

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette

Chapter 431-440

Chapter 431 It was one hundred thousand dollars and now it became worthless? This happened just because Sean said that he was the one who broke it! Was Sean's name really worth the value? "Th-th-This..." Willow slowly stopped when she was about to call to borrow money.

Herbert, Wade, and the others all looked at Marcus with puzzled eyes.

Everyone turned their attention to Sean again afterward.

Sean's expression was calm at this time and he did not feel surprised at all as if all this was taken for granted, and it was all within his expectations.

"Mr. Connor, are you sure?"

"I still know the value of this diamond-encrusted crystal vase.

"You can sell it as second-hand for tens of thousands. "Now you say it's worthless?" Wade said as he flicked his wrist and touched the rosewood table legs that supported the tabletop. "Then what do you mean, sir?"

Marcus slowly turned his head and looked at Wade.

"It means compensation at the original price!

"Sean broke your vase, so you must be compensated according to the price. "You don't have to put on the respectful show. I'm not acquainted with him." Wade grinned with full of pride appeared on his face. If Marcus still could not understand this situation after hearing the words from Wade, then he really was not fit to be the general manager. "You're not friends with Mr. Lennon?"

Marcus slowly put away the smile on his face.

Before, he thought that these people were all Sean's friends.

That was why he was polite to them.

Now it seemed that the relationship between Sean and them was obviously not good and they even wanted to make fun of Sean.

In that case, did Marcus still need to be polite to them?

"What did you say?"

When Marcus said these words, Wade immediately blushed.

"Why should I respect you? Where are you from?"

"Who're you?"

Marcus snorted coldly and flicked the cuffs of his suit.

His attitude made Herbert and the others instantly sober up.

'What's the situation?'

'Why did Marcus treat Wade with such a change in attitude?'

Did he not bring everyone to such a premium private room and waived the fee all because of Wade?

"I'm Wade Yancey, a man of foreign nationality, a doctor of medicine.

"We coming to the Riverleaf Lakeside Hotel for dinner is to give you respect.

"What? You don't know me?"

At this time, Wade felt extremely embarrassed.

However, he just acted shamelessly and still put on a proud gesture.

Sean, who was sitting aside, took and ate a few peanuts as if he were watching a clown act.

Pretended!

He just sat there quietly and watched Wade continue to pretend.

“Oh... So, you’re of foreign nationality, Mr. Yancey?”

Marcus suddenly realized and nodded. Wade showed a smug look after he saw Marcus’s reaction.

“Yes! I’m Wade Yancey.”

Wade immediately flicked his high-end suit with a proud look on his face.

“I’m sorry, I haven’t heard of you.”

However, what Marcus said made the smile on Wade’s face freeze instantly.

“What do you mean?”

“Isn’t it because of me that you let us use this Purple Firmanent Hall?”

Wade’s expression changed and changed again. The more he thought about it, the angrier he became.

“Because of you?”

Marcus shook his head slightly and took two glasses of wine directly from the floor manager behind him afterward, and walked slowly to Sean.

“Mr. Lennon, why didn’t you tell me in advance when you came to have a meal here?”

"I would cancel all my appointments and come to accompany you in person!

Marcus said respectfully as he clinked glasses with Sean.

Swoosh!

At this moment, Wade and the others were stunned on the spot. 'Why is Marcus so polite and respectful to Sean?'

Doesn't that mean...'

At this time, everyone was sobered up in an instant.

As long as they were not stupid, they could understand the current situation clearly.

This Marcus made it clear that all these arrangements were made because of Sean!

Otherwise, why he would come over to toast with Sean on purpose? Thinking about the respect and politeness of the head waitress to Sean before, this matter had come to the fore. From the beginning to the end, all the staff of this Riverleaf Lakeside Hotel treated them with such respect and courtesy and also gave them such top VIP treatment were all because of Sean!

However, Herbert and the others kept saying that Sean was a freeloader here and rode on Wade's coattails.

Only now did they understand that it was all of them who had ridden on Sean's coattails! "Mr. Lennon, please forgive me for the poor reception." When Marcus and Sean were clinking glasses, he bowed slightly, raised his glasses with both hands, and placed his own glass much lower than Sean's. Every move, every word, and deed, all expressed respect and courtesy to Sean. Just from his attitude, it could be seen that Sean and Marcus were not just friends. It seemed that Marcus was more like Sean's subordinate.

Wade was dumbfounded on the spot and Herbert was in shock.

Willow and Lexie looked at each other from time to time and sometimes looked at Sean with surprise. Was this really that loser cripple who had been useless for two years?

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette

Chapter 432

Chapter 432 How could he always bring surprises to people anytime, anywhere?

"Since I broke your vase, I'll compensate according to the price.

"I will pay it together later when it's time to settle the bill."

Sean said softly as he clinked glasses with Marcus. "Settle the bill? What bill?"

When Wade heard this, he immediately reacted.

"What do you mean by paying it altogether when it's time to settle the bill?"

"I'm willing to pay for the meal today, but I won't pay any money for damaged items."

Wade snorted coldly and immediately stated his position.

However, Marcus and Sean shook their heads and smiled disdainfully when they looked at each other.

Of course, he knew that the billing that Sean said was referring to the bill for the entire Riverleaf Lakeside Hotel on the ninth.

This Wade really treated himself as a big shot.

"Oh, Mr. Lennon, you're too polite.

"How can I let you pay anything?"

"If it satisfies you, you can just simply smash all the vases and tables in this room."

Marcus kept his attitude respectful toward Sean to the extreme.

Sean nodded lightly and did not say more.

"Mr. Lennon, it's too messy here.

"Let's move to another private room and I'll accompany you with a good drink, what do you think?"

Marcus glanced around and asked Sean softly soon after. "It's okay!"

"It's time for me to go back." Sean glanced at Willow and replied softly.

"No problem! I'll have someone escort you."

Although Marcus struggled hard to make a connection with Sean, he did not dare to forcibly keep him any longer so he nodded quickly.

"Sir, do you want to settle the bill now?"

The head waitress looked directly at Wade.

"Hmph! Okay then."

Wade picked up the Gucci wallet next to him and was about to open it.

"Mr. Yang, exempting the fees for the dishes.

"The price of this Purple Firmanent Hall is sixty-eight thousand and eight hundred dollars per hour, and you've used it for a total of two hours.

"So, the total cost of this private room is one hundred thirty-seven thousand seven hundred and seventy-six dollars. After rounding up, it'll be one hundred thirty-seven thousand and six hundred dollars.

"With the dishes and drinks, the total..."

Before the head waitress could finish speaking, Wade frowned and interrupted.

“What do you mean? The fee of this private room is sixty–eight thousand and eight hundred dollars per hour? Is this a robbery?”

“Even overseas, we don’t have such high prices as these.”

Wade frowned and he felt very angry about this.

“Mr. Yancey, I think you’ve seen the specifications and grades of our private room.

“If you go to a five–star hotel, any presidential suite will start with six figures.

“The level of our private room is even higher than any presidential suite.

“As for your claim that overseas hotel prices are not so high, I think it’s because you haven’t been to...”

The head waitress’s remarks were well–founded and this made Wade’s heart even more suffocated.

“Hmph! Of course, I don’t care about this little money.

“It’s just that you said before that the fee of this private room was waived.

“And now it’s being charged. What is the meaning of this?”

Wade snorted coldly and mentioned this matter.

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette Chapter 433

Chapter 433 “Mr. Yancey, when I said the expenses will be waived earlier, I didn’t mean the cost for the private room.

“Instead, all other costs, including today’s dishes, drinks, and all other perishables are on the house.”

The head waitress smiled slightly. As the chief waitress of a six–star hotel, she had her own way of handling things.

“What? All are on the house?”

When Wade heard this, he almost immediately burst into joy.

After all, money was never enough. Moreover, how happy would you be if you had a chance to dine and dash in this kind of six star hotel!

“Correct! All those charges are waived.

“But only for Mr. Lennon and his friends.

“Since you’re not Mr. Lennon’s friend, then...”

The head waitress slowly closed her mouth when she said this. What she meant was clearly expressed. “Are you kidding? “Hmph! Just tell me how much it is.”

Wade frowned and waved his hand proudly. “Dishes and drinks plus ten bottles of wine. “The total price is two hundred sixty–three thousand seven hundred and eighty dollars. “After rounding down, it’s two hundred sixty–three thousand dollars, plus the fee of this private room.

“It’s four hundred thousand dollars.”

The head waitress looked at the bill and spoke clearly.

What? Four hundred thousand dollars?”

Wade was completely dumbfounded.

At the same time, Herbert and the others, including Willow, were too frightened to say a word.

'Four hundred thousand dollars for a meal? Oh my god!'

However, it was understandable to think about the exquisite dishes that were served just now.

After all, this was a six-star hotel, In this kind of place, the price of a glass of sky juice might be three figures, It was expensive but the quality was worth the price.

As for Wade, however, he simply could not come up with so much money! How could he have thought that the prices for domestic hotels had reached such a level? Originally, he thought to invite them to a meal but at most, it would cost around 100,000 dollars, so he brought only 200,000 dollars with him today. Where could he go to borrow another 200,000 dollars at this moment? Moreover, even if he could borrow it, would he not feel distressed to spend 400,000 dollars all at once!

"Why? Not enough money to pay?" When Sean saw this scene, there was a tinge of ridicule appeared on the corner of his mouth. Wade could not help but felt angry when he heard what Sean said. However, he forcibly controlled himself after careful consideration. The head waitress said that all fees would be waived today if he was Sean's friend. Wade could not help thinking that he could save 400,000 dollars by making friends with Sean. This was definitely a guaranteed profit! Although it would be a bit of embarrassment, it was definitely worth it for the 400,000 dollars! "Ahem, Sean, what happened before was a misunderstanding. "Uhm... Can we... Let's be friends..."

After Wade's expression changed for a while, he quickly walked towards Sean and stretched out his palm to shake hands with Sean.

Sean slowly raised his head and looked from Wade's palm to his eyes.

"I'm sorry.

"I'm a neat freak." Sean replied lightly with a bantering tone.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette

Chapter 434

Chapter 434

Wade went red instantly after hearing what Sean said.

It was because he was too familiar with this sentence. After all, he had said it to Sean before.

As the saying went, "every dog had its day", he did not expect that this would come back to him so quickly.

At this time, Sean had already returned this sentence intact.

Wade finally got a taste of his own medicine.

His face was red and he felt extremely aggrieved.

However, he could not care less at this time in order to save the 400,000 dollars.

"Sean... Mr. Lennon, let's be friends..."

Wade bit the bullet and kept his head low.

"I remember you seem to be obsessed with cleanliness too?"

Sean still did not shake hands with Wade and asked Wade in a calm tone.

"Mr. Lennon, there used to be, there used to be..."

"But when I saw Mr. Lennon, my disease was cured immediately."

Wade scratched his head and lowered his head again and replied.

Herbert, Demi, and the others were all silent with their mouths closed at this time.

They had to accept the fact that Sean had a higher status than all of them.

“Mr. Connor, just waive the fees of this private room.”

Sean gave Wade a meaningful look and turned the wheelchair to leave afterward.

Originally, Wade did not intend to eat in this private room.

On the contrary, the staff of this hotel took the initiative to bring them here and it would be difficult to tell them clearly by then if things went out of hand.

Therefore, Sean did not want to waste time here.

“Mr. Lennon, alright, sure.”

Marcus nodded immediately and he actually was not going to accept the payment.

He did not even plan to accept the fees spent in this private room today.

Since Sean and his friends were having a meal here, how could he dare to accept the payment? Therefore, even if the fee of the private room was exempted, there was still more than 200,000 dollars of income and Marcus could not be happier.

Wade pondered for a while and accepted the price in his heart.

After all, it was not bad to be able to lose the fee for the private room.

“Thank you, Mr. Lennon...”

Wade thanked Sean with his palms together.

"Mr. Lennon, if necessary, I can contact overseas medical experts to give you a treatment..." Wade said this not really for Sean's sake but to show that he had great connections so that he would be less embarrassed.

"I think my body is not qualified to enjoy your overseas medical treatment.

"But you, since you know so many famous overseas doctors, why don't you seek treatment for your own body first?"

"If you still don't get treatment soon, with the two words Wade Yancey, the word "Wade" will be gone." Sean said no more and left the private room with Willow.

The general manager, Marcus Connor, naturally sent Sean downstairs in person. Herbert and the others thought subconsciously and their expressions changed soon after.

"Mr. Lennon, I'm really ashamed that our service did not fit your needs today."

Marcus sent Sean and Willow all the way until both of them got into their car.

This polite attitude made Willow confused for a while. "This has nothing to do with you. "But I hope nothing goes wrong when it comes to a serious matter." Sean looked at Marcus and said softly before the door closed. "Mr. Lennon, don't worry. "I promise to do it properly and there'll be absolutely no mistakes." Marcus knew that Sean was talking about the arrangement on the ninth, so he quickly patted his chest to assure.

Sean nodded slightly and left soon after he closed the door of the car.

As for Willow, she just wanted to go home quickly and ask Sean what was going on.

Inside the private room of the hotel. Wade was settling the bill.

Although the fee of the private room was exempted, Wade still made several phone calls to collect money for the drinks and dishes that cost more than 200,000 dollars.

During this process, Herbert and the others remained silent and watched without saying a word.

Wade was red in the face with shame. Originally, he planned to show off in front of his old classmates, especially Willow, as a returnee doctor of medicine.

As a result, it was a total shame,

Especially in front of Willow, he was even made to look worse than her cripple fiancé, which made him feel uncomfortable as if he had eaten a fly.

“Thank you, Mr. Yancey.

Then we’ll get out of your hair now. If Mr. Yancey still wants to remain here, you may just take your time.” After the head waitress received the payment, she immediately smiled and led her staff out of the private room. “Brother Wade, this Sean is really hateful!” Herbert carefully observed Wade’s expression and said with a light cough.

Swoosh!

Wade suddenly reached out and grabbed Herbert’s collar. “Didn’t you tell me that Sean’s a cripple? A cripple who’s a freeloader? “You tell me now! What’s going on? Huh?”

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette Chapter 435

Chapter 435

Wade’s heart was full of anger at this time.

As for Herbert, he had to bear the brunt of Wade’s temper.

“Brother Herbert, I don’t... I don’t know either...” a

Herbert kept shaking his head to explain with a nervous expression.

“You’re a piece of sh*t!”

Wade pushed Herbert away with a face full of anger.

If Herbert had not told him that Sean was a loser, would he have dealt with Sean?

It was true that he liked Willow but if her boyfriend was a powerful young man who was born with a silver spoon in his mouth, Wade would not create so much trouble and just would have a simple meal with his classmates.

However, he immediately had bad thoughts after hearing that Sean was not just a loser cripple but also a freeloader.

He thought that even if he flirted with Willow right in front of Sean, what could Sean do since he was just a cripple?

That was why there was a scene for interlinking arms with Willow while wine before.

Unexpectedly, Sean directly overturned the table with one hand before that could happen.

Immediately afterward, the general manager of the Riverleaf Lakeside Hotel came over in person and showed great respect and courtesy towards Sean.

Wade was not a fool.

How could the strength displayed by Sean be the crippled veg that Herbert said?

“Brother Wade, but Sean’s really a loser!”

“For the past two years, he has been a vegetable and he has only recently regained consciousness.”

“Brother Wade, please believe me, this Sean has absolutely no background.”

Herbert kept explaining when he saw that Wade was so angry.

“You’re wrong!

“He definitely has something in his background.”

At this moment, Jay Bennett, who had been being so quiet during the meal today, slowly raised his head.

“What’s it?”

Herbert slowly turned his head and frowned at Jay.

“Some time ago, the Bennett family was nearly ruined and you all think it was because I offended Mr. Wallace.

“In fact, the Bennett family was pushed to the brink of ruin because of Sean.

“You all don’t have to draw conclusions right now. When my dad took me to see Mr. Wallace. Mr. Wallace said in person that whoever makes Mr. Lennon unhappy, he’ll make him suffer.”

When Jay said this, everyone was stunned on the spot.

They could not help but think of the picture of Jay kneeling to Sean that day. “It turns out that Sean has something to do with a bigshot like Mr. Wallace?’ ‘No wonder he was so confident at the Blue Bay Club that day.’

“He doesn’t just know Mr. Wallace. “He knows many big shots in River City. “With just a single sentence from him, he can shut down all the industries under the Bennett family one after another and force us to suspend business for rectification. “After I knelt down and apologized to him, in less than two hours, all the properties of the Bennett family were unblocked.

“You guys think about it, what kind of background does he have?” After Jay said these words, Herbert and Wade, including Demi, were all dumbfounded.

“Sh*t! How... How could he have such a terrifying background?” Herbert widened his eyes and could not help but gasped for breath. The others were also frightened. Although the background of Jay’s family was not very rich, it was still at the level of tens of millions.

However, Sean could directly block all their industries in one sentence and unblocked them easily in another sentence. He could completely control the Bennett family between the palms of his hands. This identity was more than powerful!

At this time, there was a long silence in the private room.

It turned out that Sean, the person they looked down on, was the most powerful being! “Hmph! So what? “It’s just that he has some connections. Who doesn’t know a few big shots?” After Wade was silent for a few seconds, he was still a little dissatisfied. “He even dared to say many overseas people died in his hands. “Just based on his words, if I report to the overseas embassy in the Dragon Kingdom, it’ll be enough for him to suffer.”

When Wade said these words, Demi and the others nodded slightly. Sean has some true background but this sentence from him was definitely bragging. “Do you really think that he’s really bragging?”

At this time, Lexie also joined the conversation. “Lexie, what do you mean by that?” Wade asked as he turned his head slightly and looked at Lexie. “You all can’t see it at all that the aura on his body is something only people in the army can have.

“Also, he must have really been on the battlefield for more than once.

“His legs were also crippled from the battlefield. “So, when he said that there’re many overseas people who died in his hands, maybe he really wasn’t joking with us. “And what does your identity of foreign nationality mean to him?” After Lexie said these words, Wade’s eyes widened at first and his face turned red and bowed his head slightly soon after. He could not find any words to refute at all.

“Lexie, don’t be too self-righteous. “How do you know that Sean used to be a soldier? And also, you mentioned aura? I think you’re crazy! “You’ve never been a soldier, so how do you know?” Demi snorted coldly and folded her arms in front of her chest and sneered.

“Yeah, I’ve never been.

“But my cousin has been in the army for six years. That’s someone who has actually been on the battlefield and killed in it. How could I not know?” After Lexie said this, Demi was immediately speechless.

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette

Chapter 436

Chapter 436

In the Dragon Kingdom, the status of those in the army was very high.

When others mention the army, they would be in awe.

“Sean’s aura is stronger than my cousin’s.

“If he hadn’t actually fought and killed on the battlefield, I’ll write my name in reverse.

“This is the last time we’ll have dinner parties together.

“That’s it. Everyone, behave yourself.”

After Lexie said this, she turned and walked out of the private room.

Originally, Lexie cared about the friendship between classmates for people like Herbert and the others.

Now it seemed that she had been too kind.

After all these years, the only people who could maintain proper friendships were her, Willow, and Rachel.

In the private room, Herbert and the others looked at each other and silently lowered their heads again soon after.

It seemed that they really underestimated Sean.

“Brother Wade, you don’t have to be afraid of him.

“Even if what Lexie said was true, what can Sean do even if he used to be a soldier?

“Yesterday’s sun can’t dry today’s clothes. Things back then were useless.

“What I knew was he’s a cripple now and a cripple who knew a few people at most.

Herbert gritted his teeth and he still felt very unconvinced in his heart.

“My grandfather told me that only the weak like to deny.”

When Jay heard this, he slowly shook his head, got up, and left soon after without saying goodbye.

Jay knew that his IQ level was not high but he was afraid that if he stayed longer with these people, his IQ level would become drop below zero.

“Oh, in fact, it’s useless for you to say these things.

“I don’t know if you’ve heard that Quill Zimmer, the eldest son of the Zimmer family in River City, is going to confess to Willow?”

Suddenly, a girl broke the news to them.

“What’s the situation? Tell us now!”

Wade and the others immediately became interested.

As for the girl, she did not know where the news came from hearsay, embellished the news immediately.

"It means that Young Master Zimmer is about to confess to Willow.

"Also, he didn't give a sh*t to Scan, who's Willow's fiancé."

After listening to the girl's news, everyone was amused on the spot.

"The Zimmer family is a well-known existence in the entire River City!

"It is said that their backgrounds are also related in the armies.

"If Sean goes up against Quill, then there's only one dead end."

The more they thought about it, the happier they felt.

"Hahaha! This Sean is really arrogant in front of us.

"I'd like to see how he show off in front of Young Master Zimmer.

"Let's see what kind of expression he has like when Willow is confessed by Young Master Zimmer here. Haha!"

When everyone thought about that scene, they were extremely excited and looking forward to

In Willow's house. Sean felt helpless when he saw Willow sitting in front and looking at him with a serious expression. Every time he did something, as long as Willow knew about it, she would question Sean with a serious expression like a criminal interrogation after returning. 1

Sean did not want to hide anything from Willow but there were some things that he had to hide.

Sean already knew the current situation of the Northwest soldiers from Zander Young.

He even knew that after Blaze Lake framed him back then, Blaze had been flourishing like the green bay tree.

With Blaze's current status, if he wanted to deal with Sean, he might only need to give one look and Sean would die without a place to be buried.

Therefore, Sean still could not tell anyone about some things that could not be exposed for the time being

"Sean, I know I shouldn't ask more about what you don't want to say.

"But I'm really curious about it.

"I wonder what kind of person you are?" Willow twisted her palm twice and raised her head to look at Sean afterward. "I'm Sean, who is just a cripple." Sean pondered for two seconds, shook his head, and replied,

'You're a cripple but you can do things that many able-bodied people cannot do.

"Let's just talk about the things that happened in the Riverleaf Lakeside Hotel today, what's your relationship with them? "When did you meet them without me knowing?"

At this time, Willow once again incarnated as 'one hundred thousand whys' and asked several questions in a row.

"Perhaps, it's just that they have a deep commitment to good service?"

Sean coughed lightly. He decided to hide it temporarily in order to surprise Willow.

"Sean, I'm not a three-year-old kid, so it's not that easy to coax me.

"Why are they just only respectful towards you? "Tell me the truth, don't fool me." Willow was a little angry and frowned at Sean. Sean shook his head helplessly and said softly afterward, "Because... I've reserved their entire hotel, so I can be regarded as their big client." Willow was stunned again when she heard the words, and asked, "You also booked the hotel? Which day?"

"On the ninth.

"It was also the day we first met two years ago." Sean slowly raised his head and looked at Willow.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette

Chapter 437

Chapter 437

As soon as these words came out, the room fell silent for a moment.

Willow stared at Sean silently with her eyes wide open.

In Sean's eyes, it was calm and seemed extremely sincere.

After a long time, Willow's mouth slightly moved and her eyes filled with complicated emotions.

If Sean said this to Willow before, she would not believe even a word.

Now, however, Willow's mentality had undergone tremendous changes after a series of events. Especially today, Marcus's attitude towards Sean made Willow feel that she did not know Sean too well.

Even though she had lived with Sean for two years and she thought she had seen everything about Sean.

However, these days, she found that she never seemed to see through Sean.

"You... Please leave me alone..."

Willow lowered her head slightly. Her face was filled with complicated emotions.

It took nearly a minute for Willow to raise her head again.

“Are you planning to spend money to fight against Quill for that day?”

“I said it all, I don’t want you to do this, you can’t compete with him!”

“Even if you spend more money and even if the hotel promises you, Quill will not give up as well.

“Your money is nothing in the eyes of the Zimmer family. The Zimmer family is not only rich but their power is incomparable even to the Quinn family.”

Willow’s eyes were full of worry when she said these words.

She knew that Sean should have some money in his hands.

Therefore, Sean would definitely not allow Quill to confess to Willow for the sake of a man’s dignity.

However, Willow was more aware that the so-called dignity was worthless in the face of reality.

What was the reality?

The reality was that Quill could play Sean without thinking with just a few fingers.

How could the power of the Zimmer family’s connections in River City be something that Sean could compete with just a few dollars?

“Don’t worry, he can’t deal with me.”

Sean waved his hand slightly and did not take Quill to his heart at all.

“Can you not have the attitude of throwing the handle after the blade?”

"It's true that Quill's a rich man's son, but even if he's ignorant and incompetent, he still has the entire Zimmer family to support him!"

"And you, Sean, what do you have?" Willow suddenly became irritable, she pointed at Sean and asked. "I have countless brothers. Brothers who would give their lives for each other." Sean said this completely subconsciously. It was because he deeply understood that whether it was his noble status or the illustrious military exploits he had made.

All his brothers shed countless blood and sweat and even their lives to hold him up.

Therefore, for Sean, his greatest wealth was those brothers of life and death.

Moreover, Sean's confidence also came from them. However, when Sean said these words, Willow shook her head helplessly. "Okay, I believe you! "But where are they?" Willow's words made Sean fall into silence instantly. "You said you have countless brothers, where are they now? "Where were they when you were incapacitated for two years and ridiculed by others? "I don't want to take credit in front of you, but I only know that I'm the one who took care of you for the past two years and it has nothing to do with other people." Willow stood up slowly, frowned at Sean, and spoke. Sean was speechless.

At this time, he was not the nine-star commander who could command millions of armies and horses with a single order two years ago. Seeing that Sean was silent, Willow became softhearted again.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette Chapter 438

Chapter 438

Two years, regardless of whether Sean was catatonic or lucid, Willow had never said such a thing to Sean. She feared hurting Sean's self-esteem. Today, however, the words really came to this point. "Sean, I'm really not telling you how much time I spent on you. "I just want to say that your personality is too similar to mine and we're both so stubborn. "But sometimes, we've to accept reality." Willow slowly shook her head with deep helplessness in her eyes. "So, you think that your stubborn decision two years ago brought the Quinn family's scorn to you and also the sneering and ridicule of others, right?

"It's precisely because you know the consequences of making a stubborn decision, so you're persuading me not to be tough with Quill?" Sean, who had not spoken for a long time, slowly raised his head to look at Willow.

Willow looked at Sean but she did not answer the question directly. However, her expression and demeanor already showed her inner thoughts.

"I'll let you understand.

"You didn't make the wrong decision.

"They don't understand you because they're blind!

"Two years ago, it was the beginning of your humiliating life, and on this day two years later, I'll give you a brand-new life.

"Two years ago, I brought you countless humiliations, and on this day two years later, I'll end these humiliations with my own hands." Sean put his hands on the armrests of the wheelchair with a firm look in his eyes. Willow stared at Sean for nearly half a minute and shook her head withdrew her gaze soon after.

"Okay, that's it. I've already booked the train ticket. "On the ninth, I'll hand over the company affairs to the assistant "Then, you go to Joules Town with me. I want to have a look at the Rain Flower Terrace."

After Willow finished speaking, she slowly walked out of the room.

Sean slowly clenched his palm while watching Willow leave.

"Wherever you want to go, I'm willing to accompany you.

"And I will also explain why I remained here for the past two years in River City." 1

In the room, Sean whispered to himself.

Eight o'clock in the evening.

The driver, Ziegler, picked up Sean from the Quinn Residence.

He was accompanied by Ziegler so Willow was reassured and decided to look at the company documents at home.

"Mr. Lennon, I think Ms. Quinn wants to go out with you.

"Why don't you let her follow?"

Ziegler asked casually while driving.

"I'm preparing a gift for her as a surprise.

"So don't let her know for now."

Sean waved his hand slightly and explained casually.

"Sure!"

Ziegler stopped talking and drove silently.

Jeading Street in River City was the largest jewelry street in River City.

There were countless luxury stores on this street and flagship stores were set up here.

Among them, the major brands of jewelry were the most prominent.

"Is there anything I want in this place?"

Sean sat in the back of the car, touched his chin, and asked.

"Mr. Lennon, if you want to confess to a girl, flowers and a diamond ring are the basic things. that you need to prepare, otherwise, what else do you want to prepare?"

Ziegler smiled helplessly. He found that Sean really seemed to know nothing about girls.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette

Chapter 439

Chapter 439 "Really?" Sean paused, put down his palm, and asked. "Of course, just listen to me, it's definitely right. "Girls have the least resistance to these shiny things." Ziegler smiled and found a parking space to stop soon after. "Okay, then go to the best jewelry store and pick one. "The ninth is coming soon so it's too late to order any custom-made items." Sean thought about it for a while and got out of the car with Ziegler's help. "Mr. Lennon, what's your budget?" Ziegler asked Sean softly while pushing him. Even if he wanted to recommend, he still needed to make a recommendation based on Sean's financial capacity.

Otherwise, even if he recommended a good diamond ring, it would be useless if Sean could not afford it.

"Price is not important, but quality must be there." Sean smiled lightly. Even if it was expensive, he would not regret buying it for Willow. "Mr. Lennon, okay I understand." Ziegler nodded lightly. Then, he pushed Sean directly to the largest brand store in the jewelry industry.

This store was very large. By comparing with the surrounding stores, it gave people a feeling like a crane standing among chickens.

Furthermore, there were also a lot of customers in this jewelry store. There were no less than a hundred people at a glance. However, most of the customers in this store were men and women over the age of 30.

The reason was naturally that the prices here were not something that young people could afford.

Sean turned the wheelchair and looked around the store.

Gold, silver jewelry, and diamonds were all on separate counters.

Sean felt a little uncomfortable in such a place.

Moreover, he did not know anything about these things. However, since Zeigler said that a diamond ring was suitable for confession, Sean came to the diamond ring counter.

Across the glass counter, the dazzline diamond rings and jewelry placed inside were extremely dazzling under the illumination of the lights.

Bright and dazzling. "Hello sir, is there anything I can help you with?" A female teller, who had just closed an order, asked Sean in a very good mood. There was no discrimination at all although Sean was in a wheelchair. "Ah, uhm..."

Sean looked at the rows of diamond rings and jewelry on the counter and could not help being a little dazed. If you let him lead troops to fight, then he would lead them with utmost confidence. However, he really had no experience in choosing jewelry. He wanted to ask Zeigler to help him choose but Zeigler just went out to answer the phone, so he could only choose by himself. Seeing Sean stunned, the female teller immediately reacted. "It's okay, sir, we have got wedding rings here, as well as diamond engagement rings. "Customization is acceptable and there're many styles of finished products available for you to choose from. "Just tell me your needs and I'll provide some suggestions for you?" The female teller smiled and asked politely. "Then help me choose a diamond engagement ring. Sean nodded and pointed at the counter. "No problem, sir. "What do you think about this one?" While speaking, the female teller pointed at a diamond ring inside the counter. The style of this diamond ring was simple and elegant and the platinum ring was superimposed with one-third of gold. There was a diamond-shaped diamond ring in the middle with gold and silver small discs on both sides, which complemented each other and showed dignity.

"This diamond ring is called 'True Love' and it's made with 4C-grade technology. "The center diamond is available in 50-point D color grade and 100-point G color grade and can also be customized."

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette Chapter 440

Chapter 440

Sean was stunned after hearing the female teller say these.

He understood the two words 'True Love', which seemed to be the name of this diamond ring.

"Ahem, the..."

Sean scratched his head and was just about to speak.

"Yasmine, help me take a look at this..."

Suddenly, a young woman, who was wearing a professional teller uniform, walked towards this side.

Before the woman could finish her sentence, she glanced at Sean inadvertently and was suddenly stunned slightly.

"Hey, is this... is this the cripple of the Quinn..."

The woman forcibly swallowed the following words then she frowned and glanced at Sean.

"Jenny, do you guys know each other?"

The female teller asked with some doubts.

"Know him? No, I don't know him."

When Jenny heard the words, she immediately pouted and shook her head like a rattle.

It seemed that knowing Sean was a shame.

Sean narrowed his eyes slightly and he had some impression of this Jenny Preston.

She seems to be Willow's neighbor. Among the neighbors in that area, their family was pretty affluent.

That was why Jenny used to show off in front of Willow.

It was only later that Fion had a big fight with Jenny's mother and the two became bitter rivals after that.

"What's the problem with the security? Why're they letting everyone come in?"

Jenny glanced at Sean. She then frowned and muttered afterward.

"Jenny, what're you talking about? This is my customer."

The female teller felt a little uncomfortable when she heard this. Jenny would definitely offend people by saying this!

If she lost this order, would she not be able to get the commission?

"Customer? Do you know the meaning of customer?"

"A customer is someone whom you can make the deal with. Is it necessary to waste time for someone like this who comes in for the free air conditioning and sees the world?"

"You can ask him what he's here for. I'm sure that he's definitely not here to buy jewelry." Jenny waved her hand with a disdainful expression.

She knew very well the situation in Willow's family. Luxury items, like jewelry, were destined to have nothing to do with Willow's family. "Sir, you...?" The female teller was stunned when she heard the words. "I'm here to buy a diamond ring."

Sean shook his head slightly and replied softly.

"Pfft, stop bragging. "It's been a year since I was married but this cripple Lennon is still in a wheelchair? "By the way, can you afford to buy a diamond ring? Who is it for? For Willow? Is she worthy of such a thing?"

Jenny turned the ring on her hand with a disdainful expression.

"I advise you, don't make trouble for yourself."

When Sean heard Jenny talking about Willow, coldness gradually appeared in his eyes.

"Why? did I say something wrong? "You don't know what you are, do you?"

"But we know that you, Sean, are poor and ignorant. Aunt Fion said all these things.

"You can afford to buy a diamond ring? Let me tell you, if you really have some money, you should spend it on seeing a doctor and buying medicine for yourself."

Jenny folded her arms in front of her chest and felt very haughty.

"If you don't know how to speak, just keep your worthless mouth shut.

"I think you don't want this job anymore, do you?"

At this moment, Zeigler, who came over after calling, frowned and pointed at Jenny.

Seeing that Zeigler was dressed in a black suit that did not look like an ordinary person, Jenny was slightly stunned.