

The Wolf's Bride by Coffee's Tea Novel Online

Chapter 954

After hanging up the phone, Andrius found himself walking on the street. Sumeria was developing rapidly.

This was where the Wolf King used to stay, and with top-ranked medical experts like Luna here, it attracted countless talents and investments, making it a thriving city.

Andrius was content upon seeing this.

If every city in Florence could develop like this, there would be no worries about the prosperity of the people.

Screech-

Just as Andrius was lost in thought, a BMW pulled up beside him.

Then, a clear, and surprised voice reached his ears. "Mr. Wolf King, you're here!"

The car window rolled down, revealing a young girl with bright eyes and shiny teeth.

It was Lyra.

"Lyra, what a coincidence!" Andrius did not expect to meet Lyra here and asked casually, "Where are you headed?"

Lyra smiled sweetly and said, "Grandpa asked me to deliver some medicine to the martyrs' families. Why don't you come with me?"

Lyra knew that Andrius cared about the soldiers the most, so a bright idea suddenly struck her, and she invited him along.

Andrius thought about it and agreed since he had nothing else to do.

"Sure."

He got into the passenger seat.

Unbeknownst to them, Luna in her Ferrari behind them saw everything clearly.

"Lyra Artemis..."

Luna stared at the departing BMW. Her fair and slender fingers gripped the steering wheel so tightly that her knuckles turned white. Jealousy could make a person turn ugly. Even Luna, due to the waves of jealousy, could not regain her composure.

It was not like this several months ago.

Lyra always called Andrius Mr. Wolf King, or Mr. Doctor

What an affectionate nickname!

Was their relationship just pure?

Luna did not believe it!

If Andrius got tempted one day, then Lyra would become her love rival!

Luna suddenly remembered a detail. During the celebration banquet, Halle had asked her if she would look youthful and charming in a schoolgirl outfit. That day, Lyra had been wearing an outfit similar to a schoolgirl uniform!

Chipt

She also remembered that Andrius was hiding in the crowd at that time, and Halle had already taken an interest in him.

Luna seemed to connect the dots.

Halle must have asked her that question because she saw Andrius chatting happily with Lyra, who was in a schoolgirl outfit.

With that, Luna came to a bold conclusion.

Could that be Andrius' type?

Luna's thoughts began to drift further away. Then, she remembered what Roxy and the other members of the Crestfalls told her.

A moment later, she snapped out of her thoughts and vowed, "In any case, Andrius, from today onward. I'll not only improve my appearance but also my capabilities. I'll shine in front of you so you have no choice but to look at me in a different light!"

Then, she called her secretary. "Send word down to allow New Moon Corporation to purchase medicinal herbs classified as rare without limitations on quantity and type."

"Yes, Ms. Crestfall!"
