

Chapter 17 Liam Took Revenge On Julie

---

Since Julie had visited his villa, Liam thought it was time to go to the company.

So the next day, he set out for Kingland Group in his Maybach early in the morning.

He let the driver stop the car outside and looked at the company building for a moment, wondering how Julie would react when she saw him later.

Then the driver drove the car to the underground parking lot. Liam got out and walked into the CEO's exclusive elevator.

At this moment, Dennis' car also drove into the parking lot.

Kingland Group had built a lot of houses that had not been decorated. He wanted to fight for cooperation between his family and Kingland Group.

When his car passed by the CEO's elevator, Dennis glanced at it casually and saw a familiar figure.

"Liam..." he murmured in a daze. "What the hell is he doing here?"

Dennis quickly stepped on the brakes and stared at the

Since Julie had visited his villa, Liam thought it was time to go to the company.

So the next day, he set out for Kingland Group in his Maybach early in the morning.

He let the driver stop the car outside and looked at the company building for a moment, wondering how Julie would react when she saw him later.

Then the driver drove the car to the underground parking lot. Liam got out and walked into the CEO's exclusive elevator.

At this moment, Dennis' car also drove into the parking lot.

Kingland Group had built a lot of houses that had not been decorated. He wanted to fight for cooperation between his family and Kingland Group.

When his car passed by the CEO's elevator, Dennis glanced at it casually and saw a familiar figure.

"Liam..." he murmured in a daze. "What the hell is he doing here?"

Dennis quickly stepped on the brakes and stared at the figure until the elevator doors closed.

He wondered why Liam was here.

Then something suddenly occurred to him.

Liam must have come to take revenge on Julie because she announced at the wedding that he was banned from getting involved with Kingland Group in any way. ③

Dennis was delighted at the thought of this.

If he went up now, he might become the hero who saved the beauty.

In this way, he could make Julie owe him a favor. Then he could win the cooperation.

Dennis hurriedly parked his car and tried to catch up with Liam.

At this moment, Liam had arrived at the CEO's office on the top floor.

He took out the key card that had been sent to his villa in advance and opened the door of the CEO's office.

The CEO's office was very large, occupying half of the space on the top floor of Kingland Group. It had a reception room, lounge, and all kinds of facilities.

Liam looked around the luxurious office, feeling very satisfied.

He picked up the telephone in the office and dialed the receptionist's number. "Tell my assistant to come to my office and bring all the documents here."

The receptionist was stunned when she heard the voice, so she looked at the number on the screen. After confirming it was really from the CEO's office, she immediately called Julie's secretary, Vivian Greyson.

Vivian was so surprised that she exclaimed, "Oh my! He is here? I'll be right there."

After saying this, she trotted to the elevator, afraid of leaving a bad impression on Liam.

Since the new CEO had not taken office yet, Julie did not arrange an assistant for him. Although Vivian was Julie's secretary, she was tasked by Julie to serve the new CEO for the time being.

She knocked on the door of the CEO's office.

Obviously, Vivian was nervous.

"Please come in." A magnetic male voice sounded inside the office.

Vivian opened the door and saw a man in his twenties sitting at the desk.

He was wearing a high-end custom-made suit, which fully set off the perfect muscle lines on his body, showing his masculinity.

The young man in front of her was, of course, Liam.

Vivian didn't expect the new CEO to be very young and handsome. She blushed and stammered, "Sir... Mr. Hoffman... My name is Vivian Greyson. I am Miss Fiber's secretary. These are the documents you want to see."

"Okay. Just put the documents here and go back to your work," Liam ordered calmly.

"Okay, sir." Vivian put down the documents and walked out of the CEO's office. Then she immediately went to the restroom and called Julie.

"Miss Fiber, the new CEO is in his office now. He is young and handsome. Come here!"

"What? Mr. Hoffman is in the company? Are you sure about that?"

Actually, Julie was on her way to the company. When she heard the news, she was so excited that she almost bumped into the car in front of her.

Last night, she waited outside Liam's villa for two hours. Because of this, she felt so uneasy that she didn't sleep the whole night.

"Okay, I'll be there," she said to her secretary.

Julie then hung up the phone and stepped hard on the accelerator.

Her red Porsche galloped on the road. She wanted to meet the new CEO as soon as possible.

Ten minutes later, Julie arrived at the lobby on the first floor of Kingland Group. Vivian was already there, waiting for her.

They stood in front of the elevator, wanting to go up together. But after waiting for a long time, the elevator did not come.

Julie got a little anxious.

She quickly sent a message to the company's group chat.

"No one is allowed to use the elevator now. I urgently need it."

After she sent this, some gossipy employees began to discuss it in private.

"What does Miss Fiber mean? Why is she in a hurry to take the elevator? Is she meeting someone?"

"I think I know. I heard that the new CEO has arrived."

"Oh, my God! How old is the new CEO? What does he look like? Is he handsome?"

The news about the new CEO's arrival immediately spread all throughout the company.

Some curious employees even went upstairs to the top floor to see what Liam looked like.

But since Julie gave an order, no one dared to use the elevator. It soon arrived downstairs.

As soon as the elevator doors opened, Julie went in, followed by Vivian.

Inside the elevator, Vivian said to Julie excitedly, "Miss Fiber, Mr. Hoffman is young, handsome, and rich. You must get him. I believe you can do it."

Upon hearing Vivian's flattery, Julie regained a lot of confidence.

She thought she must have dressed too conservatively yesterday, so Liam wasn't interested in her. Since she wore a sexy dress today, she was sure to win his favor.

Julie flicked her hair and said confidently, "Just watch and see later."

The elevator reached the top floor, and the doors opened slowly.

Julie walked towards the CEO's office with confident steps.

The employees hiding in every corner also fixed their wide open eyes on the door of the CEO's office.

Someone said, "I heard Miss Fiber got stood up outside Mr. Hoffman's villa last night. Do you think she will fail again today?"

"That's bullshit! I don't believe those rumors. Over the years, there is no man Miss Fiber can't have."

"That's right! Miss Fiber is the most beautiful woman in the business world in Ninverton. No man will stand her up."

"Hey, stop arguing now. Look, Miss Fiber is about to knock on the door."

Julie stretched out her slender arm and knocked on the door twice.

"Come in." Liam's voice sounded inside the office.

Julie pushed the door open and walked in.

The first thing she saw was Liam's back. He stood in front of the floor-to-ceiling window, looking at the sky.

He looked tall in his suit, full of masculine charm.

Julie had seen many CEOs. But most of them were so busy with their work that they didn't care much about their figures and appearances.

It was rare to see a handsome CEO like Liam.

"Mr. Hoffman, my name is Julie Fiber, your vice president. Is there anything I can do for you?" Julie's voice sounded very sweet.

The corners of Liam's mouth curved, revealing a playful smile.

He turned around, looked at Julie, and said coldly, "Oh? So you also know that you are only the vice president. But at the wedding yesterday, why did I feel like you were the CEO?" ①

Julie's body stiffened when she heard this familiar voice. And when she saw Liam's face clearly, her legs weakened. "Li... Liam?"

Just now, Julie was confident in getting the CEO. But now, her legs felt so weak that she slumped on the floor. ④