

Chapter 21 Go shopping

Joey was embarrassed to find out that Elena didn't have ear piercings.

Covering his face with another hand, he turned around and tried to slip away, but when he was almost at the door, he stopped for a moment.

"What's wrong?" Elena felt teasing him was really interesting.

Joey raised his hand and took down an accessory. It was a doll born with fire, signifying nirvana and rebirth.

He bought it. Elena knew with his current financial strength, it was really a little expensive for him. She couldn't figure out why he bought it.

Thinking about it, she realized that he did not seem to like those things, so he bought it as a present to give to another girl?

Now this doll was a real eyesore to her.

But she had to admit when she first saw it, she really liked it.

Thinking of this, she dragged him out of the store and started shopping in the women's clothing department.

Although she was now shopping, there was no brand that she liked.

Occasionally there was something cute but quickly she was dissuaded by the poor quality of the fabric.

Joey accompanied her for half a day, still refreshed and in high spirits.

Instead, Elena got upset by the poor quality.

She shot him a bored glare, "When other men go shopping with their girlfriends, they all look like vegetables. How come the two of us are the other way around?"

Joey explained to her amusingly, "For one thing, you didn't buy anything, so you don't need me to carry bags, and for another, it's my first time coming to such a high-class place, so naturally I'm interested."

Hearing this, Elena was shocked. Why would this happen? Was she really not suitable for shopping?

At this time, Joey boldly patted her head, retracted his hand under her death glare, and said contentedly, "Everyone is suitable for shopping. It's just that there is nothing suitable for you here."

Elena realized he was comforting her. It turned out that she asked the question out loud when she was lost in frustration.

Although a bit unimpressed, her heart was still moved, and she decided to temporarily let go of the audacious Joey.

But after that, Joey kept his bold style and dragged her to a popular Chinese restaurant, where she never wanted to set her foot.

Although her heart was reluctant, Elena ate them all.

And the culprit looked at her with a smirk and said, "How is it? Isn't it great to eat a lot and forget all your troubles?"

Elena originally wanted to retort, but suddenly ran out of words. After all, she really seemed to have forgotten a lot of worries!

Seeing her speechless, Joey paid the bill and led her out to buy two cups of bubble tea.

Then Elena watched as he packed two cups of tea.

Before she opened her mouth, Joey said: "Don't worry, I have worked here before, their materials are fine, safe, and hygienic."
