

Chapter 50 Keeping His Promise

As the proposal ceremony for Dennis and Yolanda was still ongoing, the band leader's voice boomed, announcing, "We have a friend who wants to extend his warmest congratulations to Mr. Caldwell and Miss Lambert!"

Dennis was taken aback by this unexpected development. He was pleasantly surprised, realizing that the three million dollars he spent was worth every penny.

The crowd's attention was instantly drawn to the stage as the members of Poor Q made their way back up.

With the crowd's attention on the stage, the lead singer of the band introduced a special guest. "Ladies and gentlemen, let's give a warm round of applause to our friend who is a talented guitar player, Mr. Liam Hoffman! Come on up, Liam!"

As the lead singer of the band announced the arrival of their special guest, the crowd erupted in cheers and applause.

Yolanda and Dennis, who had just stepped off the stage after the proposal ceremony, looked at each other in amazement, unable to believe what they were hearing.

their special guest, the crowd erupted in cheers and applause.

Yolanda and Dennis, who had just stepped off the stage after the proposal ceremony, looked at each other in amazement, unable to believe what they were hearing.

Dennis and Yolanda exchanged a look of confusion, both unsure of what they had heard.

Yolanda voiced her uncertainty, asking, "Did he say, Liam Hoffman?"

Dennis, equally stunned, said, "I don't think that's right. I don't recall Liam being a talented guitar player, and a band like the Poor Q wouldn't know someone like him."

Despite Dennis's doubts, the band leader once again announced the arrival of Liam Hoffman.

The band leader's words echoed through the pub with conviction and excitement.

The crowd was caught up in the energy, and a chorus of voices could be heard calling out Liam's name.

The realization set in that they had indeed heard the name correctly.

Dennis, still in denial, brushed off the chance of Liam in a place like this. His complexion became ashen as he uttered, "It must be someone else with the same name. It can't be the loser Liam that we know!"

Yolanda nodded in agreement. The idea that the man taking the stage was the Liam she knew was hard for her to accept.

But before she could even process it further, both she and Dennis were left stunned and speechless.

Liam's confident strides under the bright lights instantly caught the eye of every person in the audience.

His striking looks and tall stature commanded attention and made him seem like royalty.

He looked like the star of the show, with the band merely playing a supporting role.

Liam sat on a tall stool, his hand gripping the microphone tightly as he spoke. His words were tinged with a hint of sadness. "Even though Poor Q is performing today, I want to perform a song from a different band, 'When I Fall in Love'. This song is dedicated to all of you and to someone special."

Liam had never forgotten the moment when Yolanda shared with him her dream proposal.

She had confided in him about her love for the song "When I Fall in Love" and her wish to hear it played when she was being asked to be someone's partner for life.

Unfortunately, because of the rush of their wedding and the rule that Liam was forbidden to use his resources, he couldn't realize her dream.

But he had kept that close to his heart, eager to reveal his true self and fulfill Yolanda's dream after his training was over.

He had planned to offer her the most romantic and unforgettable proposal.

In his reverie, Liam would walk towards Yolanda while singing this song. He would express his feelings, and make all of her dreams come true.

Yet, today it was not Liam who would be doing the walking and proposing.

He had been rehearsing this song for quite some time. He wanted to put the past behind him after fulfilling his promise to Yolanda, which she was unaware of.

Holding the guitar given by the band leader, Liam tried to tune it, but his nervousness caused his hands to shake and he struggled to get it right.

The audience's reactions were mixed, some booing at his inability to tune the instrument.

But as soon as he started playing, he became focused, and the other band members joined in.

Liam's voice was entrancing and captivating, and with the sound of the guitar, everyone was left in awe.

The audience's voices quieted down as they were all absorbed in the emotional melody.

For Yolanda, it was the first time witnessing Liam in this way, like a melancholic prince, dignified yet pitiful.

And most importantly, it was her beloved song.

Yolanda was deeply captivated by Liam as she watched him perform. The memory of their past conversation about her favorite song filled her mind and she whispered to herself, "He hasn't forgotten."

As the melody of the song filled the air, Yolanda felt a surge of emotion wash over her. She couldn't resist swaying to the beat, her hand moving along with the other audience members.

At this moment, Yolanda had already realized that she was the one that Liam referred to in his dedication.

Memories of the past flooded her mind, like when Liam would get up early to buy her favorite shrimp from the seaside, or warm a cup of milk for her every night before bed.

She remembered how he always smiled and accommodated all her demands, no matter how unreasonable they were.

Tears streamed down Yolanda's face as she wondered how Liam, who used to be a good-for-nothing, could transform into this confident and charismatic figure before her.

"Why...why is he shining so brightly now?"

 I want no ads >