?"

Sean's eyes flickered.

Cindy snorted, "Mom is in pain, and so am I!"

The corners of her eyes were red.

Sean actually felt a little guilty.

He pondered, "Is it possible that Cindy has reached a rebellious stage?"

No, he lowered his eyes. No, she was Amber's daughter. What did that have anything to do with him?

"Amber, Sean is so badly hurt. You..."

"You talk to Cindy properly and tell her not to do such a thing again!"

Amber glanced at her carelessly, "Miss Lin, she pinched her own dad!"

"When you were young, would your mother scold you if you pinched your father?"

Marcus, "..."

The atmosphere in the ward was weird. He really couldn't stay any longer. He swallowed and said in a low voice, "Si...Sister, I suddenly remember that I...I have something to do. I'm leaving."

Amber nodded.

"Thank you for saving Cindy, but don't come to me in the future. The Smith Group won't cooperate with your company!"

Marcus, "..."

But why did he feel that he had a chance?

At this time, Marcus didn't dare to answer, but just nodded and said, "Then I'll walk myself out."

As soon as Marcus left, Lin Man stretched out her hand and wiped her tears. She bit her lip, "Sean, I'm sorry. I've made things worse. I can't take care of you anymore. I'll go back."

"Don't talk so aggressively to Amber."

"You should talk it over. It's all my fault. I didn't mean to affect the relationship between you two..."

Sean sneered. He took out the car key from the bedside and whispered, "Lin Man, you overthink. The relationship between me and Director White has never been good!"

Chapter 353: Director White Is Generous

"I'll send you back."

"No, don't bother!"

"It's so late. I can't let you go back alone!"

"Lin Man, don't worry. Director White is very generous and won't take this little thing to heart!"

Amber did not answer.

Lin Man stood up, and Amber sat down on the chair next to the bed. She lowered her eyes slightly, and the light above her head was on, reflecting on her face.

“No, Sean, it’s not dark yet. The doctors in the hospital just got off work, and the hospital is in the city center. I’ll be safe.”

“You and Amber should talk. I’m leaving, and I will see you tomorrow.”

After Lin Man finished speaking, she took her handbag and left the ward before Sean could react.

She walked quickly. Her red dress left a gentle and beautiful arc in the air.

When she got out of the ward, she saw Marcus who was tall and handsome. He seemed to be thinking about something with his eyes lowered. Lin Man walked behind him. Marcus didn’t find her until he reached the gate of the hospital.

Marcus was emotional and simple-minded. Seeing Lin Man, he blurted out, “Why are you following me?”

Lin Man smiled. Her smile was soft, and her eyes were clean, “Mr. White, the gate of the hospital is here. I’m leaving the hospital, and this is the only way which must be passed. Isn’t it too much to say I’m following you?”

Marcus paused. In the ward, he saw the way Lin Man and Amber get along, and didn’t believe that she and Amber were friends.

He cast a stern glance at Lin Man and then walked directly in the direction of the underground parking lot.

Lin Man stopped him and said in a low voice, “Mr. White, I don’t have a car. Can you give me a ride?”

“Our destinations are not in the same direction!”

“You don’t know where I am going. Isn’t it too early to say this?”

Marcus smiled, “Miss Lin, why are you so cheeky? Can’t you tell that I’m rejecting you?”

Lin Man’s eyes turned red in an instant. She bit her lip and walked outside the hospital silently. The sun was still hanging in the air. Her shadow was stretched very long, which made her look very lonely.

Marcus pressed his lips. Lin Man didn’t look like a bad person. Was what he said too harsh?

After hesitating, Marcus took the car and followed Lin Man. She walked along the green belt, keeping her head down with tears in her eyes. She looked extremely pitiful.

Marcus frowned, rolled down the car window, and said in a low voice, “Forget it, where are you going? I’ll give you a ride.”

Lin Man didn’t speak, nor did she approach his car. She quickened her pace with tears in her eyes.

“If you don’t get in the car, I’ll drive away.”

Lin Man, “...”

Marcus took a deep breath. He said sullenly, "I apologize. I was wrong."

"But you, an unmarried woman, came between my sister and my brother-in-law. Don't you think you are shameless?"

Lin Man sneered. Her eyes were filled with indifference.

"Does Amber recognize you?"

"Mr. White, does she you are taking up the cudgels for her?"

"I heard that you studied abroad and just came back recently? You'd better figure out the truth first. At least you should figure out who came between whom!"

Lin Man finished speaking, stopped a taxi, got in, and left.

Marcus, "..."

Was his sister the other woman?

Amber didn't know what happened between Marcus and Lin Man.

After Lin Man and Marcus left, the doctor came to the ward and wanted to remove the indwelling needle for Sean.

Sean frowned.

The indwelling needle had an analgesic effect. As soon as the doctor showed up, Sean glanced at Amber.

After she came back from the doctor's office, the doctor came to remove the needle. Sean was suspicious that it was Amber's idea.

Besides, he heard more than half of what the doctor said to Amber. He didn't trust Amber.

After the needle was removed, Sean lay on his side on the bed.

Amber sat in a chair, peeling an orange for Cindy and watching her doing homework.

She was very good. Especially when Lin Man was away, she was not so hostile, sitting there like a cute doll.

Cindy took a bite of the orange, and Sean's eyes deepened.

"Amber, did you do that deliberately?"

Amber was a little confused, "What are you talking about?"

"Did you instruct your daughter to pinch my injury?"

Sean's eyes were cold like ice.

He thought that Amber would deny it.

In the end, she nodded without evasiveness, "If you think I did that, I won't deny."

“You!”

He squinted.

Did she admit it?

Cindy was a kid. How could she know exactly where his injury was on his waist?

He didn't believe it had nothing to do with Amber!

“My mother asked you to look after me. You either left me to Lin Man or asked your daughter to pinch me. This is how you take care of me?”

Amber looked up, smiled, and asked, “Are you going to tell your mom about this?”

Did she think he liked to complain to his parents like her?

Sean took out the ointment and threw it to Amber, “Apply the medicine!”

Amber took it.

She lowered her head and glanced at the words on it. It was the ointment she bought.

Amber didn't mean to refuse. She stretched out her hand and opened the drawer. She remembered that there was a scar softening ointment in it that could be used together.

Finding the ointment, Amber raised her eyes and said in a low voice, “Take off your shirt.”

Sean raised his eyebrow.

Was it necessary to take off his shirt? Was Amber trying to take advantage of him?

Sean frowned for a while and then took off his shirt.

His figure was well proportioned. The muscles of his waist and abdomen were tight and smooth, but Amber was not in the mood to appreciate it.

There were too many injuries on him. On his arm, there was also the scar from the last car accident. The burn on his waist and abdomen was very serious.

The whip scars and scald on his back were intertwined, and the skin was taut. Amber felt like her heart being pinched.

Last time, she only applied medicine on his chest and didn't see the injuries on his back.

Amber's eyes darkened. This was what an earring left for him.

Seeing her in a daze, Sean opened his mouth impatiently, “What? Seeing my injuries, are you very satisfied?”

“Are you very happy, wishing to tell the whole world?”

The dark light in Amber's eyes suddenly dissipated. She took out two cotton swabs and squeezed the ointment onto them. When Sean saying this, she pressed them directly on his wound.

Chapter 354: Cut the Crap

0 4 minutes read

Sean gasped in pain.

He frowned deeply, forcing down the painful cry that almost got out of his mouth.

“It hurts a bit. Tough it out.”

Sean snorted deeply.

Was he a kid in her eyes?

“Cut the crap.”

Amber fell silent. The pain in Sean’s back almost occupied all of his senses. The burning sensation stung him and his forehead covered with a thin layer of cold sweat.

It hurt like hell. It was the kind of pain that couldn’t be ignored at all.

Sean closed his eyes.

A small hand covered his forehead gently. Cindy helped wiped the sweat on Sean’s forehead.

Sean raised his eyes and looked into Cindy’s big eyes.

“What are you doing?”

Cindy wiped the sweat on Sean carefully, “Dad, fortunately you didn’t hurt your face, otherwise you would be ugly.”

Sean was speechless.

It was okay to be ugly.

He was not an unmarried woman. What was the use of being pretty?

“Go aside!”

Cindy didn’t listen to him, “Dad, does it hurt?”

Sean, “...You tell me?”

His tone was as usual, but if they heard it carefully, they could find that his tone was quite soft.

“Dad, I’m sorry, I shouldn’t have pinched you!”

Sean gave Cindy a deep look.

What was the use of apologizing?

Could he get back at her?

Sean tilted his head. As soon as he made a move, Cindy held his face, and pressed her small face tightly against his forehead.

“Dad, don’t blame me.”

Sean was a little impatient. He subconsciously stretched out his hand to stabilize Cindy and said with obvious disgust in his eyes, “Go away!”

“You stink!”

“No!”

Cindy circled Sean’s neck tightly, snuggling into his arms.

She was small and soft. Sean couldn’t push her away, and his face grew gloomy.

“Dad, can you not embarrass mom when there are outsiders?”

Did Amber instruct her to say this?

She didn’t want to negotiate with him, so she let her daughter do that?

She might have thought too highly of Cindy.

She really thought he would agree to all the conditions that Cindy put forward?

Sean closed his eyes, and didn’t answer.

“Dad, if you agree, I will listen to you from now on.”

Sean was a little tempted.

“Cindy, dad has injuries. Don’t be so close to him. Be careful of being infected!”

The corner of Sean’s mouth twitched.

Could burns be contagious?

Amber regarded him as a virus?

Why would she apply the medicine for him if she disliked him so much?

Thinking about it, he subconsciously held Cindy more tightly.

Amber was stunned for a moment, “Sean, I’ve applied the medicine for the wounds on your back. You put Cindy down. I’ll apply the medicine on your chest.”

Sean didn’t let go of Cindy. The corners of his mouth were slightly curved, and he said with a strong sarcasm, “I haven’t infected your daughter yet!”

A trace of smile appeared in Amber’s eyes, “I was just bluffing Cindy. You’ve taken it to your heart?”

“I was worried that she would touch your injuries, so I said that on purpose.”

Sean was holding Cindy, wondering what he should do!

The feeling in his heart was inexplicable.

That was the reason?

No. Amber's purpose would never be so simple!

What did she want to express?

She was worried about he would be in pain? Was she going to say she loved him so much and cannot live without him?

She wanted to cheat him out of money?

Or she wanted to win his favor?

"Put Cindy down."

Sean sneered, "Then should I hold you?"

"I'm sorry. I am injured. A pig is too heavy for me!"

Amber, "..."

She pressed the corner of her lips, and the atmosphere was stiff.

Cindy got out of Sean's arms, patted his shoulder generously, and said, "Dad, I'll let you hold me when you recover."

"At that time, we will go on a roller coaster."

Cindy successfully distracted Sean. Amber knelt on the bed and applied medicine for Sean carefully.

Because the burn was on Sean's lower abdomen, Amber bent over and lowered her head. Sean subconsciously looked at Amber's face, which was as smooth as jade. Her eyelashes cast a small fan-shaped shadow on her face.

The burning pain on his waist and abdomen gradually disappeared, and he could even feel Amber's thin breath sprinkling on his waist and abdomen.

With the air conditioner on, Sean felt a little hot.

He grabbed Amber's waist with his hands, picked her up from the bed, and threw her behind him.

Amber was caught off guard and was a little dizzy, "Sean?"

Sean took the ointment from Amber, "I'll do this myself. I'm hungry. Prepare dinner for me."

Amber said okay.

She arranged her messy hair.

She climbed from behind him to the edge of the bed. They were a short distance away, "What do you want for dinner?"

Sean glanced at her deeply, "I want to eat Steamed Fish Head with Diced Hot Red Peppers!"

Amber, "..."

She put on her shoes and glanced around the ward. There was an independent kitchenette in the ward. She licked the corner of her lips and said in a low voice, "You and Cindy stay here. I will go to the supermarket to buy some ingredients. I'll make some food in the ward for you, okay"

She would make the food?

Amber really did not let go of any chance to please him!

He glanced at Amber with a faint smile, and nodded.

Amber told Cindy not to monkey around before getting out of the hospital.

Amber came back half an hour later. When she came, she was holding a dessert in her hand, "Grab a bite, and I will make dinner right away."

Sean didn't like sweets.

He unpacked it and snorted.

Obviously, Amber bought this dessert for her daughter.

What a hypocritical woman!

Sean pushed the dessert directly to Cindy, "Here you are!"

Cindy refused, "Dad, mom won't let me eat sweets. She said that there will be worms in my teeth!"

"Dad, are you afraid of worms too?"

Of course not!

What did Amber mean?

Did she buy this for herself?

Sean took a deep breath, tilted on the bed, and the corner of his mouth twitched.

He was indeed hungry.

At noon, he didn't eat much.

Although he had an indwelling needle in him, it did not work much. His injuries hurt, and it was summer, so he had no appetite at all.

Chapter 355: Because You Are Handsome

0 4 minutes read

When Amber brought out the first dish, Sean was reading a picture-story book with one arm around Cindy.

He was holding a small fork in the other hand that was wrapped in gauze. His movement was not very flexible, and he gave Cindy a bite of cake from time to time.

Neither of them noticed that Amber walked out of the kitchen.

Sean didn't raise his head until she approached and put the dish on the table.

He froze, and then dropped the fork in his hand on the table.

A smile flashed across Amber's eyes. Sean's eyebrows were knitted and he whispered, "Why are you looking at me?"

"Because you are handsome."

The expression on Sean's face was more subtle. He had known Amber for a long time, but it was the first time she complimented him on his appearance.

And she complimented him so straightforwardly.

The corner of Sean's mouth twitched. She was trying to find a breakthrough on him. Anyway, she was up to something!

Sean didn't answer. Amber handed him a pair of chopsticks and whispered, "Didn't you say you are hungry? Eat a little."

He reached out and took them.

Amber turned around and went to the kitchen. Sean took a piece of egg and put it in his mouth.

It may be because of Cindy, the egg she made was soft. Although its taste was mild, it was exceptionally delicious.

Sean paused, and his eyebrows were knitted.

He suddenly realized that after being hospitalized, his life was too depraved.

Not only did he calmly accept Amber's care, but he also got well along with Cindy.

As if what happened three years ago never happened, he and she were an ordinary couple who respected each other.

Holding the chopsticks, Sean was in a trance for while, and Cindy suddenly leaned forward to him.

"Dad, is mom's cooking better than the food auntie Lin bought?"

Sean's eyes deepened, and the corners of his mouth were raised mockingly, "Are you serious?"

"The food Lin Man bought was made by the chef of a Michelin-starred restaurant!" Then, Sean picked up a piece of egg. "What is your mother made? There's not even a hint of salt in the egg!"

"Doesn't she even have the money to buy salt?"

The kitchen was not far from the hospital bed, and Sean didn't lower his voice. She paused with the shovel in her hand, and forced out a smile.

He was saying this deliberately.

The thoughts in Amber's heart slowly dissipated, and she pressed her lips, preparing the meal smoothly.

Halfway through the meal, Sean's mother came.

She wore a pair of high heels and a decent dress, with a touch of lightness on her well-maintained face.

"Amber, you come out with me. I have some questions for you."

She came in but didn't talk to Sean or look at Cindy. She talked to Amber first with an unkind tone.

Amber put down her chopsticks.

Cindy blinked, "Grandma, what are you going to ask mom? Can't dad and I listen?"

"Don't cut in when adults speak. Be polite!"

Cindy pressed the corner of her mouth and kept silent.

Sean's interest in eating was ruined by the appearance of Mrs. Smith.

He turned his head and glanced at Cindy. She held the chopsticks tightly, and her big eyes were filled with tears.

She looked pitiful.

What was the matter with Amber's daughter? Wasn't she very strong when she was with him?

Why was she so timid when she met his mother?

Did Amber teach her to have different reactions when meeting different people? They knew the characters of his family quite comprehensively!

Anyway, he was the only one who was easy to be bullied by them, wasn't he?

"Was she impolite? Mom, as soon as you walked in, she called you grandma! But you ignored her and talked to her in an aggressive tone."

"Didn't you choose Amber and her for me in person?"

The corner of Sean's lips curved with sarcasm, "Why, before you came, you had a fight with dad?"

Mrs. Smith looked sullen and gave Sean a ferocious look.

There was no expression on Amber's face. She asked Cindy to eat obediently and followed Mrs. Smith out.

It was hot outside. The sky was getting darker, and the street lights were all lit up. The colorful landscape lights penetrated the night of the city, reflecting a different kind of beauty.

The wind in the hospital was mixed with impetuous enthusiasm.

Mrs. Smith suddenly stopped, turned around, and looked at Amber firmly.

Her expression was engulfed by the night but her gaze was deep and scary.

“Mom, what’s the matter?”

Amber had a slight smile on her face.

Mrs. Smith snorted, “Stop playing dumb. You promised that you would take good care of Sean, but you went back on your word secretly!”

Amber paused, “What?”

“Sean didn’t get better at all. The doctor asked you to pay close attention to his condition, and that was what you did?”

“If I hadn’t called the attending doctor today, I wouldn’t have known this!”

“What a good daughter-in-law!”

Amber took a deep breath, and Mrs. Smith pressed forward step by step, “I also heard that Sean was so badly injured because he was trying to save you. Is this the result of you taking care of him?!”

Amber’s eyelashes fluttered.

Sean was injured because of Lin Man’s earrings.

But she told Mrs. Smith this, Mrs. Smith would not believe her. Maybe she would think that it was just an excuse!

But if she didn’t say it, Mrs. Smith would think what she said was true!

Mrs. Smith was furious.

Amber knew medicine, but she couldn’t even take care of Sean?

When Amber married Sean, Tomas said that she loved Sean very much. It was not right, was it?

She didn’t know Amber loved Sean or not, but she could tell that Amber was trying to get Sean killed!

She only had such a son. She couldn’t let her do that!

Thinking about it, Mrs. Smith took out a document from her handbag and stuffed it into Amber’s hand.

“I have prepared the divorce agreement for you.”

“The Smith Group’s 5% of the shares will be given to you, but there is a condition. If one day, Sean really suffers from blood cancer, no matter where you are, no matter what you are doing, you must appear as soon as possible and donate bone marrow to Sean!”

Amber subconsciously took the document.

Chapter 356: It Is Enough to Buy All Your Bone Marrow

0 4 minutes read

After hearing what Mrs. Smith said, she held the document and flipped through it.

The terms were clearly listed.

It even clearly marked that Cindy was not Sean's biological daughter and did not have the right to inherit the Smith Group at any time!

After the divorce, Amber must not disturb Sean's life for any reason or in any place!

In fact, it was more like an ancient divorce letter.

In this document, she had no human rights at all.

Amber suddenly laughed. She spoke bluntly to Mrs. Smith for the first time, "Mom, you think the earth revolves around the Smith family?"

Mrs. Smith's eyes widened in an instant, "The Smith Group's 5% shares are enough to buy all your bone marrow!"

"If I were you, I would definitely sign it without hesitation!"

"Amber, I advise you not to be too greedy, otherwise you will get nothing!"

Amber smiled and waved the divorce agreement in her hand, and asked in a low voice, "Mom, does dad know this?"

A trace of guilty flashed across Mrs. Smith's eyes, quickly, "Of course he knows. You think he really likes you that much?"

"Amber, no matter how good you are, in Tomas's heart, Sean is much more important than you!"

"Really?"

Amber was not worried. She took out the phone from her pocket. "Then I will call dad and ask. If this document has been approved by him, I will sign it immediately!"

Mrs. Smith panicked.

Tomas said that he wouldn't allow Sean to divorce Amber unless Sean severed his relations with the Smith family.

"Wait!"

Mrs. Smith shouted, and Amber handed the document back, "Mom, take this document back, otherwise I will send it directly to dad and see what he will say."

Mrs. Smith's ears were buzzing. She looked at Amber bitterly, "You are threatening me?!"

"Amber, don't you just want the property of our Smith family?"

"Believe it or not, I will ask Tomas to make a will tomorrow. Once Sean is dead, all of the Smith Group's shares will be donated to charity in the name of Sean!"

"I will let you get nothing!"

“I don’t care. It’s you and dad’s business. You don’t need to tell me!”

After Amber finished speaking, she turned around and returned to the ward.

When she reached the ward, Cindy was pestering Sean, asking him to find her mother with her.

Sean was motionless.

He finished more than half of the dishes and ate a bowl of porridge.

He was not curious about the conversation between his mother and Amber.

“Dad, let’s go find mom, okay? Grandma is so fierce!”

His mother was fierce?

His mother had never been mean to Cindy.

At most, she had a few quarrels with Amber.

Amber was so arrogant. In his whole family, only his mother could pin her down!

It was good to teach Amber a lesson!

Sean stretched out and pushed Cindy away, “Go by yourself. I’ll continue eating!”

“Dad, didn’t you say that mom’s cooking is not delicious?”

“You’re almost done eating, but mom hasn’t eaten yet!”

Sean paused while biting the tender tip of bamboo shoots. He lowered his eyes slightly, and saw Amber who had been standing at the door of the ward for some time from the corner of his eye.

A layer of black clouds covered his eyebrows in an instant.

“Director White, you are also interested in eavesdropping on my conversation with a kid?”

Amber paused, “That makes the two of us.”

Sean was speechless. He indeed eavesdropped on the conversation between her and Cindy last time.

Amber walked in on her five centimeters high high heels. She rolled up her sleeves and revealed her fair-complexioned forearms.

Sean’s eyes darkened.

The dishes on the table had almost been eaten up. After Amber finished talking to Mrs. Smith, she lost her appetite, so she simply cleaned the dishes on the table.

“Where is my mom? How come you came back alone?”

Amber didn’t look up, “I don’t know. She has probably gone back.”

Sean was suspicious.

They only spent a short time talking. Sean's eyes became deeper and deeper. He fixedly looked at Amber and asked in a low voice.

"What did my mother talk about with you?"

Amber suddenly laughed.

"Sean, you wouldn't want to know."

"Huh?" Sean blinked, "Tell me!"

Amber stopped cleaning the dishes. She pulled the chair open, sat down on it, and said in a low voice, "Your mother accused me of not taking good care of you."

"Are you speaking ill of my mother?"

"Or, you want to tell me that my mother is mean to you?"

Amber sighed, "Sean, you asked me to tell you what we talked about. After I told you, you thought I'm speaking ill of her?"

"You know that I just told the truth."

He didn't know!

Sean sneered.

Amber's mind was full of tricks. It was possible that she was speaking ill of his mother!

Comparing with Amber, his mother was innocent and kind.

Sean's dark pupils moved and landed on Amber coldly.

"Anything else?"

Looking aside, Amber saw that Cindy didn't notice what they were talking about. She said with mockery, "She also brought a divorce agreement and asked me to sign it."

"All the regulations of the agreement are only favorable to you. I am required to maintain the three principles of, not disturbing you, not pestering you, and being ready to contribute bone marrow at any time."

Sean's breath suddenly became heavy.

Amber added, "However, your mother promised that as long as I sign it, she will give me 5% of the Smith Group's shares!"

Sean's fierce gaze fell on Amber in the next second. He stared straight at Amber's face, as if he could see her through.

"You've signed it?"

When she returned, she did not have any documents in her hand.

Therefore, Amber might have signed the divorce agreement without notifying him.

5% of the Smith Group's shares.

It was indeed a big temptation, which was enough for Amber to spend for the rest of her life with her daughter!

It was also enough for her and Lu Yi to be together forever!

Amber looked at him calmly. She smiled cleanly and gently, "It seems that you don't want me to sign it!"

"Why, are you reluctant to divorce me?"

Sean seemed to hear a big joke and said coldly, "Of course!"

"It's too wasteful to give you the shares!"

"Are you worthy of getting shares from me? I've said before, you won't get a penny from me!"

Chapter 357: I Would Never Change My Mind

0 4 minutes read

"Amber, I would never change my mind!"

Amber's breath paused.

She was looking into Sean's dark pupils. There was no warmth in them except for endless indifference.

Sean was not joking. He was serious, and worried that she would get anything from him!

Amber pressed the corners of his lips and smiled silently, "You underestimate me too much. I occupy the position of Mrs. Smith. I will get more one day."

"Don't worry, I didn't sign it!"

Sean's breathing gradually slowed down after he heard this.

He stared at Amber. The emotions in his chest surged up in an instant.

Look, it wasn't that he had wronged her. She admitted it herself.

She coveted the Smith Group and everything in the Smith family.

Back then, he even asked Amber if it was because she loved him so much that she insisted on marrying him. What a big joke!

Sean's eyebrows were knitted and he looked at Amber firmly. His eyes were vast, like the quiet and secluded night sky.

Amber's expression remained unchanged. She took the dishes into the kitchen.

When she came out, Sean was no longer in the ward. She asked Cindy.

"Where is your dad?"

Cindy shook her head ignorantly, "He is out."

Amber asked again, "When did he go out?"

"Not long after you went into the kitchen."

Amber stroke Cindy's head and said in a low voice, "Cindy, wait for me in the ward. I will go find your dad."

Cindy said okay.

Sean was hurt badly. He didn't go far. When Amber caught up with him, he just reached the parking lot.

Hearing Amber's voice, Sean stopped at the gate of the parking lot.

He was wearing a straight white shirt. Seeing her, Sean took a cigarette out of the cigarette case and held it in his mouth.

Almost as soon as Sean took out the lighter, Amber snatched it over.

Sean's eyes deepened, "What are you doing?"

"Why, I can't even smoke in front of you now?"

Amber smiled nonchalantly, "Sean, you are injured. You'd better not to smoke. I will keep the lighter for you for the time being."

Sean chuckled.

Only his death would satisfy Amber. Would she care if he smoked or not?

Amber was probably enjoying the feeling of disciplining him!

This was her revenge!

Sean didn't want to take it back, but raised his eyes, giving Amber a calm look.

"Since you like it, I will give this to you. I will buy another."

"You should stay in the ward and look after your daughter. Why are you following me out here?"

Amber stood still, "Where are you going? You need to have a drip later. You should know better than me about this!"

Sean responded with a more lazy attitude.

"The nightlife has just begun. So I am going to have some fun!"

"You want me to stay in the ward and face your unpleasant face?"

Amber also smiled, "Sean, with your current physical condition, you will only worsen your injuries!"

"You'd better stay in the ward and recuperate!"

When Amber spoke, Sean was staring at her firmly.

Her eyes light up, and her smile was sincere.

Sean snorted. He really married a generous wife!

“That’s better than looking at your unpleasant face.”

Sean said, turning around, and was about to leave.

Amber grabbed his arm. He looked back, looking at her impatiently.

In the night, Amber looked very attractive.

“Sean, please listen to me. On the day you leave hospital, I will return Lin Man’s token of love to you.”

Sean suddenly stopped.

Amber felt a little sad. It seemed that only Lin Man could stop him.

“I protect the watch very well, but it is Lin Man’s thing after all. It is not safe to put it with me.”

“If you want to take it back sooner, rehabilitate tamely.”

Lights scattered behind Amber, making her look very serious.

Sean almost believed her words.

“How can I believe you?”

“The last time you also said that after solving Cindy’s school problem, you would return the watch to me!”

“But in fact, you haven’t given it back to me!”

Amber smiled, “Sean, I’m doing this for your health. You should not bargain with me!”

“Last time, I asked you to apologize to Xiaopang’s parents. But you didn’t do it! Strictly speaking, I didn’t break my promise!”

She was quibbling!

What happened that time was obviously a trick!

“Follow me back and apply medicine!”

“You’ll have a drip at night. Sean, you can believe me!”

“You should listen to me. I will let you out of the hospital as soon as possible.”

Sean’s eyes were deeper, and almost blend with the night.

He fixedly looked at Amber, and asked disdainfully, “When can I discharge at the earliest?”

“Half a month later!”

“In one week!”

Amber blinked and whispered, "You will be discharged tomorrow, but you need to live in Xingyue Bay, or Hai Wan Xiang Xie."

"You have to recuperate, and I need to be around you."

Sean was tempted.

But he didn't believe Amber at all.

Why did she want him to live in Xingyue Bay? Maybe his father would know about his discharge right after he moved into it.

"Is Xingyue Bay suitable for living?"

Amber said, "Sean, I lived there with Cindy for three years!"

"Moreover, I suggest you choose Xingyue Bay. There are a lot of medicines in it. Hai Wan Xiang Xie is more like a hotel!"

Sean, "..."

Sean couldn't outargue Amber. Then they went back to the ward together.

Probably they were outside for too long. When they came back, Cindy was already asleep.

Sean entered the door and sat directly on the bed. Cindy lay in the middle of the bed.

Cindy was beautiful and had a pink face. Amber took care of her very well. There was already no trace of the previous burn.

He lay down on the hospital bed, and suddenly remembered that when Cindy burned, Amber used the ointment he used on her.

A stream of light flashed across his eyes.

Amber hadn't given up making him accept that Cindy was his daughter?

Chapter 358: You Have the Wrong Number

0 4 minutes read

With that in mind, Sean lay on the edge of the bed, sleeping.

Amber washed up and returned to the ward. Sean had closed his eyes but she didn't know if he was asleep.

He lay on the edge of the bed, and was likely to fall off at any time.

Amber frowned, took off her shoes and lay down beside Cindy.

The temperature in the room was low, and Amber tucked in Sean and Cindy before she fell asleep.

It was a peaceful night.

When Amber woke up, it was already dawn.

Cindy and Sean were still asleep. She sat up, turned her head, and saw Sean put his arms around Cindy and sleeping peacefully.

Cindy probably moved towards Sean in the middle of the night.

Amber worried that Cindy would touch Sean's injuries, and pulled Cindy away from Sean, then got up, packed her things, and bought breakfast.

By the time they got to Xingyue Bay, it was already ten o'clock in the morning.

As soon as Sean sat down on the sofa, his phone rang. Cindy was the closest to it. She picked the phone up, and answered it.

It was Lin Man.

"Cindy? I'm outside your father's ward. Why are you guys not here?"

Cindy blinked and looked at Sean. Sean also looked at her.

"Who's that?"

Cindy's expression remained unchanged and she said, "She has the wrong number."

Then she hung up!

On the other end of the phone, Lin Man held the phone. Her expression remained unchanged, but the blue veins on the back of her hand stood out.

She had the wrong number?

She heard Sean's voice. How could she have the wrong number?

Lin Man didn't hesitate to call Sean again.

Before calling, she asked at the nurse's station. The nurse told her that Sean had been discharged from the hospital.

He left with Amber?

Why didn't Sean tell her this?

Sean suspiciously took the phone from Cindy.

When he was about to check who called, his phone rang again.

Sean answered it. Lin Man's voice was very shallow and soft, "Hey, is that Sean?"

Sean licked the corner of his lips and glanced at Cindy meaningfully, "Lin Man, of course it's me."

Cindy was playing with building blocks. Hearing Sean's words, she raised her head and stared nervously at the phone in Sean's hand.

"I am at the door of your ward, but you are not here..."

"I'm discharged."

There was silence on the phone.

Sean stretched out his hand and poured himself a glass of water. He said in a low tone, "Lin Man, I was discharged from the hospital in a hurry, so I forgot to tell you. I'm sorry!"

"It's ok."

Lin Man had always been sensible. She didn't hold on to this matter and asked in a low voice, "You are not healed. Why did you suddenly leave hospital?"

"Can we eat together at noon?"

Sean frowned a little, and he whispered, "I'm in Xingyue Bay. You can come here for lunch. I'll ask Amber to make more dishes!"

"No, since you are with Amber, I won't bother you."

"Sean, I wish you an early recovery."

"Thank you."

After Sean finished speaking, he hung up the phone, put his phone on the table and stared at Cindy.

She was only three years old, curled on the sofa, and her eyes were full of fluster.

"Dad?"

Sean's voice was cold, "Cindy, didn't your mother teach you that children can't lie?"

At first, Cindy said the person called had the wrong number.

Then Lin Man asked him, was that Sean?

He immediately knew what Cindy had done.

When they first met, Cindy tore up Lin Man's photo. Last time in the ward, she kicked Lin Man. This time, when Lin Man called, she said that Lin Man had the wrong number!

Why was a three-year-old child so vicious?

Thinking this, Sean looked more and more gloomy. He stood in the living room, blocking the light in front of Cindy and making Cindy's eyes sour.

"Dad, are you angry?"

"You said children can't lie, then can adults lie?"

Sean froze.

Great, was this brat questioning him?

Sean's eyelid twitched. Cindy was already in tears and opened her mouth aggrievedly, "On the mountain beside grandma's house, you said you would take me and mom to play peekaboo!"

“You lied to me!”

“Lin Man said she and mom were good friends, but she actually wanted to be your mistress!”

“You adults are the ones who tell the most lies!”

Cindy’s tears suddenly fell, “I just wanted to protect my mom and my home. I did nothing wrong!”

She was resorting to sophistry!

Sean raised his hand and threw the cup on the coffee table to the ground.

“Bang!”

“You should admit your mistake!”

He stepped forward, ignoring the injury in his palm, and grabbed Cindy’s forearm tightly.

Sean was an adult and had great strength. Cindy staggered and sat crouched on the ground.

She was stubborn and panicked.

Her big eyes were foggy. She burst into a rage of tears, and sobbed too much to speak.

“I did nothing wrong!”

“Mom... mom!”

Amber was unpacking things in the bedroom. Hearing Cindy’s cry, she came out at once and saw Sean’s sullen face. He was grabbing Cindy’s arm, as if he was going to kill her.

Amber’s breathing paused. She strode forward, pulling Sean away.

As soon as Amber came over, Cindy tightly hugged her waist, lying in her arms, shivering.

“What happened? Sean, why did you suddenly get angry with Cindy?”

Sean sneered and said, “You should ask what your good daughter has done!”

“You think you are smart? You hung up on someone who called me, and then said she had the wrong number! You think she wouldn’t call again?”

Amber roughly knew what happened.

Except for Lin Man, Sean would not be so angry for anyone else!

Amber pulled Cindy.

“Apologize to dad. You were wrong!”

“Didn’t I tell you that children can’t lie! Don’t you remember what I said?”

Cindy cried louder.

“No...no!”

Amber asked in a flat tone, "Will you apologize or not?"

"No!"

Cindy cried and said. Amber suddenly picked her up, opened the door of Xingyue Bay, and put her at the door.

Chapter 359: You Can't Come in Until You Are Willing to Admit Your Mistake

0 4 minutes read

Cindy looked at Amber with wide eyes.

There were tears in her eyes, her eyes were red, and her face was covered with tears.

"Mom..."

"You can't come in until you are willing to admit your mistake!"

After speaking, Amber slammed the door.

Sean frowned slightly, and he stared straight at the closed door.

This was Amber's battered-body trick!

He wouldn't believe it!

Sean's eyes flickered. Amber was really cruel enough. Wasn't she worried that something might happen to her?

Amber stood at the door for a long time. She turned around and almost bumped into Sean.

Amber's eye sockets were slightly red. When she met Sean's gaze, she immediately calmed herself down, "I have cleaned up the master bedroom. If you are tired, you can have a rest!"

Sean glanced at her.

Amber didn't care about her own daughter, so why should he bother?

When Sean entered the room, he did not close the bedroom door.

Amber went to the study.

Sean lay for a while, and suddenly remembered what Cindy said.

[On the mountain beside grandma's house, dad, you said you would take me and mom to play peekaboo!]

It was also that day, Cindy was kidnapped.

Although the mastermind had been arrested, Cindy was a child after all!

There were many dangers in this world. He remembered that Xingyue Bay didn't even have a front yard, and its door was beside the road.

Sean took a deep breath and turned over.

Why should he care about the safety of Amber's daughter?

She was not his child. Should he take care of her carefully, and then apply for an award of Best Stepfather?

Besides, it was her fault. If she refused to admit it, she should suffer a little bit!

If he took Cindy in, Amber would have fantasies again!

Sean snorted, took out his phone, and stood up directly.

Amber was insidious. If Cindy really had some accidents, she would probably blame him for that.

He couldn't give Amber such a chance!

Thinking this, Sean got out of the bedroom and opened the door.

Cindy was sitting on the steps in a pair of slippers. She lowered her head, still crying.

The cry of the child was very contagious. Sean's heart seemed to be clouded with a haze.

Even if Cindy heard the door opening, she didn't look back.

Sean took the phone and sat down beside her.

He had long legs. Sitting on the steps, no matter how he put his legs, he felt uncomfortable.

Cindy glanced at him, bulging her cheeks and turning her head.

The sadness in her eyes was so heavy, making a wave in Sean's heart.

"Why are you out?"

"To laugh at you!"

Sean chuckled, and looked at Cindy determinedly, "This is the price of a child lying!"

"Go away!"

Cindy wiped her tears.

"Oh..okay."

Cindy cried louder.

Sean, "..."

It seemed that he was the one who did the wrong thing!

While Cindy was crying, Xiaoshen and Marcus arrived.

“Mr. Smith.”

Xiaoshen was capable. Sean’s gaze crossed her and fell on Marcus. She said helplessly, “Mr. White insisted on coming with me and said that he was not looking for Amber but Cindy.”

Sean nodded. Xiaoshen raised the document she was holding, and whispered, “Mr. Smith, I’m here to deliver documents to Director White. I’ll go in.”

“Okay.”

As soon as Xiaoshen entered, Marcus walked up to Cindy.

He never coaxed children. Seeing Cindy crying, he asked Sean helplessly, “Sean, what happened?”

“She did something wrong and didn’t want to admit her mistake, so she was taught a lesson!”

Marcus was dumbfounded.

After pondering for a while, Marcus said, “Cindy, didn’t you say you wanted a puppy?”

Cindy stopped crying.

She raised her head and looked at Marcus eagerly.

Marcus smiled, “I have already picked a puppy for you. Do you want to see it?”

“If you like it, we will bring it back!”

Cindy was a little tempted. She turned her head back and glanced at the open door. A trace of grievance and loss flashed across her eyes.

“No.”

“Mom is still angry. I can’t go!”

Marcus licked the corner of his mouth.

“Then I will bring the dog over tonight and let it play with you?”

Cindy wasn’t in a high spirit. But when she heard Marcus’s words, she nodded.

Marcus came suddenly and left quickly.

Sean raised his eyebrow. Marcus looked silly, but unexpectedly, he was good at coaxing children!

...

Coming out of Xingyue Bay, Marcus went directly to the pet shop he had chosen.

The dog he chose was a golden retriever which had a gentler temper. The one he liked was big.

It could bluff people.

Cindy was so small. If she brought the dog with her when she was outside, maybe it could protect her.

Marcus felt good. He arrived at the pet shop soon.

There was a flower shop next to the pet shop. Marcus stopped the car and saw Lin Man selecting flowers in the flower shop.

She was standing among the flowers in a yellow dress like a clean elf.

Lin Man also saw him, but she immediately looked away because they had a small fight last time.

Marcus frowned and walked up to her, "Are you up to anything bad again?"

Lin Man's expression changed instantly.

She stared at Marcus with clear eyes, "Mr. White, what do you mean?"

"Up to anything bad again? When did I do bad things?"

Marcus curled his lip, "If you were a good person, would you get involved in other people's marriage?"

"Moreover, you told me vaguely that my sister once came between you and your boyfriend! You and she are not on good terms, are you?"

"You even pretended to be kind and give me ideas. Who knows what you are up to?"

Hearing this, Lin Man was a little dazed.

"You can turn a blind ear to my advice. Mr. White, I just came over to buy flowers. Am I in your way?"

The anger and grievance in her eyes didn't seem to be fake. Marcus also thought he was making a fuss.

After he saw Lin Man, his mood to buy a dog was ruined.

But before coming, he promised Cindy that he would take the dog home.

After hesitating, he went to the pet shop.

He had been here before, so the shop owner remembered him.

"Where is the dog I like? I want to buy it."

There were other customers in the pet shop, a mother and her daughter. The little girl looked one or two years older than Cindy.

Chapter 360: Mom, Can I Keep This Dog

0 5 minutes read

The little girl pointed to a Pomeranian, "Mom, I want this one. Can you buy it for me!"

The longing in her eyes was too strong. Marcus unconsciously looked back at the golden retriever behind him.

The dog looked brave and a bit silly.

He liked it very much, but forgot to ask his nephew if she liked it.

After hesitating, the little girl's mother bought the Pomeranian for her.

Marcus stood at the door and smoked. The shop owner asked him, "Mr. White, how are you going to take the dog away?"

Marcus answered irrelevantly, "What kind of dog do children like?"

The owner froze for a moment, "You buy a dog for a child?"

Marcus nodded.

"My sister's child, a girl."

"How old is she?"

"Over three years old."

The owner was silent, and whispered, "If she is three years old, it's not appropriate to send such a big golden retriever to her."

"What if she is scared by it? I suggest you choose a smaller sized dog or give a golden retriever puppy to her."

"Both Pomeranians and poodles are small and beautiful, and they are popular with children!"

Marcus looked at the owner, "Really?"

"Then I'll buy a Pomeranian!"

"Do you also want this golden retriever?"

Marcus shook his head, "No."

After coming out of the pet shop, Marcus bought a tiramisu for Cindy at the nearby dessert shop.

When he arrived at Xingyue Bay, Cindy was still sitting at the door. She was not crying anymore, but her face was sunburned.

Sean was no longer outside, but the door was not closed. Amber was sitting facing the door, making sure that she could see Cindy.

Marcus felt a little distressed for Cindy.

"What on earth have you done wrong? It's getting dark. Why are you still outside?"

Cindy didn't speak.

Marcus held the dog he bought for Cindy and showed it to her.

"Do you like it?"

The dog was white all over with black and shiny eyes, which was particularly cute.

"Yes."

Cindy's eyes lit up.

The Pomeranian was not big, and it was just right for her to hold it in her arms.

Cindy had her first puppy. She held it and kissed it.

Marcus smiled and whispered, "The dog is hungry. Shall we go in?"

"No matter what you did wrong, admit your mistake to your mom."

Cindy was very stubborn, "I did nothing wrong."

"But you can't stay here forever!"

"Look at your face. You are sunburned. If you think you did nothing wrong, you can explain to your mother when she is not angry!"

"Sulking won't solve the problem!"

Cindy thought what he said made sense and let him lead her into the door.

She held the dog in her hand. The looks in their eyes were exactly the same.

Amber, who was signing the document, paused and glanced at Marcus casually.

"Sister..."

Amber didn't answer, "Mr. White, you should change your bad habit of acknowledging a relationship at random."

Marcus lowered his head.

Amber looked at Cindy, "Do you know you were wrong?"

Cindy walked to the sofa, circled Sean's neck, and whispered, "Dad, I'm sorry. I shouldn't hang up on aunt Lin."

"I shouldn't have told her that she had the wrong number. I was wrong."

"Don't be angry with me."

Marcus was dumbfounded.

He suddenly regretted it. If he had known that it was for this reason, he would not have persuaded her to apologize!

It was obvious that Lin Man was thinking about Sean!

Sean lifted his eyelids and said to Cindy, "Get off me. Oh, you stink. Take a shower yourself!"

Cindy curled her lips and slide down from Sean.

She didn't have the slightest intention to take a bath, but hugged the dog that Marcus bought and asked, "Mom, can I keep this dog?"

Cindy blinked, staring at Amber eagerly.

She knew the dog was bought by Marcus at first glance.

Amber frowned slightly and refused, "You can't even support yourself. How can you support a dog?"

Cindy looked at Sean, "Dad, please help me persuade mom. I want to keep it!"

Sean was working on a document, ignoring her directly.

He didn't even raise his head.

Sean had a morbid fear of getting dirty. He was not interested in pets at all.

Besides, he would live here before he recovered.

It was unpleasant enough to face Amber and the little girl every day, and the dog would only upset him.

Cindy should be glad that he didn't forbid her from keeping the dog directly.

Amber frowned, "If you really want to keep a dog, we'll talk about it later!"

"Does this one have a health certificate?"

"Has it been vaccinated?"

Amber's question was very direct, and her attitude obviously softened. Marcus took a step forward happily and said, "Yes!"

"And it's been vaccinated. It's safe!"

It seemed that Cindy really liked it.

Amber hesitated.

Sean suddenly said, "When you buy a dog, all the owners will tell you that it has been vaccinated!"

"If you really want to keep it, you have to go to a regular pet hospital and get it vaccinated again!"

After speaking, Sean was silent.

He was actually asking Amber to agree to Cindy's pleading.

Amber glanced back at him, and then walked into the master bedroom.

Then she walked out with her wallet, and asked Marcus, "How much is it? I'll give you the money."

Marcus took two steps back, "No. I don't want money..."

"Like I said before, the Smith Group will not cooperate with the White Group."

Amber's eyes were calm and not so cold anymore.

"I will not be irresponsible for my work just because you bought a dog for my daughter!"

"Cooperating with another company will bring more benefits to the Smith Group!"

Amber did not directly veto the cooperation with the White Group like last time.

Her attitude was so tough anymore. Marcus smiled. Buying this dog was worthwhile.

“Sister...”

“I’m not your sister.”

Marcus licked the corner of his mouth, and there was a little disappointment in his eyes.

“If you really want to achieve something in the White Group, modify your cooperation plan and sent it to other companies.”

“Even if you keep sending it to the Smith Group, I won’t approve it.”

Marcus was even more frustrated.

Sean sat there, as if he was watching a play.

Was Amber’s family addicted to playacting?

Wasn’t personal grievance the reason she refused to cooperate with the White Group?

How come she changed the reason in front of him?

Since Amber loved the Smith Group so much, should he give her an award of Best Employee?

Amber was coveting the Smith Group, right? She was like telling him that if she became the president of the Smith Group, she would do her best and choose the best partner for every cooperation?
