Chapter 1011 - 1020

Chapter 1011

The office was still quiet after a long time.

No one said a word to counter Sean.

They knew Sean was telling the truth.

He knew Colton, so Gordon could only die if he wanted him dead.

Liam could not help but wipe the sweat off his forehead.

Thinking about what had happened, he was still a little scared.

In the heat of the moment, he argued with Sean and left the building.

Fortunately, he came back again.

Otherwise, he would probably end up like Gordon!

"Mr. Lennon, why don't we..."

Hayden and the rest asked again, even though they knew the answer.

Sean looked up at the crowd but only shook his head and smiled. He did not say anything.

These people had volunteered and promised Sean a lot of things.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

Nothing would happen as long as they did whatever he wanted.

“That’s enough.”

Damian clapped his hands, slowly got up, and looked at the crowd.

“That’s the way it is.

“Mr. Lennon now owns the land downtown and founded the Lennon Group.

“I believe Mr. Lennon will drive River City’s development.

“So we owe it to Mr. Lennon to support River City’s future.”

Damian’s speech met with immediate approval.

Not only could they get in touch with Sean but also find a lofty reason for themselves, so why not?

Damian slowly turned his head and stared at Sean for a dozen seconds.

He had no idea why Sean wanted him to do that at first.

Only now did he finally understand.

It turned out Sean was prepared to fight them when Jen-Bond Holdings arrived in River City and had not made a fuss at first.

Sean’s astuteness and deep insight put Damian, who had lived double his life, to shame.

“Will anyone think you can let yourself off the hook without me since you have video evidence in your hands?”

Sean picked up the teacup and suddenly said.

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

“Well...”

Hearing this, Hayden and the rest glanced at each other again.

Some people did think that.

It was because Sean’s solution was simple.

They had a video of James bribing them.

If James and Jon reported them, they could expose the video to clear themselves of responsibility.

When they thought about it that way, Sean did not seem to play much of a role in this.

Therefore, someone was bound to have other ideas.

“I’ll only say this once.

“I was able to expose Gordon’s video in that manner.

“I can do yours just the same.”

Sean took a sip of tea with a faint smile in his eyes.

His statement made the crowd’s heart clench.

How did he expose Gordon without his knowledge?

There was no doubt that Sean must have planted someone near Gordon.

What about the people around them?

With that in mind, those with nasty ideas gave up.

*The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette*
*Chapter*

"Mr. Lennon, you worry too much.

"River City business circle will become better under your lead.

"We government officials hope to see River City with a brighter future."

Hayden and the rest smiled obsequiously as they said to Sean.

"That's good.

"I hate trouble."

Sean nodded gently and said no more.

What he just said was a warning to everyone present.

If anyone else dared think otherwise, they could not blame Sean when the time came.

"Mr. Lennon, Jen-Bond Holdings is officially signing contracts with companies in River City tomorrow."

Hayden looked at Sean and reported to Sean what James had said at the wine party after Sean left.

Sean nodded. He knew James and Quill would not give up.

"It doesn't matter.

"Do this tomorrow."

Sean waved his hand and gave the crowd instructions.

Damian and the rest were cooperative.

When it was done, the crowd went their separate ways.

James and Quill had no idea Hayden and the rest would meet Sean.

“Commander, how... how on earth did you do it?”

Zander saw Damian and the rest to the door, and he spoke in surprise as soon as he entered the room.

“Are you that surprised?”

Sean glanced at Zander and shook his head slightly.

“Uh... Well... No, I just...”

Zander paused before shaking his head.

He had already witnessed Sean’s astuteness when they were in the army.

However, war was different from business after all!

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette Chapter 1012

Chapter 1012

They said business was like a battlefield, which was true.

However, the methods used to solve problems on the battlefield were unsuitable for business wars.

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

Sean's meticulous planning impressed Zander.

"It's nothing new.

"We can only blame James for being too conceited."

Sean turned off his computer and made to leave the building.

"What about Colton?"

"When did you know him?"

Zander asked again as he hurried to follow.

"Speaking of Colton, I don't really know.

"I don't know why he helped me either."

Sean was silent for two seconds and shook his head slightly when he heard that.

He thought Colton had recognized him.

After all, a big shot from Souza River came to help the Xavian family when he killed Felix.

Then after seeing Sean's Guardian Sword, they immediately brought it to him and left in a fluster.

It meant he had recognized Sean's identity.

Therefore, Sean thought that person had told Colton or Charlie after returning to Souza River.

However, Colton's attitude toward Sean made Sean think he was wrong.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

Otherwise, with Colton's status, he dared not behave that way in front of a nine-star commander.

Even if Charlie came, he would only respectfully address him as Commander Lennon.

Therefore, Sean was not quite sure why Colton helped him.

"Is it because of Damian?"

Zander had some doubts too.

They were living in anonymity and did not use their military privileges.

He could not think of anyone who would come to their aid.

"Forget it.

"They'll come to me if they want something.

"If someone requested them to do it, I will repay them someday."

Sean waved his hand and stopped talking about it.

"Yes!"

Zander replied in acknowledgment and drove Sean back.

At the same time.

Golden Villa Garden.

Fion was here again.

However, she brought no one but herself this time.

“Tell me the truth. What’s Sean’s background?”

“How does he know somebody like Mr. Freeman?”

Sitting in the living room, Fion asked Willow.

“I don’t know. I really don’t know!”

Willow was annoyed by the question, which Fion had been asking since she got here..

However, Willow did not know much about Sean either.

All she knew was that Sean was a nine-star commander, which seemed to be the highest rank in the army.

However, that was in the past.

“Hmph! Did he bribe Mr. Freeman to play along?”

Fion’s eyes moved as she said again with a cold snort.

“Think what you will.

“You can go back if there’s nothing else. I’m going to bed.”

Willow did not want to explain anything to Fion.

“No.

“You must come with me tonight.”

Fion grabbed Willow’s arm and said as she widened her eyes.

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

“What are you doing?”

2/4

Willow frowned and tried to break free.

However, Fion held on tight and refused to let go.

“I’m telling you. Don’t think Sean will make it because he has Mr. Freeman on his side.

Dream on!

“Mr. Thomson and Mr. Zimmer have talked to the River City government and various companies.

“Even if Mr. Freeman wanted to bail out Sean, they won’t do it and will support Jen-Bond

Holdings.”

Fion’s words made Willow frown even more.

How dare James do it?

How dare he lead all those people to go against Colton’s orders?

“Don’t think I’m trying to frighten you.

“Will I come to you if otherwise?

“Anyway, he can’t survive in River City even if he has Colton on his side.

“Because Mr. Freeman’s influence can’t go that far. There are plans and countermeasures.

Got it?"

Fion urged again when seeing Willow silent.

Willow did not think about anything else upon hearing this. She just wanted to contact Sean and tell him about it.

"Did you hear me?"

"If you return to the Quinn family house with me now, I can set you up with Young Master Zimmer.

"It'll be too late after tomorrow."

Fion took Willow's arm to walk out.

"No!"

Willow struggled, unwilling to leave.

"Let her go."

Just then, a cold voice came from the door.

Sean followed by Zander strode into the living room.

"Who do you think you are? How dare you order me around?"

Fion reached out her hand and pointed at Sean's nose as she yelled.

3/4

“She’s my woman.

“Let her go.”

Sean looked calm as his tone grew colder.

“What’s the matter? Are you going to hit me?”

Fion sneered but did not let go.

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette Chapter 1013

Chapter 1013

Thud!

Without waiting for Sean to give the order, Zander grabbed Fion.

Remembering that she was Willow’s mother, Sean would not act rashly.

However, Zander would not tolerate her.

Whatever Sean said was an order.

“You!”

Fion’s eyes widened as she tried to speak.

Then there was a sharp pain in her wrist that Zander grabbed.

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

Zander was so strong that it seemed to crush Fion's arm.

"Back off."

Zander pushed, and Fion stumbled several steps back.

Fion was nothing in front of the burly and tough Zander.

"Sean, how dare you behave so arrogantly?"

"Do you know that various River City companies, including Quinn Corporation, are signing contracts with Jen-Bond Holdings tomorrow?"

"Do

you think

you can do whatever you want because you have Colton protecting you?"

"Do you know the central authorities' power can't reach this area?"

"This is River City. Colton can't protect you!"

Aggrieved, Fion put one hand on her hip as she pointed at Sean with the other.

Sean only glanced at Fion.

The Quinn family still refused to come to their senses.

It left Sean with no desire to even talk to Fion.

"Ridiculous.

"How unreasonable."

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

Sean said nothing, but Zander could not stand keeping quiet.

“Who are you calling ridiculous?”

“How am I ridiculous? You’re the ones biting off more than you can chew!”

Fion turned around sharply and shouted at Zander again.

“Biting off more than I can chew?”

“Do you think River City is all Mr. Lennon is after?”

“He can easily take over the whole Souz River if he wants, let alone this mere River City.”

Zander said, causing Fion to fall silent.

She wanted to retort, but she dared not speak when faced with Zander’s terrifying aura.

“And you ask me how ridiculous you are.”

“You insulted Mr. Lennon and turned your back on him for a good-for-nothing fop.”

“You gave up a diamond for a piece of plastic. You even want to take Miss Willow with you.”

“Tell me. How are you not ridiculous?”

Zander asked, making Fion blush.

“You! Nonsense.”

“You’re on his side. You’ll put in a good word for him, of course.”

“You’re only trying to trick my daughter. I’m not that stupid.”

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

"Willow, come with me now!"

Not wanting to talk to Zander any longer, Fion reached out to grab Willow again.

Swoosh!

However, Zander stepped forward, and his iron tower of a body blocked Fion.

"Without Mr. Lennon's permission, you can't take her."

Zander spoke forcefully.

"Okay! You're ganging up on me, aren't you?"

"Willow, open your eyes and look. I'm your mother!"

"Are you going to choose a loser or me?"

Fion yelled, pointing at Willow.

Willow looked at Fion for less than two seconds before walking to Sean and taking his arm.

Her response was evident.

"You! You b*stard!"

"Are you giving up your mother for this loser?"

Fion paled with rage as she yelled at Willow.

"I'm not a kid anymore. I can tell who's looking out for me.

"And you're going to get me in trouble."

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

Willow swallowed the pain and said to Fion.

“Okay! Okay! Okay!”

Fion shook with rage as she pointed at Willow with clenched teeth.

“I hope you don’t regret it!

“I’d like to see what future you’ll get from choosing this loser over your mother!”

Fion yelled through gritted teeth before turning to leave.

Willow slowly turned and watched Fion leave.

She valued filial piety very much, and the pain in her heart throbbed mercilessly.

“I won’t make you regret it.”

Sean took Willow’s hand, his tone calm and firm..

Then he reached for Willow and held her in his arms.

“Excuse me.”

Zander immediately bent over slightly and headed outside.

“Tell the guards not to let her in anymore.”

Sean said with his back against Zander.

“Yes!”

Zander answered and left the villa.

The next day.

The already bustling River City was now more bustling.

It was because Jen-Bond Holdings' River City branch was now in motion.

Besides that, they would be signing contracts with various River City companies today.

Those companies would be bound to the behemoth Jen-Bond Holdings once they signed the contract.

9 a.m.

The office building where Jen-Bond Holdings' River City branch was located was already crowded.

Various luxury cars parked in front of the office building.

However, they were not warmly received when they entered the office building.

Instead, they waited in line in the lobby.

Jon would handle their contracts today.

Jon and James set it up on purpose.

They were treating them as inferiors and showing who was in charge of the River City business circle.

"Dad, those people out there are panicking from waiting!"

Quill walked into the office and said to Jon.

"Haha. Are they?"

"Go to Reach For Will Group or Lennon Group if they're panicking then!"

Jon put his legs up on the desk with a cigar in his hand, and his eyes were full of disdain.

"Haha, they're not fools. They'll know where to go."

Quill chuckled, also looking smug.

The father and son had deliberately left the company owners waiting to cooperate with them.

The people in the lobby were complaining.

However, they could not do anything about it.

Yesterday, the River City government expressed its support for Jen-Bond Holdings.

Companies like them could only depend on Jen-Bond Holdings to make a living in River City.

Even if they were dissatisfied, they could only wait in silence.

At the same time.

Various River City major media and news agencies had released a message.

River City's Lennon Group reached a strategic agreement with the River City government.

Lennon Group would work with the River City government to create a business blueprint for River City.

River City's department would also support and cooperate with Lennon Group to the greatest extent.

River City became an instant sensation when the news broke.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette

Chapter 1014

Chapter 1014

Many people were stunned when they heard the news.

Were these government members not supporting Jen-Bond Holdings' River City branch?

Why were they helping Lennon Group now?

Many people knew Lennon Group and Jen-Bond Holdings were sworn enemies.

Therefore, supporting Lennon Group meant forsaking Jen-Bond Holdings!

Shocked, many inquired for information and turned their attention to Lennon Group.

While there was a commotion outside, Jen-Bond Holdings continued the contract signing.

After all, one must keep quiet on such an important occasion.

Many people turned off their phones and waited.

Jon looked at the crowd lining up in the lobby through the surveillance camera and felt

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

smug.

Many companies and affluent families in the lobby were stronger than the Zimmer family.

Jon had to be respectful to them back then.

Now?

These people had to be respectful to him.

It was up to Jon to decide whether to sign a contract with them.

How could Jon not be happy?

“Why isn’t Mr. Zimmer here yet?”

“We’ve all got a lot to do.”

Finally, unable to sit still any longer, someone complained to the staff in the lobby.

“Calm down, sir.

“If you really have something to do, you may leave first.”

The Jen-Bond Holdings’ staff said calmly with a fake polite smile.

“You!”

The middle-aged man froze at that, furious.

With his position, employees from other companies had never treated him this way.

However, he had no choice.

*The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette*
*Chapter*

The situation in River City's business circle was clear.

They could either live by sticking with Jen-Bond Holdings or die.

Even if they were angry, they could only swallow it for their company's future!

"I know you're busy, but Mr. Thomson and Mr. Zimmer are busier.

"So just wait."

The staff said and continued to look down at the phone.

"Hey, do you think we can't run our company because we don't cooperate with you?"

A hot-tempered middle-aged woman questioned the staff as she could not stand it.

"Oh, why don't you leave if you don't want to cooperate?"

"Jen-Bond Holdings won't tolerate unreasonable people like you!"

The staff member sneered and curled her lips as she answered.

It was Jon's instructions to take the edge off them.

He wanted them to understand the situation so that he could take advantage of their profit margins when talking about their deal.

"You! Fine! Fine!"

The middle-aged woman picked up her LV handbag and got up to leave.

"Ms. Zara, think it over..."

A good friend beside her hurriedly advised.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

"I can't stand it.

"At least be polite if you want to cooperate with us."

However, the middle-aged woman snorted, turned around and left the lobby.

"Tsk! We can do without you."

The staff curled her lip, still sneering.

The others were upset and aggrieved to see this.

"Hey, this news."

Suddenly, a middle-aged man turned on their phone and saw the statement River City government's departments had issued together.

"Lennon... Lennon Group?"

"River City government will be very supportive of Lennon Group.

"Besides that, Lennon Group is signing contracts with various River City companies today?"

The middle-aged man's voice rang, and the others looked over in disbelief.

"What happened?"

"Let me see. Let me see..."

Everyone gathered together suddenly.

"Well... River City government. They... They chose Mr. Lennon?"

“Do you have to ask? Who would dare joke about such a thing?”

“Golly, I’m not waiting here anymore. I’m cooperating with Mr. Lennon.”

“Only a fool would stay here!”

Many people got up at the same time and headed outside.

Being able to run such large companies, none of these people were fools.

They understood what happened after seeing the statement issued by the River City government.

James’s ploys have failed.

The ultimate winner was Sean.

They had no idea how Sean did it.

However, it did not matter.

The important thing was that the River City government would be working with Lennon. Group from now on.

Therefore, they chose to side with Sean!

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette Chapter 1015

Chapter 1015

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

The company owners and River City's affluent families stood up and headed outside.

Never in their business careers had they canceled a business cooperation so easily.

The staff member playing with her phone was unconcerned at first as she withdrew her gaze after casting a glance.

However, she began to grow restless as more people left.

Ten people, twenty people, and thirty people.

In the blink of an eye, half the number of company owners in the room waiting to sign with Jen-Bond Holdings was gone.

"Hey, Sirs and Madams, what are you doing?"

The staff put down her phone and took a few steps forward.

"You bully. Who do you think you are?"

"We're owners of a company no matter what, and you're only an employee."

"You'll never have access to luxurious food."

Everyone sneered and turned to leave after speaking.

As the saying went, consider who was the master before beating up the dog.

However, why give face when the dog's master was no longer someone to fear?

The staff member ran upstairs after being yelled at.

At this time.

Jon's office upstairs.

"Sean is getting kicked out of River City.

"I can't believe Willow will be stupid enough to join him in hardship.

"No woman in this world will be willing to accompany a man through hardship.

"So don't worry. Willow will be yours in the end.

Jon said proudly, cigar in hand.

"Thanks, Dad! Thanks, Dad!"

Quill was thrilled.

He would die happy if he got to kiss a pretty girl like Willow!

In particular, Willow's stunning appearance at the wine party impressed many people.

Quill could not help getting turned on by Willow's beautiful face and perfect figure.

"Dad, let's hurry out of here.

"Once we finish the signings, we can go after Sean."

The more Quill thought about it, the more eager he became.

"Haha, why are you panicking?"

"It's them who should panic.

"Cooperating with Jen-Bond Holdings is River City business circle's only option now.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

“Otherwise, they wouldn’t be able to survive.”

Jon got up with a smug look and checked the time. Sure enough, he had kept them waiting. long enough.

“Come on. Let’s go check it out.”

Jon got dressed and headed out the door.

Bang!

Just then, the Jen-Bond Holdings’ staff member pushed open the office door and barged

1.

She almost bumped into Jon.

Slap!

Jon slapped her with a backhand, sending the staff three steps back.

*B*stard! Don’t you know you should knock before coming in?

“What do you think my office is?”

Jon got on his high horse as he yelled at the staff.

“Mr. Zimmer... Mr. Zimmer...”

“They’re... They’re gone...”

The staff covered her face with one hand and reported in a whisper as she lowered her head.

“What’s gone? Who’s gone?”

Jon asked the staff with a frown.

“The company owners... are... are gone...”

The staff was slapped, but she dared not lose her temper and continued to report.

“Gone? Haha, I knew some grumpy people would leave early.

“But it doesn’t matter. We can do without them.”

Jon smiled disdainfully and headed out the door.

“A lot has left. About half...”

However, the staff’s next remark made Jon stop in his tracks.

“What did you say?”

Jon turned around and stared at the staff.

“Many of the companies here to sign have left...”

“Half was gone by the time I came upstairs.”

The staff blurted out.

“No way!”

Jon felt his heart clenching. Then he shook his head.

He knew he would offend some people by deliberately treating them that way.

However, others should understand the situation at hand, even if some grumpy ones had already left.

How could half the people be gone?

Jon stopped listening to the staff member babbling and led Quill downstairs quickly.

Jon and Quill were stunned when they got to the first floor.

The first-floor lobby was originally bustling with hundreds of people.

However, no one was left except a couple of Jen-Bond Holdings' staff members.

The originally crowded place was now empty. No one was there.

Jon was silent as Quill looked stunned.

The employee was even too scared to breathe.

"There were half of them... just... just now..."

Sweating profusely, the staff believed she had caused many people to leave because she had spoken out of line.

“Dad, this... this...”

Quill’s jaw dropped and pointed at the empty lobby, unable to utter a complete sentence.

Jon’s face darkened after recomposing himself.

No matter how stupid he was, he knew something was wrong.

Even if his behavior upset them, how could all of them have left?

It was abnormal. There must be some mistake.

Just five minutes ago, they were leaving them all to squirm so these people could learn a quick lesson in anger management.

They also fantasized about the Zimmer family’s bright future.

How could their plan proceed when they had no one here?

A staff rushed over and reported to Jon.

“Mr. Zimmer, news just came in.

“Various River City government departments have announced together that they will work with Lennon Group to create a brighter future for River City...”

“What?”

Jon instantly widened his eyes and let out a cry of surprise.

Quill even felt his heart tightening as his eyes were full of emotion.

‘Lennon Group?’

'Lennon Group?

'Has River City government lost its mind?

'Why would they rather offend Jen-Bond Holdings to support Sean?

'Aren't they afraid Jon will spill the beans about their bribery?'

"Dad, it's over. It's over..."

Quill's eyes widened as he muttered to himself.

He knew little about business, but he could see their situation..

River City government had made an announcement, so there was no doubt Lennon Group's status would rise in River City.

The reason those company owners left was now evident!

1/4

"Quick! Find Mr. Thomson!"

Jon made a phone call and headed outside after coming to himself.

Jen-Bond Holdings' River City branch instantly went into chaos.

No one could believe that in less than an hour...

River City's business circle and more had changed dramatically.

At this time."

*The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette*
*Chapter*

Lennon Group office building.

Inside the office, Sean and Willow stood side by side in front of a floor-to-ceiling window.

Sean was smiling.

Willow had no idea what had just happened.

Therefore, she was still worried.

“Sean, I don’t think my mom was lying last night.

“Jen-Bond Holdings will sign contracts with those companies today.

“Once they’re done, we might not be able to stay in River City anymore...”

Willow let out a sigh, unable to feel relieved even though Sean was calm.

Jen-Bond Holdings was already powerful with no shortage of money or connections.

The only thing they lacked was a foundation in River City.

Once Jen-Bond Holdings signed on with River City’s local companies, it would be more powerful than ever.

From then on, Jen-Bond Holdings would be the largest corporation in River City’s business circle.

Forget about Lennon Group. Even if Reach For Will Group was added to the equation, it was no match for Jen-Bond Holdings.

How was Sean going to resist them when that happened?

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

As Jen-Bond Holdings' partner, the Zimmer family was in charge.

Sean and the Zimmer family already had a vendetta. It would be shocking if they did not go after Sean.

There would not be a place for Sean in River City by then.

"You don't believe me?"

Sean looked out the window at the heavy traffic and asked with a faint smile.

"I want to believe you!

"But... But Jen-Bond Holdings is too powerful!

"I heard of Jen-Bond Holdings' prowess while still in school.

"I'm more worried about you than believing you!"

Willow slowly turned her head and looked at Sean earnestly.

"Will you regret it if I failed?"

Sean asked again, smiling.

"No!"

Willow answered without hesitation.

"But how can I let you lose?"

Sean slowly turned his head to meet Willow's eyes.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette

“Hahaha! I’m dying of laughter, and you still have the leisure of being lovey-dovey.”

Just then, a sneer came from behind him.

Faye and Simon stepped in.

Of course, Zander did not want to stop them.

After all, they would make a great audience when the show started.

“What do you want?”

Willow turned and looked at Faye and Simon.

“What do we want?”

“This office building belongs to Assimilation Real Estate Company.

“And Assimilation Real Estate Company is about to sign a contract with Jen-Bond Holdings. Young Master Zimmer ordered them to kick you out.”

Simon laughed, his face full of scorn.

Not only would they not rent the office to Lennon Group, but the companies signing with Jen-Bond Holdings would also become their subsidiaries.

With an order from James, no one in River City would rent an office building to Lennon Group.

“You! You’ve gone too far!”

Willow was furious when she heard this.

“We’re bullying you.

"How dare a loser act so arrogantly?"

"You even gave up the Quinn family for this loser. I'll see what he can bring you!"

Simon snorted coldly and pointed at Sean, but his eyes were on Willow.

"I can give her the whole River City.

"I'll use the city as a betrothal gift."

Sean slowly reached out and pointed out the window to River City.

He was going to use this land as a betrothal gift.

"You're bluffing!"

Simon was disdainful.

"You can see if we're bluffing or not."

Zander grabbed Simon by the neck before pressing him against the window.

Bang!

Simon hit his head hard against the window, and his head hurt immediately.

"You f*cking..."

Simon was on the verge of screaming.

However, before he could swear, he suddenly shut his mouth.

He looked into the distance with eyes full of surprise.

Luxury cars!

All he could see were luxury cars!

Mercedes G Wagon, Maybach, Cayenne, Bentley...

There was even a Rolls-Royce-the aristocrat of cars.

Every one of them was a million-dollar luxury car. They gathered in this direction from several streets in front of him.

Everything was clear from this height.

No fewer than a hundred luxury cars trundled toward Lennon Group's office building.

Passers-by stepped aside and stopped to watch.

The scene was impressive.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette Chapter 1017

Chapter 1017

Simon was stunned.

Willow froze.

They had no idea what was going on.

Faye was quite far from the window, so she had no idea what was happening outside.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

“Sean, don’t go looking for trouble.

“Release Simon at once.

“Or else...”

Faye walked over and reached for Zander’s arm.

However, Zander showed no mercy and reached out his other hand, pulling Faye to the window to look down.

Faye also saw all the fancy cars outside.

Faye instantly shut her mouth, her eyes filled with astonishment.

After Zander released them, they were still stunned as their hearts raced.

They could not help wondering if this was what Sean wanted to show them.

These cars and drivers...

What the... What the h*ll was going on?

“What do you suppose they’re here for?”

Sean put his hands on the windowsill as he asked indifferently.

“W-What?”

Willow, Simon, and Faye asked in unison.

“Me.”

Sean uttered one word softly. The three people already surprised became even more shocked.

Him!

They were here for Sean!

How on earth did he do it?

“You’ll never know what Old Master Levi Quinn meant when he set up the marriage.

“Of course, you don’t need to know anymore.”

Sean slowly withdrew his hands and stood proudly with both hands behind his back.

His eyes were full of pride.

They were unyielding, not filled with arrogance.

This self-confidence was only exuded when one was utterly confident.

“No, I don’t believe it!

“I still don’t believe it.”

Simon was momentarily silent before shaking his head.

He would never believe Sean was capable of it.

However, what happened next did not need Sean’s explanation.

The car coming from all directions stopped in front of Lennon Group’s office building.

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

The cars occupied parked on the roadside once the parking lot was full.

Thud! Thud!

The car door opened, and middle-aged men and women stepped down from the car.

Everyone dressed professionally, holding document files.

These people were familiar to many River City residents.

Any one of them was a big shot in River City.

They were from River City's established families and various companies; some were from the government.

They headed straight to the Lennon Group office building after getting out of the car.

"Do you believe it now?"

Sean asked indifferently, standing in front of the floor-to-ceiling window, looking down at what was going on downstairs.

LL

Simon clenched his teeth slightly.

He knew these people too.

They were supposed to be at Jen-Bond Holdings' River City branch, signing contracts with Jon.

However, here they were.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

Was it a coincidence?

No, absolutely not!

They were here because Lennon Group was here.

Simon and Faye both turned slowly to look at Sean.

They could not understand the thoughtful expression on Sean's face.

Even Willow, who had cared for Sean for two years, could not figure out what was on Sean's mind.

However, one person could.

Zander, who had followed Sean around for seven years, understood.

However, Zander's eyes were slightly red, and his face looked like he was about to cry.

He did not do that because he was sad, but because he was happy!

No one knew how happy he felt at this moment.

He noticed that the expression on Sean's face was the same as when he was the nine-star commander commanding millions of army soldiers.

He was so confident, unyielding, and proud.

Sean was at the top, shining brightly..

Unrestrained, he could destroy clans with one word.

It was then that Zander knew that the magnificent Sean was back!

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

He had regained his confidence, was unyielding, and everything he once had!

Zander also believed that it was just the beginning.

He was going to get back everything Sean had lost.

“Whew!”

Zander slowly clenched his fists before releasing them.

After several repetitions, he gradually calmed down.

Then Zander turned to another window, reached out his hand, and pulled a thin cord.

Swoosh!

A long red banner fell vertically from above when the thin thread was pulled..

The red banner danced with the wind, unfolding from top to bottom.

Congratulations: Lennon Group Signing Ceremony.

Chapter 1018

The huge letters on the banner stood out.

The people walking below stopped to watch. Then they raised their document files and

*The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette*
*Chapter*

waved to the floor where Sean was.

In the distance, countless pedestrians took out their phones to take pictures and stopped to watch.

Simon and Faye finally believed it.

These people were indeed here for Lennon Group and Sean!

Whether they would believe or admit it, it was the truth.

“Take good care of them.”

Sean said indifferently, looking down at the crowd.

“Yes!”

Zander replied before turning downstairs to oversee the signing process himself.

Sean had prepared this for a long time.

It was now time for him to reap the results. Zander dared not mess it up.

“Did you say you would withdraw our company’s lease and kick Sean out of here?”

Sean slowly turned around and looked at Simon.

However, Simon looked terrible and could not say a word.

“This whole office building and the rights to occupy this office building’s land are mine.”

As soon as Sean said that, Simon widened his eyes again.

“So, how are you going to kick me out?”

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

Hearing Sean's words, Simon's face turned ghastly pale, and his mood was even more complicated.

Failed!

Jen-Bond Holdings had failed!

Their defeat also meant that the Zimmer family and the Quinn family had failed.

Sean had become the ultimate winner.

Only the winner had a say in things.

Therefore, Simon was not even qualified to speak in front of Sean,

"I... I..."

Simon had mixed feelings. He wanted to say something, but he could not.

He wanted to yell at Sean and even start sucking up to Sean.

However, he realized nothing seemed appropriate, no matter what he said or did.

He was so torn up.

"F*ck off."

Sean said gently.

Simon and Faye turned red before gritting their teeth and turning away.

They dared not do whatever they wanted with Sean now.

"Do you like it?"

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

Once they left, Sean slowly turned his head and looked at Willow with a gentle gaze.

He treated Willow differently, of course.

“You... You...”

“Are you Sean?”

“Are you really Sean?”

Willow’s eyes widened as she reached to touch Sean’s face, but she withdrew her hand halfway like she had received an electric shock.

She could not believe this was the same wheelchair-bound man who depended on her and the cripple who was considered a vegetable...

Who would have thought that he would one day be able to summon all the companies in River City with a single word?

Sean reached out and put Willow’s palm on his face.

When Willow touched the side of Sean’s face and felt the warmth on her fingertips, she finally confirmed she was not dreaming.

Sean was real.

“But how... how did you do it?”

Willow was still in shock.

She was still worried when Sean brought her here half an hour earlier and said he wanted to show her something.

After all, once Jen-Bond Holdings' River City branch signed with River City companies...

They were going after Sean and Sean's company first.

However, things changed dramatically during such a short period.

Companies originally planned to cooperate with Jen-Bond Holdings had gathered here and scrambled to sign up with Sean.

In no time at all, everyone wanted to join Sean!

Willow racked her brains to figure things out.

"There are a lot of people and things involved.

"So I can't explain it clearly to you for now.

"Anyway, I want to give you the whole city. Do you want it?"

Sean cupped Willow's face in his hands, his eyes full of tenderness.

"You're the only one I want.

"I only had you back then. Now and hereafter, you're the only one I want."

Willow stared at Sean and said earnestly.

Sean looked at Willow for two seconds before reaching out and pulling Willow into his arms.

Sean had a beautiful woman in his arms.

Downstairs, Zander and others were busy signing contracts with various companies with a team of employees.

It was no exaggeration to say that Sean was a successful man.

He was at the pinnacle of his life.

However, when two parties were in a battle, one party would be happy, while the other would be dissatisfied.

Not far from the Lennon Group office building, Jon, James, and Quill looked over darkly.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette Chapter 1019

Chapter 1019

The situation caught them by surprise.

The change in the River City government's attitude was beyond their expectation.

"Did they take what I said to them last night as nothing?"

James clenched his right fist and hit the wall hard.

Jon and Quill were afraid to speak.

"Are they afraid of Colton, or have Sean bribed them?"

James had a vicious look in his eyes as fury burned in his heart.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

According to his plan, Jen-Bond Holdings' River City branch should have taken root in River City after today.

Once Souza River developed River City in the future, River City would instantly become an economic hub connecting super first-tier cities in Dragon Kingdom.

When that happened, James was not only Jen-Bond Holdings' biggest contributor; he could also gain many things for himself with River City Branch in his hands.

Therefore, he could even wake up laughing in his dreams whenever he thought about the advantages he would get after completing his plan.

However, reality slapped him in the face.

He had spent so much money, resources, manpower, and Jen-Bond Holdings' connections. However, he lost to a young boy Sean.

How was James going to survive in Jen-Bond Holdings?

The more James thought about it, the angrier he became.

"Sean! You son of a b*tch! You loser!

"You b*stard!"

James wanted to tear Sean to pieces to relieve his hatred.

Jon remained silent until James calmed down slightly.

"Mr. Thomson, what should we do now?"

"These companies came to Lennon Group because of the statement that the River City government released.

"Are we going to talk to the River City government now?"

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

Jon cautiously spoke.

“Yes! Of course!

“Sean is a fool to think he can monopolize River City and beat Jen-Bond Holdings!”

James gritted his teeth slightly before turning around to get in the car.

Jon and Quill quickly followed.

Their plan failed, but they were still holding on to James.

Otherwise, the Zimmer family would not have been able to resist Sean for even a second.

James and Jon panicked like cats on hot bricks.

They were racking their brains as their last struggle.

However, no one paid much attention to them.

River City Larson Residence.

Homer slapped his thigh and yelled in relief.

His subordinate just sent him a photo.

Countless company owners gathered at Lennon Group, asking to sign up with Sean.

It was a breathtaking sight.

“Old Master, it is said that elders’ wisdom are treasures! You’re the Larson family’s treasure!

Homer ran into Old Master Larson’s room and shouted, forgetting his dignity.

*The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette*
*Chapter*

“What?”

“Didn’t you say those companies had gone to Jen-Bond Holdings?”

“What treasure?”

Old Master Larson was slightly dumbfounded for a moment.

“Those companies...”

“Those companies have gone to Mr. Lennon now.

“In other words, Lennon Group has defeated Jen-Bond Holdings!

“Mr. Lennon is taking over the River City business circle for good!”

Homer did not explain much and only told him the results.

“Hsts!”

Old Master Larson, who had experienced many things, could not help gasping.

“He...”

“Is there really someone who is the one?”

“Is he the leader of our generation?”

Old Master Larson slowly looked up, his eyes full of emotions.

“What are you talking about, Old Master?”

Homer did not understand Old Master Larson's words.

"Mr. Lennon's growth reminded me of a legend from more than 20 years ago..."

Old Master Larson mumbled as his eyes seemed to fill with nostalgia.

Homer was in no mind to listen to Old Master Larson.

He turned around and walked out to meet Sean!

At the same time.

The Quinn family. Old Madam Quinn's residence.

Old Madam Quinn, Samuel, other the Quinn family's core members, Fion, and Kent, gathered there.

Kent did not want to participate, but he could only follow over as he could not stand Fion's pestering.

However, the courtyard, usually full of laughter, was silent.

Old Madam Quinn and the Quinn family's extended relatives looked sullen as they said nothing.

The courtyard was quiet.

They were here having a family meeting, talking about Quill and Willow.

They knew about Jen-Bond Holdings signing but did not go over to their building.

It was because Jon had promised to meet the Quinn family for dinner, and they could talk. about the deal over dinner.

Therefore, they did not have to line up with the other companies. They had to sit at home and figure out how to bring Willow over during dinner.

However, they had seen the statement released by the River City government.

Lennon Group?

Was that not Sean's company?

Did he eventually get the River City government's support?

3/4

Did that mean Sean has defeated Jen-Bond Holdings?

"Don't worry, Old Madam.

"Even if Sean is on a roll, Jen-Bond Holdings isn't a small company.

"River City company owners know the pros and cons and will choose Jen-Bond Holdings.

"Therefore, River City business circle's future is still in Jen-Bond Holdings' hands."

Samuel said to Old Madam Quinn after being silent for a long time.

"Yes! They can support Sean. As long as Jen-Bond Holdings and all those other companies gang up on Sean, River City government can't protect him even if they're on his side."

Others chimed in.

"Grandma, Uncle Sam, he... Sean..."

Just then, Simon and Faye pushed the door open and walked in.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

"You're back?"

"How did it go? Didn't Young Master Zimmer tell you to retrieve Lennon Group's office building?"

Samuel immediately got up and asked the two.

"The office building belongs to Sean..."

"And all the companies in River City, big and small, have signed on with Sean..."

Simon's whole face was pale as he spoke slowly to the crowd.

"What?"

Old Madam Quinn and everyone else jumped to their feet.

There was a dead silence.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette Chapter 1020

Chapter 1020

Simon's words went off in everyone's head like a bolt from the blue.

The eyes of the Quinn family members in the courtyard widened with shock as their minds went blank.

Simon and Faye understood what the Quinn family was going through.

*The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette*
*Chapter*

When they found out these people were there for Sean, they froze like they were shocked by electricity.

It was nearly half a minute before everyone came to their senses.

“What did you...

“What did you say?

“Did you say those companies went to Lennon Group...”

Samuel touched his forehead before looking at Simon and asking.

“Yes! Uncle Sam.

“Companies wanting to sign with Jen-Bond Holdings have gone to Lennon Group to sign with them instead.

“Sean even had a signing ceremony. More and more people showed up...”

Simon clenched his teeth and said with a nod.

Hearing it again, the expressions on everyone’s faces became increasingly complicated.

Fion’s heart sank as she suddenly remembered what Sean had said to her.

‘Did Sean see all this coming?’

‘Is that why he’s so confident in front of me?’

“No way!

“It’s impossible!”

Samuel was silent for a few seconds before shaking his head and waving his hands.

He would not accept it. It must be fake.

“Even though Mr. Freeman and Sean know each other, he’s not in charge of River City.

“I’m not afraid to tell you that Mr. Thomson and Mr. Zimmer have something on the government officials.

“Their only option is to support Jen-Bond Holdings, so other companies must hold on to Jen-Bond Holdings to survive.

“You’re telling me they’ve gone to work with the Lennon Group. I don’t buy it!

“Absolutely not!”

Samuel’s eyes widened as he shook his head like he had lost his mind.

Many of the Quinn family members held the same idea as him.

Did River City companies not see what was going on?

They had to hold on to Jen-Bond Holdings to survive in the River City business circle!

Were they kicked in the head that they chose Lennon Group instead of Jen-Bond Holdings?

“Yes! They’re not fools. How could they make that decision?”

Fion gritted his teeth and said as she got up.

She used to be unpopular and disagreed with Samuel and the rest.

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette
Chapter

However, Fion had now become a core member of the Quinn family and even shared the same opinion with Samuel.

“Grandma, Uncle Sam, look...”

Simon did not want to explain too much. His mind was also in a mess.

Simon turned on his phone and clicked on a photo.

Old Madam Quinn, Samuel, Fion, and the rest stretched out their heads to look.

In the photo, countless luxury cars were parked at Lennon Group’s office building.

Many successful people in formal clothes were moving into the office building.

The vertical red banner of Lennon Group’s signing ceremony hanging on the office building’s exterior was even more glaring.

Old Madam Quinn and the others eventually became convinced after seeing this.

“Grandma, look at this...”

Simon swiped his phone and clicked on another video to play it.

It was footage from before he got back.

It was crowded and bustling.

Many of River City’s big shots swarmed into the Lennon Group office building with document files.

Old Madam Quinn and the rest had no choice but accepted it.

The company owners wanting to sign with Jen-Bond Holdings went to Lennon Group!
The Quinn family put all their eggs in one basket and gambled everything on Jen-Bond

Holdings.

They even offended Sean thoroughly for the Zimmer family.

What was the Quinn family going to do in the future?

Old Madam Quinn fell silent as Fion went limp at the knees and nearly fell.

Samuel's facial muscles even twitched as he could not say a word.

Smack!

The next moment, Samuel held out his hand and slapped himself hard.

He did not slap himself due to remorse.

He wanted to see if it hurt to tell if he was dreaming.

The slap was painful..

A slap mark quickly appeared on Samuel's face.

"Sean... Sean... Sean won?"

Samuel ignored the pain in his face but turned his neck stiffly and looked at the crowd.
