

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette

Chapter 1451 - 1460

Chapter 1451

Many people found Sean's move crazy, ridiculous, and naive.

When developers handled unit owners' issues, they did it separately.

After all, one person was easier to handle than a group.

It was what Billion Trees Real Estate used to do, so the other developers did so too.

However, Sean did the opposite.

Instead of handling them separately, he gathered everyone together.

Could he stand it?

Many billionaires and various company owners were gently swirling their wine, waiting for Sean to make a fool of himself.

Johnson and the rest of the Joules Town government were also slightly uneasy.

The scene was now chaotic.

Thousands of people clamored together, drowning out Sean's voice.

However, Sean remained calm and stood in place.

There was so much noise around him, but it seemed to not affect him.

Whoosh!

Suddenly, a mineral water bottle was thrown at Sean.

Smack!

However, Sean caught it accurately the next moment.

Sean then gently put the water bottle nearby.

“Get him!”

The next second, several bottles of mineral water fled toward Sean again.

However, Sean remained unfazed and grabbed the water bottles as if performing magic.

Then he put them down gently.

“What the heck...”

The crowd was a little dumbfounded to see this.

They had vented their frustrations by throwing things in the past.

Anyone would have gotten hit and fled.

However, there was something different about the young man named Sean Lennon today!

The way he caught things so accurately and steadily made them wonder if he was a basketball player.

“Let me ask you a question.

“Are you going to keep arguing? Or shall I solve it for you?”

Sean asked indifferently, looking at the crowd.

“How can you solve it?”

“Do you think we’ll believe you when it hasn’t been solved after all this time?”

The crowd was still unsettled.

If they were that easy, Jimmy would not be so anxious.

“I have enough money to solve all your problems.

“Billion Trees Real Estate’s era is behind us. I’m taking over now.

“All of these problems can be solved.”

Sean looked up slowly, his tone haughty.

His attitude left many people dumbfounded.

Generally speaking, developers were humble when approaching unit owners.

After all, they were the problem, and they could only hand their head low and apologize.

Forget about being humble. Sean’s attitude at this point was downright arrogant!

However, the crowd could not find anything to refute him.

The root of all their problems was indeed money.

They were also involved with Billion Trees Real Estate because of money.

Those workers’ wages were money.

These unit owners also had these problems because they paid for the units with money.

Therefore, Sean was right that all these problems could indeed be solved with money.

The question was whether Sean could come up with that much money.

“Why don’t we hear what he has to say first?”

“Let’s hear what he says first. As long as it pleases us.”

After some discussion among themselves, the crowd gradually quieted down.

After all, they might be making a scene, but it was not their goal.

The ultimate goal was to see their problems resolved.

Sean gave them a different vibe.

They found Sean confident-whether the look in his eyes, expression, or even that ethereal aura.

It was as if he could indeed solve things, convincing people involuntarily.

Therefore, the crowd calmed down slightly.

“Within three days, the construction of Billion Trees Real Estate’s remaining properties would be in full

Swing

“We’ll meet unit completion standards by one month at the latest.

“I’ll give you your units in two months.”

Sean slowly turned his head to look at the unit owners.

Everyone was stunned to hear this.

However, the crowd soon sneered.

'Cut the crap!

"We've heard promises like yours too many times.

"And then what? You'll say you have the final right of interpretation?

"You'll keep delaying. When can you deliver our units?"

The unit owners shouted again after coming to themselves.

They did not believe a word of Sean's assurances and promises.

Zander could not help but fret at the sight.

However, Sean remained unfazed.

Sean did not find these unit owners too unreasonable.

It was because most people bought houses by spending their life savings.

If a young person wanted to buy a house, they might have to empty their family's bank accounts.

No one bought a house just to suffer.

Jimmy built up the unit owners' anger.

Supposedly, none of this had anything to do with Sean.

However, Sean had taken on the project, so he could not avoid it.

He would not run away from it either.

"Don't believe him, everybody!"

“Maybe they’ll close down and run away in three days.

“Yes, we can’t trust him. What can a kid do?”

The crowd said, unwilling to believe Sean.

Sean slowly glanced across everyone’s faces.

His eyes seemed magical.

Every time he looked at a unit owner, the unit owner would lower their head and fall silent.

Sean’s eyes were not threatening, but he still had this effect.

After Sean took a look around, the place fell silent again.

“I don’t like explaining.

“But I understand how difficult it is. That’s why I’m here to explain.

Anything else aside, what will you do if I can do what I had just promised?”

Sean asked again after looking at the crowd.

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette Chapter 1452

Chapter 1452

The crowd glanced at each other, not in a hurry to speak.

However, they could not help but wonder.

After all, it was pointless to continue making a scene.

They would be pleased if Sean delivered his promise, finished construction in a month, and delivered their units in two months!

However, they did not believe Sean could do it.

"Is what you say true?"

"If you can do that, we'll put an end to it, of course.

"But what if you can't?"

A unit owner in their fifties asked with a frown as they looked at Sean.

"I can do it if I said I can.

"I only wanna know if you believe me!

"If you tell me you don't believe me, I'll leave now. We don't need to waste each other's time.

"If you believe me, let's keep on talking."

Sean said indifferently, looking at the crowd with his hands behind his back.

"You!"

Everyone was more dumbfounded when they heard Sean.

Everyone knew the chairman of Billion Trees Real Estate, Jimmy had been thrown into prison.

Billion Trees Real Estate could be said to be leaderless now.

Sean was the only person to stand out and explain to the public these past few days.

If they said they did not believe it, and Sean left in a fit of anger, would no one bother with Billion Trees Real Estate?

Would their unit delivery date not be delayed further?

After the crowd thought it through, they were more scared of saying that they did not believe him.

“Okay! We believe you!”

“But you can’t ask us to believe you just because you said so, can you?”

“Yes! Your construction has been suspended for half a month. You don’t even have a single worker. How can we believe you?”

“Are the buildings going to build themselves?”

The unit owners expressed their willingness to believe Sean before raising their doubts.

Many billionaires and big shots watching this scene froze

They did not even know when Sean had changed the unit owners’ minds.

The unit owners were so agitated that they seemed intent on bringing down the Billion Trees Real Estate building at first.

However, after Sean talked to them, the atmosphere and the people’s attitudes changed imperceptibly.

They were so shocked by Sean that they were scared to say they did not believe Sean.

“We can also say the same things he said.

“But why do I think he sounds more persuasive than us?”

Many people could not help having such doubts.

They did not understand, of course.

It was because they had no idea of the remarkable achievements this young man only in his twenties had.

He alone had commanded a million soldiers.

How could he intimidate millions of soldiers without a powerful aura and strong abilities?

Aura was illusory, but it was real.

The same sentence would bring different feelings and effects if it were from another person.

If it were Jimmy repeating exactly what Sean had said on stage, it would not have the same effect.

“Mr. Lennon, right?”

“Honestly, we don’t want to waste time making a scene. We have our things to do too.

“But we only want to claim our legal rights.

“If you can give us something to assure it, we’ll stop making a scene.”

Suddenly, another unit owner stepped forward and spoke earnestly to Sean.

Clap, clap, clap!

As soon as the unit owners said that, the other unit owners clapped and nodded in approval.

Zander standing behind Sean could barely contain his laughter after getting a good look at the unit owner.

He did not expect Jeffrey to hide in the crowd and be Sean's wingman.

Sean must have set this up.

Seeing Jeffrey's earnest face, Zander could not help smiling and lowered his head to hide it.

On the other hand, Sean looked nonchalant.

"You're right.

'So I will start construction as soon as possible.

"I promise you'll get the keys within a month."

Sean said to the crowd, nodding slightly.

"How are you going to start construction? What about the workers? There are no workers on the site."

Another unit owner asked, frowning.

"Aren't the workers here?"

Sean said, slowly turning his head to the workers on the other side.

Most of these migrant workers were from the countryside, so they looked simple and honest.

They were a little uncomfortable seeing so many eyes focused on them.

“Them? They’re here to collect their debt!

“How dare you make them work when you owe them their wages?

“Do you think the migrant workers are stupid?”

Jeffrey shouted with a cold snort.

“Yes! That’s right!”

The other unit owners nodded.

The migrant workers had also realized it.

They were here to collect their debt. Why should they be ashamed?

Therefore, everyone looked up and waited for Sean’s answer.

“I’ve checked the bill.

Billion Trees Real Estate owes many people their wages.

“Again, anything that can be solved with money isn’t a problem.

“I will make up their wages and pay their future wages on time.

“Besides that...

Sean paused for a moment.

“What else?”

Many migrant workers were happy to hear Sean’s promise.

However, their hearts sank at hearing Sean’s change of tone.

“Besides that, I’m sorry for any inconvenience caused by the late payment.

“Everyone will receive an extra two months pay during payout.”

Sean said casually, looking at the migrant workers.

“What? What do you mean?”

The crowd was dumbfounded for a moment.

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette Chapter 1453

Chapter 1453

“It meant that if we owe you three months’ pay, Mr. Lennon will pay five.

“If we owe you one month, we’ll pay you three.

“We’re giving you an extra two months’ pay just to make it up to you.”

Zander walked slowly forward and explained to the crowd.

“What the h*ll? Really?”

“Oh my. Extra two months’ pay? So I’ll make ten thousand dollars for nothing?

“No way. Is this businessman here to do charity?”

Everyone was momentarily stunned.

The unit owners were also confused.

Many businessmen delayed their wages, and the employees were happy if they could pay the full amount.

owed.

Sean was not only paying the full amount but also paying an extra two months' wages.

Well... Was this a joke?

"Of course, I'm giving you this compensation in hopes that you will continue to work here.

"You built the buildings. You know the projects well and are used to them.

"But I'll pay you whether you're going to continue working here or not."

Sean looked at the crowd and said again.

Clap, clap, clap!

Clap!

Clap, clap!

All of a sudden, the contractors led the migrant workers behind them to clap their hands.

Even many onlookers could not help applauding Sean's generosity.

"That... That's it?"

In a luxury car on the far side of the road, a middle-aged man said with wide eyes.

"Don't think it's easy. Did you see how many migrant workers are here?"

“There are at least hundreds of them. It’s millions of dollars if you pay them ten thousand dollars each.

“Won’t you feel bad for losing millions of dollars?”

A middle-aged man nearby asked.

“Millions of dollars are nothing...”

The middle-aged man who spoke first mumbled.

However, he also knew millions were nothing to him.

It was probably the same as buying a car.

However, he would be reluctant to spend money like this.

Otherwise, why did most businessmen spend a lot of money on wine and even tens of thousands of dollars for a meal, yet they were unwilling to give their employees a raise?

Therefore, Sean’s method of handling things might seem straightforward, yet few people were this assertive and foresighted.

“Do you believe me when I say we’ll start working in three days and finish in a month?”

Sean slowly turned to look at the group of unit owners.

Many unit owners were speechless.

They thought Billion Trees Real Estate was delaying the workers’ wages, so no one was willing to work for them.

Now that Sean could solve these problems, the building could start construction anytime!

Some clever unit owners had figured things out by now.

No wonder Sean had the nerve to gather all the unit owners.

He just wanted to do these things in front of everyone and settle it once and for all!

Sean's move seemed crazy, but he had absolute control and great confidence.

Where did his confidence come from?

Perhaps it was the endless wealth.

"Mr. Lennon, when will the company pay us?"

A contractor with dozens of workers asked Sean suddenly.

"Yes, yes, yes. When?"

The crowd realized they had forgotten the most important thing in their excitement.

After all, anyone could tell you nice things, but the point was whether you could do it.

Sean could say whatever he wanted. When would they get the money?

After all, money was tangible.

No matter how nicely Sean said it, it was not as straightforward as getting money transferred to you right.

away.

The unit owners looked up at Sean.

After all, the workers would start work only if they got their unpaid wages first.

All Sean had done since the beginning of this event were promises and guarantees.

They had not seen a dime yet.

“Mr. Lennon, we’ve made some money over the years with Billion Trees Real Estate.

“Don’t say we’re adding to the misfortunes of people who are already unfortunate. We know Billion Trees Real Estate has been short of cash lately.

“So, we can give you three days. Is that okay?”

A middle-aged man with a big belly wearing a safety helmet said to Sean.

“Three days?”

Sean slowly turned his head to look at the middle-aged man.

“Three days is our limit. We have no choice if you think it’s not enough, Mr. Lennon.”

The middle-aged man froze slightly before replying with a frown.

“Let me repeat.

“I don’t care what Billion Trees Real Estate was like.

“From the moment I took over, Billion Trees Real Estate has officially changed its name to Lennon Real Estate.

“Billion Trees’ era is over. It’s now Lennon Real Estate.”

Sean said firmly, pointing to the building behind him.

“Mr. Lennon, what’s the point of saying so much?”

“Can we get paid in three days?”

Another contractor asked with a frown.

“Why three days?”

“I’ll pay you right now.”

Everyone was shocked as soon as Sean spoke.

“He’ll pay them right now?”

‘Is Sean kidding them?’”

Clap!

Clap!

Sean clapped his hands in the air.

The crowd followed Sean’s gaze into the distance.

Vroom vroom!

A truck engine roared as it came this way.

The crowd was somewhat dumbfounded. However, they hurriedly moved out of the way to avoid the vehicle.

Soon the car was in front of the building.

“Three days to prepare the money?”

‘Does Mr. Lennon have a lack of money?’”

Zander stepped forward and opened the truck door.

Swoosh!

All eyes looked at it.

Millions of people soon widened their eyes.

It was as if they had seen a ghost.

What did they see?

Money!

Banknotes!

Cash!

Stacks of green cash notes lay quietly in the truck.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette Chapter 1454

Chapter 1454

Whenever it was, cash had a bigger impact than anything else.

You could afford top luxury cars, luxury villas, and luxury brands as long as you had enough money.

Actual cash notes had more impact than bank balances.

Being a multimillionaire did not sound like much at first.

However, how much space would ten million dollars in cash take up?

Nothing could match the visual impact of cold hard cash.

A truckload of cash was sent over after Sean ordered.

Who would not be shocked?

“Gosh. Oh, gosh!”

“Money. There’s so much money. I’ve never seen so much money...”

“There must be millions of dollars here.”

“Millions? Are you kidding me? It’s at least tens of millions of dollars!”

Countless migrant workers discussed in awe.

Some of these people were in their 40s and 50s-middle-aged people who had lived half their lives.

However, they had never seen so much money all at once.

Bundles of ten thousand cash notes per stack laid neatly in the truck.

Even from this distance, everyone seemed to be able to smell the unique smell of cash.

Though money stunk, countless people flocked to it.

The saying that the wages of avarice were death was not groundless.

It was why security was so beefed up now.

In the past, many people would have rushed up to grab it!

Was it not more convenient than robbing a truck full of cash?

“Tell me if Mr. Lennon pleases you.

“Tell me if Mr. Lennon’s capable!”

Zander stepped forward, his tone and expression defiant.

He had also grown into the role. He was no longer a soldier but a simple businessman.

“He’s capable! He’s extremely capable!*

“Yes! He’s amazing! We believe him!”

Countless workers nodded repeatedly.

Everyone was excited as their wages were in front of them.

In the past, Jimmy would have delayed until he could no longer delay it and gave them a little.

Sean reassured many people by bringing so much cash there.

“Distribute the cash! Settle the accounts!”

Sean put his hands behind his back as he commanded loudly.

“Yes!”

Zander and the rest replied immediately.

The financial executive and the project leaders of the former Billion Trees Real Estate came forward.

Zander distributed the wages to the crowd.

“Mr. Ryan Lawson.”

The financial executive read a name.

One contractor rushed forward with excitement.

“You have 30 men under your command. We owe you 428,000 dollars in wages.

“With the compensation Mr. Lennon gave you, that’s 670,000 dollars.

“Check the statement first.”

The officer found a piece of paper and said to Ryan.

Ryan quickly took out the ledger, double-checked it, and took out his phone to do the math again..

“Yes! It’s correct.”

After doing the math, Ryan nodded repeatedly.

Slap!

Zander stepped forward and set up two currency detectors.

“Even though they’re fresh out of the bank, we’ll check them again to avoid some trouble.”

Zander looked at the crowd and explained.

Everyone nodded. It was the best way to avoid further problems.

Swoosh, swoosh, swoosh!

The green cash notes ran through the detectors.

Stacks after stacks of ten thousand dollars ran through them.

Swoosh, swoosh, swoosh!

The sound of the currency detectors whirring was comforting.

*670,000 dollars.”

Zander checked the money, and Ryan double-checked it before putting it in a box with a combination lock.

67 bundles of notes felt heavy.

“Thank you. Thank you.

The contractor named Ryan could not stop thanking them.

The workers in the back were all excited.

You could imagine how excited they were when they finally got the wages they had been asked for so long

“Next, Mr...”

The financial executive was about to call the next contractor.

“Wait.”

Just then, Sean stepped forward and stopped the crowd.

“Yes, Mr. Lennon.”

The employees of the former Billion Trees Real Estate obediently kept their mouths shut.

Ryan, who had just received his money, was about to get in his car and leave.

He was followed by several workers, waiting to settle their accounts once they got back.

“Mr. Lawson, wait a minute.”

Sean looked at Ryan and said again.

“Huh? Mr. Lennon, is there anything else you want?”

Ryan quickly turned to look politely at Sean as he asked.

“Where are you going?”

Sean asked indifferently, looking at Ryan.

“Uh... It’s inconvenient here. I’ll go back and pay them.”

Ryan paused slightly before quickly explaining.

“I think you’d better settle it right here.

“The other contractors can settle the accounts here too. I can testify for you.”

Ryan was instantly stunned when Sean said this.

The expressions of the other contractors changed slightly.

Some of the clever contractors immediately figured out what Sean was up to.

Sometimes, the developer had already paid the project fee. However, the contractors might not pay the worker on time.

The workers would not get paid at the end of the day.

Sean did this not only to avoid future trouble but also to give justice to the workers.

Ultimately, it was to give the workers the money they deserved.

It was for the workers' own good.

With that in mind, many workers were touched.

"Mr. Lennon, thank you!"

Many people, including the unit owners, could not help but exclaim.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette

Chapter 1455

Chapter 1455

"Well..."

Ryan hesitated for two seconds but eventually nodded.

He had other things on his mind.

Although the unpaid wages should be paid in full, he wanted to keep some of the extra two months' pay for himself.

What Sean did ruined his plan.

However, he dared not refuse, so he could only pay the workers on the spot

"Pay all workers on the spot.

"If there's any problem, I'll take care of it."

Sean said indifferently, looking at the crowd.

Clap, clap, clap!

Another round of applause broke out

Sean did things in a way that no one could find fault with him.

The contractors were a little upset at first.

However, they were satisfied once they recalled that they got paid.

"Next, Mr. Gordon.

The company employees and Zander worked together to pay the other workers.

Swoosh, swoosh!

The sound of cash notes passing through the detector was pleasing to the ear

Many workers waited in anticipation.

None of the unit owners left

Though the money was not for them, they enjoyed watching the money being distributed.

As time went by, more and more workers got their money

The originally noisy and agitated place was now harmonious.

The billionaires waiting to see Sean make a fool of himself were now convinced

As the saying went, money was not everything but you could do nothing without money

They said money could not solve all problems, but you could not solve even the simplest problems without money

Sears way was simple he simply spent money

However he handled things in a way no one else could imitate

It was because no one could be as bold as him

You could only do whatever you wanted when you had money!

Meanwhile Johnson » office

|

“Do you understand?”

Johnson asked, touching his forehead and looking at Zane after hearing his subordinate’s report.

“I don’t understand either...”

Zane immediately shook his head.

Neither of them could understand it.

They found what Sean did today simple!

Any businessman could do what Sean did.

Therefore, they felt nothing was laudable about Sean’s way of handling things.

However, they had to admit one thing.

Anyone else might not have been able to do what Sean did.

Therefore, it was what they could not understand.

Why should anyone believe anything Sean said or did?

Everyone was the same. What did he have that the others lacked?

“Did he have a plan? Or is he up to something else?”

“Why am I still confused?”

Johnson took a sip of coffee, his eyes full of shock.

“Mr Dane, I think...

“We don’t need to care what Sean does. We don’t need a process. It’s good enough if we get a result that we’re happy with.

“What do you think?”

Zane whispered as he looked at Johnson.

“That’s true.

“Let’s see what he’s going to do next.”

Johnson nodded gently and said no more.

The Billion Trees Real Estate building entrance.

All the workers were paid in less than an hour.

Those who had been paid were in no rush to leave, and many unit owners were waiting.

“We’ve paid

“Again, I don’t care what the Billion Trees Real Estate was like before.

“Play by my rules after I take over, and you won’t miss a penny of your wages.”

Sean looked at the crowd, and they clapped their hands at hearing Sean’s statement.

“You can rest for two days and resume work the day after tomorrow.

“Any problem with that?”

Sean asked again.

“No problem!”

“Absolutely no problem!”

“I can start any time!”

Countless workers nodded.

These workers’ positions were simple.

They could make money as long as they had work to do.

Earning the money they deserved with their hard work was what they were after

Therefore, they were willing to continue to work for Sean if Sean could pay them their wages on time.

Sean nodded gently before turning to look at the unit owners.

“I didn’t deceive you, did I?”

Sean asked quietly, looking at the crowd.

He said he would get the construction of those buildings underway in three days.

No one believed it at the time.

However, how could they not believe him now that the workers looked so motivated?

Those buildings were at the final stage.

It was not a big problem to complete the delivery in a month.

“Let me repeat.

“Billion Trees Real Estate’s era is over

“Starting today, Billion Trees Real Estate is officially renamed Lennon Real Estate.

“Everything is a new beginning, and all I can promise is everything will be better than before.”

Sean said indifferently, looking at the crowd.

Of course, most people shook their heads at his words.

After all, they were adults and had heard a lot of empty promises.

The key was to see what kind of sincerity you could show.

“Mr. Lennon, you promised us a school district with the building.

“But the higher-ups are replanning these last two years. We don’t have a school district. What do you have to say about that?”

One of the unit owners looked at Sean and said.

Everyone else spoke up too.

“I know’

Sean nodded slowly, pressing his palms down in the air

That random gesture made everyone shut up instantly.

The place fell silent.

It was a level of authority Jimmy could never achieve.

“I checked several buildings yesterday.

“The surrounding education facilities and health services are inconsistent or almost non-existent.

“But I will build hospitals and schools in Lennon Real Estate’s name.

“As Lennon Real Estate’s unit owners, you’ll have what other unit owners have.”

Sean’s last sentence was domineering.

Besides that, there was a convincing aura in his tone.

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette Chapter 1457

Chapter 1457

It was up to the other property companies to decide what they wanted to do.

The company conference room.

Sean sat in the main seat while Zander stood behind him.

On the left and right of the conference table sat dozens of the former Billion Trees Real Estate's employees.

Besides those quitting voluntarily, there were some that Zander had fired.

All that was left in Billion Trees Real Estate was these guys.

Sean kept them around because no one could replace them.

After all, they were longtime employees of Billion Trees Real Estate and were familiar with the company's affairs.

If they were replaced willy-nilly, it would be much harder for the company to get back up and running.

It was because even the most capable people would be confused in an unfamiliar place.

It was why companies asked the resigned employee to hand over their jobs to the new employee before letting them go.

Therefore, he could not replace those in front of him.

At least not for now.

"I'm sure you know that the company needs you.

"If you have any ideas, let me know."

Sean asked, taking a sip of coffee and looking at the crowd.

Solving Billion Trees Real Estate's external problems was not enough.

If it were not properly handled internally, it would also be difficult for them to function.

“Mr. Lennon, we’d like to continue working here.

“Yes, we don’t have any ideas. We only want to continue working here.”

Several company senior executives looked at each other before speaking up.

This society was realistic.

They did not care who was the boss; they only cared if they got paid on time.

No one would have left because of their history with Jimmy.

If that were the case, would Jimmy pay their mortgage and car loan next month?

Therefore, these people were wise.

Even if there were a major change with the company chairman, they would not leave easily.

They would only leave if Sean kicked them out.

“Do you want to stay?”

Sean smiled and asked the crowd.

“Yes! Yes, we do.”

Dozens of senior executives nodded.

“Why?”

Sean asked again, still smiling.

“Uh... Well.”

They did not expect Sean to insist on getting to the bottom of the matter

However, no one dared not skip Sean's question.

"Mr Lennon, we've been here so long that we have feelings for the company

"Besides that, we feel the company has a great future ahead of it.

"With your leadership, our company will grow bigger and stronger

How else could these people become senior executives?

They had silver tongues.

However, they sucked up to the wrong guy today.

"So you're staying here for your prospects or dreams?"

Sean's smile looked playful.

"Yes!"

The crowd froze slightly before nodding.

"Bullsh*t!"

"Don't talk to me about prospects and dreams.

"You work to make money, so let's talk about money."

The crowd was instantly stunned as soon as Sean spoke.

They found Sean different from other bosses who like to draw big pictures for their employees!

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette

Chapter 1458

Chapter 1458

"Mr. Lennon, well... well..."

Dozens of employees were at a loss for words.

The bosses they had had in the past, including Jimmy, had been fond of making empty promises to their employees.

All they talked about was the vast potential for future development and promoting them to senior executives in the future.

Eventually, they did not see any future prospects nor made any money,

Sean was rather straightforward at this point.

He talked about money and not useless stuff.

"What's the matter? Don't you get what I mean?"

Sean asked indifferently, picking up his coffee cup. 21

"Mr. Lennon, we'd like to hear what you have in mind first..."

A young man in glasses said warily after a gentle cough.

"It means I don't need you to talk about your ideals and ambitions if you work for me.

"Do what I want to do well, and I'll give you the money you want. That's all you need to do."

Everyone felt better as soon as Sean said that.

Everyone worked to make money to support the family.

These people were workplace veterans to be senior executives.

Perhaps workplace rookies would believe the empty promises the businessmen made, but workplace veterans like them would not believe them.

They thought that with Sean newly in charge, he would give them a good kicking.

Or he would fire some people on the spot to intimidate others.

Therefore, they were ready to hear Sean talk nonsense.

They were all thinking of not taking whatever Sean said passionately to heart.

Which one of these people was not older than Sean and had not been around as long as Sean?

They could pretty much guess what Sean wanted to say.

However, they realized they were wrong about Sean.

Sean did not give them any pep talks or words of encouragement.

Talking about money was the biggest encouragement.

“Every entry-level employee gets a 20% raise.

“Anyone above supervisor and below manager level gets a 30% raise.

“Any senior executive above manager level gets a 50% raise.”

Sean said casually, looking at the crowd.

“Hsss!”

The crowd was instantly dumbfounded when they heard this.

Everyone present was a senior executive above the supervisor level!

Even the lowest level employee could get a 30% raise.

It was a direct one-third increase in wages.

“Thank you, Mr. Lennon!”

Everyone instantly got on their feet and excitedly thanked him.

Getting a pay rise was something that could make anyone feel better instantly.

It was more effective than an hour of pep talk from Sean.

“The original company benefits will be doubled.

“Besides that, a quarterly dividend and annual dividend will be paid out according to your performance appraisal.

“In conclusion, I have no lack of money. It’s up to you to earn it.”

Sean looked at the crowd and said again.

“Thank you, Mr. Lennon! Thank you, Mr. Lennon!”

“We’ll work hard!”

The crowd got more excited by the news.

Everyone believed Sean when he said he had no lack of money.

The image of Sean pulling a truckload of cash outside was still fresh in their minds.

Anyway, he was a wealthy boss!

“But there are some things I must say up front.”

Sean tapped on the table, and everyone fell silent instantly.

All eyes focused on Sean, waiting for him to speak.

“Here in my place, the capable ones would be promoted while the incompetent ones would be eliminated.

“If you’re incompetent, you won’t even have a chance to be an entry-level employee.”

Sean’s words were a wake-up call to everyone.

He had money, but that did not mean he was a fool. He was not a wealthy fool.

He could afford to pay generous wages.

However, they had to get things done after getting paid.

They had to think it over if they could not do it well.

With Sean paying that much, there was no shortage of talent.

Therefore, they all nodded repeatedly, not daring to be dissatisfied or make any refutations.

“Mr. Lennon, don’t worry. We will work hard to live up to your expectations.”

“Yes, we will make the company stronger.”

The crowd remained standing as they assured Sean earnestly.

“Good.

“Any other questions?”

Sean asked, nodding gently and looking at the crowd.

“Mr. Lennon, we don’t have any more questions.

“We’re at your disposal.”

The crowd shook their heads before looking at Sean and saying.

“Complete the handover of all work related to Billion Trees Real Estate and Lennon Real Estate’s merger in these two days.

“I want the company to get back on track in two days.

“In three days, everything must return to normal while the projects begin.”

Sean looked at the crowd and said what he wanted.

“No problem, Mr. Lennon.”

“We promise to finish the job.”

Dozens of people thumped their chests.

The Guardian’s Sword By Talking Cigarette Chapter 1459

As the saying went, generous rewards roused one to step forward. The saying was universal at all times.

These employees were out there to make money. Sean's payment satisfied them. How could they not work hard?

These expenses were nothing to Sean.

Money was only a tool to him.

Anything you could solve with money was not a problem at all.

Sean would not hesitate when he could use money to motivate people to work hard.

"Get to work."

Sean waved his hand slightly to beckon the crowd to disperse.

"Yes!"

The crowd immediately nodded and left the meeting room.

Today's meeting was the first senior executive meeting held after Sean took over Billion Trees Real Estate.

Sean did not say a single inspiring word during the meeting.

There was also no talk of ambition or future plans.

However, the senior executives were motivated when walking out of the room.

With all employees having such a working attitude, did they have to worry about the company's development?

Conference room.

Sean opened a file and looked at it carefully.

Sean had solved Billion Trees Real Estate's problems.

However, it was bound to take some time for such a large company to complete all the handovers.

Sean had a lot to do either way.

Zander could be trusted, but he could not understand these company documents.

He was confused with various technical terms either.

Therefore, Sean could only look through them and make arrangements for him.

Zander was still confused with a lot of what Sean did.

He was even tempted to ask questions sometimes.

However, Zander had learned to avoid asking questions he could not understand.

It was enough that he knew it was all part of Sean's plan. "Commander, I didn't expect us to settle things so smoothly." Zander could not help feeling a little emotional at this point.

After Sean took over Billion Trees Real Estate, no one thought much of him.

Many people were waiting for Sean to give up.

However, many people probably could not help being dumbstruck.

"It wouldn't have been hard."

Sean replied, shaking his head slightly.

The most serious and difficult problem that Billion Trees Real Estate faced was with the government.

It was the same for any company.

Things like unit owners making a scene or employees asking for pay could be negotiated and settled. However, corporate taxes and other legal issues did not even have a chance to be negotiated.

What Billion Trees Real Estate had done was unforgivable.

Therefore, the most difficult problem Billion Trees Real Estate faced was with the government.

However, Johnson provided Sean with a lot of special treatment to get Joules Town's business circle back on track as soon as possible.

He even exempted the late penalty for the taxes they had owed for a long time.

1.

They had Johnson backing them up with the government.

The problems outside were nothing, of course.

"But I still think we settled too quickly and easily."

Zander nodded gently. It came from his heart.

He thought it would take Sean a few days to sort everything out.

After all, Billion Trees Real Estate troubled countless big shots of the business circle.

However, it was ridiculously easy for Sean.

“Outsiders might think we handled it quickly and easily.

“Don’t you know how much work we’ve done to prepare for this day?”

Sean shook his head slightly. It was so easy today because he had been preparing for it for a while.

He had secretly planned for so long that the outcome of the matter was already predestined.

Today was only a formality, which was why it seemed so easy.

“That’s... That’s true...”

Zander paused for two seconds before quickly nodding.

Zander, Jeffrey, and the rest knew how much effort Sean had put in.

Sean had done a lot of planning and preparation before today.

Therefore, they achieved today’s result without effort.

Zander could not help but wonder that Sean would not be able to meet Johnson through Zane if Sean had not met Zane first.

Sean would not be able to do everything today without Johnson backing him in the government.

It was unrealistic even for Billion Trees Real Estate to tear off the seal and reopen.

In a word, being prepared would keep you safe.

Sean had it easy today because of his preparation a while ago.

“Make an appointment with Mr. Dane for me this afternoon.

“I must remind him of his promise before he forgets.”

Sean said quietly as he closed the file in his hand.

“Yes!”

Zander nodded and responded immediately.

The Guardian's Sword By Talking Cigarette

Chapter 1460

Chapter 1460

Joules Town's business circle.

The turmoil of the past few days over Billion Trees Real Estate had finally ended.

Sean handled things beautifully and swiftly.

No one expected it.

You could predict Lennon Real Estate would grow stronger after acquiring Billion Trees!

With Zane and Johnson's help, Lennon Real Estate was poised to peak in Joules Town's real estate industry.

Even the summit of Joules Town's business circle was within reach.

The entire Joules Town business circle would also be greatly affected by Lennon Real Estate.

In particular, those real estate companies were now a little restless.

If Sean were only a normal young man, it would not have bothered them.

However, they understood how powerful Sean was.

He had a lot of money, connections, and talent.

Who would make an enemy of such a person?

Therefore, many company owners could not help but begin plotting.

After much plotting, they finally understood one thing.

Their only option now was to suck up to Lennon Real Estate and be friends with Sean.

As the saying went, having powerful friends made things easier.

They had no choice but to succumb to Lennon Real Estate's onslaught.

Even if they were brave enough to take on Lennon Real Estate, they would have to decide if they were capable of it.

These big shots were no fools to make their companies so big.

They had two choices before them.

Firstly, attach themselves to Lennon Real Estate, which would result in a great loss of profit.

After all, Lennon Real Estate would have a big chunk of the profit while they had bits and pieces after they succumbed to Lennon Real Estate.

Secondly, going up against Lennon Real Estate.

It would protect their interests in the short term.

However, they could not even hold on to their existing profit once Lennon Real Estate brought them down.

The second option was far too risky.

Not even the boldest business mogul would do so.

Therefore, many people could only give in after thinking it through.

The news of Joules Town's business circle also reached the Collins family of Joules Town.

At this point.

Collins Residence, Old Master Collins' room.

"No! I still can't believe he solved it so easily."

William shook his head and said after a long silence.

"Old Master, he solved it easily..."

Hubert said with a sigh, speechless.

"He easily solved it by bringing over some cash and making payouts and promises?"

"Are the unit owners that easy to please?"

William shook his head, still unconvinced.

"Old Master, I get it now.

"We complicated things.

"Sean saw the root of the problem."

Hubert shook his head slightly. It was indeed easy.

3

However, they and those business tycoons were scheming.

They found even the simplest things complicated.

“What’s going on with this boy?”

“Why is everything so easy for him?”

“Or has he taken control and prepared everything from the start?”

William had not taken Sean seriously until today.

He was surprised by what Sean had done but did not think much of it.

He did not even find the incident this time a big deal.