

Chapter 4 Whose child

But now Elizabeth Taylor has nowhere to go if she doesn't go back to the hospital, and her ex-husband is still after her!

But she looked at Elena Forbes and asked, "Do you not love him anymore?"

Elena did not reply, her eyes looking out the window.

But this is undoubtedly a "no" in Elizabeth's view.

Did she have an affair?

...

Law Firm.

Elena Forbes made a will.

After her death, all the shares, property, and money of the Forbes family would belong to the Rivers, and the sidelines of the Forbes family are not allowed to have any interference.

Mathew Collin looked at the beautiful young woman in front of him. He was a little confused but did not ask more.

When all the procedures were gone through, he walked the woman to the door.

Suddenly, Elena pulled his arm, and her bright features winced.

"Mr. Collin, I'm sorry, I'm a little dizzy."

After saying that, her whole body directly fell to the ground.

Mathew Collin was quick to hold her up.

"What's wrong?"

"Maybe, maybe it's hypoglycemia." She hadn't eaten since she got up.

"Shall I carry you to the car?" Mathew Collin offered.

Elena Forbes didn't refuse, "Thank you."

After he carried the woman to the car, he then bought some milk and bread at the nearby convenience store.

Mathew Collin politely said, "Have some on the way and take care of yourself."

Elena said thank you.

The car drove away.

Mathew Collin turned around and went back to his office.

A weak "click" sound came from the dark.

Mathew cannot help but frown.

When Mathew chased after that guy, the man had already run away.

Afterward, he made a phone call to Elena Forbes and told her to pay attention.

However, she didn't take Mathew Collin's words to heart.

When she got home, she packed the chicken soup that had long been brewed in the kitchen and went straight to the hospital.

She took a stack of documents with her there.

Hospital ward.

Alston Rivers held a pile of photos.

The main characters were Mathew Collin and Elena Forbes.

The two were in an intimate position, talking and laughing.

Elizabeth Taylor added, "I did not expect that Elena had cheated on you a long time ago, and her lover is a lawyer."

She was worried that Elena Forbes would take most of Alston Rivers' property away.

Alston's eyes narrowed, fixed on Elena Forbes in the photo, with a wave of anger that no one dared to approach.

Elizabeth raised her eyebrows gently: "It's no wonder she approached me to say those words. I was wondering why she gave me money and said she wanted us to be together. People like her who prefer profit would never do a money-losing deal.

She must have planned how to throw you out."

"Pop".

Alston Rivers threw the pile of photos into the trash.

Elizabeth was shocked when Elena arrived.

She also had a bottle of chicken soup in her hand.

Elizabeth was very sensible and said to Alston Rivers, "You guys talk. I'll leave first."

When only they were alone in the ward.

"Alston, I made soup for you..."

Before Elena could finish her sentence, Alston interjected.

"What is your relationship with that lawyer?"

Elena followed his sight and noticed the photos inside the trash can.

She bowed her head, opened the bottle, served a bowl of soup, and handed it to Alston Rivers.

"Eat it, it's good for your health."

Alston waved away the soup, grabbed the woman's wrist, and dragged her to the bed violently.

"Elena Forbes, I'm asking you a question."

The woman was soft and boneless under him, her eyes like a pool of spring.

She took a light breath, and the files in her bag fell out at that moment.

Alston saw the files.

His handsome face darkened.

It was a pregnancy report, which recorded that Forbes was more than a month pregnant.

"The baby, whose is it?" He gritted his teeth and questioned.

Elena was startled at first.

A child of them could cause a lot of trouble.

So, she replied nonchalantly, "Not yours."
