

Chapter 580 Real Strength

Cannon's bodyguards were even more surprised by Liam's strength.

Just now, when their hands collided, the bodyguards' hands kind of went numb for a moment.

They never expected to find someone so powerful in Salem.

Yes, these two bodyguards were quite confident in their abilities.

They were both members of the Black Spiders but they were not a part of the dark team. They belonged to the black team which was superior to the dark team. They were known as Dark Fiend and Black Fiend.

Alone, they were very powerful. But when they joined forces and worked together, their strength was explosive.

The only reason Rennes sent out Cannon without any worry was that he was certain that Dark Fiend and Black Fiend would keep him safe.

Considering how powerful they were, acting as babysitters for an insane young man like Cannon who always looked for trouble was far beneath them.

However, as a direct descendant of the Duncan family, Cannon was favoured by his family who gave him everything he needed.

Dark Fiend who had just felt Liam's strength looked at his partner, Black fiend with meaning in his eyes. The latter instantly understood.

Seeing as Liam seemed to be very powerful, they couldn't hold back their strength like they had been doing with the others.

They made up their minds together and decided to work together, giving the best of themselves to get rid of Liam.

In less than a second, Liam and the two bodyguards went for each other again.

The power of their fists and punches created a strong movement of wind. Even if they missed, the energy they put into the attacks would still affect the surroundings. The two bodyguards worked together like they did everyday. When one threw a punch, the other would immediately do the same, unwilling to give Liam any advantage.

In one move, Liam opened his palm and neutralized the fists that came at him. As the hands collided, the wind that came out of the movement broke many tables and chairs in the dungeon. In no time, they were fighting in every corner of the dungeon.

Everyone hid before looking on. They knew that they had no place in that ring. Anyone who risked getting involved in the battle between the three men was instantly thrown away by the wind that came off of their blows.

After fighting for a while, Liam frowned.

These two men really were strong. They were really extraordinary. Maybe holding back his full potential was the wrong move.

Liam didn't have time to waste fighting. In one second he made up his mind.

Since the fight began, he had only used thirty percent of his strength. Since it wasn't enough to take them down, he would bring his self out and show these men just why he was called King.

Just then, a frighteningly powerful aura spread around him.

As professional killers themselves, Dark Fiend and Black Fiend felt the change in Liam and understood what it meant.

Dark Fiend was shocked. He realized that Liam wasn't using his full strength just now. "Let's retreat!" he shouted, but it was too late.

Liam had already engaged, and now, they couldn't escape.

Liam squinted and threw a decisive punch.

The great force of it sent the dungeon shaking for a moment.

The two bodyguards couldn't resist this one. It sent them flying dozens of meters away. They fell hard on the hard floor and spat out black blood. The punch and the fall had definitely caused some serious internal injuries.

Black Fiend held his chest and hissed, "Damn it! He's too strong. Mr. Duncan, you should get out of here."

That one blow of Liam's had given them an estimation of the huge gap between them and Liam.

As Cannon's security detail, they had to make sure Cannon got out of there as soon as possible. Rennes' order had been very clear. They were to protect Cannon, and if something happened to him under their guard, their end would be worse than death.

Cannon was crazy and weird, but he wasn't stupid. He was a member of the Duncan family. He noticed that something was wrong with the fight. Staying here would be a fatal mistake.

So, he listened to Black Fiend and decided to leave this place with his bodyguards protecting him.
