

My Personal Lycan King by Angelina Bhardawaj Chapter 20

Hallucinations

VICTORIA'S POV

‘Aish! It hurts.’ Were probably the first syllables that came to my mouth, after I gained my consciousness back.

‘What the hell happened?’ I asked no one in particular.

‘You tell me. I don’t even understand how you can become unconscious at all the important events.’ Carla said rolling her eyes.

‘Huh? Important event? What happened?’ I asked her, while I tried to regain and arrange the bits of memory that I could recollect.

‘I was supposed to be in the forest, looking for thunder. What the hell am I doing in my room?’ I asked Carla.

‘Good going. Try to recollect some more.’ She replied in annoyance. Rolling my eyes at her, I decided to not argue with her and concentrate on the task at hand first.

‘I was looking for thunder when Alexander came rushing behind me. He was following me. He was asking me if I was jealous because of Laila and I said I had Daniel and others as mate to spend time with. Then...then...Aahhh it hurts!’ I said while holding my head in my hands as it started pounding with the pressure I was putting on him.

‘Common try to recall more, you are doing good. I can’t always help you in a situation like this.’ Carla groaned.

‘Then...Then..his eyes! Yes! Alexander’s eyes! There was something wrong with them. He also had come near me, and said...said that..’ I recalled.

“Hello, Ria. I am your love. You are my mate, and you belong to me. So let’s fall in love with each other.” Alexander had said before his canines elongated as those of Edward in Twilight, before he leaned his head closer to my collarbone, licking my neck.

‘His canines elongated?!’ I shouted in my mind, sitting abruptly, which caused me to feel dizzy for a few seconds.

‘Ahhh! Thank God you remember clearly. I was afraid you won’t remember anything. I practically sat there at the back of your mind, watching how they were hypnotizing you to forget everything that happened.’ Carla said.

‘They? Who?’ I asked getting out of my bed, however, before she could reply, I saw the door of my room opening and a handsome-looking Alexander strutted in with a tray in his hands.

“You’re awake beautiful? I thought I’ll have to call the doctor.” He said looking at me closely, maybe checking if I remember anything or not.

Huh! Dummy!

“Yeah! I am awake. What happened?” I asked scrutinizing him from head to toe.

“Oh about that. I ain’t sure about that. You just heard a wolf howling and saw a giant wolf before fainting.” Alexander lied straight through his teeth.

“Ohh..well I was about to meet my friend thunder. He is also a wolf, quite big. I don't know why I fainted like that after seeing some wolf when I am used to seeing my thunder. I am gonna go and meet him to lighten up my mood. Wanna tag along?” I asked already knowing that he would deny and he didn't disappoint me.

“Why do you want to take help of some wolf when I am here all yours, at your disposal madam?” Alexander asked as he started to come closer to me.

There we go again! He and his flirty remarks!

“Of course you would say that. So you're gonna pretend as nothing happened? Guess what, even after you guys tried soo best to hypnotize me and tried to made me forget everything, I still remember everything. How dare you lie to me! I clearly saw your canines elongating, what are you, Alexander?” I asked scared to know the answer.

Placing the tray aside, Alexander came more closer to me, than he already was, before smiling a goofy smile.

“You are soo desperate to know who I am. Right?” Alexander asked, making me nod my head in anticipation.

This is what Bella did in that twilight movie. This should work, right?

“Well, your wish is my command, my love.” He said before his eyes started to change color into a shade of hazel and then red, and his canines started to elongate once again.

The sight was like a horror movie for me. I never imagined I would see someone like Edward in real life.

“I am a vampire, my dear.” He said before holding my neck with his hands and tilting it to the side that showed my collarbone perfectly.

“Haha....right, you are one. You can leave me now.” I said praying that he would leave me already.

“And why would I do that? My little one? Let me show you a proof of what I am. I have been waiting to taste you for soo long that it practically hurts my insides to stay away from you anymore.” Alexander said before he started to bring his face closer to my neck.

Wait! Wait a minute! This is not how things should be turning! Shouldn't he show me his shining body or something like that for proof rather than taking a bite on me?! What went wrong?

‘Carla!!! Where are you when I need your help?’ I yelled in my mind.

Before I could even yell for someone to save me, I felt him licking my neck, before kissing it.

And oh boy, did it feel soo right. I couldn't help but lean my back on the cupboard to enjoy his kissing that was making my mind go crazy. It was not long before I felt his canines grazing my skin and all my sanity came rushing back at me.

I need to call someone to save me. Save me! Yeah, Carla did mention the powers that can save me.

‘Oh dear powers, I command you to save me from this Alexander who has turned into a vampire.’ I prayed.

After a few seconds, I opened my eyes, but couldn't see any effect on Alexander. He was still there nibbling on my skin, practically making my mind go haywire with his seduction.

Great! Now even my powers are refusing to protect me. And where the damn is this Carla when I need her to advise me!

“Enough chit chat beautiful. It’s time for me to finally sip your luscious intoxicating blood.” He said gazing at me with those hunger-filled eyes.

“No, please no. Look I don’t know anything about you,” I said begging.

“Well, I would’ve spare you, if you haven’t discovered my secret. Aren’t you a funny little curious cat? It’ll be soo fun unraveling you, to taste the blood of this cat. Let’s see if your blood is equally funny and loving as you or not.” He said before leaning again.

“No! Wait! Please don’t hurt me. I promise I won’t tell anybody about you being a vampire.” I said assuring him.

“I wish I could help it, baby. But it’s too late now.” Alexander said before biting my neck making me go numb for a second before my whole body shooter with unbearable pain.

‘Ahhhhhhh!!!’ I wailed in pain before everything went black.

‘Jesus! Victoria, what was all that shouting for? Can’t you for once consider me, the lady who practically lives in your head? I have never been soo disgraced by anybody in my whole life as much as you insult me.’ Carla yelled in my mind.

Slowly opening my eyes, I looked around myself. I was in my room, lying on the bed.

It was a dream? Thank god it was just a dream!!

Before I could do a happy dance, I saw Alexander coming with a tray of food in the room. Looking exactly like how it was, in my dreams.

