The Mans Decree Novel Chapter 941 - 950

Chapter 941 How Do You Do

"That's good news. The Department of Justice will be honored to have Mr. Sanders' presence." Theodore could hardly contain his excitement.

Sitting next to them, Kai was in bewilderment because he didn't know who Mr. Sanders was.

Nevertheless, Kai knew that the mysterious person was a big shot. After all, even Jermaine, a high-ranking official, addressed the person with his surname.

Kai and Theodore didn't stay at Jermaine's residence for a long time, for they had to return to the Department of Justice to prepare for the banquet later.

"General Jackson, who is this Mr. Sanders that you mentioned just now?" Kai asked Theodore in the car.

Although Theodore was driving, he still glance around cautiously before whispering to Kai, "Mr. Chance, do you remember I used to tell you that there is a secret department in Jadeborough?"

"Yes, I do remember. You said it's a government department tasked with limiting the power and influence of the martial arts world," Kai nodded and replied.

"You're right. Mr. Sanders is the officer who liaises with the outside world. Nonetheless, I'm not sure about his exact position in the department. Anyway, if Mr. Sanders can vouch for you, I believe the entire martial arts world of Jadeborough will not dare to lay a finger on you!"

Kai was a little ruffled upon listening to Theodore. Although Kai's power had increased drastically and became the rising star among the young masters, he was merely a nobody compared to the entire martial arts world.

What does the secret department do? How strong are the officers in it?

While Kai's mind was flooded with curiosity, he knew that he could come into contact with more influential people only when he got stronger.

Knowing that Mr. Sanders would be attending the banquet, Theodore diligently decorated the hall as soon as they returned to the Department of Justice.

When it was nearly noontime, some guests arrived at the Department of Justice. Although their cars weren't luxurious, all the guests were prominent figures.

Representing the host today, Kai and Theodore stood at the entrance to welcome the guests. Given that the guest list was decided by the higher-ups, even Theodore didn't know who would be coming.

Soon, Kai spotted a familiar figure.

It was none other than Kristoff, whose arm was cut off by Kai. After hopping out, Kristoff opened the car door for Wrea and Steinar.

Meanwhile, Theodore and Kai were startled when they saw the Shalvis family.

"Kai, how do you do?"

Kai was surprised when he sensed that Kristoff had become a Martial Arts Grandmaster. Although Kristoff had only returned from Dragon Island for roughly a month, he had successfully elevated his status from a Top Level Senior Grandmaster to a Martial Arts Grandmaster. Hence, Kai couldn't help but inwardly commend Kristoff's talent.

“Killing Ichiro is a testimony to your strength. However, I’ll take revenge on you for cutting off my arm, no matter how strong you are.” Kristoff leaned closer toward Kai and provoked him.

Unperturbed, Kai looked at Kristoff calmly.

Worrying that a conflict would ensue between Kai and Kristoff, Theodore quickly stood between them and said to Kristoff, “Mr. Shalvis, please come in if you’re here to attend the banquet. If you’re here to look for trouble, I’m afraid you’ve picked the wrong day.”

“Theodore, we’re here to attend the banquet, of course. Besides, I’m afraid you don’t have the right to chase us away,” Wrea sneered.

“Well, please come in!” With that, Theodore gestured for them to enter the hall.

Steinar waved his hand and said, “Let’s go in!”

Upon hearing Steinar’s instruction, Kristoff and Wrea stopped provoking Kai and entered the Department of Justice.

“Dad, the Warriors Alliance won’t protect Kai after the banquet is over. Please take revenge on him for me afterward,” Kristoff whispered to Steinar.

Meanwhile, Theodore looked at Kai and advised him, “Mr. Chance, no matter who wants to look for trouble today, you have to be patient. Otherwise, you might leave a bad impression on Mr. Sanders, and all of our efforts will go down the drain.”

Kai nodded in response. "I get it."

Soon, more guests from prominent families in the martial arts world arrived at the venue.

Knowing that it was immensely difficult to invite the prominent figures, Theodore couldn't help but feel shocked.

Kai asked curiously, "What a surprise! Who invited you?"

Leviathan responded, "We're here because the Warriors Alliance has informed us about the banquet. However, I have no idea who sent the invitation."

Kai was lost for words; then, before he said, "Please go in!"

After Leviathan and Colin entered the hall, Theodore turned to Kai and said, "Mr. Chance, the banquet is going to be interesting. I think those from the martial arts world attend the banquet to flatter Mr. Sanders."

Kai felt increasingly curious about Mr. Sanders upon listening to Theodore.

As more guests had arrived, Theodore anxiously glanced at his watch from time to time, for he couldn't wait to see Mr. Sanders.

When a limousine stopped at the entrance, Theodore went up to it hastily to greet the guest.

However, after the door was opened, Theodore realized that the guest was Warren, the director of the Warriors Alliance.

Warren got down from the limousine but ignored Theodore's presence. Instead, he courteously invited an elder in a white robe to get down.

The elder had a pair of lustrous eyes and exuded an imposing aura, even though he was aged.

Facing the elder, Kai and Theodore felt that the atmosphere became tense.

“Is this Kai Chance, the one who killed Ichiro?” He then pointed at Kai and asked.

“Yes, he’s Kai!”

“President Zeigler, it’s an honor to meet you.” Kai nodded and greeted Zion.

Zion murmured a response and entered the Department of Justice with Warren.

When Zion wanted to enter the hall, a car suddenly stopped at the entrance. The next moment, a man hopped out and greeted, “President Zeigler, what a coincidence.”

“Mr. Deragon, I didn’t expect that you’re also late.” Zion grinned as soon as he saw Ryker.

It was their first time seeing each other up close.

Nevertheless, Ryker shifted his glance away from Kai a few seconds later. Then, he entered the Department of Justice with Zion while chatting with him.

“Mr. Chance, what’s the matter with you?”

Theodore, who was standing beside Kai, could sense the subtle, albeit unmistakable, murderous aura off Kai and posed the question.

“Nothing!” Kai snapped and shook his head.

Theodore did not egg Kai on, seeing as the man was reluctant to talk about it.

After some time, Mr. Sanders was still nowhere to be seen even after Jermaine had arrived. In the end, Theodore and Kai could only get inside first.

The hall of the Department of Justice was fully occupied with formidable people. Some of them were conversing with each other, while some were just resting with their eyes closed.

Among the people, Kai had spotted some familiar faces. Blake Henckle the graverobber and Kenneth Carrall from Thunderstorm Sect were also there. However, Kai did not know whether they followed their families there, or they were there upon his invitation.

However, the Baileys and the Coopers were nowhere to be seen, whether it was Samuel or Sean. Kai reckoned that maybe they were deemed unqualified to be present.

After about half an hour later, the bustling hall quieted down. A middle-aged man made his way inside, followed by four men in uniforms.

The middle-aged man exuded an intimidating aura and no one dared to look directly into his eyes. Instead, everyone shot up from their seats upon catching sight of the man.

Meanwhile, Kai widened his eyes in shock when spotted the middle-aged man.

It was not that Kai did not recognize the man. Rather, Kai knew the four men in uniforms behind the man.

He met the four men during his first meeting with Rayleigh back at Kai. After Rayleigh saved him, the four men made their appearance, and Captain Xenos was one of them.

After witnessing the four men's prowess, he revered them. Hence, he was startled by the fact that the four men were practically only the middle-aged man's bodyguards.

"Mr. Sanders..." everyone addressed him as such.

"Haha, sorry for being late. I had something to tend to..."

Mr. Sanders waved his hands and let out a chuckle, signaling for everyone else to take their seats.

"Mr. Chance, he's Mr. Sanders whom I talked about. He's representing that secret department," Theodore whispered to Kai.

Kai nodded. He needed no introduction from Theodore as the man naturally commanded respect from the crowd.

The four men behind Mr. Sanders were already formidable opponents to many in the hall.

The celebratory ceremony commenced. Mr. Sanders took out his drafted speech and started to recite it. Even though nobody was truly interested, everyone still kept quiet and listened.

After some pleasantries, Mr. Sanders shot a brief glance at Kai and smiled slightly. "We have Kai Chance to thank for our spectacular success in the international competition this time, especially the killing of the impudent Ichiro Watanabe. The martial arts world should learn to be the bigger man and prioritize national matters, much like Kai," he said.

"I know that established martial arts families like all of you here do not like the idea of being restricted after becoming part of the government. I will not force you guys either, seeing as everyone is entitled to their own pursuits in life. However, I wish that the martial arts world would stop the killing over the fight for resources. I heard that many established families are hunting down Kai because of a single vial of draconic essence. Don't you guys get enough resources from the Trial that we organize every year for the martial arts world? Since Kai has joined the Department of Justice, he is already one of the officials. I believe that all present here should be well aware of the repercussions that come with the murder of Kai."

Mr. Sanders' remarks sent waves of murmurs and whispers among the crowd.

Ryker's face darkened. He had not expected that Kai would be able to join the Department of Justice, much less garnering the attention of Mr. Sanders to support him.

The Shalvis family was startled as well. Just when Kristoff was thinking of seeking revenge on Kai, Mr. Sanders had given out a warning to all of them. How could the Shalvis family take out on Kai then?

The Mans Decree Novel Chapter 944

Chapter 944 Revenge

"Mr. Sanders, do you mean that Kai could take out on others as he sees fit, but we cannot kill him?" Kristoff, who had lost an arm, stood up and demanded.

Everyone turned their attention to him as he made his remark, shooting confounded looks in his direction.

"Who is this young man? How dare he question Mr. Sanders?"

"I think he's from the Shalvis family. I bet the Shalvis family is going to be finished."

"What an inexperienced fool!"

Everyone chattered among themselves.

Steinar was shell-shocked that he broke out in cold sweat.

"You fool! Sit down right now!" Steinar slapped Kristoff across his face and hurriedly turned to Mr. Sanders and said, "I apologize for his impudence, Mr. Sanders. Please do not get angry."

"Don't worry about it, Mr. Shalvis. Please let your son finish. I see that he is already a Martial Arts Grandmaster at such a young age. What a remarkable talent!"

Mr. Sanders was not infuriated but smiled instead.

Just when Steinar was about to say something, Kai interrupted and said, "Mr. Sanders, Kai cut off one of my arms. I cannot let him off the hook. How are you going to appease the martial arts world when you favor him so?"

"Bstrd!" Steinar bellowed as he shook with fury. He slapped Kristoff across his face yet again.

"Stop!" Mr. Sanders' face darkened slightly. With a wave of his hand, Steinar's body leaned back slightly as he was sent back to his seat.

Steinar was a Level Seven Martial Arts Grandmaster, and it was a piece of cake for him to break apart mountains and stones, as well as move freely in the air. However, he was sent back to his seat like an insignificant fly with just a light wave of Mr. Sanders' hand.

Kai was floored at the sight. It seems like cultivation is truly a lifelong practice after all. I need to be strong myself to earn the respect of others.

Kai had never longed for power and strength more than he did at that moment.

"Do you take me for nothing if you wish to take him out right in front of me?" Mr. Sanders said impassively.

"Of course not, Mr. Sanders," Steinar said as he wiped the cold sweat that broke out on his forehead.

"I... I am not displeased about anything else!"

Kristoff shook his head in regret. He knew he acted rashly when he stood up and questioned Mr. Sanders. After Kristoff calmed down, a crippling sense of fear overpowered him.

"Since you have nothing else to say, I will start to explain myself. I never play favoritism. I only hope that the martial arts world will abide by the rules and benefit from benign competition and development. What I do not wish to see is factions fighting to the death over some resources. If you do have disputes, please go through the proper channels to disseminate your concerns. Why do you think the Warriors Alliance has been established?" Mr. Sanders said and turned to Zion. "President Zeigler, why don't you enlighten us on the main mission of the founding of Warriors Alliance?"

Zion quickly rose from his seat and explained, "Mr. Sanders, our main mission is to maintain the order of the martial arts world and to mete out punishments for Demonic Cultivation and heresy."

"Great. Then do you think Warriors Alliance could handle the problem that the young man mentioned?" Mr. Sanders asked.

"Yes, I will be sure to deal with it in an appropriate manner. We can settle the matter by organizing a duel. The results of the duel shall be honored and any actions taken to settle personal grudges thereafter will be prohibited," Zion added.

"Yes. We have to abide by the rules to prevent more conflicts down the road. Do not for a second think that I am oblivious to what's going on inside your heads. Sometimes, I just think it too tedious to deal with these matters," Mr. Sanders said as he scanned everyone present in the hall.

Everyone who was able to take a seat was a formidable presence, and yet all of them kept their heads low and dared not utter a single word.

"You're right, Mr. Sanders. I shall put more emphasis on maintaining the order of the martial arts world..." Zion nodded repeatedly.

"Oh, there's one more thing. I wish to inform everyone that the Trial this year will be postponed in view of the lack of an appropriate venue and ancient ruins. I hope that all of you can keep your eyes peeled on the next possible venue for the Trial," Mr. Sanders said impassively.

Murmurs and whispers spread in the crowd as everyone heard that the Trial was going to be postponed.

He wanted Kai to report his findings of the ancient tombs. It would be great if the location was suitable for the Trial. That way, Kai would have made a greater impression on Mr. Sanders.

“Mr. Sanders, I do know of a place. However, I am not sure if it’s suitable for the Trial...”

Kai understood the look that Leviathan was giving him and rose from his seat.

He was afraid that Kai might suggest a mediocre cultivation venue and become the laughing stock of others.

“Kai Chance, right? Could you tell us more about this place?” Mr. Sanders asked curiously, obviously interested in what Kai had to say.

Everyone went into an uproar after listening to him.

“Kai, do you even have any idea what kind of place was suitable for cultivation? How dare you utter nonsense here? So many great families are on the perimeters of Jadeborough. Do you think that they would not have found out about the places that were suitable to hold the Trial?” Steinar quipped.

“What nonsense are you talking about? It’s still plausible that you’ve found some ancient ruins or tombs. But that’s impossible in Jadeborough. We’ve looked everywhere here.”

“He’s talking through his hat! I could travel all around Jadeborough even with my eyes closed. How could I have not known of such a place in Jadeborough?”

“Young man, don’t get all cocky just because you’ve killed Ichiro Watanabe and earned the admiration of Mr. Sanders. How dare you utter nonsense here?”

Everyone engaged in hushed whispers as they judged Kai. Nobody actually believed what he said.

“Kai, do you know that this is no place for jokes? I think you still have no idea what the Trial is. Please take your seat!”

Even Mr. Sanders also did not believe in Kai.

It was not possible to find a place that was suitable to hold the Trial in the perimeters of Jadeborough as they had scoured the place in search of such a venue.

However, only one person cast a perplexed look at Kai—Blake Henckle. It was as if he knew the place that Kai was talking about.

“Mr. Sanders, even though I do not know the place suitable to hold the Trial, the place that I am suggesting is a royal tomb. If it was not ravaged by tomb robbers, I am certain that there would be a lot of things in there.”

Kai did not sit down and continued to make his case.

“A royal tomb? Are you delusional? How is it possible that there are still undiscovered royal tombs in Jadeborough?” Kristoff chided Kai, as did others.

They thought he was a truly boastful man who did not know any better.

However, Mr. Sanders’ face turned dark as Kai’s remarks were making him look bad.

They had scoured the whole Jadeborough countless times. The royal tombs that had been discovered were mostly their discoveries. The fact that Kai had discovered another site in Jadeborough meant that the others were utter trash.

“Mr. Chance, please don’t be ridiculous. There are no more royal tombs in Jadeborough...”

However, Kai pretended as if he had seen nothing and continued to say to Mr. Sanders, “This royal tomb site is right beside the current site, underneath the small hill. If I am not mistaken, the small hill is actually the heaped earth of the undiscovered royal tomb site.”

His remarks sent the crowd into another uproar. The current royal tomb site had practically become a tourist site and was filled to the brim with visitors. How was it possible for the alleged royal tomb site to go unnoticed?

Mr. Sanders leveled a stare at Kai. “Chance, are you for real? Do you know the repercussions that await you if there is nothing there?”

“Mr. Sanders, I am willing to bear the responsibility for my words,” Kai said calmly.

At the sight of his confident manner, Mr. Sanders started to believe in him, and the others were swayed as well.

After all, nobody would be that foolish to lie about such a thing to Mr. Sanders on such an occasion. Moreover, Kai was not a moron.

“Mr. Sanders, there truly is a tomb site underneath the small hill. However, I am not sure if it’s a royal tomb site. I discovered it a while back. When I wanted to find out more, I bumped into this young man. He disrupted my investigation when I was using the Seven Star Formation. Otherwise, I would have reported my findings much earlier,” Blake said as he rose from his seat.

Blake was the first to discover the tomb site, and he planned to scavenge the place secretly. However, he did not expect to bump into Kai there. Now, Kai was going to use the discovery as a favor to Mr. Sanders.

Blake felt indignant that Kai had taken his credit in the matter. Hence, he rose from his seat and tried to claim the credit for himself.

Everyone started to believe in Kai's claims right then. After all, the Henckle family explored tombs and graves for a living, and no other families could surpass them in the matter. Now that Blake had verified the location of the site, it was almost guaranteed that Kai's claims were true.

Mr. Sanders cast a glance at Blake and did not believe his claim that he would report his findings. He knew for a fact that these great families would not openly share the resources that they have found. However, Mr. Sanders said nothing.

"Okay. I will send someone to investigate. If there is truly a royal tomb site, you will have made a great contribution, Kai," Mr. Sanders said before he strode outside.

At the sight of Mr. Sanders leaving, everyone stood up to send him off.

Theodore brought Kai along to see him out.

"Kai, you have to be most careful when you're at the pinnacle of success. Others' protection would only last a short while. You are the only one who could truly protect yourself," Mr. Sanders remarked as he patted Kai's shoulders before getting into his car.

Kai understood Mr. Sanders' message and nodded slightly.

He knew he would have to be stronger to survive in the cruel society. Depending on others' protection was not a sustainable plan.

The others left the hall one by one after Mr. Sanders had taken his leave. If not for Mr. Sanders, the Department of Justice would not have been able to invite such a respected crowd.

"Kai, don't think that I will forgive you just because you've found a strong backup. I will never let you off the hook for cutting off my arm. Just you wait and see," Kristoff gritted through his teeth.

"Whatever," Kai said nonchalantly.

"Kris, let's go."

Steinar called out after his son to leave. He was afraid that Kristoff might not be able to restrain himself and hit Kai.

"Dad, are we going to let Kai off the hook just like that?" Kristoff asked indignantly after leaving together with his father.

Slap!

Steinar slapped him across the face just after Kristoff asked him the question. "Bstrd! Did you know you almost sent us all to die back there? How dare you question Mr. Sanders? Haven't you seen that Zion Zeigler dared not even let out a breath in front of that Mr. Sanders?"

Kristoff covered his face and said with an upset tone, "So I lost my arm for nothing?"

Steinar's eyes flashed with murderous intent.

Meanwhile, Zion and Ryker had just exited the Department of Justice. They froze for a moment when they saw Kai. It was obvious that there was something they wanted to say to the man, but none of them said anything.

Right then, Blake shouted furiously at Kai, "You bast*rd! You stole my thunder. You'd better give me an explanation today."

He was the one who found the ancient tomb originally. However, the latter had gotten ahead of him and announced to others first. Therefore, it was only normal that he would get so angry.

Even though Blake had roughly spoken about what had happened at the celebration party, it was evident that Mr. Sanders didn’t believe in his words. Otherwise, the latter would never have given all the credit to Kai.

“President Zeigler, I was the one who found the ancient tomb. I was inspecting the tomb when that bast*rd found me,” Blake started to repeat the timeline of the incident in detail. Then, he continued furiously, “But he went ahead of me and told everyone about the tomb first. Doesn’t that mean he stole the credit that was supposed to be given to me? I hope you can stand up for me, President Zeigler...”

Taking a look at Kai, Zion said, “Is he telling the truth, Kai? If he is, then I think we should have a discussion with Mr. Sanders regarding this issue.”

“Yes,” the former said and nodded his head without any hesitation. “However, he didn’t actually inspect the tomb. I was the one who did it. If he had really inspected it, why didn’t he report it to you immediately after I left? Could it be because the Henckle family wanted to keep the tomb for themselves?”

“What a load of crap! I... I...”

Blake had no idea how to explain himself. After all, a few days had already passed since this incident happened. He knew all too well why he didn’t report to the Warriors Alliance right away.

“There was no way you could confirm that it was an ancient tomb. After I left, you must have gone and checked it out yourself. However, you still couldn’t tell if it was an ancient tomb. That’s because I used an arcane array to hide it. There was no way you could locate it.”

“I... You...” Blake was left speechless. In the end, he seethed through gritted teeth, “Just you wait, you bast*rd! I’ll teach you a good lesson sooner or later!”

With that, he left in a huff of anger. As for Zion, he was looking at Kai with a knowing look and said, "You've revealed too much of yourself, and that is not a good thing. Even if there are people protecting you from behind, it will not guarantee your safety. You'd better watch out."

He left after he was done speaking, and Ryker stayed silent throughout, not saying anything to Kai. All he did was look at the latter with a smile that did not reach his eyes.

"Mr. Chance, even though Mr. Sanders has spoken up, it is still better if you be careful. I realize that you've offended quite a lot of people..." said Theodore, looking at Kai helplessly.

"The road to cultivation is long, and there will always be obstacles in the journey. If everything went smoothly, I'm afraid there's no way we can grow," the latter said with a slight smile.

Theodore couldn't understand why Kai did that. He guessed he was only doing this so that he could get more resources. There was no way he could avoid any of these if he wanted to get stronger.

Kai was unable to take a long time to cultivate because his mother was still suffering. Even though he had never met her, he knew that she loved him. As her son, it was his responsibility to save his mother.

Seeing how the man was acting, Theodore realized that he had changed a lot. He used to look down on the young man, but he did not even realize that he had started to look up to him.

"Mr. Deragon, Mr. Sanders has already spoken up. What should we do?" Godrick whispered.

"We'll do what needs to be done. All Mr. Sanders said was to not kill Kai, but he didn't say that we can't capture him. What I want isn't his life. I just want his identity. Do you understand?" the former said.

"Understood!" Godrick said with a nod.

There was no point in killing Kai. All Ryker needed to do was capture him and confirm his identity. Then, he can use Kai to threaten his sister, Beatrice. His priority right now was to find out the secret he had been trying to find out for more than twenty years.

"Bring some men with you and head to the place Kai mentioned to have a look around. Bring some stuff with you and give them to President Zeigler if you're sure that the Trial will be held there. If it's an imperial mausoleum, then there must be quite a lot of treasures in there," he said coldly.

"Understood. Don't worry, Mr. Deragon!" Godrick said.

He would be attending the Trial this time. Everything that was being done now was for his own sake, so there was no way he wouldn't take it seriously.

Kai didn't stay in Jadeborough for long after the celebratory party. Instead, he returned to Horington with Rayleigh and the others.

He then left for the hospital once he was done making the cream. Tommy and Phoenix's subordinates were elated when they saw that he had arrived.

Once he entered the ward, Kai saw the pair lying in their beds. Though they were still unable to move, they had finally regained their consciousness and were able to communicate normally. They were just unable to move about because the bones in their bodies were all broken.

There was even a cigarette hanging on Tommy's lips. A subordinate stayed by his side and helped him flick the ash from his cigarette from time to time. The man looked so relaxed despite his condition.

"Tommy, you're now crippled since all the bones in your body have been crushed, but you're still in the mood to smoke?" Kai asked with a chuckle.

"You can resurrect the dead, Mr. Chance. As long as I'm still breathing, I'm not afraid," the bedridden man replied with a cheeky grin.

All the former could do was give him a resigned smile before pulling the tub of jet melding cream out. "You seem sure that I can save the both of you. Let's see if you can still smile if I have no way of saving you."

Once he was done speaking, he passed the cream to the subordinate beside him. "Divide this into two parts. Leave one part for them to eat, and another part for them to apply. Remember to do this once every day!"

"All right, Mr. Chance!" the subordinate said politely as he took the cream.

"What's that, Mr. Chance? Why does it look black and sludgy? It's not bad for our skin, is it?" Pheonix asked worriedly.

Kai did not expect the woman to be worried about her skin when she was in such a condition. He couldn't stop himself from laughing. There's no way of guessing what she's thinking at all.

"This is jet melding cream. It can help to regrow and heal your bones. Besides, it can even enhance beauty, making your skin as smooth as a newborn baby's."

Hearing that, the woman couldn't help but feel excited. "Leave more of that jet melding cream for me. You can just leave a part for Tommy to eat. There's no need for him to apply it. Look at his dry and flaky skin. It's going to be useless on him," she said to the subordinate holding the tub of cream.

At that, Tommy rolled his eyes, and the two of them began bickering with each other.

A resigned smile surfaced on Kai's face at that. He finally left after staying for some time. With the jet melding cream, Tommy and Phoenix would only need a week and they could finally start moving about again.

The Mans Decree Novel Chapter 949

Chapter 949 Closed

At Dragon Bay.

Upon getting news that Josephine and Lizbeth were returning, William and Walter were all rushing to get back.

It had been a long time since William had last seen his daughter. Seeing that she was finally back, tears streamed down his face as he pulled her into a tight hug.

Josephine noticed that her father seemed to have aged tremendously, and she blamed herself for it. After all, she had neglected her own father when she was busy following Kai around.

"I'm sorry, Dad. I'm so sorry for making you suffer alone..." she said, apologizing profusely.

"Silly girl. I know that you were doing great things with Kai. Even I can tell the change in you now that I've gotten a look at you."

William felt so happy for his daughter. Anyone would be glad to see their children achieve great things.

At the same time, Walter was holding Lizbeth's hand tightly. His favorite granddaughter had also changed a lot, and he was relieved to see her like that.

Kai was deeply moved by the scene before him. He didn't know whether it was right or wrong of him for having Josephine and Lizbeth leave their families to travel around with him, and he wondered if he had been too selfish.

Fortunately, they were all gathered together now and having a rare moment of bliss.

He also introduced Rayleigh to William and Walter. They were both so grateful when he told them that the man had been taking great care of the two ladies.

At night, William purposely prepared a feast at Glamor Hotel, and the group happily sat together to have a meal.

After dinner, Josephine and Lizbeth returned to their own homes to rest, while Kai brought Rayleigh, Lyanna, and Melanie to his mansion at Dragon Bay.

He planned to let Rayleigh live there from then on. Even though Horington was a small city, Dragon Bay was still quite a beautiful place and was a great place to stay after retirement.

Once everyone had settled down, Kai took out a beast core. It was from the Heaven Devouring Beast, and since he was now a Top Level Senior Grandmaster, he might be able to achieve the rank of a Martial Arts Grandmaster after eating the beast core. Then, a golden core could finally be formed in his body.

Once he explained everything to Rayleigh, he returned to his room and sealed the room. He was planning to close himself off for some time so that he could have a breakthrough as a Martial Arts Grandmaster.

Since Mr. Sanders has spoken up, this period of time should be safe. But I don't know how long this safety net can last, so it's best if I take this time to cultivate.

Although Rayleigh had lost his powers, white wolf, along with Josephine, Lizbeth, and Lyanna were around. If an enemy were to confront him, they could protect him. That was why he had nothing to worry about.

After taking a look at the crystal clear beast core, the man then swallowed it without any hesitation.

Immediately after, spiritual energy exploded in his elixir field. A golden light began illuminating from the draconic essence in him as it seemed to have been attacked.

The spiritual energy from the beast core and the draconic essence was about to rupture Kai's elixir field, and it continued to pierce through his body.

He quickly activated the Focus Technique, constantly absorbing these spiritual energies. Cold sweat covered his forehead, and his body was expanding and contracting as though it was a rubber ball.

Feeling an immense discomfort, the man's brows knitted tightly together. He knew that both his mind and his body would have to go through a great test in order to achieve such a great feat. If he was unable to persist, it might even backfire, leaving him dead as a result.

A golden light began illuminating from his body, and the Golem Body was used to its limit.

Relief surfaced on Rayleigh's face when he saw the golden light coming from inside the room.

The Mans Decree Novel Chapter 950

Chapter 950 Capture Him

"An imperial mausoleum was found in the suburbs of Jadeborough. This is the biggest mausoleum to have ever been found. After some investigation, we found that there were no traces that it was robbed. The Warriors Alliance has decided to hold the Trial at the imperial mausoleum, and we will be sending out the invites later. To the prominent families and clans, kindly prepare yourselves as the Trial will be starting in ten days."

The news sent the whole of the martial arts world into a frenzy. An imperial mausoleum had actually been found in Jadeborough. Besides, it was also the biggest one to have been found. One could only imagine the magical items that could be found in a mausoleum that was never robbed.

Almost all the great families and clans were getting restless as they began their preparations. Everyone of them hoped that they would be invited to the Trial.

In the meantime, Ryker had gathered all of the higher-ups of the Deragons in the hall of their residence.

The Trial this time was unlike the other ones, so it was only normal that the Deragons would prioritize it.

“Godrick, I want you to tell the elders the information you got,” Ryker said.

“Yes! I’ve brought some men to inspect the place, and it is indeed an imperial mausoleum. Once we dug up the mounds on the tomb, revealing the door, gusts of wind started to blow, and we could hear noises from the inside. No one knows what is in there. However, the Warriors Alliance have already sent their men there, so we can only get near it during the Trial. I’ve sent President Zeigler some gifts and got an invitation list from him. Here, please take a look, Mr. Deragon, elders.”

As he spoke, Godrick pulled out a stack of documents and put one in front of everyone.

One had to know thyself and thy enemies if they wanted to reap the greatest benefits from the Trial.

Scanning through the list, Ryker’s brows began to furrow further.

“Is there something wrong, Mr. Deragon?” Godrick asked anxiously.

It was a hard-earned opportunity for him to be able to participate in the Trial. He couldn’t let anything go wrong.

“ Kai is also on the list?” the former asked.

“Yes. I’ve already asked President Zeigler about it. Apparently, Mr. Sanders had instructed it. After all, Kai was the one who found the mausoleum and told him about it. Kai has many enemies. If he attends the Trial, there’s no way he can leave the place alive with the little capability he has.”

Ryker’s face darkened at that. He needed the man alive because only then would Kai be of use to him. If he died in the mausoleum, he would be worthless.

“Then, should we protect Kai during the Trial?” Godrick asked carefully.

“No. This Trial is no small matter. How could we waste energy to protect him? With such a huge imperial mausoleum, there must be a lot of magical items in there. We’ll have to snatch up everything as soon as possible. Otherwise, the other families will take everything,” Ryker said, shaking his head without hesitation.

“Then, what should we do?” Godrick was torn.

After thinking about it for a moment, the latter looked over at the elder on his right and said, “I need the help from the five of you. I need you to head to Horington and capture Kai. However, you’ll have to do this in secret. It is best not to reveal yourselves. We can’t have him attending the Trial.”

“Understood,” the guardian replied before leaving with the rest of the guardians.

The five of these guardians had powers surpassing a Martial Arts Grandmaster. Their powers were equivalent to that of a prominent clan, and it was evident how powerful the Deragons were.
