Chapter 891

Ever since Willow walked into the private room, she had been listening about the kinds of businesses each person's child was involved in now.

She was also updated on whose daughter had gotten married which eligible bachelor.

Based on the tales they were telling, everyone seemed to be earning at least a million dollars a year.

"That's right..."

Fion bobbed her head gently.

If it were not for the fact that Sean had raked in a notable sum of money, she would have refused to come at all.

"Hey, Fion, why aren't you saying anything? Come on, you were one of the alpha girls back then."

"We'll be too scared to say anything if you aren't talking!"

A heavily made-up middle-aged woman abruptly spoke to Fion, a smile on her face.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette

Fion had been one of the popular and good-looking girls in school when she was younger. One would not be going overboard by calling her an alpha girl.

“No, that’s not true.”

Fion waved her hands slightly, not wanting to make any further comments.

The middle-aged woman was Ellen Chenne, and word was that amongst all her former classmates, she was the one living most comfortably now.

She had been in charge of organizing today’s class reunion.

However, Ellen was the sort of person who viewed her benefits as being more important than anything else. She was even worse than Fion was in this sense.

The two had been on relatively good terms before this.

However, Ellen had wanted to set her son up with Willow.

Fion was against that, and now the two were enemies.

Even when rich people were wearing a shirt they got from a roadside stall, people would still think they were wearing something from a luxury brand.

However, when poor people wore authentic branded products, others would think it was fake produced in a sweatshop.

It was evident that to them, Fion belonged to the latter category.

“My son-in-law bought it.”

Fion nodded as she smiled and spoke.

“Tsk, then you’ll have to get a good look at it. Fakes like these can be found everywhere.”

Ellen glanced at Fion as she spoke in a dismissive tone.

Finn leaned forward and looked at it for several seconds before he said with conviction, “It’s a fake.”

“See, even my son said so. This is a fake.”

“Gosh, Fion, the purpose of the class reunion is to catch up with each other.”

“You shouldn’t use fake luxurious items just because you want to seem better than us, don’t you think?”

Ellen immediately grabbed the chance to begin talking non-stop.

A blush crept onto Fion’s face. Now, even she was suspicious that Sean had bought her a fake. 1

“Let’s eat.”

Finn spoke quietly and smoothed things over.

“It’s true that the consumption landscape in River City is not the best.”

“When I get the chance, I’ll...”

Finn did not get the chance to finish his sentence before the door opened abruptly.

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette

"If you think this place is cheap, why didn't you go to Riverleaf Lakeside Hotel?"

A mocking voice rang out slowly.

"Well said! I was just about to say that."

A young man seated nearby. Willow immediately slapped the table. Was there anyone in River City who did not know that Riverleaf Lakeside Hotel was the best of the best in River City? Finn was the one who had booked the private room at Green Hotel, but he was also the one who was being picky over everything. Who the hell are you? Who let you into our room? Ellen immediately slapped the table and thrust a finger at Sean as she yelled at him. Allow me to introduce myself. I am the owner of Green Hotel. Additionally, I am Willow's boyfriend. Sean unbuttoned the top collar of his shirt as he spoke in a calm in a different tone. The room fell deadly silent when he finished speaking.

So, he was Sean Lennon.

He was Willow's crippled husband.

However, he was also saying he was the owner of Greene Hotel?

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

Was that true?

Greene Hotel might not be as good as Riverleaf Lakeside Hotel in terms of class and commercial value.

However, the hotel was still worth a lot of money!

One would have to be extremely wealthy to operate a hotel like this.

The look in everyone's eyes began changing slowly.

Ellen's lips moved, but she was rendered momentarily speechless as well.

"Why are you boasting?"

"This hotel belongs to a friend of mine."

"You, the owner? Who do you think you're fooling?"

Finn had a disdainful and hateful expression on his face as he slowly got to his feet.

He already had a girlfriend, but would anyone be able to resist trying to get on intimate terms with a girl as gorgeous as Willow was?

Thus, Sean had now become one of Finn's love rivals.

"Hahaha, so it was a lie!"

"Fion, is this your crippled son-in-law?"

"Not only did he buy you fake branded goods, but he's also lying to us."

"Thank goodness my son knows the owner of this place. If not, he would have fooled all of us."

She had wanted Sean to come over and support her, but she was extremely dissatisfied with his performance.

The meal was getting more and more unbearable by the minute.

“Waiter, bring me another two bottles of Romanée-Conti.”

Finn snapped his fingers and yelled towards the door.

It was an extremely grandiose gesture.

“So, Ellen, what does Finn do?”

“He truly is young and talented!”

The flattery coming from the people next to them did not stop.

“Oh, it’s nothing much.”

“You recall how my son went to school in the Union States, don’t you?”

“You’ve heard of Camford University, haven’t you?”

Ellen had an arrogant expression on her face as she asked everyone that question.

“Camford University? That’s such a famous university. Of course I’ve heard of it!”

“Well done. That is truly one of the best names out there!”

“No wonder you’re doing so well!”

Everyone nodded in agreement, and Ellen could not help but feel light-headed from it.

“Did the Union Kingdom’s Camford University open a Union States branch?”

“I’m learning something new.”

Sean’s statement caused the laughter to come to an abrupt halt.

What he had done was the equivalent of slapping Ellen across the face!

“Slam!”

Ellen slapped the table before she pointed at Sean.

What do you mean by that? Ellen had an annoyed expression on her face. Mrs. Turner camphort University is in the union kingdom. It does not exist in the Union States. A glasseswearing young man said softly. The Union states most prestigious university is Hardon University. A long haired girl smiled as she added, Yu. Ellen’s face went red as she glanced at Finn awkwardly. Finn was deeply embarrassed as well. There was no way he was qualified enough to attend Camford. He had just made that. He had not expected Ellen to flaunt that piece of information around.

The middle-aged woman from before came out to mediate the situation.

Finn was extremely displeased. He retorted against her words once again.

“Anyways, any of the universities overseas are better than local universities.

“You’ve never been there before. You don’t know just how well-qualified the professors overseas are.”

Sean realized that the people that studied overseas were all filled with a sense of superiority.

Sean slowly raised his head and looked at Finn.

“Well-qualified? What’s your major?”

“I’m studying in the Department of Medicine at Clarkeland Medical Center.

“Clarkeland Medical Center is the second-best hospital in the Union States.”

Finn introduced his workplace with a proud expression on his face.

“Then do you know what illness your mother has?”

Everyone looked at Ellen after hearing Sean’s words.

“What illness do I have? I’m not sick.”

Ellen was rather stunned. She waved her hand at once.

Since Finn had already been humiliated, he completely disregarded his face.

However, Sean continued sitting there calmly. He stopped Willow from leaving as well.

“You won’t leave since there’s food here.”

Ellen huffed coldly and ignored Fion and her family.

“Ellen, Finn must need a car now that he’s back, right?”

“If he needs to buy a car, he can look for my son. He’s selling his car right now.”

A middle-aged man said with a courteous smile on his face.

“Do you think my son doesn’t have a car?”

“Have you seen that? That’s my son’s car.”

A haughty expression appeared on Ellen’s face once again. She then reached out and pointed at the car park outside the window.

Everyone turned around and looked over immediately.

Although it was already night, the car park was still brightly lit up. The cars in the car park were all visible.

There was a shiny black Rolls-Royce among the rows of luxury cars. It was extremely eye-catching.

The car’s body was spray-painted black. It shone brightly under the illumination of the street lights.

The owners of the luxury cars around it did not dare to park directly next to it, as they were afraid that they would not even be able to pay for the damage if they caused a scratch on the car. My gosh. It’s a Rolls Royce Phantom. It costs $750,000 at the very least. That’s incredible. Credible. Ellen Finn is doing great. Everyone exclaimed out loud. This was definitely a huge sum of money. Finn did not feel fully confident in himself, but he still tried his best to smile calmly. It isn’t expensive. It costs around 900 $0. As soon as Finn spoke up, everyone fixed looks of admiration on him. The young men and women that previously stood on Sean’s side changed their minds as well. This was true power. It might be nothing for one to spend $15,000 on a meal. However, one must definitely have a networth of tens of hundreds of thousands to own such a topgrade luxury car. They had to butter such people up nicely. Everyone's gaze has changed. They all started showering. Ellen with praises felt rather awkward as well. Sean was the only one with an unfazed expression on his face. He quietly took out his car keys from under the table.

Sean felt extremely amused when he noticed the look of confidence on Ellen's face.

If the keys to the Rolls-Royce were not in his hands, he would have believed in Ellen's nonsense.

He had finally realized what it meant for someone to be truly shameless.

Fion's abilities were nothing compared to Ellen's.

Sean felt terribly amused when he noticed everyone discussing the car. He shook his head in exasperation.

Meanwhile, Finn pretended to tell everyone about the car.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette

“Actually, I don’t know how to drive. I’ll ask my chauffeur to come over later. I can bring all of you out on a ride.”

Everyone agreed with Finn’s words once again..

“As all of you know, true bosses don’t need to drive their own cars.”

There was a smile on Ellen’s face as she asked another question by the side.

“By the way, Fion, what type of car does your son-in-law drive?”

“Isn’t he pretty capable?”

“Point the car out for me. Where’s his car?”

Ellen noticed that Fion had been silent all along. She chuckled and looked over at her.

Fion was slightly stunned. Kent had fetched them over when they were heading over previously.

He had left after sending them to the venue.

Although it was a Bentley, everyone might not believe in her after she mentioned it.

Besides, it could not compare with Finn’s Rolls-Royce.

“Tsk, you’re nothing! All you know what to do is show off.”

Ellen was pleased now. She asked everyone to have more of the food.

Nobody would sell the hotel to someone without a prominent family background. Besides, the hotel had. been operating well all along.

It seemed like not only was Sean wealthy, but he was also extremely authoritative!

"Fion, you have an extraordinary son-in-law!"

"Yes, yes, this is what we call a capable young man!"

Suddenly, everyone came to their senses and started talking nicely to Fion.

"I just said that Fion's Hermes watch is definitely a genuine product."

"Right, I work at Chanel. Willow's Chanel items are definitely genuine products!"

Fion was overjoyed after hearing everyone butter her up. She could not stop smiling.

They were now the alpha!

How nice!

Just then, Finn and Ellen could not bear to stay there anymore.

They thought that they could return to the country in glory and show off in front of their old classmates.

However, Sean had outshined them from the start to the very end.

"I don't feel very well. Let's meet up another day."

Ellen grabbed her handbag and got up.

Everyone stood up as well. They had almost finished eating.

When everyone was out of the room, they were stunned and rendered speechless by the scene outside.

Close to a hundred hotel workers stood in two rows. It was as if they were welcoming a prominent guest.

"President Lennon!"

Everyone greeted Sean when they saw him.

Meanwhile, their courteous attitudes toward Sean and his family caused Finn and Ellen to flush red in embarrassment.

"Let's go! Go on!"

Ellen urged Finn on and walked out of the hotel in a hurry.

Meanwhile, Sean purposely followed behind both of them.

The others walked toward the car park as well. A lot of people wanted to take a closer look at the Rolls Royce. As expected, the Rolls Royce Phantom looked even more stunning when observed up close. However, Finn stood by the side. He did not take out his car keys. Aren't you guys leaving? Sean asked as he looked at Finn. The car keys are with my chauffeur. I've called him already. You guys can go first. Finn gritted his teeth slightly and turned to the side. Shawn smiled faintly and walked toward the Rolls Royce. He took out his car keys and pressed a button to unlock the car. The Rolls Royce Phantom unlocked the car logo of a little golden man slowly rose up as well. Mother. Willow, let's go. Sean opened the car door and looked at Willow and Fion. Meanwhile, the other people were stunned once again.

The room was dead silent.

Everyone in the room automatically filtered away all the noise surrounding them.

Everyone's gazes were fixed on Sean.

The lights on the wall outside Greene Hotel shone. It was extremely bright and radiant.

The colorful lights shone on Finn and Ellen's faces. Their faces seemed even redder under the light.

It also took some time for Fion and Willow to react to everything.

Did this Rolls-Royce Phantom, which cost more than 750 thousand dollars, not belong to Finn?

Why was the key with Sean?

Besides, Sean had now opened the car door. Why was he inviting them onto the car?

Fion and Willow felt like they were dreaming.

"This... Sean, does this car belong to you?"

A young man asked with widened eyes.

Sean glanced at him without saying anything. He simply shook the car keys in his hands.

A well-dressed young man was shouting out loud. There was a pretty girl in his arms.

His Porsche was not parked in a designated car park spot. Therefore, it got blocked by the cars behind and in front of it.

Meanwhile, the domestic car in front of the Porsche was blocking its way out.

The young man looked like he was from a wealthy family. There was a haughty gaze in his eyes. He spoke arrogantly as well.

“Security guard!”

“Call this driver over and ask him to drive away right now.”

“If the driver doesn’t show up in three minutes, I’m going to hit their car.”

The young man shouted loudly as he pointed at one of the security guards.

“Yes, yes. Wait for a moment, Mr. Landon.”

One of the security guards immediately ran over. They found the phone number of the driver of the car and tried to dial it.

Meanwhile, there was an extremely unnatural expression on Finn’s face. He immediately reached his hand into his pocket and turned off his phone.

Sean smiled as he caught sight of this scene. He was no longer in a hurry to leave.

“Mr. Landon, the driver turned off his phone...”

The security guard stuttered anxiously after dialing the number twice.

“F*ck!”

The young man had a fiery temper. He opened the car door and got into his car at once. He then stepped on the accelerator straight away. Bang. A loud crash rang out as the domestic car in front skidded forward. After the other car collided with it, Finn gritted his teeth. He still remained silent. Meanwhile, Mr. Landon reversed his car once again. He then pressed down on the accelerator. Stop it. Stop it. That’s our car. Ellen finally could not bear it anymore. She ran over at once. Is this your car? Sean looked at Finn and smiled as he questioned him. What does this have to do with you? Finn’s face flushed red. He knew that he could not hide this from everyone anymore. You kept complaining about everything in the country and even told us that domestic cars have terrible quality. But you bought a domestic car yourself. You have pretty amazing double standards. Sean sneered as he showed him a thumbs up.

“Whoever said that this son-in-law was a cripple, isn’t he fine now?”

The more they talked about it, the more envious they became.

As they looked back, the duo consisting of Finn and the rich young man were arguing. The people looked at each other and then left the scene.

Sean drove the two back in his car.

Sitting in the Rolls-Royce car, the lap of luxury, Fion was stunned.

The duo curiously felt the entire car. Feeling the soft touch of the leather, they gave it even more praise.

“Willow, be gentle, don’t ruin it.”

been in the military for ten or twenty years, he would not have been able to earn so much money after he came back!

Therefore, she always felt that Sean's money came from improper means.

In the past, when Sean had nothing, Fion was very upset in her heart.

Now, Sean had money, but he still had no place in her heart. 1

She always felt that Sean was some big-time criminal. Hence, that was why he had so much money.

"Mom, don't think too much about it.

"We still have to thank Sean for today's matter."

Willow pulled on Fion and spoke on Sean's behalf.

After all, she now knew who Sean used to be.

Perhaps for Sean's kind of status, a person who is above all others, money was really just numbers.

The only thing that Rachel has made clear was that Sean's identity must not be mentioned to anyone.

Otherwise, it will not only put Sean's life in danger but Willow's life as well.

Therefore, Willow did not explain too much but deliberately digressed.

Hearing Willow mention today's events, Fion also nodded.

"Sean, thank you."

Fion's appreciation can be said to be from the bottom of her heart.

Without having experienced the kind of criticism that Fion had suffered before this, it was impossible to appreciate the joy she felt today when she was able to let all that frustration out.

All of this was made possible by Sean. This made her really thank Sean from the bottom of her heart. It's okay. I told you. Give me some time and everything will be fine. You'll have everything. Eventually, Sean shook his head slightly. His tone was very calm. He did not really have much emotional attachment to Fion based on what Fiona did in the past. With Sean's character, he certainly would have not forgiven her. No matter what, she was still Willow's mother. If Shawn and Fiona's relationship became too sour, Willow would definitely not feel good about being caught in the middle. Shaun did not want to put Willow in a difficult position, so he took the initiative to compromise. However, if Sean had to immediately abandon what he harbored towards Fion and stay close to her, it was just not possible. Everything depended on Fiona's future performance. For the sake of Willow, he was willing to give Fiona a chance to change her ways just this once. By the way, Sean, you didn't really buy over Green Hotel, right? Willow remembered this matter and hurriedly looked at Sean and asked.

"Sort of."

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

Sean nodded gently.

“Uh...”

Willow and Fion looked at each other, both with some discomfort in their hearts.

It was unnecessary to do so just to have face in front of Finn.

“The Greene Hotel has its own benefits, I bought it to operate it for a steady profit.

“Plus, the money I spent was not much.”

Sean smiled faintly and explained softly.

The owner of the Greene Hotel had invested a lot of money with Jon.

As a result, now there is no working capital in his hands, thus the other businesses he had would eventually come to a halt.

He was grateful to get a sum of cash from Sean, how would he even dare to name a price!

The price Sean offered was much higher than the price the Reach For Will Group offered when they wanted to buy the hotel.

Fion did not understand what was going on here, so she kept quiet.

Willow thought about this period of time, there was turmoil in River City’s business circle, so she nodded thoughtfully.

Inside the room, a young man looked at Quill and cursed through clenched teeth.

This youth was none other than Quill's former lapdog, Felix.

When Sean was delirious, Felix followed behind Quill and joined in bullying Sean.

"If you had the guts, you could have not come over!"

Quill snorted coldly, his face filled with a cold smile.

After Quill said that sentence, Felix blinked his eyes and looked at Quill with some uncertainty.

He found that Quill at this time looked very confident. It was as if he had some source of confidence backing him.

Until now, the Zimmer family still owes a lot of debts, what was there to feel confident about?'

"Don't doubt my words.

"Listen to me, it's your honor to be my lapdog.

If you don't want to do it, you can get out now. Just don't regret it in the future. Quill waved his hand and reached out, pointing to the door. Felix stood in place for several seconds, coughed and cleared his throat, then changed his face into a smile. Young masters, you have to understand my position too. After all, the Xavian family can't afford to keep up with the current state of River City. Felix scratched his head and slowly sat down across from Quill. Are you afraid of Sean just because he found a big backer? I'm telling you, you'll know soon that he is nothing compared to me. One, asterisk the Zimmer corporation belongs to only us, and that land in the Central City can only be mine, including Willow. In the end, he would be crushed underneath me as well, Quill said as the corners of his mouth revealed a sinister smile. Felix felt tongue tied and did not rush to speak. Now I'm going to give you a choice. Join me. Together we deal with Sean, and you'll have no shortage of benefits later. Quill slowly raised his head and looked at Felix. Felix, on the other hand, remained silent. What are you hesitating about? Do you think that I will lie to you? Do you believe that from tomorrow he would be all caught up trying to fight against the Zimmer family? In less than three days, I will make him kneel in front of me and beg me to spare his life. Two. Quill slowly stood up, his tone carrying great confidence.

After all, he was not a god and could not look into the future, nor can he know the thoughts of every person.

For the sake of Jason, he has spared the Zimmer family for the time being.

The main thing is that Jon is now carrying forty–five million dollars in debt.

Penniless and pressured by Sean’s connections, there was no chance of making a comeback.

Therefore, Sean did not pay any attention to Jon these days.

He was only waiting for after completing the last step of the plan, and then he will take out the huge. amount of money that had disappeared mysteriously before.

This way, Jon and the others will be free from this debt.

Sean’s idea was good.

Jon was an old fox, how would he be willing to allow the Zimmer family’s fate to be in Sean’s hands?

So, he stuck to his own ideas. He wanted to give it his all to battle Sean one last time.

The outcome has yet to be decided.

It was Jon’s last stand, he was going all out for this battle, and he had very strong confidence.

Therefore, Sean was ready to call the bosses of those companies on that same evening.

Before Sean could make arrangements, Homer called Sean first.

He had asked Sean to go to the Riverside Tea Manor.

After Sean heard of Homer's intention of the call, he did not refuse, but nodded his head and answered.

"Commander..."

Zander saw Sean get up and hurriedly shouted.

"What is it?"

Sean asked softly while packing his things.

"Will you go back after completing all these?"

Zander's tone was a bit apprehensive as he asked this question.

"About this question, haven't I already told you my answer?"

Sean paused for a moment and casually returned.

“I see you are slowly turning into a businessman...”

Xander slightly clenched his teeth. Sean did tell him that he would return to that place in the northwest. He saw Sean, now busy with business all day, even helping Willow create a company. This made him feel uncertain about Sean. If I'm still needed there, I'll go back, Zack. Sean picked up the car keys and was about to head out. Of course you are needed. Since you left, the border has only stayed peaceful for two or three months. Then there was a series of defeats, and the battles were dreadful. So you are needed there. Xander gritted his teeth and looked at Sean's back. Fighting a war was not a matter of one person. It was a matter of thousands of iron-blooded warriors. 80 soldiers were easy to get, but a general was hard to find. The victory of a battle for a large sum of it all depended on the command of the General. Sean was that indispensable, the nine-star commander who ran the show. But can I go back now? Can I walk straight up to Blaze's face? Sean slowly turned around and asked. Xander instantly fell silent, too. At this point, Sean's identity was still unknown. Xander recognized Sean, but the other people may not. Blaze held the command of the army and is able to order them around in a high position. Sean was alone. What did he have to compete with him? It could be that before he could even appear in front of Blaze, he might have already been assassinated.

It was Jon's last stand, he was going all out for this battle, and he had very strong confidence.

Sean was of course oblivious to all this.

The stance of Reach For Will Group, which was to acquire so many companies, had repulsed many people.

Even so, those people did not dare to do anything to Reach For Will Group, as they did not have the ability to fight Reach For Will Group.

In their hearts, they all resented Reach For Will Group very much.

Sean, on the other hand, deliberately left them hanging for two days.

After they calmed down, they still had to accept the reality.

What waited for them was either the revival of their company due to the injection of funds, or them shutting their doors and closing down for good.

At this point, even if they wanted to resent Reach For Will Group, they may not even have the capability to do so.

The next day.

The cosmetics company belonging to Willow and Leah was registered.

With Sean's strong financial power and connections as support, everything went very smoothly.

The company's location and other miscellaneous matters were also put into place one step at a time. Willow already had experience in managing companies, so she quickly got into the swing of things.

Leah acted as Willow's assistant, who was also meticulous in doing things.

As for staff recruitment, and other things, Sean did not pay it any mind.

He just gave Willow and Leah a few suggestions.

If they wanted to make your company bigger and stronger, they could not just be an agent for branded cosmetics.

They also needed to have their own cosmetic brand.

Later on, Sean would set up for them to have their cosmetic production line.

To hire professionals to research cosmetics.

Sean was not an expert on all this.

However, with the help of Chloe, everything was carried out smoothly.
