

The Wolf's Bride by Coffee's Tea Novel Online Free -

Chapter 1056

"Yes," Sergius said firmly.

"Good!" Andrius nodded and did not say more. He turned to the first pregnant woman and said, "Please hold out your hand."

The pregnant woman held out her hand.

Five seconds later, Andrius said, "It's a girl."

"Next, please."

"It's a girl."

"Next, please."

"It's a boy."

In less than ten minutes, Andrius finished testing the ten pregnant women and correctly identified the gender of all their fetuses.

At that point, the official doctors working in the Royal Hospital still had not figured out the gender of the first pregnant woman. Everyone had to wait for the official results.

Fortunately, over ten official physicians were conducting the tests at the same time, so it did not take too long.

However, the other group of doctors started barking again.

"Damn, he's such a good actor. He should win an award."

"If he gets them all right..."

Although Andrius was concealing his identity, that did not mean he had a good temper. He shot an icy glare at the doctors.

It was as if they saw a demon god sitting on his throat, overlooking the earth.

The doctors immediately shut their mouths, sweating nervously.

"The results are out."

Sergius frowned slightly and asked, "What is it?"

+15 BONUS

Jared glanced at Andrius, smirked, and said, "That doctor seems to be from Florence. I want to challenge him with my weakness. I'll use my weakest technique to challenge a Florencian doctor's technique."

Sergius looked at Andrius. When Andrius did not speak, he asked, "What do you think?"

"It's simple." Jared snapped his fingers and showed a smug smile. "Silver needles can save people, but they can also kill. I want to challenge him and see who has the more lethal silver needles!”

Andrius had already humiliated so many Bardan doctors in the Royal Hospital today. As a Bardan doctor himself, Jared wanted to reclaim their dignity. He would not kill Andrius with his silver needles, but he wanted to teach Andrius a lesson!

“I have no objections,” Andrius responded calmly.

He initially did not want to bully that little troublemaker, but since the guy was practically sticking his face in front of Andrius was a slap, Andrius could not just let him go without a couple of smacks.

“Well...” Sergius hesitated and did not make a decision immediately.

“Don’t worry, Director. I won’t kill him.” Jared said arrogantly, “After all, he’s a guest from Florence. I won’t go too far.”

He spoke as if his victory was assured, and he could easily trump over Andrius.

Chapter 1057

Andrius merely smiled.

Sergius consulted the doctors from the Royal Hospital to discuss the feasibility of this challenge and finally agreed.

“Since both parties are willing, we’ll proceed with the rules you suggested. However, I hope both of you will maintain a sense of honor and not let things get out of hand,” Sergius gave a solemn reminder to both participants before the match began.

Jared said, “Rest assured, Director. I’ll hold back during the critical moment.”

Then, he and Andrius entered a room specially cleared for the competition.

Many doctors chose to stay and watch. They wanted to see Andrius being defeated by a local doctor.

“Watch closely, boy.” Jared took out a silver needle which was curved slightly, and said mysteriously, “This needle is called the ‘hunter’s needle’. It’s made using mystical metal, and there’s a total of thirty–six of them.

“Over the decade, I’ve used these needles to save people and root out evil. These needles do not break or bend. Be careful!”

Jared finished bragging and said overbearingly, “Boy, aren’t you going to introduce the silver needles in your hands? My needles never lose to no–names!”

This made Andrius laugh. He picked up several silver needles and said,

“These are just ordinary silver needles, but they’re enough for you.”

After learning Hades' Axiom, Andrius' understanding of acupuncture had reached an unprecedented level. Even an ordinary needle possessed incredible power, especially when infused with inner energy..

Beating Jared would be like taking candy from a baby.

"You're quite arrogant." Jared grinned. "Very well. I'll teach you a lesson and make you understand what it means when people say there will always be someone better than you out there!"

With that, he shot the thirty–six needles out simultaneously.

The silver lights flashed, and the needles moved in various directions, targeting specific acupoints on Andrius' body such as the Shanzhong and Shencang points.

The needles shone like silver dragons, displaying an impressive aura.

My name is Jared Kirk! Boy, you can be proud of losing to me. You can brag about this when you go back home!" Jared acted proudly after releasing the needles, his nose up in the air.

As soon as he finished speaking...

Clang!

Cling, cling, cling.

Thwack!

Ting, ting, ting!

A series of clear sounds and occasional sparks immediately attracted everyone's attention.

Jared also looked over.

The moment he did, his soul left his body.

Andrius casually used five needles and destroyed all of Jared's 'hunter's needles', turning them into scrap metal on the ground.

After destroying all thirty–six needles, Andrius' five needles remained unstoppable and shot straight toward Jared.

"Ahhhh!" Jared screamed in fright.

Thud, thud, thud!

The next instant, the five needles pinned Jared's few remaining hairs to the wall behind him but did not break a single strand!

Such strength and control were simply astounding.

Splash...

A splash of yellow liquid soaked Jared's pants, soon forming a small puddle and releasing a foul smell.

He had pissed himself in fright!

Andrius remained unfazed after winning against this opponent. He returned to the director and the other doctors from the Royal Hospital who were watching in shock and said, "The match is over. Take me to the princess."

"R-right..." Sergius snapped back to reality and quickly said, "I declare that the doctor from Florence has

Chapter 1059

"Your Highness, everyone makes mistakes. Even the Wolf King, if not vigilant at times, might fall victim to a situation that could temporarily affect his bodily functions. Not conceiving is normal."

Although Andrius explained it very clearly, Anna was still skeptical. "How are you so sure? What if..."

"There's no 'if'."

Since she still did not believe him, he stopped changing his voice and pulled down his mask.

When Anna saw the face she had been longing for, a myriad of emotions flashed in her beautiful eyes.

She went from being shocked, to happy, and then to bashful. Blushing petals bloomed on her cheeks, making her look incredibly enchanting.

"W-Wolf King..." Anna stammered shyly, not daring to look at him. "Y-you mustn't jump to conclusions. I... I did this for my own health, s-so..."

Andrius was speechless.

There was no need for him to jump to conclusions when she had already confessed to everything.

There was nothing Andrius could do in situations like these. He was too exceptional. Thus, he had to constantly guard against potential threats, whether in the form of enemies or women trying to take his seed.

It was tough being a man.

Men had to protect themselves when they went out.

"Wolf King..." Anna took a deep breath and regained her composure, asking with delight, "It's been a few months. How have you been?"

"I've heard about your accomplishments. With the strength of the Western Warzone, you outshone the East, North, and Central Warzones of Florence. Then, you marched your troops eastward into Kiyoto to protect the emperor!

“You’re truly a god incarnate. You’re invincible!”

Andrius smiled wryly.

While those deeds might sound heroic and glorious, it was merely an internal conflict within Florence.

Regardless of whether he won or lost, it was the people of Florence who suffered.

Andrius did not consider such situations a victory.

+15 BONUS

After chatting for a while, Anna asked gently, “Wolf King, why have you come to Bardan all of a sudden, and in such a manner? Did you encounter some difficulty?”

As the princess of Bardan, Anna was indeed quite smart.

“It’s not really a difficult matter. I came to Bardan this time because I needed to visit the western foothills of Mount Valdez. Due to various reasons, I can’t openly appear here as the Wolf King. That’s why I’m here”

Andrius explained briefly, saying, “In addition, I would like to request some resources and assistance from Bardan.”

“No problem!” Anna immediately agreed and said, “Come with me to meet my father. I’ll have him make the arrangements for you.”

“Sure.”

Andrius followed Anna out of her chambers and put his mask back on.

Anna warned everyone present, “By the way, no one is to divulge any information about the Wolf King, or they will be charged with treason!”

“Yes!” The servants all obeyed her.

In the king’s hall, Anna said excitedly after sending all the attendants away, “Father, look who I’ve brought.”

Laurent was slightly stunned and looked at Andrius, who then removed his mask.

Chapter 1060

“Wolf King!” Laurent was extremely excited. “It’s been several months since we met. Have you been well?”

“I’ve been doing fine.” After exchanging a few pleasantries, Andrius got straight to the point. “Your Majesty, I’ve come to Bardan because I need your assistance.”

Then, Andrius told them the purpose of his visit.

“No problem!” Laurent immediately thumped his chest and said, “Please wait a moment, Wolf King. I’ll choose three hundred brave soldiers to accompany you to the western foothills of Mount Valdez.”

“No need for three hundred.” Andrius said with some embarrassment, “Fifty elite soldiers will suffice.”

Three hundred soldiers would be too conspicuous. Mount Valdez was exceptionally mystical. It was very easy to become lost in it without a guide. Even a martial realm expert would be in danger.

Andrius would not have come to Bardan if not for that reason.

“Very well.”

Laurent immediately made the arrangements.

A moment later, he returned with fifty Bardan soldiers, each of them robust and outstanding. They were all the cream of the crop.

“From now on, you will accompany the Wolf King to the western foothills of Mount Valdez. His orders are my orders. You must carry them out diligently without hesitation, even if he asks you to part with your heads. Understand?”

“Yes!” The soldiers all acknowledged.

Laurent smiled at Andrius. “Wolf King, time is of the essence. Let’s depart right away.”

Andrius had the same thoughts and immediately agreed.

Thus, Laurent and Anna escorted Andrius to the base of Mount Valdez.

“Your Majesty, Your Highness.” Andrius said sincerely, “I’ll remember what you’ve done for me this time. If you need anything in the future, the Western Warzone won’t turn a blind eye. It’s best if you leave now.”

With that, Laurent glanced at Anna.

Andrius went up to Andrius, glanced at him shyly, and suddenly stood on her tiptoes to peck him on the lips. Then, she scurried away like a startled rabbit.

entire process happened so quickly that Andrius could not react.

When he snapped back to his senses, Anna was already far away.

He smiled wryly and instructed the guide and the soldiers, “Let’s go!”

+15 BONUS

Mount Valdez was often referred to as the 'number one divine mountain' in the world. It was vast and grand. Its peak rose high above, shrouded in boundless clouds and mist all year, making it difficult to discern its true appearance and explore it.

The mountain was often accompanied by the cries of cranes and the roars of dragons, giving it an air of mystery.

Andrius stared at the divine mountain, feeling awe and reverence.

The guide, Koby Glover, had planned the route. After considering the weather forecast and local conditions, he reported to Andrius, "Wolf King, if we follow the established route, we should reach the western foothills of Mount Valdez within two days."

Two days...

That would be too late.

Andrius frowned and asked, "Is there a faster route? I'm in a hurry and need to reach there by this evening."

"This evening..." Koby hesitated before saying, "There's a faster route, but it's extremely dangerous and is usually avoided. That's because there's a large pack of snow wolves near this route. They're fierce, relentless, and cunning, so it's highly discouraged to use this path. It's too risky."

Andrius did not heed the advice.

"It's fine."

He listened to the guide's words and gave the order. "We'll take the shorter route!"