

Fled With CEO's Twin Babies Chapter 51 - 60

Chapter 51 Her Face Was Livid

His gaze was so direct that Wendy subconsciously turned sideways. “Joe, why are you looking at me like that?”

Joe frowned slightly as his eyes fell on the birthmark on Wendy's arm. What had happened back then surfaced in his mind. He suddenly asked her, “How did you escape at that time?”

Wendy was stunned and her eyes were a little flustered. “Didn't I tell you already? A kind person accidentally passed by and saved me. If it weren't for him...”

Joe stared at her for a long time before nodding.

After Joe left, Wendy collapsed on the bed, biting her lip without making a sound.

After staying in the company for a day, Mia took the two children back to her apartment and unexpectedly saw two figures.

“Mr. River and Mrs. River!” Ben and Anna jumped on them in surprise. Mia was also surprised by their appearance.

“Why are you here?”

Mr. River and Mrs. River were a couple. They had worked in the Clinton Family for many years. Since Mia was found, they had been following her. They took care of her pregnancy, childbirth, and raising children.

However, they had never lived in Zyphoria before. Mia didn't want them to leave their homeland, so she didn't invite them here. She didn't expect them to come here by themselves.

Mrs. River hugged the two children with a smile and said to Mia, “The children can't live without us.”

She looked Mia up and down and immediately frowned. “I knew you wouldn't eat well alone. You've lost weight.”

Mia didn't know whether to laugh or cry. She had gained a lot of weight after returning to Zyphoria. How could she have lost weight?

However, Mia was very happy to see them. "It's great that you can come! We won't live here today."

It just so happened that she had already prepared to move to another villa, so she decided to do it in advance.

The children were very happy when they arrived in a new environment. After a while, they went upstairs with their small suitcases, leaving Tom to hand a box to Mia.

He looked a little serious and apologized to her with guilt. "There is indeed something wrong with these toys. It's my negligence..."

Mia frowned. She had thought that Linda might not be a good person but didn't expect her to be so crazy as to hurt the two children.

She took the box from Tom. There were seven or eight toys in it, including plush dolls, robots, Barbies, and so on. They all looked normal.

Mia even played with them one by one but didn't find anything unusual.

But when Tom opened the secret buttons on their bodies, these toys began to tell some twisted stories, each of which was about a child abandoned by his parents and ended miserably. There was even a Barbie that said, "Your mother abandoned you, poor child."

After listening to all the stories, Mia was livid.

No wonder Ben and Anna sneaked back to Zyphoria. No wonder they had been following her all this time and even requested to go to the company with her...

Mia quickly ran up the stairs and held the two of them, who were talking, tightly in her arms.

Although Ben and Anna did not understand what had happened, they still hugged her obediently.

heard the stories in those toys.” Mia took a deep breath and looked at the two children. “You are all my most precious treasures. No matter what happens, I promise that I will never abandon you.”

Chapter 52 The Vicious Linda

Although they knew that what the toys said was not true, Ben and Anna were just children after all, and it was inevitable for them to feel uneasy. Now that they heard what Mia said, the heavy burden on their hearts was finally lifted, and they cried silently while holding Mia in their arms.

Seeing the children’s crying faces, Mia felt more and more sad but didn’t show it on her face.

After comforting the two children, Mia said seriously, “Remember, if you have any questions in the future, you can ask me. Don’t hide them in your heart.”

Ben and Anna nodded seriously.

After going downstairs, Mia looked at Tom who was still waiting in the hall, and asked, “I remember that Linda has been trying to get the third Uncle’s support recently?”

In the Clinton Family, it had always been advocated for those with strong abilities to be the heir. Originally, Linda was a strong competitor for the heir of the Clinton Group, but after the appearance of Mia, the situation changed.

It was obvious that Old Mr. Clinton valued Mia even more.

Of course, Linda would not give up so many years of planning and compete with her in every aspect.

However, Mia didn’t expect that her methods would be so dirty.

Tom nodded, “Before we left, she also sent a jade sculpture to him.”

Mia sneered. “Since she has put in so much effort, how can I not help her?”

Mia took out her mobile phone and called Nora Taylor, who was her assistant in Albania, to give her some instructions.

Tom looked at her curiously. “Miss, this is...”

Mia didn't hide it and said to him, "Recently, a piece of extremely rare jade as high as half a person has been found at the border. I believe the third uncle will like it very much."

Tom was stunned.

It was true that the third uncle had some power in the Clinton Family, but he didn't like to get involved in family affairs and just liked to play with jade.

In order not to let him squander all his property, Old Mr. Clinton had even limited his consumption. Now that the rare jade was out, he would definitely want it. The one who would pay a lot of money was Linda.

"Old Mr. Clinton has told me more than once that his disgust towards the third uncle's view that jade is his fate. If he knows that Linda bought jade for the third Uncle..." Mia sneered.

She didn't want to argue with Linda in the past, but it turned out that the more she ignored her, the more insatiable Linda became.

In this case, it was better for Mia to give her a big gift in person.

Tom looked at Mia with appreciation.

After all these years, she had finally grown up and become a qualified hunter. Miss Judy must be very happy to see her change.

At this time, Joe also received information about Mia.

"Charlotte Clinton?"

Joe frowned and looked at Jack, who nodded and said, "Yes, after Miss White went abroad, her family found her and took her back to the Clinton Family."

"What about the White Family then?" Joe frowned as he skimmed through the information.

The fact of how the white family rose was not too much hidden, including those who were familiar with Mrs. White and Judy before also knew it.

Later, when Judy passed away, Mrs. White lied about giving birth to a child, so no one expected Mia to be Judy's daughter.

Only then did Joe understand why Mia had asked him for the IOU for the White Family. It turned out that she didn't want to help the White Family but make things difficult for them.

"I remember that we have some businesses with the White Family." Joe looked at Jack, who nodded.

"Stop those businesses," Joe said indifferently.

Chapter 53 Won't You Help Us?

In order to make the children completely relax, Mia especially took them to the beach to play for five days before bringing them back.

It was until the plane landed that Mia turned on her mobile phone. Before leaving, she had told David, Frank, and Tom that if there was an emergency, they could call her satellite phone, so she was not in a hurry.

Unexpectedly, as soon as she turned on her phone, countless text messages and calls flooded in.

Ignoring those unimportant people, the only ones who called. most left were Joe and the White Family.

She didn't even need to think to know why Joe was calling because she had missed several meetings with him during this period of time.

But this project was not hers to talk about at the very beginning. Even without her, it could still progress smoothly. Mia crossed his name casually and looked at the names of the White Family with great interest.

Ever since she went to the White Family last time and forced Levi to sign the IOU, the people of the White Family had wanted to blacklist her and never contact her again. How could they suddenly contact her now?

Just as she was thinking, a phone call came in. It was from Diana.

Mia hesitated for a moment and picked up the phone. Diana's sharp voice almost broke through the phone and pierced her car.

“Mia White!”

Before she could continue, Mia hung up the phone directly.

On the other end of the line, Diana was stunned that Mia dared to hang up on her!

Before she could come to her senses, Levi, who was next to her, asked her anxiously, “How is it?”

“This wicked girl! She actually hung up on me!” Diana still couldn't believe it. Although Mia had a strong aura when she came to them to sign the loan receipt last time, Diana still didn't think that she was really tough and didn't expect that she would dare to hang up the phone!

Levi interrupted her impatiently. “Are you stupid? She is our creditor now. Can you use your brain?”

As he spoke, he took out his phone and was about to call her in person but was stopped by Diana. “You don't have to call her! I know where she is!”

She had heard the airport announcement from the background just now. Mia must be at the airport!

“Then let's go!” Levi couldn't care about anything else and quickly pulled Diana to drive to the airport.

Mia didn't expect that a less-than-a-second phone call would expose her position.

She looked down at the two kids and said, “We still have to wait for our luggage. Do you want to eat ice cream?”

Ben and Anna looked at each other excitedly and nodded.

Mia took them to the nearest dessert shop to buy ice cream. As soon as they went out, they saw a figure screaming and rushing over.

“Mia White!”

In the quiet airport, the voice of Diana attracted many people’s attention.

Mia also looked gloomy, quickly sent the two children back to the store, and comforted them softly, “Wait a minute. Mom will be back soon.”

“But...” Anna was so worried about Diana that her eyes turned red.

Mia was not afraid of Diana at all and said calmly, “It doesn’t matter. She just has a loud voice. Don’t worry.”

Ben held Mia’s hand tightly, raised his head, and asked with concern, “Is that so? Are you sure you’re safe?”

Seeing that the children were so scared, Mia asked the waiter to accompany them. Then she pushed the door open and went out.

Diana almost rushed in. When she saw Mia, she shouted, “How dare you!”

“How did you know I was here?” Mia looked at Diana and Levi coldly and asked.

Chapter 54 Looking for Wendy?

Seeing that Mia had ignored her, Diana became angrier. But Levi was also a smart person and saw that Mia was already angry at this time, so he quickly pulled Diana and said, “We are also concerned about you. Who are the two children just now...”

“My friend’s children.” Mia didn’t want them to know about the existence of Ben and Anna, so she said simply.

Mia didn’t even give them a chance to react and took the initiative. “What are you doing here?”

Only then did Levi remember his real purpose. How could he care about the two children? He quickly asked, “Did you say something to Mr. Smith? Why did he suddenly stop all the cooperation with the White Family?”

They got this cooperation because they agreed to cooperate with Wendy last time but didn't expect that the Smith Group would end their cooperation so soon.

Mia raised her eyebrows. “I have nothing to do with the Smith Group anymore. If you have any questions, you might as well go and find Joe yourself...”

If it was so easy to see Joe, Levi and Diana would not have tried their best to find her.

“Since you want me to pay back the money, you can't let someone smash my company, can you?” Levi looked at Mia righteously and said, “Don't forget that you are still our daughter now. If you go too far, don't blame us for being ruthless.”

Not only was Mia not afraid, but she also smiled. “Really? You can try.”

Levi didn't expect Mia to be so stubborn. Since he had said so, she was still unwilling to help them.

Diana finally couldn't stand it anymore. She raised her hand, was about to slap, and saw Mia looking at her indifferently. “Didn't I teach you a lesson last time? I won't be the one to lose face in public.”

Thinking of the scene at home before, Diana flinched but still cursed, “You heartless b*tch, if I had known your true characteristic earlier, I wouldn't have raised you. It's better to leave you to fend for yourself.”

Mia didn't take it seriously.

Diana saw the passers-by looking at them and suddenly came up with a plan. She wanted passers-by to think Mia was a bully.

“If you dare to make trouble here, I promise that the name of the White Family will be the trending on Twitter tomorrow.”

Mia saw through what Diana was thinking and said lightly.

Diana was about to shout, but her voice was stuck in her throat and she couldn't make a sound.

Her face turned red, and she didn't dare to say another word.

Levi was in a daze. When he realized that he really couldn't control Mia, his expression couldn't help but become even uglier.

Unexpectedly, Mia suddenly said, "Who promised you those businesses? Shouldn't you look for her?"

Levi raised his head in shock and looked at Mia as if she had understood everything. For a moment, he forgot to speak.

She actually knew it.

Mia looked at Levi indifferently. As early as the information that Joe had given her, she had noticed that the Smith Group had rarely had any business dealings with the White Group since their divorce.

Now that Levi and Diana suddenly came to her, someone must have set the relationship between the White Group and the Smith Group up in private.

Thinking of what had happened to the White Family on the Internet before, it was self-evident who this person was.

Chapter 55 She Was Threatened

Seeing that Levi was surprised, Mia found it ironic.

They thought she was so stupid that she couldn't even see through their obvious little tricks?

In the past, she had tolerated their schemes, but now she refused to waste any more time.

"Instead of trying to manipulate me here, it would be better for you to find the person who cooperated with you," Mia said calmly. "By the way, she hasn't been feeling well recently and is staying in the hospital. When you go, remember to bring her some gifts."

Levi stared at Mia with a gloomy expression. “It seems that your debating skills have improved a lot in just a few years.”

If he hadn’t witnessed it himself, he would never have believed that his once subservient adopted daughter had transformed into this. He should have realized it when she forced him to sign the IOU.

“Let’s go,” Levi said coldly to Diana, who was standing beside him.

Diana was surprised. “Are you going to let her go so easily?”

Levi sneered, “Do you think causing trouble will be of any use?”

She still has the IOU in her hand and knows our weaknesses.”

Levi had underestimated Mia in the past, which was why he had failed this time. But he was determined to defeat her one day.

After Levi and Diana left, Mia went to the ice cream shop to retrieve the two children. She expected them to be scared, but instead, Anna exclaimed excitedly, “Mommy, you’re amazing! You defeated the bad guys with just a few words! You’re a heroine!”

Mia couldn’t help but smile at her daughter’s words. Though the title “heroine” didn’t sit well with her, it was comforting to know that her children weren’t afraid.

After Levi and Diana left, they went to the hospital to visit Wendy.

“Why are you here?” Wendy asked, surprised. She quickly looked around, fearful of Joe finding out about her contact with the White Family. If he did, they would be in serious trouble.

Levi felt a sense of relief seeing Wendy in such a panic. Finally, he had something to use against her as leverage.

Half an hour later, Levi and Diana left, satisfied with their visit. Wendy was left with a gloomy expression.

She had never anticipated that the White Family, which had been a mere pawn in her game, would dare to strike back. And it was all because of Mia!

If Mia hadn't suddenly returned, Wendy wouldn't have faced rejection after rejection. Now, not only was she being threatened by the White Family, but she was also being undermined in every way possible.

Wendy glanced at the phone next to the hospital bed and a plan formed in her mind.

Diana had been silent since they left the hospital. Levi assumed she was still thinking about Mia, so he furrowed his brow and said, "Don't bother thinking about her if you can't control her. If I go bankrupt because of you, be prepared for my anger."

Diana glared at him reproachfully. "What nonsense are you talking about? I'm just wondering about something. When we went to find her, she was with two children. Whose children those are?"

After dropping off the kids at home, Mia headed to the company. To her surprise, she bumped into Joe there. "What are you up to?" Mia asked, her tone tinged with curiosity.

Chapter 56 Twitter Trend

Mia's mood was still affected by the sudden appearance of Levi and Diana. So seeing Joe made her lose her usual calmness.

It had taken her five years to distance herself from the past, but these people seemed to keep popping up, stirring up terrible feelings inside her.

Joe looked at Mia in silence, while Mr. Lake, standing beside them, awkwardly interjected, "Miss Clinton... Mr. Smith is here to discuss the design with us..."

Mia froze for a moment before quickly apologizing, "I'm sorry for my mistake."

Joe remained noncommittal. "Since you're so apologetic, why don't you just use our design?"

Mia decisively refused his proposal, adjusting her mood. “That’s impossible. I believe Mr. Smith should also know that our design was created by Moontide, a previous gold medalist. It’s impeccable both in terms of design concept and final results.”

The Horizon Group and the Smith Group were collaborating on a project, developing a high-end community with holiday villas in the south of the city. The design plan played a crucial role in determining the direction of the project.

Neither Joe nor Mia were willing to back down easily.

Joe spoke in a measured tone, “Although Moontide’s design is unique, she isn’t as well-known. Master Warren, whom we invited, is a renowned designer worldwide and would be more beneficial for the project’s development.”

Mia stood her ground, undeterred. “Master Warren’s design is too conventional this time. Do you genuinely believe this is the best option?”

The atmosphere between the two sides grew tense, and Mr. Lake, wiping the cold sweat off his forehead, hastily suggested, “Let’s sit down and have a productive discussion.”

Just then, Frank approached Mia with a solemn expression and whispered, “Miss Clinton, something has happened.”

He showed his phone to Mia, revealing an article titled:

#Is Miss White a Young Lady from a Rich Family or a B*tch from Social Venues#

The article not only depicted Mia as a slutty woman lingering between various men, but it also posted a lot of photos of her. Each man was different, and there was even a photo of her with Joe.

Mia was not an influencer, but this topic inexplicably reached the top of the trend and caused a heated discussion.

Mia's face darkened.

What she despised most about this situation was not the person spreading such slanderous claims, but the fact that some people reveled in humiliating women, reducing their efforts to mere pursuits of beauty and men.

“Find the person responsible within the next day. Simultaneously, have our lawyers send letters to the Twitter platform, the account publishers, and any users with over 500 reposts. I won't accept any mediation,” Mia calmly instructed Frank.

Frank was surprised for a moment. He knew that Mia would fight back but didn't expect her to fight back so thoroughly.

“I want anyone who thinks they can degrade women in this manner to understand their own foolishness,” Mia declared, enunciating each word deliberately.

She turned to Joe, a sarcastic smile on her lips. “Don't you agree, Mr. Smith?”

Earlier that morning, she had asked Levi and Diana to search for Wendy, and now this article had been published. She believed it was connected to Wendy in some way.

Joe understood what she meant, and his eyes darkened. “Absolutely.”

Mia let out a bitter chuckle, opting not to say anything further.

Chapter 57 The Reversal

“I knew Mia wasn't a good girl. Look at how she dressed when she went to the Smith Family last time!”

“That’s right! She suppressed her nature when she was Mrs. Smith, wasn’t she? Now that she has divorced, she could do whatever she wants.”

“You’re right. No matter how hard she tries, she can’t find a man like Mr. Smith! It’s a pity that Mr. Smith only loves Wendy. How can he like her?”

In a famous coffee shop in the Capital City, Leah was having afternoon tea with her friends. When she heard that they looked down on Mia, she felt happy.

So what if Mia forced them to sign the IOU? Mia had a bad reputation now. She wanted to see if David would want such a Woman.

But before she could finish being happy, she saw that her friends, who had been scolding happily just now, stopped talking and looked at her with strange eyes.

“Why are you looking at me like that?” Leah picked up a piece of cake and stuffed it into her mouth.

“We still have some matters to do, so we’ll be leaving first.” Someone spoke up first, and then others followed closely behind. Not long after, everyone left.

Leah didn’t know what was going on. As soon as she turned on her mobile phone and was about to ask what was going on, she saw that the people who had just left were reuniting somewhere else, but she was no longer a member of them.

“B*tches!” Leah was so angry that she threw her phone on the table. After thinking for a while, she took it out and planned to watch others scold Mia to vent her anger. Only then did she realize that public opinion had been completely reversed!

At first, it was a simple and rough response from Mia. “Rumors never stop with the wise, but with the law.”

Along with this Twitter post, there were lawyer’s letters. From the account where the article was posted to the Twitter platform, they all received the lawyer’s letters.

People had seen many celebrities repelling rumors but had never seen anyone so tough, who didn’t even take Twitter platforms seriously.

The netizens who insulted Mia were scared. They secretly deleted their relevant comments and pretended that nothing happened.

Mia had no intention of pursuing this kind of person. However, people who had a large number of reposts cannot escape.

Seeing that the popularity was continuing to rise and many netizens also began to question it, some influencers followed and Released the story that the White Group had occupied the inheritance of their best friend, abused her daughter, and even maliciously ruined the reputation of Mia.

For a time, the Internet was in an uproar.

It only took a few hours for Mia to go from being scolded by everyone to being pitied with a ruined reputation by netizens.

Public opinion was reversed. Those who had scolded Mia just now were now angrier when they scolded the people of the White Family.

Next, someone claimed that the White Family had gained benefits from the Smith Group in recent years, which pushed the White family into an abyss.

“To be able to make use of a person’s worth so thoroughly, it’s to the extent that even if she dies, they still have to use her to exchange for benefits.”

“What the White Family has done has exceeded the scope of human beings. I hope that their whole family will not have a good ending.”

“This is a long-planned revenge. How much does the White Family hate Miss White?”

Outside the screen, Mia looked at the comments one by one. Suddenly, her cell phone rang, and the exasperated voice of Levi came from the other side. “Mia! Are you trying to force us to die? Don’t forget that your surname is also White! If something happens to me, you won’t get a penny!”

Mia replied calmly, “If you want to know why I attacked the White Family, you should go back and ask your daughter.”

Levi suddenly stopped cursing. “What do you mean?”

Chapter 58 Wendy Was the Mastermind

“How do you think today’s trending appeared?” Mia sneered. “Maybe your daughter can give you an answer.”

After that, she hung up the phone.

On the other side, Levi understood what was going on, ran home angrily, and saw Leah cursing on the sofa.

Before she could react, Levi slapped her. “What did you do?!”

Leah was stunned by his slap, covered her face, and shouted, “Dad? Are you crazy?!”

“Am I crazy?!” Levi shook off Diana who came forward to stop him. “Why did you provoke Mia for no reason? Now, she told the public everything. Who dares to cooperate with us?! You are killing me!”

Leah dodged and didn't expect that Mia would find out about her so soon. “I'm just angry that she was brought up by you but still forced us into a desperate situation!”

“You're angry? I think you're just angry that she's stronger than you,” Levi scolded angrily.

Leah, who had been stabbed in the pain spot, straightened her neck and said, “Am I jealous of her? She's just a former Mrs. Smith. Can she really surpass Wendy?”

It was rare for Levi to be so keen. “Was it Wendy who gave you those photos?”

Leah pursed her lips and said nothing.

“I'm praising you for being stupid! Wendy gave you the photos and asked you to publish the news. Now that something has happened, she didn't get involved but you've taken all the blame!” Levi scolded her exasperatedly.

Leah raised her head and said, “I did leave a phone record behind!”

As soon as she said that, Levi looked at her in surprise. “What?”

An hour later, when the netizens didn't pay much attention to this matter, Mia released a call recording with her own account and added a paragraph of text, “The methods of the entertainment industry are indeed only better played by people in the entertainment industry.”

The call recording was delivered by Levi in person with Leah.

Just as Leah had said, although she had been used by others, she was not completely unprepared. At least she remembered to leave a call recording.

On the other side, Wendy might not have thought that Leah would record their conversations. In their conversation, Wendy spoke without hesitation and even told that she had hired Internet trolls before.

As soon as the recording of the phone call came out, everyone on the Internet was stunned.

They had heard of the competition between celebrities for the drafts but had never heard of a celebrity taking the initiative to frame ordinary people, especially when this person was her current boyfriend's ex-wife.

In this way, there were many love-hate relationships in netizens' minds.

#The most arrogant mistress # # Wendy Vicious # and other terms quickly appeared on the trend, and Wendy became the target of public criticism.

Just as the discussion on the Internet reached its peak, Mia issued her last Twitter post. "My name is Charlotte Clinton."

This beautiful public relations war not only pushed Wendy into the abyss but also successfully helped Mia get rid of her past name and become a brand new Charlotte Clinton.

Meanwhile, Sir Smith was reprimanding Joe in the Smith Family. "I knew that Wendy wasn't a good person, but you treated her so well as if you ate a drug from her"

Speaking of this, Sir Smith looked at him suspiciously. “Did you really get drugged?”

Chapter 59 Was the Child in Your belly Mine?

Joe glanced at Sir Smith helplessly.

Sir Smith had no choice but to withdraw his suspicious gaze. “Why are you acting so abnormally? Or does she know your secrets?”

“No.” Joe couldn’t stand the increasingly outrageous speculation of Sir Smith, so he briefly told him about Wendy saving him.

Unexpectedly, Sir Smith changed his face. “Just because of this, you tolerated her so much? Mia is my savior. She saved my life.”

“Please stop talking nonsense.” Joe said helplessly.

Sir Smith glared at him. “Do you think I would lie to you? Otherwise, why did I insist on you marrying Mia?”

It turned out that Sir Smith first met Mia in a mall.

At that time, Sir Smith went shopping alone in the mall but suddenly had angina pectoris. No one around dared to help him. Only Mia took the initiative to take first aid measures and sent him to the hospital.

The doctor had once said that if he didn’t receive treatment from her earlier, they would not be able to save him.

After that, Sir Smith found that Mia was really a good girl, so he wanted Joe to marry her.

Thinking of what had happened in the past, Sir Smith suddenly sighed and said, “Now that I think about it, I harmed her by making her marry you.”

He waved his hand feebly. “Forget it, you can do whatever you want but only one thing, if Wendy provokes Mia again, I won’t be soft-hearted.”

After leaving the Sun House, Joe finally understood why the White Family let Mia marry the Smith Family instead of their biological daughter when they clearly didn’t like Mia.

It turned out that it was not that they didn’t want to, but that they couldn’t.

He had once suspected that Mia had played some tricks in private...

His thoughts were interrupted here and Wendy called him. “Joe... I...”

She had never expected that Leah would dare to record the phone call and trick her.

“I told you not to provoke Mia,” Joe said coldly.

Wendy was speechless and finally said in a panic, “I’m just worried that you will be taken away by her! Haven’t you noticed that you’ve been paying more attention to her since she returned to the country? I...”

“I told you that you’d be Mrs. Smith.” Joe rubbed the bridge of his nose. “You should go abroad and recuperate for a while.”

“What!” Wendy said in a sharp and anxious voice. “How can I go abroad now?! My career and you will all go!”

Joe couldn’t help but reveal a mocking smile. “Do you still have a career now?”

The last incident was not over yet, and this time Mia took out the evidence, so Wendy had completely lost her career. Her previous endorsements had all been lost, and she had lost a lot of money to pay the brands.

Not to mention movies and TV shows, who would dare to use her now?

Of course, Wendy knew this. The more it was like this, the more she had to grasp Joe and prevent him from having anything to do with Mia!

“Joe, I promise that I will take good care of the fetus and never provoke Mia in the future!” Wendy cried and said, “It’s too far away abroad. What if it hurts our child? It...”

“Wendy.” Joe suddenly interrupted her. “Is the child in your belly mine?”

Wendy was like a chicken that had been strangled in the neck, and all her sounds disappeared completely.

Chapter 60 Wendy Quit the Entertainment Industry

Half a minute later, Wendy asked in a stiff voice, “Joe... what are you talking about? How could the child in my belly not be yours?”

Hearing her answer, Joe was very disappointed.

He took out a cigarette, lit it, leaned against the window, and said, “You should know that even if a man is drunk, he knows what happened. I didn’t touch you that night.”

Wendy was stunned.

She had always thought that she had hidden it well but didn’t expect Joe to know the truth from beginning to end!

“I...” Wendy opened her mouth and burst into tears. “I didn’t want to do this either. That day, the investor took advantage of the fact that I was drunk... I was really panicking. I was afraid that you would dislike me. I...”

The more she explained, the weaker her answer became. Wendy didn't know what to say.

Joe was well aware of what had happened. When he heard that Wendy was still trying to find an excuse to deceive him, his voice became colder. "Apologize to Mia and tell the public that you've retired from the entertainment industry and will come back after resting abroad for a period of time. The position of Mrs. Smith will still be yours."

"Joe, are you really willing to marry me?" Wendy asked in a hoarse voice as she gently stroked her belly. "Then this child..."

"It's up to you whether to give birth or not," Joe said calmly. "I'll leave the position of Mrs. Smith to you."

Wendy knew that her insistence would only make Joe dislike her, so she reluctantly agreed.

After hanging up the phone, Wendy smashed the mirror in front of her into pieces.

The agent, Penny, who was alarmed by the noise, was stunned when she saw this scene. She hesitated and stepped forward. "Wendy, you..."

Wendy stared at her fiercely. "Prepare an apology statement. I will retire from the entertainment industry."

"Huh?!" Penny was stunned. "But..."

"Hurry up!" Wendy shouted hysterically. Penny did not dare to speak and quickly ran out.

Half an hour later, Wendy's apology statement made her the trend and she announced that she was about to quit the entertainment industry.

"Wendy apologized, Miss Clinton!"

Frank also saw this apology statement at the first time and sent it to Charlotte.

Charlotte raised her eyebrows in surprise. She had thought that Joe would protect Wendy like before but didn't expect that he would ask her to retire so quickly.

But after thinking about it, it made sense. After all, Wendy was about to become Mrs. Smith, and the star identity in the entertainment industry was of little significance to her.

Seeing that Charlotte did not care, Frank did not say anything more and continued, “Mr. Smith is here.”

Charlotte pursed her lips. “Let him in.”

It was the first time that Joe had been brought into her office. Looking at Charlotte, who was sitting behind her desk in a professional suit, he suddenly recalled Mia, who had once sat at the dining table of the villa and smiled gently at him.

In just five years, she seemed to have completely changed into another person.

“I’ve already arranged for Wendy to go abroad. Don’t worry, she won’t bother you again in the future,” Joe took the initiative to say, “I heard from Grandpa that you saved his life...”

So it was because of Sir Smith.

Charlotte immediately understood. “It was just a piece of cake. At that time, I didn’t know he was Sir Smith.”

Speaking of this, Charlotte suddenly sneered. “Mr. Smith, you must have found out that I didn’t approach you on purpose, right?”
