

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette

Chapter 881 - 890

Chapter 881

"Mr. Lennon, I'm bad at parenting.

"Please forgive the Zimmer family and our mistakes."

Jon gritted his teeth slightly before looking at Sean and begging for mercy.

Sean said nothing but drew the long sword out slowly.

The impressive and heavy Guardian Sword had a terrifying murderous pressure.

Willow, Fion, and the Quinn family frowned.

They knew the sword.

Sean was sent to the Quinn family two years ago.

His only belongings were the sword, a piece of clothing, and a small wooden box. 1

There was nothing but these three things.

No one cared at the time, but it must have been something.

The blade was dull and a little dark.

Sean grabbed the hilt and brushed his fingers lightly over the blade, his eyes flashing with nostalgia.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

This sword had been with him for the longest time when he was at war.

The sword was the Guardian Sword.

He was the invincible god of war.

The man with the sword guarded the borders, deterring the enemy from invading for years.

The scene where he swung his sword and commanded millions of troops to recover 4,000 kilometers of land was still as clear as yesterday.

However, the fearsome Guardian Sword had been hiding for two years without touching blood.

Back in Sean's hands again, Sean seemed to have developed a telepathic connection with the long sword.

He could even feel the long sword's excitement.

The hilt was cold, but it stirred the passion in Sean.

All eyes were on Sean.

They all had a feeling that Sean had changed dramatically.

The change was simply because he had a long sword in his hand.

It was as if the sword had been made for him.

"Whew!"

Sean exhaled softly, shaking countless memories out of his head.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

It was not Excalibur but was somewhat like Excalibur.

It provided you with the imperial prerogative to act first.

Even if he killed Jon and his son, no one dared judge him.

Sean with the Guardian Sword was like the Grim Reaper with his scythe.

Anyone he wanted dead would die.

However, Sean promised Jason not to touch them.

“There’s one more thing missing.”

Sean looked at Quill and said indifferently.

Jon and Quill’s hearts clenched when they heard that.

The Nine–star Armor had been ripped apart by Quill with the sword.

How were they going to give it to him?

“Mr. Lennon, we still have it, but we can’t find it as we came in a hurry.

“Give us some time. We’ll find it and bring it to you.”

Jon quickly explained.

Sean frowned slightly at it.

It looks like Quill destroyed that armor!

“As I said, if my things are damaged, you will pay with your lives.”

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

Sean frowned and said to Quill.

“Mr... Mr. Lennon, please forgive me...”

Jon leaned over instantly, shaking slightly.

Sean pondered for a moment, still hesitating.

After all, he promised Jason he would not kill Jon and his son.

He could not go back on his word after all.

“Mr. Lennon, I have several other properties and real estate under my name.

“I’ll sell it all to make it up to you.”

Jon said again when he saw Sean silent.

“Get out of here.”

Sean was silent for a moment before waving his hand slightly.

“Yes! Yes!”

Jon finally let out a long breath.

He got what he wanted.

As long as Sean relented on them, they would have a chance.

Next, he was going to take Sean down when he let his guard down.

They had come today to admit their mistakes but not to repent.

It was to buy the Zimmer family two days.

Jon and his son left the villa obsequiously.

Everyone in the villa had mixed feelings.

Especially Old Madam Quinn and the others, who were now quite sure.

Sean had a lot to do with the situation the Zimmer family had encountered.

Otherwise, Jon and Quill would never have gotten down on their knees and apologized to Sean.

With that in mind, members of the Quinn family could not leave all the more!

How terrifying was Sean if he could do that to the Zimmer family?

The power he had was probably equal to Reach For Will Group!

The Quinn family would not have to worry about anything if they could have Sean's support.

"What else do you want?"

Sean looked at the Quinn family and asked indifferently.

Sean, I think we can talk things over. Samuel instantly chuckled and sat on the couch again. Yes, yes. Old Madame Quinn and the rest nodded. Their attitudes changed so quickly, a hint of amusement appeared on Sean's lips as worn appeared in his eyes. Members of the Quinn family knew their attitudes changed a little too quickly. Could they afford to waste time? They dared not continue making fun of Sean like they just did. Sean, we're family, after all. Old Madame Quinn coughed and sat on the couch.

Sean's expression remained unfazed, but he was sneering inside.

'So we're a family now?'

After all, even when Sean was still in the Quinn family, they never acknowledged Sean's engagement with Willow.

They never treated Sean like a member of the Quinn family.

Sean could not stand them calling him their family!

"Sean, you're right.

"We owe Willow and you an apology!"

Old Madam Quinn was silent for a few seconds before slowly standing up again.

Old Madam Quinn looked at Sean and spoke seriously.

"I'll go first.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

“Willow and Sean, I apologize about what had happened.

“I’m here today to make amends to you, Willow, and her family!” (

Before Sean could speak, Old Madam Quinn looked at Samuel and the others.

“Sam, it’s your turn!”

Not daring to waste time, Samuel walked over immediately.

“Willow, what happened with the company is my fault.

“Kent, as a big brother, I’m sorry I didn’t take good care of you and our siblings.

“And Sean, I shouldn’t have treated you like that.

“I’m sorry!”

Samuel lowered his head slightly and apologized to Sean.

Simon, Faye, and several core members of the Quinn family lined up to apologize to them.

Willow was stunned. Then she slowly put her hand over her mouth, tears glistening in her eyes.

Kent and Fion’s expressions looked even more complicated as their moods fluctuated.

These were some of the most popular people at Old Madam Quinn’s side.

Before Sean came to the Quinn family, they were already picking on Willow’s family.

Kent was honest, so he was always bullied.

The situation had only gotten worse since Sean came along.

Nothing they do would change the situation.

However, the people who had looked down upon them, laughed at them, taunted them, stood side by side in front of them, and apologized in unison.

It was something unthinkable to Fion and Kent!

It was exactly what happened.

Besides that, they owed it all to Sean.

“Sean, Willow, Kent, and Fion, I’m sorry!”

After everyone apologized, Old Madam Quinn paused for two seconds before speaking again. Then they bowed and apologized.

Swoosh!

Just then, Sean suddenly got up and grabbed Old Madam Quinn’s arm.

“You’re an elder and the widow of Old Master Quinn. You shouldn’t bow to me.”

Sean said solemnly as he held Old Madam Quinn gently.

It was a different matter.

When Sean was in the army, there were not many people he admired.

Old Master Levi Quinn was one of the people he admired.

“Can you forgive us then?”

Old Madam Quinn was silent. Her face was red, and her eyes were full of deep regret.

“The Quinn family is the family of a popular general. You shouldn’t be so profit–driven.

“I hope you can change.”

Sean glanced at the crowd and said indifferently.

“So, what do we do next?”

Old Madam Quinn asked again, looking ashamed.

“Wait.”

Sean only said one word.

“Wait?”

Old Madam Quinn and the others were confused.

They had no idea what Sean meant by “Wait”.

Let alone what Sean wanted them to wait for.

“Wait for everything to be settled.

“Now is not the time yet.”

Sean was silent for a moment, but he said one more thing.

Members of the Quinn family froze again.

‘Everything’s not settled yet?’

'Sean already brought down the Zimmer family. Isn't that his final plan?

'Or does he have something bigger planned?'

They wanted to ask more questions but were afraid to ask more.

They muttered their goodbyes and hurried away.

Willow's feud with the Quinn family was over for now.

Their relationship was somewhat improved after that evening.

It was the last chance Sean gave them.

If they still did not know what was good for them, he would not relent even if members of the Quinn family kneeled to him next time.

Kent and Fion went to see Old Madam Quinn and the others off.

Willow looked at Sean for over ten seconds.

Without a word, she gently took Sean's hand and walked into the room.

"You told me before.

"There are things you will tell me in due time.

"Can you tell me now?"

Willow sat opposite Sean, her eyes solemn. It was as if she was going to be mad if Sean did not tell her. Sean knew that he could not hide it any longer. There was no need to hide it any longer either. His plan was already in its final stages. Once it was completed, River City would be under his control. River City's business circle would only have one ruler, and that was Sean. By then, even Blaise in the Northwest Army could not defeat Sean if he knew of Sean's existence. Even if he could do that, Blaise could have easily slaughtered the Quinn family's cripple a month ago. However, Blaze dared not kill an entrepreneur who controlled the economic lifeblood of the whole city, no matter how much guts he had. It was why Sean had been keeping a low profile. He no longer had to hide now.

"That photo Lexie showed you. The one Rachel sent.

"Do you remember it?"

Sean weighed his words for a moment before speaking softly.

"Yes, I remember. What's the matter?"

Willow nodded and sat closer to Sean, afraid to miss a word.

She remembered the photo Sean talked about, of course.

Sean accidentally deleted the photo,

Willow even apologized to everyone for the incident.

“Go on. Why did you stop speaking?”

Willow urged again when Sean was silent.

Sean was silent for a few seconds before slowly shaking his head.

“Ask Rachel.

“Ask Rachel where the photo came from.

“Just say that I asked her to speak.”

There were things he did not want to talk about and was not in the mood to talk about.

“Well... Okay!”

Willow paused for a few seconds before returning to her room to call Rachel.

Sean sat in his room and waited in silence.

Willow felt slightly awkward when the phone rang.

Normally carefree, Rachel was also uncomfortable.

After all, Willow noticed that Rachel had feelings for Sean.

Therefore, they were considered rivals in love.

However, Rachel chose to quit and leave River City to travel after learning what Sean felt.

“Rae, I’m sorry...”

Willow was silent for a few seconds before apologizing after all.

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

“Hmm? Willow, what are you talking about? Why are you apologizing?”

Rachel paused before shaking her head and speaking with a smile.

“Sean, he...”

Willow bit her lips but did not know what to say.

“What are you thinking? You’re perfect for each other.

“Mr... Lennon loves you too. I wish you two all the best.

Rachel hesitated but still dared not call Sean by his name.

“Alright, enough about this. You must have wanted to see me about something, don’t you?”

Rachel asked before waiting for Willow to speak.

“Yeah... I wanted to ask about that photo you sent Lexie...”

Willow paused before quickly adding, “Sean asked me to ask you. He said he wants you to tell me.”

Rachel fell silent, feeling complicated.

‘Is Sean finally going to reveal his true identity?’

‘Does this mean Sean is ready to go back?’

If that were the case, Rachel was willing to go back to the army.

“Did he really say that?”

Rachel asked quietly after being silent for a few seconds.

“Yes! He asked you to tell me everything.”

Willow nodded heavily, her tone earnest.

Rachel nodded too. She knew Willow did not need to fool her.

“I can tell you, but everything I say next must be kept secret.

“You mustn’t tell anyone.”

Rachel’s tone was so serious that it made Willow serious too.

“Okay!”

Willow nodded heavily.

Rachel weighed her words and began to explain to Willow.

“The man in the photo is a legend of the Northwest frontier and even Dragon Kingdom’s army.

“He the most superior commander in the Northwest Army. He’s a nine–star commander, commanding millions of soldiers.

“He joined the army when he was a teenager. In eight years, he killed tens of thousands of enemies and intimidated everyone at the border.

“Southern Clans, Northern Dynasty, and Western Force gave up and dared not invade Dragon Kingdom’s borders.”

Willow's eyes lit up with admiration as Rachel said this. What a hero. Willow had feelings for Sean. However, Willow was thrilled to hear about the impressive feat. And then what? And then what? Willow was hooked and urged Rachel to continue. Two years ago, his adoptive father was besieged by traitors and died in battle. Dragon Kingdom lost 40 km of land and was defeated. When the soldiers' morale is low, he alone wielded a sword and gathered an army of fierce fighters. Using the commander's token, he led 1000 personal guards, 5000 Vanguard, 5000 death squads, and a million soldiers. He killed ten of the enemy's commanders in a single battle. The enemies ran like sheep and were in disarray. The enemy had many casualties in that battle. We recovered 40 km of lost land and he collapsed from exhaustion. Rachel stopped short, her voice already breaking slightly. She remembered how she could not see the original color of the Guardian sword Sean was holding. The whole sword was stained with blood. Shaun was covered in blood too, and it was hard to tell if it was his or the enemy's blood. Shaun never let go of the Guardian sword

Chapter 884

The sky was dark that day. Dark clouds were closing in, and heavy rain was imminent.

Rachel followed the field doctor to search for the wounded.

Millions died as blood flowed thousands of miles. Both sides suffered countless losses.

On the battlefield, Sean fought to the last with his sword.

He slipped into a coma due to exhaustion.

Countless logistics soldiers had tears streaming down their cheeks.

Willow was slightly stunned, but she gradually began to recompose herself.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

She thought of Sean and the long sword in Sean's hand.

"Then... what?"

Willow asked, her voice shaking as her eyes widened.

"Then he was betrayed by his men.

"Crippled, delirious, and cornered, his brother-in-arms risked his life to get him out."

Willow froze again at that.

She had vaguely figured out the real answer.

"Where... did he send him?"

Willow asked, gritting her teeth.

"He sent him to the Quinn family of River City."

Rachel exhaled gently before speaking slowly.

Willow's eyes widened as she looked dumbfounded.

She froze on the spot.

The answer had been revealed.

The god-like hero Rachel mentioned was Sean!

Willow only knew that Sean was a soldier, but she had no idea that Sean had such supreme power in the army.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

She knew that Sean had fought and killed enemies, but she had no idea that Sean had such brilliant fighting skills and such distinguished battle achievements!

"It's... It's Sean, isn't it?"

Willow bit her red lip. The palm of her hand shook as she held the phone. (1)

"Yes! It's Commander Lennon!"

"The northwest frontier's indestructible god of war—Commander Lennon!"

Rachel, who had been sitting down, stood up to show her respect.

Willow was shocked by Rachel's definitive answer.

She could no longer make out what Rachel said afterward.

"While he was guarding the frontier, the enemy failed to breach Dragon Kingdom.

"The people owe him a great deal to have a peaceful country.

"He and the soldiers around him are Dragon Kingdom's iron backbone.

*They are the ones who propped up the entire Dragon Kingdom with their flesh and blood.

"Every soldier is a hero, and he is also the commander of all heroes!"

Rachel already had tears in her eyes and a twang in her voice as she said this.

"I... I see."

Willow had mixed feelings.

She had admired Sean in the past, and she was now proud of Sean.

She also felt that everything she had done for Sean was worth it.

Even without the arranged marriage, she and the Quinn family should not refuse to take care of such a hero!

“Willow, you mustn’t say a word about what I said to anyone, especially his identity.

“Things are uncertain in the Northwest. The man who did this to him still holds an important position in the army.

“If his identity is exposed, you and he will be in danger.”

Rachel spoke to Willow in a serious tone.

“Is that man tough?”

Willow nodded before asking.

“More than tough, he usurped Commander Lennon’s position.

“Besides, he has strong connections. You could say that he rules the country.

“In short, he will go after Commander Lennon if he knew he’s in River City.”

Rachel also felt powerless as she talked about Blaze.

Sean was aloof and did not like dealing with people, while Blaze was smooth and slick in establishing connections.

Blaze’s network was far stronger than Sean’s.

“So is Sean going to hide here forever and never show himself in public?”

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

Willow asked, feeling miserable.

Shawn used to be so powerful. It must be hard to live on indignation in a small city like River City. Willow, remember, an eagle may sometimes fly lower than the pheasant, but the pheasant can never fly higher than the eagle. Everything is temporary, Rachel said, and slowly hung up. Willow put down her phone and savoured Rachel's words. After a while, she left the room in a haze and headed for Sean's room. Sean's room. Swoosh. Swoosh. Sean held a soft cloth in his hand as he wiped the long sore gently. He was gentle, as if it were his lover. Do you want to go back? Sean asked softly, holding the hilt and looking at the blade. I know you do. You belong on the battlefield. You should behead your enemies. Sean sighed and put his long sore gently aside. With everything in River City settled, he could begin preparations for his return to the northwest. Blaze must pay his debt in blood.

Bang!

Willow flung the door open.

Sean slowly looked up at Willow.

Before she could say a word, Willow threw herself at Sean and hugged him tightly.

She threw her well-proportioned body into his arms, enchanting him.

"Sean, I'm sorry..."

"And thank you..."

Willow hugged Sean tightly and refused to let go for even a second.

Sean knew that Rachel had told Willow everything she needed to say.

Sean patted Willow on the back and replied with a smile.

“I’m willing to be there for you, whether you’re at your best or your worst.

“Even if there is danger, I’m willing to face it with you.”

Willow slowly released Sean, her eyes red and her tone serious.

If he won, she would rule the world with him.

If he lost, he would stage a comeback with him.

It was what Willow had in mind.

“Okay!”

Sean did not thank her and only said one word.

Without waiting for Sean to say another word, Willow went right up to Sean’s face and kissed him.

She did not know how to express her feelings, but this was the only way to express them.

“It turns out you’re so tough...”

After a long while, Willow slowly released Sean and spoke as she blushed.

“That was before.

“I’m only a businessman now.”

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

Sean shook his head slightly, not wanting to talk much about the past.

After all, he did not have the power to even confront Blaze right now.

“Are you going to go back?”

Willow was silent for a few seconds before asking and gently taking Sean’s hand.

Sean fell silent.

“Forget about the two years I’ve suffered.

“But he killed many of my loyal brothers to silence others.

“It’s a pity that my men fought bravely and were not even killed by enemies.

“They were betrayed by the hands of their own people.

“I’m gonna collect this debt.”

The chill in Sean’s eyes shocked Willow when he said this.

Willow was having mixed feelings right now.

She knew that Sean was a hero in the army and that the Northwest battlefield was where he belonged.

However, she also had her own agenda.

She liked Sean.

She did not want to expose Sean to danger.

The battlefield was already dangerous, and their enemy Blaze was after them.

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

Sean would only suffer if they went there at will.

"I... don't want you to go.

"I would rather leave the Quinn family and River City and find a place to live in hiding with you.

"As long as we remain anonymous, your enemies won't find you."

Willow was silent for a while, but she chose to be selfish after all.

However, Sean slowly shook his head.

Willow was indeed his savior.

If it had not been for Willow's care those two years, Sean would have starved to death.

However, Zander's brothers were important to him.

He had been fighting on the battlefield for eight years. Many soldiers had died in foreign lands for him.

If it had not been for them, Sean would have been killed in battle and never met Willow.

There was no way he could forget about those incidents and people and live an easy life alone.

"I can promise you anything.

"But I must get revenge for this blood feud.

"Otherwise, they can't rest in peace, and nor will I."

Sean slowly looked up at Willow and said earnestly.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

Willow and Sean looked at each other for a long time before finally nodding.

She could tell a lot about Sean's character by what he had done during this time.

He could tell the difference between gratitude and resentment.

He probably could not forget blood feuds and turn his back on his former brothers-in-arms.

"I'm willing to face it with you."

Willow's eyes were serious as she slowly uttered those seven words.

"Okay!"

Sean nodded and pulled Willow into his arms.

It was quiet all night.

The next day, the two days of turmoil in River City gradually subsided a little.

Sean's greatest power was not only could he cause an uproar but also suppress them.

He could cause things but also make things right.

It was because he had it all planned out in his head.

Jon and his son bowed to Sean.

The matter was put to rest for the time being.

Sean could not figure out what they were going to do next. However, he had given them opportunities. It was up to them to cherish them. Sean would not have time for them either. There were so many companies that had been affected by John's fundraising that he was still going to have to deal with it in the end, Sean had his ideas about whether to acquire them or take over the shares and become a major shareholder as an investor. Reach for Will Group and Lenin Group were also putting the finishing touches on this. At the same time, River City Army Jason was talking to someone in his room. The guy on the other end of the line was Jason's immediate boss. He owed everything he had to say to that man. Jason also knew that his boss was with Blaze. Jason had mixed feelings when he answered the boss's phone call. After knowing Sean, there was a guy named Xander who left the Northwest Army a while back to visit his family. He's a three-star commander. The voice coming over the phone was deep and powerful. Jason was slightly stunned to hear this. He had already met Xander. However, he could only pretend not to know. Sir, why are you suddenly talking about this? Jason asked in confusion as he swallowed his nervousness. According to intelligence, he went to River City, a small city in SIS River. It seems to be the place you're stationed at. Jason's heart suddenly tightened when he heard this. Can I no longer hide it?

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette Chapter 886

Chapter 886

Have Blaze and his men already tracked down Sean?

Jason did not have time to overthink and dared not hesitate even more.

"Sir, I'm stationed in River City."

Jason tried hard to sound calm.

"Do you know who Zander used to work for?"

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

The person on the other end of the line did not notice anything suspicious with Jason as he asked again.

"I don't know.

"But sir, you mentioned the Northwest. Their highest commander was Commander Lennon, right?"

Jason shook his head slightly as he asked tentatively.

"That's right.

"The Northwest used to be Commander Lennon's territory.

"But that's only before."

The guy on the other side of the line spoke meaningfully.

"I don't understand..."

Jason was silent for half a second before shaking his head gently.

"You don't need to understand.

"There's so much going on here that you just need to know that we're on Commander Lake's side."

Jason fell into silence when the middle-aged man said this.

"Sir, aren't we all Dragon Kingdom's soldiers?"

"Why did you take sides like that..."

Jason did not understand why he said that.

“Where there are people, there is infighting.

“We have no choice but to protect ourselves.

“Let’s forget about it and tell me whether anything is going on in River City.”

The middle-aged man brushed off the topic and ordered Jason.

“Sir, I don’t know much about River City as I’m often in the army.

“But I heard that a Reach For Will Group has recently emerged in River City’s business circle, and I heard it’s tough.”

Jason shook his head and said the obvious.

“The business circle? Never mind them.”

The middle-aged man shook his head slightly. He did not think Zander was capable of starting a company.

“I need you to get someone to look into Zander.

“Look who he’s been in contact with.

“Commander Lake suspects that someone who should be dead might still be alive.”

The middle-aged man spoke unintentionally.

However, it shocked Jason.

'He must be referring to Sean, right?'

"Sir, I still don't understand..."

Jason gulped and asked in a mutter.

The middle-aged man was noticeably silent for a few seconds, hesitating slightly.

However, on second thought, he decided to tell Jason.

After all, he needed Jason to find out if Sean was in River City.

If he did not even tell Jason the name, Jason would not know what to do..

"Anyway, write down everyone Zander has come into contact with.

"Pay special attention to anyone with the last name Lennon.

"Don't ask questions about anything else."

The middle-aged man slowly spoke.

It was all right if Jason could figure it out, and it was best if he could not.

"Yes, sir, I got it.

"Any other instructions?"

Jason nodded gently and finally confirmed that Sean was who they were looking for.

"That's a!!.

"You can be promoted even higher if you do well."

The middle-aged man hung up the phone once he finished.

Jason put the phone down slowly, confused.

His mind was once again in doubt.

Jason now knew Blaze and Sean had bad blood.

In conclusion, there was no room for two tigers.

If Blaze was around, Sean could not exist.

If Sean was around, you could not have Blaze around.

Jason had no idea what he would choose.

Was he going to take Sean's side or Blaze's?

Sean saved Old Madam Yeast's life. Jason's family owed him big time.

Therefore, he was willing to give up the Zimmer family for Sean.

However, it was different this time. The choice was related to Jason's future and even the future of his family. Blaze would be furious if he knew Jason had been talking to Sean in secret. With Blaze's influence, crushing Jason's family would be as easy as crushing an ant. Jason admired Sean and wanted to help him, but he did not want his family to be involved. Therefore, Jason sat slowly on the chair, not knowing what to do. Just then, Jason's deputy knocked on the door to report to him. Jason listened absentmindedly, hesitated for 2 seconds, and looked at his deputy. You've been in the army for years. Have you ever heard of Commander Lennon of the northwest army? When Jason asked this, the deputy froze slightly and looked at Jason in confusion. I've heard of him. How could anyone not know Commander Lenin? Speaking of Commander Lenin, the deputy's face was full of admiration. Who do you think is tougher, Commander Lenin or Commander Lake? Jason nodded gently before asking,

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette

Chapter 887

I Chapter 887

"Sir, I don't know."

The deputy fell silent for two seconds after hearing that. Then he shook his head slightly.

"I trust you the most. There is nothing you cannot say.

"I'm just speaking on a whim. Just consider this a casual chat."

Jason shook his head slightly and beckoned his deputy to sit down.

"Well..."

The deputy paused for a few seconds before nodding gently.

"Sir... I don't know or dare to say which commander is better.

"But I know that the Northwest Army had millions of soldiers two years ago, intimidating everyone. And every one of them is a good fighter.

"Foreign enemies dare not cross Dragon Kingdom's borders.

"And these two years... the soldiers are scattered. We suffered successive defeats and lost countless soldiers.

"It is said that we lost the lost land we recovered again..."

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

The deputy spoke his mind in a solemn and slow voice.

He still did not say who was better between Sean and Blaze.

However, he had already made his point.

The army was strong, and the country was peaceful when Sean looked after the borders.

They kept losing after Blaze was in charge, and their enemies were always looking for a chance to make a comeback.

Jason knew all this too.

"Sir, according to the latest statistics, the number of our soldiers killed in battle in the last two years...

"Are ten times more than Commander Lennon had lost during his eight years in the war...

"I dreamed of going to the Northwest and serving under Commander Lennon.

"But now I only want to live a peaceful life in River City.

"I'm not afraid of death, but I don't want to die in vain..."

The deputy was also sentimental. His eyes warmed slightly before he slowly saluted and turned to leave.

Jason opened his eyes wide, feeling deeply touched.

"No one can take his place.

“Any good man of Dragon Kingdom should help him get back in power and lead Dragon Kingdom soldiers again!”

Jason slowly got up. After mumbling to himself, there was a sudden determination in his eyes.

He could let go of his future.

Blaze did not deserve the position. Dragon Kingdom would be in great trouble sooner or later if this went

1. on.

When that time came, even the country would be gone, let alone family?

It was only then that Jason decided to forsake darkness for light.

Jason picked up the phone to report the news to Sean.

On second thought, he put down the phone and decided to meet Sean in person.

After all, communications in the army were likely to be monitored.

Sean would be in danger if he were exposed.

In a business club not far from the Reach For Will Group building.

Jason disguised himself to meet Sean.

He did not tell anyone about Sean.

There was no one he could trust.

Therefore, he could only do it himself.

Zander instantly frowned when Jason finished.

He had not expected Blaze to find out so quickly.

He made all the arrangements and deliberately hid his whereabouts upon his return.

Who knew Blaze still found some clues.

“Commander, what should we do?”

Zander asked with a frown as he looked at Sean.

“Blaze is no fool. Of course, he’ll find me.”

Sean was not surprised. He expected this.

Blaze used to be his deputy, so Sean knew Blaze’s character and intellect.

He was probably already suspicious after Zander left the Northwest.

“Commander, I thought I took care of everything and even lied about my whereabouts....

“I’ve been careless. I’ll leave River City right away.”

Zander immediately got up, looking remorseful.

In his position, Zander had seen his fair share of death. He was a tough man.

However, facing Blaze, who was now powerful, he could only choose to lay low for the time being.

More importantly, he did not want to drag Sean down. What are you afraid of? It's natural for you to act like that when I've just regained consciousness. If you're afraid now, won't what I have done all this time be in vain to Jason and Xander? Surprise. Sean was calm and not nervous at all. Well, both Xander and Xander were speechless. One keep blaze's side in check for now. Give me a few days. Sean looked back at Xander after giving Jason instructions. Work with Harry and stick to the original plan. Don't delay this any further. Sean tapped on the table and said to Xander, yes. They immediately nodded. By the way, I didn't do anything to the Zimmer family's. Father and son, I haven't broken my promise to you. I'll wrap things up in a few days. Jason had no idea what Sean was going to do. Knowing Sean did not break his promise, Jason got up and thanked Sean.

"As long as they don't cause any trouble over the next few days, they'll recover the money they lost once. I'm done.

"I've given you face."

Jason was elated to hear that. He thanked him repeatedly.

"But let me be honest.

"If they're still adamant about killing themselves, it doesn't matter how much you intercede."

Sean gave Jason another warning.

"Commander Lennon, I understand."

Jason nodded and agreed.

The meeting ended quickly after that.

Jason went home for a while before he returned to the army base.

He would find ways to stall his boss for the time being.

Sean's identity exposure was inevitable. They could only delay it as long as they could.

Zander was also working on the final stages with Harry according to Sean's finishing plan.

Reach For Will Group and the newly founded Lennon Group were going to have a huge collaboration.

The impact of Jon's investment worsened over two days.

Without financial support, the machines would stop running, the workers would stop working, and the company could not carry out any work.

They could not produce anything, the customer would not pay, and there was a risk of breach of contract.

Normally, these companies were related to each other and were considered friends with each other.

When a company ran into problems, they were willing to help..

After all, River City's business circle had formed a complete industrial chain after so many years of development, and it was normal for them to help each other out.

Everyone was now in danger. No one dared to help others.

Therefore, it became a vicious circle.

Seeing that the company was facing the risk of bankruptcy, these people had to turn to Reach For Will Group.

It was a known fact that Reach For Will Group was wealthy.

As long as Reach For Will Group was willing to inject a sum of money into River City's business circle, what was originally a dire situation could be greatly alleviated.

Therefore, many business owners came to Harry's office together.

Harry received them without hesitation.

After talking for a while, everyone left.

However, their expressions looked ghastly when they left.

"How can Reach For Will Group be so merciless?"

"It's alright that they want to buy our companies, but how could they offer such a low price?"

"We've worked hard for years to get to where we are now. There's no way we'll sell the company for such little money!"

The company owners yelled in indignation.

Harry had only one response to their conversation earlier.

They were willing to acquire their companies.

However, the price they offered was so low that they could not accept it at all.

Therefore, the meeting ended on bad terms.

“Does Reach For Will Group want to swallow us up and become the head of River City’s business circle?”

“I think that’s what they’re up to, but the price is so low that there’s no way I’m selling!”

“Keep holding on! Let’s hold on for as long as we can!”

The crowd stormed out. None of them was willing to be acquired by Reach For Will Group.

Even if Reach For Will Group were strong, only a fool would sell their company at such a low price.

Word was spreading that Reach For Will Group wanted to eat up companies on the verge of bankruptcy. River City’s aristocratic families and companies that were not affected were dismissive of the news. Reach for will. Group was arrogant. Did they think River City’s local companies are pushovers? They were crazy to think they could take over so many companies at such a low price. Those companies even got together and allied. None of them wanted to be acquired by Reach for Will group. John got the message too. However, he could not help laughing after he heard it. I knew Sean must have been able to do that because he has Reached For Will Group support. Everything he did was to create opportunities for reach for Will group. But I can only call him naive. John laughed. No fool would agree to be absorbed by Reach for Will group. Besides, no fool could start a company. None of them knew that this was not Sean’s last step. It was just part of his plan. These plans were built on top of each other. He could not skip any part. Just like the plan to swallow up half of the business circle. It would not work if he only relied on Reach For Will Group. Therefore, Sean started the Lenin group in advance. Reach for will. Group would play the good cop. Then the Lenin Group would be the bad cop.

Lennon Group.

Sean was standing in front of the floor-to-ceiling window in his office, holding a cup of tea.

Lennon Group was newly formed and small.

However, it was developing well.

Sean hired every employee himself.

He had strict requirements for their backgrounds and resume.

However, no one was unhappy.

It was because the money Sean paid them was higher than senior executives of other companies.

Chloe even became Sean's right-hand man.

The Reach For Will Group building was two streets across from Sean's office.

Sean could see the company owners swearing as they exited the Reach For Will Group building as they failed to settle their negotiation.

"Commander, they've approached Harry.

"Harry made an offer just as you asked."

"None of those company owners agreed."

Zander walked into the office and reported quietly.

"I see."

Sean nodded gently and slowly turned around to return to his desk.

"Commander, the price we offered to acquire them is indeed too low..."

Zander was silent for two seconds before putting forward his own idea.

"They'd still think it's too low even if I double the price.

"Isn't that what humans are like? They never know what contentment is.

"Besides, we'd lose money if we offered more."

Sean replied casually as he looked through a document.

"So what are we going to do next?"

Zander was still confused about business.

"Find Chloe. She'll tell you."

Sean closed the document and looked at the computer in front of him.

The companies' information was displayed on the computer.

"Commander, you said you'd get Reach For Will Group and Lennon Group to work together.

"Do you want the Lennon Group to acquire these companies?"

"In that case, why do you want Reach For Will Group to do it?"

"I'm not doubting you. I just... just want to learn..."

Zander rubbed his head as he said sheepishly.

Zander was considered one of the best soldiers in the army, but he knew nothing about business.

It made him feel like he was not only not helping Sean but holding him back.

Therefore, he also wanted to learn more.

Sean smiled when he heard that.

"If someone tried to cut off your hand when you can't fight back, what would you do?"

Sean did not explain much. Instead, he asked a question.

"I couldn't fight back? Then I'll keep it in mind and get my revenge sooner or later!"

Zander froze slightly before replying with great seriousness.

"And you would have been killed if you can't fight back.

"What would you do if another man only chopped off your hand and left you alive?"

Sean asked again, nodding gently.

"I... I might thank him."

Zander paused for a few seconds before muttering.

"You'll still lose a hand. Why do you have two mentalities?"

Sean tapped on the table before smiling again.

Zander's eyes widened for more than a dozen seconds before slowly coming to himself.

"Commander, I got it.

"Give people despair before giving them hope, and it will have a different effect."

Zander breathed a long sigh, impressed with Sean.

"Make sure the order isn't reversed.

"So Reach For Will Group must make this move."

Sean nodded gently. Reach For Will Group was domineering because they wanted to push those people over the edge.

In that case, they would feel like they had met a savior when Lennon Group stepped in.

If Lennon Group had made their move too fast, those savvy businessmen would have rejected them right away.

Xander was impressed. He finally realized that Jondid not lose without reason. John not only had no idea about Sean's real plans and intentions, even Xander had no idea what Sean was planning next or what his real purpose was as he carried out Sean's plan. I'm going to go right now and get the Lenin Group to do something. Xander was about to turn around after he finished speaking, however, he slowly stopped after taking two steps. Why did you stop? Sean asked indifferently after glancing at Xander. I don't think we can rush this. Ignore them first and let them feel really cornered. It would have a better effect when Lenin Group strikes, Xander said, and Shaun nodded with a smile. Look, you've learned something, haven't you? Sean smiled and shook his head. Then he took a sip of tea. Sean went home. After finishing arranging, everything went smoothly as he expected. Therefore, Sean felt relaxed. Right now, in two days at most, Lennon Group would be able to absorb River City's business circle. You

Chapter 890

He wanted to acquire at least 50 companies at the same time.

Sean would have dug deep roots in River City by then.

Even if Blaze had tracked Sean down, he would not dare to lay a hand on Sean.

Willow and Leah were discussing something in the villa.

Sean had already told them he was going to set up a cosmetics company for them to take care of.

The cosmetics company would be a subsidiary of Lennon Group.

After all, they were both bored at home doing nothing.

When Sean came in, he heard them discussing names.

Fion was there too.

"Sean, you're back?"

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette

Seeing Sean come back, Willow and the rest gathered around him.

Willow took the car keys from Sean while Leah took the briefcase.

Fion even brought a pair of slippers to Sean.

“Well...”

Sean was instantly dumbfounded.

Willow had taken care of him for a long time, so Sean was used to it.

However, Leah and Fion’s obsequiousness made Sean uncomfortable.

“Aunt Fion, leave them there. I’ll do it myself.”

Sean waved his hand, but Fion still blushed and insisted on putting the slippers in front of Sean.

“Sean, put them on. It’s okay.”

Willow urged, and Sean put on the slippers.

He guessed Fion must have wanted to ask him for help.

Therefore, Sean sat on the couch in the living room after entering the villa.

“Have you picked out a name? Do you need help?”

Sean picked up a piece of paper full of names on the table.

They seemed to be putting more effort into naming the company than their own child.

‘It’s our women’s business, so don’t you worry about it!

“By the way, Sean, let me tell you something.

“I’m accompanying my mother to her old school reunion tonight.”

Willow said softly as she took the paper from Sean.

“Go ahead. Is there anything you need?”

Sean nodded. It was their freedom.

“Well, are you free?”

Willow was silent for two seconds before asking quietly.

Fion immediately turned around and looked expectantly at Sean

“No.”

Sean refused her without even thinking twice.

He did not want to waste his time on such meaningless social interactions.

“I see...”

Willow withdrew her gaze in disappointment.

Fion shook her head gently and sighed.

Sean looked up at Fion in confusion.

After a few seconds of contemplation, Sean slowly understood.

No wonder Fion was so attentive to him...

She was probably trying to get Sean to go over and help her out.

After all, with Fion's former position in the Quinn family, she was not that respected among her neighbors, relatives, and friends.

Now that Sean was getting better, she wanted him to go with her.

"Where is it?"

Sean pondered for two seconds before asking.

"Greene Hotel."

Fion immediately looked at Sean and said.

"I see. I'll go there when I'm done."

Sean nodded gently and agreed.

"Okay! Okay!"

Fion nodded non-stop, looking elated.

8 p.m.

Greene Hotel.

Greene Hotel was not quite as upscale as Riverleaf Lakeside Hotel.

However, it was also famous among River City's hotels,

Although the star rating was not that high, the decoration quality and service were not inferior to that of Riverleaf Lakeside Hotel.

Those who could afford this place were either rich or noble.

You could tell from the rows of luxury cars parked out front.

A large private room with upscale decoration could accommodate 30 or 50 people at the same time.

It had huge dining tables, with people sitting across from each other a few meters apart.

The VIP private room cost at least six figures. Adjacent to the window, you could see the night scene outside. Willow and FJOn were in the private room. Dozens of people were sitting in the private room. There were men and women, middle-aged people like FJOn, and young people like Willow. However, FJOn and Willow were sitting in the corner. Everyone around them was so absorbed in their conversation that they seemed to have become outsiders. The young men kept watching Willow. Some could not help looking, even if their girlfriend was beside them. After all, Willow had impeccable looks. Fion smiled, looking embarrassed. Shawn promised to come, but he had not arrived, making Fion feel unconfident. Mom, no wonder Sean doesn't want to come. These reunions are boring, Willow whispered in Fion's ear.
